Federal Minister Rules Armoury Building Must Go

NAPANEE — All hope of retaining the Napanee Armory as a recreation centre and for the use of the militia has disappeared. The site is earmarked for the proposed Federal building which will include the Post Office. A letter received by Douglas Alkenbrack, M. P. for Prince Edward - Lennox explains the situation. Only if a site equally good can be drawn to the attention of the government will the case be again reviewed, writes the Minister of Public Works for Canada, the Hon. George McIlwraith.

Napanee desperately needs a new post office. The present one is antiquated, too small in every way, and has insufficient space for the mail trucks. There is no way of expanding. Plans for expansion or renovation have been dropped as impractical, the minister writes.

For two reasons a proposed plan to demolish the present post office and rebuild was ruled out. In the first place, the trucking space could not be enlarged, and in the second place, space for a temporary post office would have had to be leased.

Other sites had been investigated, but, "all the sites which we could find were ruled out because of the high cost of acquisition ranging from $40,000 to $50,000", the Minister writes. "It was then that we heard that the Department of National Defence wanted to dispose of the armoury site. It was suitable for our requirements and estimated to cost $15,000 after the armoury building was removed."

"The project for a new federal building in Napanee will be reconsidered when the Department prepares its 1967-68 estimates. It will, of course, have to be based on the armoury site", the Minister concludes.

Meanwhile the armoury is being used frequently, and will be the scene of well - supervised dances sponsored by the Napanee Firefighters Association each Friday night this summer. Permission for its use while it still stands appears to be obtained easily.

Four Men Convicted Of Theft

NAPANEE — Two brothers are in jail in Napanee and two Napanee men are out on bail, all awaiting sentencing by Magistrate R. C. Jackson July 15. All four were found guilty of the theft of Newburgh milk products, and one of them, Donald Wood, 21, of Kingston was also found guilty of possession of stolen goods from summer cottages in the Tamworth, Hay Bay and Varty Lake areas.

Because he has a record for previous crimes, Carl Wood, 17, of Deseronto, was remanded in custody. Donald Raymond La Pointe, 22, and Morley Ernest York, 28, both of Camden Road in Napanee, had no previous record.

Late last spring cottage owners began reporting thefts from their cottages. The Napanee detachment of the OPP investigated, and a police constable on patrol chased a car at daybreak on the River Road, and saw packages of butter and cheese being thrown out. He arrested the four men, and this led to their homes being searched.

Donald Wood faced charges of possession of stolen goods. The trial lasted more than 12 hours at two sittings, and 28 witnesses were called. The bundles of household articles exhibited and examined for identification included 38 woollen blankets, 22 bedspreads, 55 sheets, 42 towels, a Wilton rug, 13 electrical appliances, and many other articles.

Cottage owners Col. R. Armstrong, Warren Finlay, Dr. Archibald Wilson, Lyle Ferrier, Harry Vanalstine, Hugh King, John VanKoughnet, Werk Poole, James Puyman, Clare Johnson, Cecil Babcock, Edward Snowden and Wilfred Fuller were able to identify their property. Others who had lost things, could not identify them positively as there were no distinguishing marks.

All of the accused pleaded not guilty, and none offered evidence in his own behalf. Donald Wood was defended by Kingston solicitor James Donnelly. The other three were not represented by counsel.

Rotary Club Lists Officers

NAPANEE — Napanee Rotary Club officers and directors were installed at the luncheon meeting last Tuesday. Wilfred Buckley, past - district deputy governor of Rotary International presided for the installation ceremonies. Robert Wartman is the president, and Donald Hogarth immediate past - president. Vice - president is Wilfred Strinman. Elburn Zeran, the former treasurer, is now secretary, replacing Gordon McGregor who had held that position for eight years until his resignation. Donald Walters is the new secretary.

Mr. Buckley installed Kenneth K. Christian, Dr. J. A. Hawley, and R. G. Miller as directors. The Rev. E. Irvine Johnston, the fifth director, is on holiday.

Mr. Buckley was introduced by another former deputy governor, J. D. Mayhew, a member of the Napanee club.

Gordon W. MacGregor was presented with an award as the Rotarian of the Year. Mr. MacGregor, a past-president, is retiring not only as secretary, but also as bulletin editor.

TOKYO (AP) — A Tokyo Buddhist temple regarded for centuries as a protector against fire disasters was destroyed by fire of undetermined cause. The Soji Temple, or Nishiarai Daishi, one of Japan's oldest wooden structures, was built by the Buddhist Saint Kobo more than 1,000 years ago.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. H. MELTZER

It costs more per unit (square foot or cubic foot) to build a small house than a larger similar house. Laymen are surprised when they first encounter this basic law of construction and think builders are taking advantage of them. The reply to Expert Mathematician explains this phenomena.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We were about to sign a contract with a builder for a five bedroom, two bath rancher, containing 2,400 square feet, for a price of $29,000. We needed the large house because our daughter and her family planned to live with us.

Now that she has bought her own home, we reduced the house to three bedrooms and an area of 1,600 square feet. The builder now wants $22,000.

I've done some figuring and I think I'm being taken. Originally the builder was charging us $12 per square foot, now he has increased the price to about $14 per square foot for the smaller house. Is my reasoning correct? — Expert Mathematician

ANSWER: Your numbers are correct, but your reasoning is fallacious. As a house decreases in size, the unit cost of construction increases. The walls, partitioning, and foundations do not decrease proportionately as size decreases. The same is true for cost of heating, plumbing, electrical, baths, kitchens and many other components of the house.

Recently, a friend built a two-storey house containing over 60,000 cubic feet and the cost was 80 cents per cubic foot. His son built a similar house and it contained only 30,000 cubic feet, but the cost had increased to $1.12 per cubic foot. Another example a warehouse company recently built a cinderblock frame structure containing 200,000 sq. feet at a cost of $4.70 per square foot. A merchant built the same type building but it had only 15,000 square feet and the cost increased to $7.10 per square foot.

There are no formulas or rule of thumb that can guide the layman. It depends on the type of structure and its components. However, this generalization is true — small buildings cost more to build per unit (square foot or cubic foot) than larger structures.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I recently wrote asking what was a fair investment return for a small industrial building. You replied through your column that it was 15 per cent. I'm embarrassed, for I don't know how to calculate investment return in real estate. Could you give me an example? I'm sure many readers share my ignorance. — Pardon My Ignorance.

ANSWER: The following is taken from a recent transaction. The price was $50,000 and a mortgage of $35,000 was obtained (20 years at 6 per cent) therefore the cash investment was $15,000. The annual rent was $10,000 and operating expenses including taxes and vacancies totalled $4,729. Therefore, in summary, the investment picture for the property is as follows:

Gross Income	$10,000
Total Expenses	4,729
Net Income	5,721
Annual Mortgage Payments	3,021
Net Income After Mortgage	2,250
Investment Return (15%)	2,250
	15,000

The capital growth resulting from paying off the mortgage, by custom, is not included when calculating real estate investment returns. It is an extra.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: In three months we will make the last payment on our mortgage. For years all extra money has gone into the mortgage and repairs have been neglected.

I promised my wife some $1,000 of improvements when the mortgage was paid off. The bank is willing to give me an home improvement loan at 5½ percent or to expand our 6 percent mortgage for three years. After 15 years of payments, I have resolved never to commit myself without advice. Which would be the less expensive way to handle the loan? — H.C.

ANSWER: Extending your 6 percent mortgage will cost you less than a 5½ percent improvement loan. This may appear paradoxical, but it is true. Your 5½ percent home improvement loan has a true interest rate of about 11 percent. The 6 percent mortgage interest rate, on the other hand, is a true rate because you always pay interest on the unpaid balance.

• • •

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a slate-shingled roof. It looks good but it is a headache when it comes to repair. Whenever I have to replace one shingle I usually end up damaging or cracking several dozen and it becomes a major job. Is there some easier way? — Amateur Roofer.

ANSWER: Here is a technique used by professional roofers that does not damage or disturb the adjacent shingles. First cut a sheet of copper about three by seven inches. Then nail the copper strip at the down-roof end of the space left bare by the missing shingle. A new slate is then slipped into position and the free end of the copper strip is folded over the edge of the shingle to hold it in place.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have four young children who have a special talent. They have developed the ability to bring mud from all over the neighborhood into the houre and deposit it on the upholstered furniture. The palm of my hand aches from constant spankings. Since that does not work, what is the best way of getting rid of mud stains. — Harrassed Mother

ANSWER: Most situations can be adequately handled by letting the mud dry thoroughly then brushing. Certain clays however will leave a noticeable stain. In these cases sponge with alcohol. If the fabric is washable, soap and water can be used.

• • •

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Cape Breton's Economic Outlook Brightens as Industries Move In

SYDNEY (CP)—Cape Bretoners, long accustomed to gloomy economic announcements and forecasts, have been reading encouraging headlines lately and there are indications more good news is coming.

With its economy long based on coal-mining and steel-production, Cape Breton has been troubled in the last decade by closure of a half-dozen major collieries and open concern over the future of the 3,500-man steel plant here.

Threats of layoffs in the basic Cape Breton industries have hung over the region like the thick pink-grey smoke from the blast furnaces, but recent developments have brightened the outlook.

These include:

1. Construction of Canada's second heavy water plant at the Strait of Canso end of the island, announced last week as work continued on building the nation's first such plant in the coal town of Glace Bay.
2. Establishment of an automobile assembly plant at nearby Point Edward.
3. Construction of a $17,000,000 power generating station on the Strait of Canso.
4. Indications that a big oil refinery may be built in the strait area.

'IT'S A START'

Premier Robert L. Stanfield, whose Progressive Conservative government has been forced to wrestle with serious economic problems in Cape Breton since assuming office in 1956, said in an interview Thursday night: "This is a start . . . but there is a good deal still to be done."

The premier has said new industries must be found to provide jobs now that coal can no longer be considered "a growth industry." A measure of the slump in coal can be seen in the membership of District 26 United Mine Workers (Ind.), down to 6,500 from 10,000 six years ago.

The Cape Breton Post, in a recent front page editorial, said the announcement that Canadian General Electric Ltd. will build a $65,000,000 heavy water plant near Point Tupper, and indications that British American Oil Co. plans a refinery in the same area, were the most important industrial news "for Cape Breton since the turn of the century."

WAIT DECISION

A BA spokesman said the firm is "actively" studying the possibility of establishing one of Canada's biggest refineries near the CGE heavy water plant. The spokesman said the CGE decision "will have a great bearing" on BA's plans.

Seen as support for the refinery speculation is the fact that the new power plant in the strait area will be oil-fired with a back-up coal system.

The strait area, long depressed, got its first big development with establishment of a $40,000,000 chemical pulp mill in 1957. The area lost its traditional source of employment when the Canso Causeway replaced railway ferries on the strait in 1955.

Mr. Stanfield says good as the news has been more incentives are needed to attract new industry to the steel and coal area of Cape Breton County, which this week was announced as the site for a $4,000,000 automobile plant to be built by Canadian Motor Industries Ltd.

Dominion Steel and Coal Corp., long the area's major employer, has opened steel rolling mills near Montreal and fears have been expressed about the future of Dosco's primary steel mill here. But company officials contend the Quebec operations will provide an outlet for more basic steel from Sydney.

Fewer Cars Sold in June Than Last Year

TORONTO (CP) —Ford of Canada and Chrysler Canada Ltd. said Thursday they sold fewer cars in June this year than in June last year. But both reported selling more cars than in May.

Ford passenger car sales in June totalled 16,445, down eight per cent from the 17,872 sold in June, 1965, but up 11.6 per cent from May's total of 14,740 units.

Chrysler delivered 12,762 cars in June, down 6.5 per cent from June, 1965, and up nine per cent over May, 1966.

Chrysler was the only one of the Big Three to report an increase in car sales for the first six months. It sold 71,855 cars, up 16.6 per cent from the 61,644 in the same period of 1965.

Nine Leave CBC Show In Shake-up

TORONTO (CP)—Nine officials connected with the controversial CBC television program This Hour Has Seven Days have resigned, Steve Patrick, a Seven Days researcher and writer, said Friday.

"I've turned in my own resignation. I find it impossible to continue without such men as Reeves Haggan and Douglas Leiterman."

Mr. Haggan resigned as general supervisor of public affairs and was succeeded during the day by Peter Campbell, former current affairs supervisor.

Mr. Leiterman, the CBC announced earlier, won't have his contract renewed as executive producer of Seven Days.

A controversy over the program has boiled over repeatedly among the corporation's public affairs staff since the CBC fired Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre in April as co-hosts of Seven Days.

Told that the CBC late Friday had only four resignations, Mr. Patrick said: "The others definitely are on the way in."

He said those resigning besides himself were Mr. Watson, who also produced the program Document; Mr. Haggan; documentary film-maker Beryl Fox; Robert Hoyt and Ken Lefolii, alternating producers of Seven Days; story editor-producer Larry Zolf; James Carney, producer of Seven Days' summer replacement show, Compass; and Gabriel Michaelides, a Seven Days researcher.

His list of names came at the end of a day of rumors of further resignations among the more than 40 working on the program.

In Ottawa State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons the CBC resignations haven't spread beyond the area of Seven Days and that other producers were still working.

After a meeting Friday a statement signed "the staffs of This Hour Has Seven Days, Document, Compass" was released. Mr. Patrick said the statement had been sent to Prime Minister Pearson, Miss LaMarsh, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Alphonse Ouimet, CBC president.

The statement said "in view of the dismissal" of Mr. Leiterman and the resignations of Mr. Haggan, Mr. Watson and Mr. Carney, "we affirm our intention of continuing the suspension of operations on the above-named programs (Seven Days, Document and Compass). We unequivocally reaffirm our support of, and confidence in, Messrs. Haggan, Leiterman, Watson and Carney."

Meetings Friday included a briefing session, attended by Mr. Leiterman, in which Mr. Campbell told the public affairs staff he had accepted the post of acting general supervisor of public affairs.

Told of the resignations, Cecil Smith, CBC information director, said: "Why Ken Lefolii

House Session Record

By DAVID DAVIDSON

TORONTO (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor Earl Rowe gave royal assent Friday to 102 bills and prorogued the longest session of the Ontario legislature in the province's history.

Immediately preceding prorogation the legislature had approved a budget for the current fiscal year of more than $1,846,000,000.

Premier Robarts, commenting on the length of the session, said he personally didn't care "how long we stay here to complete the business of the house."

The legislature had been in session 110 days and during most of that period there had been not only regular afternoon sittings but night sittings as well.

SET RECORD

Last year's session of 98 days broke the record set in 1922 when it took 81 days to wrap up the legislature's business.

Both Liberal and New Democratic opposition parties said the government should consider a fall sitting, breaking up house business into two sections.

Farquhar Oliver (L — Grey South) said he had not decided exactly how the problem could be resolved but it should be considered. He didn't like the idea of sitting in June and July.

Mr. Robarts said he considered June and July just as good months for dealing with legislature affairs as February or March.

There were 195 public bills introduced at this session, 170 by the government. Royal assent was given to 165.

Of 37 private-member bills presented, 30 received royal assent.

CREATED OMSIP

Major legislation approved by the legislature included a contentious bill to amend the Hospital Insurance Act, creating the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan.

Debate lasted for several days and the opposition hammered at Health Minister Matthew Dymond, without success, to expand the scope of the legislation.

Other priority legislation included the Consumer Protection

Viet Cong Regiment Pounded After Being Lured Into Raid

SAIGON (CP) — More than 2,000 Viet Cong troops clashed today with an armored U.S. infantry force which lured them from dense jungle.

The flareup in ground fighting after a 10 day lull was announced by the U.S. military command, which also reported renewed aerial pounding of five oil installations in North Viet Nam.

A spokesman said a Viet Cong force of at least regimental size hit an armored column of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division which had been put out as bait along a secondary road near the Cambodian border.

By prearranged plan, the spokesman said, U.S. forces flew in several battalions of reinforcements by helicopter and hit the enemy with air attacks and artillery barrages.

No report had yet been received of casualties of either side.

B-52 bombers pounded two suspected main base areas of a Viet Cong division only a few miles west of where the 1st Division troops were hit. One of the target areas was less than two miles from the Cambodian border.

In a continuation of the 10-day old drive to wipe out the enemy's fuel reserves, air force pilots bombed three oil storage areas 31 to 62 miles north and northwest of Hanoi and hit a fuel tank plant 31 miles north of the capital city.

U.S. and South Vietnamese planes hit a possible enemy staging area for an attack against South Viet Nam's most important oil installation. Military officials had feared the enemy would stage a reprisal raid for bombings of fuel depots near Hanoi and Haiphong.

The depot near Saigon has all its storage tanks above ground and is considered particularly vulnerable to attack.

Peterborough to Be Scene Of Union Rally on July 14

TORONTO (CP)—The third in what leaders of organized labor had called a series of rallies to protest the use of injunctions in labor disputes will be held at Peterborough July 14.

A rally at Brantford Friday night featured a car parade through downtown streets and a speech by David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Another was held Thursday night in Toronto, at which members of the Conservative and New Democratic parties stated their personal views on the subject.

Premier Robarts announced Friday that a royal commission would be appointed to study the whole field of labor legislation, including the use of injunctions.

Police permission is being sought at Peterborough for a parade as part of the July 14 rally. Hugh Faulkner, Liberal MP for Peterborough, has said he will attend, and Keith Brown, Conservative member of the legislature, has been invited.

Executive members from each of the 34 union locals in the city will meet Monday to plan the rally.

At Oakville, the executive of the district labor council has called for a meeting of the 1,100 affiliated members to demand changes in the injunction legislation. No date has been set.

In Brantford, Mr. Archer said magistrates and judges who issue injunctions are restricting the civil rights of the individual. He told a rally of about 250 union men a union man sees a picket line as evidence of the solidarity of the working class, but a judge sees it as only two or three persons walking up and down with little signs.

Judges and magistrates should be elected so they will "be able to get out and meet the people and learn of the problems of the ordinary man," he said.

The federation welcomes and will co-operate with the royal commission announced by Mr. Robarts, Mr. Archer said.

Police Officer Shot in Arm At Pembroke

PEMBROKE (CP)—A police constable was shot in the right forearm early today while answering a complaint that a man was threatening to commit suicide.

Following the shooting 19 police officers surrounded the house and Police Chief Bert Dickie persuaded a man to give himself up. Percy Dunn, 45, an unemployed laborer, was charged with attempted murder.

Police said when Sgt. Robert Ritchie and Const. Duffy arrived at the house they parked the cruiser in the driveway. A man with a rifle standing behind bushes close to the house told them: "That is far enough."

The two policemen went around the house. Const. Duffy came back and stood behind a small tree about 30 feet from the house.

As he crouched in the darkness a shot fired from the door step hit him in the right arm between the elbow and wrist. He shouted to Sgt. Ritchie who ran out and fired three shots. The suspect backed into the house.

Sgt. Ritchie dragged Const. Duffy to a neighbor's house and had the people call for help.

Caribbean Isles And Canada Sign Trade Agreement

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and the 13 Commonwealth Caribbean countries produced a new trading arrangement Friday compounded of immediate changes and tie-binding promises.

The deal, worked out at a top-level conference, also places trading relations between developed Canada and the developing Commonwealth Caribbean on a permanent consultation footing.

It was a logical end to the three-day conference called to strengthen links between Canada and the 13. Canada tended to be the giver and the visitors, receivers.

Canada agreed to eliminate the 29-cent-a-hundredweight import levy on a staple Caribbean export, sugar, following agreement by other international trading partners.

The move was regarded as a major Canadian concession. All other sugar entering Canada must pay duty of up to $1.29 a hundredweight. However, the Caribbean sugar will be allowed in on a quota basis.

AMEND AGREEMENT

More immediately, the 1925 Canada - West Indies trade agreement was amended in several ways.

The protocol eliminates immediately the "nuisance rule" that allows preferential Canadian tariff treatment only on goods shipped directly to Canada from the Caribbean.

Caribbean delegates regarded the rule as outdated.

The protocol also provided for establishment of a trade committee composed of senior officials or ministers from the Caribbean and Canada. It would meet periodically to talk over mutual problems.

Canada also agreed to keep the Commonwealth Caribbean preferential position clearly in mind during tariff-cutting negotiations in the Kennedy round under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

All signatories were also allowed to waive revised terms if they conflict with GATT, but only after bilateral consultation.

HELP SELL BANANAS

Canada also promised to do whatever it can to restore the Caribbean share of the Canadian banana market.

And reacting to Caribbean complaints about lesser rums masquerading as the real Caribbean stuff, Canada agreed to require that both the origin and Canadian content be clearly marked on the bottle.

Canada also promised to try to persuade provincial liquor-selling authorities to take more Caribbean rum.

It wasn't all a one-way street. The Commonwealth Caribbean undertook to assure "fair and equal" opportunity at home for

Britain's Bank Rate May Go Up

By RAMOND PALMER

LONDON (AP)—There was a growing feeling in British financial circles today that the bank discount rate, which governs Britain's interest rates, will have to be raised soon, possibly next Thursday.

The bank rate has been six per cent since June 3 last year.

The prices of British government funds declined sharply on the London Stock Exchange Friday, with some undated issues reaching all-time lows.

Strong pressure on interest rates also was evident in London's money market, where the rate of "fine" bills rose 3-32 per cent to 6 1-6 per cent, exceeding the bank rate for the first time.

The rate of interest on treasury bills, which the market buys by tender, also rose again. It now is at its highest level since the bank rate was cut to six per cent from seven per cent.

Sterling had another unsettled day. Forward rates came under selling pressure from overseas and fell sharply against the United States dollar. Confidence in the currency remained at a low ebb.

The pound has taken a hammering this week and languished the whole time under what used to be accepted as the support rate of 2.79 U.S. dollars. The Bank of England was reported to have spent millions supporting sterling and its forward commitments were said to be mounting steadily.

FUNDS NOT RETURNING

Foreign-owned funds that always leave London at mid-year are not returning. And French and other continental bankers are reported talking freely of devaluation.

Another sign of uncertainty Friday was a rise in the price of gold on the London bullion market. Gold shares also were in demand, but other equities fell.

All the signs were that Britain is in for another credit squeeze. Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan was reported wanting to wait until the fall to see whether a stronger squeeze is needed, but the pressure to act now is probably strong enough to be irresistible, say some experts.

Viet Nam Debate Lively

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday the visits of retired Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning to Hanoi and other capitals have shown that the parties involved in the Viet Nam war would have to make some "preliminary undertakings" before a Geneva conference would have any chance of success.

Mr. Martin, speaking during an interim supply debate that centred on the Viet Nam crisis, said a conference to negotiate a settlement "lies at the end of the road, not at the beginning."

He indicated the two undertakings required are an end to United States bombings in North Viet Nam and respect by the North Vietnamese government of the demarcation line with South Viet Nam.

Mr. Martin said President Ho Chi-minh of North Viet Nam has stated his government envisages no political solution until the bombings end.

"The argument behind this formulation is that by bombing targets in North Viet Nam the United States is encroaching on the sovereignty of that country and that this is a violation of accepted standards of international law and international relations.

"The government of North Viet Nam accordingly does not think that a willingness to cease this bombing should be qualified by any conditions whatsoever or that it warrants any countervailing undertakings by the North Vietnamese in respect of its own policies."

QUOTES CHINESE

The external affairs minister termed significant a statement by Communist China on July 3 which said: "With the breaking of the line of demarcation by the United States, the Vietnamese people have ceased to be subject to any restrictions."

The interpretation of the demarcation line set out in the 1954 Geneva agreement is also at the root of the United States position concerning North Vietnamese support for the insurgency in the south.

Mr. Martin said he regretted that the U.S. position about North Viet Nam's support of the insurgency is only partially accepted by China.

"For, having placed due emphasis on the inviolability of the line of demarcation between South and North Viet Nam, the

LBJ Prods Union and Airlines For Quick Strike Settlement

NEW YORK (AP)—Prodded by President Johnson for a prompt settlement, the machinists union and five major airlines resume negotiations today in an effort to end a strike that has snarled air travel in 231 U.S. cities.

Both sides appeared gloomy about prospects for a quick end to the crippling walkout by more than 35,000 mechanics and other ground personnel, members of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO).

At Johnson's request, James J. Reynolds, assistant labor secretary, called negotiators back into session. Reynolds said day and night meetings will continue as long as necessary and indicated the airlines and union are still far apart.

The union's chief negotiator, Joseph W. Ramsey, predicted the walkout "will last more or less indefinitely."

The strike against Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United Airlines began at 6 a.m. local times Friday. Together, the five airlines normally carry an estimated 60 per cent of the air passengers—an average 150,000—on some 5,000 flights daily.

Trans World flies to 23 foreign countries and Eastern is a link between the U.S. and Canada and also flies to Mexico.

In Montreal, 10 mechanics and 19 ramp service employees are involved in the Eastern strike. To aid some of the stranded passengers there, Robert Rousseau, superintendent for the airline at Montreal's international airport, said special arrangements were made with Air Canada to operate an extra flight to New York Friday.

The chairman of the airline negotiating committee, William J. Curtin, has described the union requests as unacceptable and criticized the union for breaking off negotiations Thursday, "16 hours before the strike."

Cuba Faces Economic Troubles But Castro Still in Command

The writer of this analysis, chief of the Associated Press' operations in the Mexico - Caribbean area, has just returned from a month in Cuba

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Major political and economic developments have taken place in Fidel Castro's Cuba during the first half of this year.

The 1966 sugar crop was 25 per cent below last year's. Prime Minister Castro launched a series of verbal attacks on targets ranging from China to the United States. The Communist party of Cuba has been growing rapidly in size and organization.

Three events have led to speculation that the Communist central committee may be moving to take control of economic and political policy and that Castro may no longer be the undisputed leader.

Thus far there are no visible signs that Castro is not the "maximum leader" of his revolution.

Cuban leaders have spoken of "institutionalizing" the party and "collective leadership." But Castro, first secretary of the party as well as prime minister, is still always hailed as the leader.

Nor are there indications that the Soviet Union will not continue to keep the Castro regime afloat.

The reduced sugar harvest this year—blamed principally on a severe drought—is a hard blow to Cuba. Rationing of most foodstuffs and clothing is still severe.

In 1965, sugar production was 6,050,000 metric tons. The output this year was 4,455,000 tons with prices on the world market below two cents a pound.

Under its trade agreement with the Soviet Union, Cuba is scheduled to deliver 3,000,000 tons to Russia this year—on the basis of six cents a pound—in exchange for Soviet goods, principally petroleum and machinery. The agreement calls for a delivery of 4,000,000 tons of sugar next year.

Another 600,000 tons is scheduled to go to China this year in exchange for rice and industrial equipment.

Chester Ronning Remains Only Contact With Hanoi Martin Tells Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — Chester Ronning remains the "only contact" between all sides in the Viet Nam conflict although no spectacular results have come from the Canadian diplomat's two visits to Hanoi

External Affairs Minister Martin, in giving the Commons this assessment of Canadian efforts to bring about peace in the Far East, said the role of Mr. Ronning was important in a situation where a breakdown in communications could be crucial.

Also significant was that the Canadian diplomat had had "a fair hearing" from Hanoi, Saigon and the U.S.

"The channel remains open and its potential usefulness has not been questioned by anyone," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin said Canada has been told "on the highest authority," and "not only from Moscow," that a Geneva conference on the Vietnamese conflict would get nowhere now.

WANTS CONFERENCE

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India has asked the co-chairmen of the conference, Britain and the Soviet Union, to convene peace talks.

But Mr. Martin said all information indicates such a meeting at this time would not have the desired result.

He emphasized that "preliminary understandings" are necessary on the points at issue in the conflict.

"It seems to me that a conference lies at the end of the road, not the beginning."

Mr. Martin said he has discussed Viet Nam this week with Soviet and U.S. authorities. He would talk to Deputy Premier Dmitri Polyansky of the U.S.S.R. now touring Canada, again Monday.

The debate on Viet Nam came as the government sought approval of $1,662,000,000 it is estimated will be spent by Oct. 31, 1966, by government departments.

GRILLS MARTIN

The external affairs minister said one reason he couldn't answer opposition questions about Canada's position on U Thant's proposals to end the conflict was that he would have "violated a commitment" Mr. Ronning made on behalf of Canada.

He didn't say to whom the commitment had been made.

Mr. Martin reiterated that Canada can take strong public positions on Viet Nam or continue quietly through diplomatic channels to try and find a basis for solving the conflict.

Canada would continue on the latter course.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the proposal of Mr. Thant, United Nations secretary-general, that all parties including the Viet Cong be included in peace talks seemed reasonable and necessary.

He said the government so far has given "a monologue of uncertainty, clothed in magnificent language," when questioned about policy on the conflict.

What was Canada's position on U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam oil depots? How were Communist China and the Soviet Union reacting?

EXPRESS RESERVATIONS

Mr. Martin said Canada has repeatedly expressed reservations about the bombings. The pattern of the war hadn't been considerably altered by them, he said.

New Democratic Leader Douglas said Mr. Martin has given no leadership in seeking a solution to the war. He merely had listed the difficulties.

The Pearson government had failed to state its Viet Nam policy for three years. There had only been a series of platitudes and bromides designed to lull Canadians to sleep.

Mr. Douglas accused the U.S. of gambling with human survival by escalating a war that could grow into a nuclear world war.

He said that Canadian silence "at this stage in human events is criminal."

He called for a statement from Prime Minister Pearson or Mr. Martin that either is willing to fly to Moscow to reinforce British Prime Minister Wilson's call for a reconvening of the Geneva conference.

Mr. Douglas said if the conference is not called the "farce" of the International Control Commission for Viet Nam, of which Canada is a member, should be scrapped.

New Immigration Policies Will Remove Discrimination

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Major changes in immigration policy were announced Friday to remove the last vestiges of racial discrimination and stem the influx of back-door immigrants.

Immigration Minister Marchand told the Commons that foreign nationals who entered Canada by posing as visitors have until July 25 to apply for permanent resident status.

About 20,000 such applications already have been received and officials estimate another 10,000 to 20,000 aliens are living in Canada without immigrant status.

Mr. Marchand also announced that the white paper on immigration to be tabled in September will relax regulations on the sponsorship of immigrants by relatives in Canada and remove all discrimination on grounds of ethnic or geographic origin.

Officials predicted that the net effect of all changes will be to maintain immigration at the present level, but to apply uniform standards to immigrants from all countries.

This is expected to stimulate immigration from Asia and Communist countries that do not restrict emigration, such as Poland and Yugoslavia.

Mr. Marchand added at a press conference, however, that immigration from most emerging countries will stay low because few people there are skilled workers and they are badly needed in their home countries.

Details of the new sponsorship and anti - discrimination regulations will be listed in the white paper and debated in the Commons before they are implemented.

As for immigrants without legal status, Mr. Marchand said the situation has become alarming and needs an immediate solution. It was possible for criminals and other undesirables to move to Canada without being detected by authorities.

"This situation amounts to a wholesale circumvention of our normal systems of immigrant selection and control," he said.

CONDITIONS SET

The visitors - turned - immigrants who apply for permanent resident status by July 25 will be admitted if they meet the following conditions:

1. They are not within prohibited classes listed in the Immigration Act, such as criminals, security risks and persons of immoral conduct.

2. They did not enter Canada by any fraudulent means other than posing as temporary visitors.

3. They fall in one of the following categories: They would be acceptable under present regulations if they were applying abroad; they have married Canadians on or before July 8, 1966; they have established a successful business or have been employed steadily for eight months, or they have at least 10 years' schooling.

Those who do not meet these conditions or who fail to apply for admission before July 25 will face deportation to their countries of origin.

Some de facto immigrants have been in Canada for as long as five years. The largest numbers came from Italy, Greece and Portugal.

About half are in Ontario, a quarter in Quebec and the rest scattered in the other provinces. They came in after visas for visitors were waived starting in 1961.

Flapjacks Only Thing Missing as Polyansky Entertained on Prairie

By TOM MITCHELL

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—The rider got the buffalo galloping, jumped it into the back of a pickup truck, hurtled across the cab roof and wound up sitting astride the hood, hat in hand.

There couldn't have been a more fitting climax to a day full of western glamor for Dmitry Polyansky, visiting Soviet deputy premier. He roared with laughter at the stunt.

Mr. Polyansky wound up a busy Friday with almost two hours at a rodeo at Fort MacLeod, 25 miles west of Lethbridge. There were about 2,000 area residents at the competition and, when the deputy premier's presence was announced, they gave him a big round of applause.

Mr. Polyansky and members of his party also watched bull dogging, calf roping, bronco riding and a chuckwagon race with four-pony teams. That put a unique western end to a day that had the same kind of start—an outdoor breakfast at Medicine Hat.

Members of the party started that meal with a glass of "cactus juice," which turned out to be orange juice with vodka. they went on to bacon, eggs, rolls and coffee.

FLAPJACKS MISSING

Then the deputy premier headed for Lethbridge, 100 miles southwest. His object was a look at the grain, cattle and vegetable farming technique of southern Alberta.

At a grain and vegetable farm near Taber Mr. Polyansky saw an insulated storage bin that holds 20,000 tons of potatoes and looked over the irrigation system used on the farm. It consists of long stretches of sprinkler pipe mounted on big aluminum wheels. It rolls 60 feet to a new section after spraying in one place.

Next stop was the federal agricultural research station at Lethbridge. Here he was told of experiments in cross-breeding cattle and of steps for plant tests and disease control.

He asked the chief entomologist, N. D. Holmes, about the book The Silent Spring by U.S. author Rachel Carson, outlining dangers of indiscriminate use of insecticides and pesticides on natural life.

Mr. Holmes said he felt the book drew an exaggerated picture. But scientists wanted to get away from using insecticides because of the danger of contaminating the soil.

Insecticide has proved the only way to control grasshoppers, which could eat up $175,000,000 of the Prairie wheat crop in a year if unchecked.

Russian scientists have run into this problem, Mr. Polyansky said through an interpreter. It should be tackled cooperatively by scientists in both countries.

Then the deputy premier, an agricultural institute graduate, tramped the research station fields looking at various varieties of wheat and experiments to show the results of fertilization of sugar beets, another big crop in southern Alberta.

He hopped on a big tractor and disc-harrowed a section of summer fallow, then tried another tractor with a blade harrow.

After that he made brief tours of a bulk fertilizer plant, where one man using a system of conveyor belts mixes 3,000 tons of fertilizer a year, and a feed plant, where seven men handle 800,000 bushels of grain a year, grinding it and adding salts and minerals to speed cattle or hog growth.

Y's Activities

Wednesday involved a Rainy-Day program for the Belleville Y.M.C.A. Day Campers. At nine-thirty everyone enjoyed a supervised swim, and then watched cartoons and educational films in the auditorium. In the afternoon the campers worked on their scrapbooks, read stories, and played various organized relay and circle games. Activity in the gym was noisy, with spirited campers either using the box-horse and parallel bars, or enjoying a game of volley-ball. At three-thirty, the campers again dressed for a supervised swim, and ended a wet, but full day, in a wet but happy fashion.

On July 7th, the "Y" Day-Campers went to Old Fort Henry. At Lake Ontario Park, each counsellor led his or her group to the playground and beach. After lunch, all proceeded to The Fort. The biggest attraction was the two o'clock firing of the cannon, and meeting the Fort's mascot, David, a six-month old goat.

Act, the Securities Act and the Legal Aid Act.

The government at first did not intend to proceed with the consumer bill to third reading. But opposition demands that it come into force this year and not be delayed until next year apparently persuaded the government to change its mind.

The bill provides for a cooling-off period on contracts made with door-to-door salesmen and requires stating of interest in both dollar and percentage amounts.

Attempts by the opposition to abolish wage assignments by amending the Protection Act failed in both the standing committee on legal bills and the committee of the whole house—the step between second and third readings of a bill.

Attorney - General Wishart said something should be done about wage assignments but he had given commitments that this would not be done until the next session of the house.

The legal aid legislation provides that persons unable to pay the cost of legal fees will be able to ask help from a plan to be administered by the Law Society of Upper Canada, the organization which governs Ontario lawyers.

The Securities Act moved to tighten rules on insider trading and expanded the powers of the Ontario Securities Commission.

Shortly before prorogation, Mr. Robarts announced he would appoint a royal commission to study labor law in Ontario, including injunctions.

NDP Leader MacDonald said the legislature was nothing but a gentleman's club "in which the interests of the farm, labor and the consumer get short shrift."

the marketing of Canadian wheat and codfish. The wheat would go to new flour mills.

Significantly for the long run, the signatories will co-operate and consult in a variety of fields from tourism to forestalling disruption of trading patterns. They'll also work together in international commodity discussions, particularly to get a good world price for sugar on which the Caribbean is so dependent.

It is no secret that Canada's move into the Caribbean is partly to develop a unified trading partner in the region. Dealing with a group of tiny, competing countries is complicated and untidy.

SKATES AROUND UNITY

But Prime Minister Pearson was careful to skate delicately around the subject of Caribbean unity under reporters' questioning at the signing ceremony. Political unity is entirely up to the Caribbean countries, he said. The West Indies Federation broke up in 1962.

Donald Sangster, acting prime minister of Jamaica—one of three independent Caribbean countries at the conference —said there was little chance of union in the foreseeable future. But John Compton, chief minister of tiny St. Lucia, said that is the ultimate goal.

Mr. Pearson, a former diplomat, said he didn't know "if you could call it a bloc." There is no intention, he said, to set up a parallel body to the Organization of American States.

Another conference will be held in six months or a year in the Caribbean to strengthen the association. No site has been chosen.

The consultative committee will look into the question of a free-trade agreement.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.), who headed the presidential panel, called anew Friday for the strike to be called off while federal mediation continues.

At the direction of the White House, the Civil Aeronautics Board continued meetings with local service airlines, supplemental airlines that specialize in charters and trunk airlines not involved in the strike to study ways to ease the strike's effects. C.A.B. Chairman Charles S. Murphy said no decisions were reached but there is "considerable willingness on part of all the carriers to assist during the emergency."

Meanwhile, thousands of stranded travellers sought substitute transportation today. Bus and train schedules were stepped up in most areas to relieve the passenger jam

At New York's Kennedy airport Friday 757 flights were called off. Three lines in the Far West were still operating—West Coast, Western and Pacific—but they principally are north-south carriers. Still, they too were reported loaded in the Seattle area.

The Sells and Gray Three Ring Wild Animal Circus will exhibit in Belleville on Tuesday, July 19th.

The traditional "Big Top" and other tents will be erected for the one-day showing across from Belleville Drive-in, corner of Palmer Rd. and Bridge Street West. The appearance of the circus here is being sponsored by Belleville Fire Fighters Association Local 497.

Circus spokesmen indicate that this year's edition of Sells and Gray has drawn together top talent from the various European and American circuses and combined it into the strongest production in the show's 66-year history. Special emphasis has been placed on daring aerial and trapeze numbers and on animal acts

Headlining this year's bill is young Captain Johnny Golden, wild animal trainer and former Hollywood stunt man. Armed with gun, whip and chair, he enters the steel arena at every performance to battle five jungle-bred African lions. His steel-nerved mastery of the snarling jungle cats keeps tension-filled audiences on the edge of their seats. Each of his savage pets weighs over 500 pounds and can break the back of a horse with a single sweep of a paw.

FINE AERIAL TEAM

Sharing the spotlight are the sensational aerial team the Pedrolas, from Germany, and the beautiful young European circus star on the high trapeze, Carmen del Molino. Both of these acts have been featured in major circuses in Paris, London, Rome, Madrid, Berlin and Copenhagen. Both scorn the use of a safety net as they perform high in the dome of the big top, and circus officials say that each tries to outdo the other at every performance in a continuing professional rivalry.

Another outstanding feature Sells and Gray Circus for 1966 is the petit blonde Miss Gerda, from Austria, who slides down a wire from the peak of the big top to the ground suspended only by her teeth. Then there is the lovely Patricia Miller, ballerina on horseback, who performs intricate dance steps and graceful acrobatics with breath - taking verve on the back of a galloping horse. The Hills, featured last season with Ringling Bros- Barnum and Bailey present their lovable group of trained French poodles in an act reported to be as amazing as it is appealing.

Trained elephants and horses, jugglers, wire - walkers and other popular circus acts will be included, plus of course, the traditional clowns, headed by Bill Nippo with his timely take - off on "Batman" and the "Batcar."

Performances are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m. Activities on the circus grounds will commence an hour prior to show times. Tickets may be purchased in advance from the members of the Belleville Fire Fighters' Association.

Second Group Of 3 Unions Rejects Offer

MONTREAL (CP)—The second of three groups of unions representing Canada's 92,700 non-operating railway employees decided Friday to turn down a conciliation board report and to take a strike vote across the country.

C. W. Reed, chairman of the negotiating team for some 28,000 shop-craft employees, said representatives of the seven unions in the group voted unanimously to turn down a report handed down Wednesday by Justice F. Craig Munroe of Vancouver.

Thursday, the general conference committee of the Associated Non-operating Railway Unions, representing 52,000 railway workers belonging to 15 different unions, voted to reject a similar report by Justice Munroe and authorized the taking of a strike vote.

The grievances of a third group of railway employees, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), are still under consideration by federal mediator J. C. A. Cameron of Ottawa.

Brighton Banner Ceases Publication Says Editor

BRIGHTON — No further editions of The Brighton Banner, a weekly newspaper, established in June 1965, will be published, editor - publisher Donald S. Swain owner of Southumberland News Service, announced today. The offset weekly was consolidated with the news and public relations service May 1st, this year. It was published by Southumberland News Service until June 22 when a front page statement was published that publication was being suspended.

Southumberland News Service will continue to operate in its present location in Brighton, Mr. Swain said in today's announcement. "The business provides printing design services and photographic and news coverage of special events."

Its operations will be under the direction of William W. Reid who has been news editor of the Brighton Banner and associated with Southumberland News Service since it was established in October 1965.

"A year of publication has provided convincing evidence that locally owned community newspapers have a definite place in the local and regional economy of an area," Mr. Swain said. "In the light of a year's experience, we have learned that a sufficiently large market and population area must be served by such newspapers in today's highly competitive publishing field. The south lakeshore area of Northumberland County from Brighton to Cobourg provides such a market area. While advertising sales and circulation during the past year have met our development projections, any further publishing operations by Southumberland News Service will depend on an analysis of the degree of public acceptance a weekly newspaper serving the entire "Southumberland" area would be likely to receive."

Following commencement of publication of The Brighton Banner, a split-run edition of The Colborne Banner began weekly publication June 23, 1965. In January, both weeklies were merged into one edition with a page devoted to Colborne and area news.

Kennedy Critical Of Neutral Role Canada Playing

OKOTOKS, Alta. (CP)—Senator Robert F. Kennedy indirectly criticized Canada Friday for playing a neutral role in world crises involving the United States.

The New York Democrat, asked at a press conference about Canada's attitude in such situations, said:

"I don't want to answer that directly, but I'd like to . . . quote Dante. 'The hottest place in hell is reserved for those who in time of crisis preserve their neutrality'."

However, the senator said, the United States appreciates "the active understanding and support of Canada" in Viet Nam.

He said he would like to see Canada more "actively involved" in giving leadership and assistance in Latin America and East Africa.

Such assistance would help stop countries moving "in the direction of a dictatorship, either extreme left or extreme right."

Zwick's Island Development Progressing at Steady Pace

Work on the city's centennial project at Zwick's Island is progressing steadily, with much of the planned improvement in the area well on the way to completion. The $154,000 project is being carried out under the supervision of the Belleville Parks Board. Parks superintendent Lloyd Syer expects most of the work will be completed by the end of September this year, well in advance of the July 1, 1967 celebration of Canada's 100th birthday.

When the major construction work is finished, the Parks Board takes over and will be responsible for putting the finishing touches to the project, making sure everything is in readiness for the big celebration next year. Alderman D. G. Williams is Parks Board chairman and Lloyd (Red) Doran is the city's director of parks and recreation. Centennial project co - ordinator is L. W. Shore. Lightfoot Construction, Ltd. and the Tatham Company, Ltd. are doing the construction work.

Reported as 75 per cent completed are a picnic pavilion and a wading pool. When a pump house is constructed, the irrigation ayystem will be ready for use. Tennis courts are about half done. Roads have been constructed and late this week, workmen were installing barricade curbing. Rough grading has been done with the application of top soil, and seeding is in the early stages. Preparation for the planting of trees has also been carried out.

New filter elements and an electric slurry pot were purchased for the filter plant, the tank was repainted with chemically-treated chlorine paint and vacuum hose and brushes were purchased. The beginners' classes are free of charge, sponsored by the Kinsmen Club, and each summer 350 children receive this instruction.

1,000 Riot At Maryland Penitentary

By GORDON BEARD

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Extraordinary tight security regulations are in effect at the Maryland penitentiary following a destructive riot Friday by inmates that caused damages estimated at $200,000.

About 1,000 of the 1,461 prisoners roamed through the yards of the 154-year-old institution for two hours, setting fire to buildings, throwing rocks and looting the commissary.

Authorities fired tear gas to help quell the disturbance and fire hoses were used to keep rampaging inmates out of the power house. But not a shot was fired by the expanded guard force or scores of Baltimore city policemen. No serious injuries were reported.

Warden Roger B. Copinger Jr. and other prison officials, including three chaplains, talked with the prisoners during the trio Friday night.

At the three-hour meeting, 19 inmates complained of such things as the food, low pay, the commissary, the hospital, alleged favoritism in assisting inmates to work release programs, and the operation of the state parole system.

Lake Mazinaw Twister Knocks Down Trees

A twister at Lake Mazinaw late Wednesday afternoon cut a swath through the trees but no one was injured.

Jerry McMurray, Superintendent of Bon Echo Provincial Park, reported that it appeared to have started about eight miles to the west of Brown's Campsite and that it crossed over the lake. There was no damage to the campsite and only a few unoccupied boats were upset on the lake.

Mr. McMurray said that there was a great deal of thunder and lightening but little rain at the time of the storm. The twister seemed to move at about forty miles per hour knocking down trees as it passed. After it crossed the lake it picked up a few old unoccupied farm buildings.

The Industrial Scene

Industries do not appear overnight, but in Belleville it has been a long night — and still the city remains static. The populace, moreover, is largely apathetic in this regard.

Although some pensioners and welfare recipients might dispute it, nobody is really hungry. Yet, while Belleville shares the fruits of the so-called affluent Canadian society, it also suffers from a degree of deprivation, if not outright privation, which in times of real stress would cause protest marches, demands for corrective measures, immediate action and so on.

The city needs new plants. These are the backbone of our industrialized society. They are needed to inject new life into the local economy and that of the nation at large. They are needed to absorb the young people leaving school and to bring others to the community. Yet, while other cities attract them, Belleville seems to repel them — and particularly the businessmen who for one reason or another decide to locate elsewhere.

This brings us to the matter of facilities. Recently the city lost an industry, reportedly through lack of service facilities. The industry decided to go elsewhere.

Meanwhile, the Industrial Commission has made numerous inquiries and contacts, but thus far without securing any additional plants. Clearly, the inducements offered thus far to industrialists are not attractive enough. The basic facilities that industries need must be provided, must be ready and available. The proposed extension of water facilities to serve this area, as revealed the other day, is a step in the right direction.

A letter on this page today calls for a constructive and intelligent interest on the part of the public, and an end to criticism that does not offer some positive way out of the city's difficulties.

Well and good. For our part, we have already offered some suggestions along these lines. To repeat, there is the need for facilities — water, hydro, sewage and so on. We have suggested the possibility of building an "advance factory," after the manner of the British, for use by any company seeking to expand or establish an industry here. And we have suggested putting Belleville on film — its existing industries, housing developments, hospital extension, and recreation facilities, for distribution to other centres.

Trenton's Chamber of Commerce currently is pursuing an interesting community idea. It has sent out questionnaires to all members seeking suggestions for long-range projects such as store improvements. Similar encouragement of local ideas from our own community businessmen, as well as from the general public, is more than ever necessary if we are to overcome our own relatively depressed condition.

On the March

Women — or "the female forces," as she terms them, are still on the march, and with renwed vigor in Canada, according to Helen Tucker of Port Credit, in a forthright letter to The Globe and Mail.

Noting that Canadian women "are motivated to make history in Centennial Year, 1967, and a killing in 1968, Human Rights Year," Mrs. Tucker goes on to quote from a statement by the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor. It has to do with the modern role of women both as wives and members of the work force.

"A revolution is occurring in the pattern of women's lives. . . Girls must be helped early in their teens to prepare them for the dual role of homemakers and workers. Only as meaningful choices are made early will girls be able to realize their fullest potential in both spheres."

Other signs of the increasing influence of women in modern society are afforded by recent surveys. An American team of home economists, for example, has calculated a wife to be worth $10,000 a year in the labor market.

This includes $2,600 a year as cook and waitress; $910 as dishwasher; $1,170 as maid; $650 as laundress; $3,110 as hostess, seamstress and gardener; and $1,560 a year for "miscellaneous" labor.

Next we are informed (not for the first time) that the old saw about women being the weaker sex just is not so. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in the week ending May 21 found that of 2,148,000 women employed, 24,000 or 1.1 per cent were not at work because of illness. Of the 4,988,000 men who had jobs, 77,000 or 1.5 per cent reported sick.

Tsk tsk! Figures can be made to prove anything. The DBS should not content itself with only one set of statistics. It should conduct another survey, perhaps put a computer or two on the job, and see if the male work force cannot bounce back with a superior attendance at work.

In any event, our society has come a long way since the days of Mrs. Pankhurst and her fellow suffragettes. Any remaining inequalities where women are concerned presumably will be redressed in 1968 if not before!

Letters to the Editor

Positive Ideas Is City's Need

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I, like many other citizens in this community, are getting a bit weary of the hackneyed letters to "The Editor".

I note with chagrin that many of these writers have never taken an active part in community affairs. They seldom have anything constructive to say in in the way of criticism. Usually it is derogatory and rumor.

As a businessman in this community, I, have been critical of many civil servants and many commissions. But at least I have come forward and tried to serve my community in whatever way I could.

Have the citizens of Belleville nothing that they can be proud of? Are we tethered to the belief that we can say nothing that is worth of anything in our community.

Come on Bellevillians — awake — progress comes from leadership, and leadership comes from people — people who write letters — people who are not afraid to be heard. From now on let's be progressive in our thinking. Sure, we all know that we live in a democracy and that to criticize is a wonderful privilege, but let us have constructive criticism.

I am sure that phone calls and letters suggesting what you have in mind to those you wish to be heard will be well received.

Get out of the doldrums Bellevillians — be leaders and not followers.

ROBERT W. BARCLAY

Northland's Culture Lag

Fort William Times-Journal

Stern judgment from the lips of a Faculty of Music professor at the University of Toronto is entered against the northern part of Ontario. "It is a vast musical slum," says Ezra Schabas in a report to the Ontario Arts Council in collaboration with the Ontario Federation of Symphony Orchestras.

The professor was dealing only in the field of symphony orchestras, it must be remembered. Likely he would be the first to agree that the unattractive word slum was not to be applied to the music appreciation of the general populace. What he was referring to were the cities of Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and Sudbury which have no orchestras. He noted that the twin cities of Fort William and Port Arthur do have an orchestra. And he was deploring what he described as a lack of sufficient professional talent to support a top-class symphony.

Yet the Toronto authority should not despair. Development of musical talent and musical appreciation takes time. In the past few decades the people of the north have been too occupied in building their communities themselves, in breaking out of isolation imposed on them from the outside, to take part in such intensive involvement with fine music as that enjoyed by many Torontonians since the turn of the century.

Nor should the professor judge Northern Ontario as a "vast musical slum" by a casual visit to the area, during which time he could turn on his hotel room radio and hear mostly beat records and westerns. Some of our church choirs, the Fort William Male Chorus, and several choral groups in widespread municipalities belie his slum designation. Furthermore, the libraries of the finest recorded music, to be found in hundreds of homes in Northern Ontario would astound the man.

Said professor Schabas, "The successful sponsorship of a concert by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra not only earned money for the Orchestra but undoubtedly helped to stimulate interest in orchestral music generally."

New Eating Habits Right Way to Reduce

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like your leaflet, "The Lost Secret of Reducing", in which you tell how to lose fat the easy way. I enclose the necessary five cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. — G. F.

• • •

I don't know whether I should send the leaflet if you insist on describing it that way. If you'll change your thinking, so that you want the effective way to lose fat, then we'll get somewhere.

It also makes a difference whether you are a lot overweight or just a little. If you need to lose only a few pounds, "Lost Secret" will, in fact, be an easy way.

If you need to lose quite a bit of weight, then no easy way exists. The question becomes, instead, whether you merely want to lose the excess pounds, or whether you are wise enough to look farther ahead and lose those pounds permanently.

The big fallacy in weight reduction is that too many people attach undue importance to losing too much too soon — and paying no attention to the more important goal, which is preventing the weight from returning as soon as they give up starving themselves.

There are all sorts of "gimmick" diets which will appear to show amazing results in a week or two. Some of these are accomplished by drying out, and getting rid of some of the water in the body. With them, the apparent progress is ephemeral. Once you stop the drying out process, this water-weight can return almost overnight.

In addition, the starvation diets, while they get rid of weight, lead you ultimately to a binge of ravenous eating later, and you soon regain the weight which you lost with such effort.

Therefore, the really successful way to reduce is not just to lose pounds temporarily, but to acquire a new eating habit which will keep you well-nourished and comfortable and yet not add pounds.

Once you have reached that point, then you can go on brief reducing spurts, confident that each small bit of progress will not be lost in the succeeding few days.

That's what the "Lost Secret" leaflet is all about, and if you decide it's what you really want you make real progress. I'd suggest also that you get another leaflet along with "Lost Secret" the "Calorie Chart." You can have both of them by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to Dr. Molner, in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband claims that water boiled in a teakettle is harmful because of lime and sediment accumulation. Is this true? —Mrs. J. S.

No, if he'll stop to think a minute, he'll realize that the sediment is merely the slow accumulation of material which was in the water in the first place. He has no fear of drinking water as it comes from the faucet. Well, whatever lime is deposited in the teakettle means that water, as it leaves the pot, contains that much less.

It takes a long time for any appreciable amount to settle in the teakettle. The amounts are so small as to be of no importance anyway.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes itchy scalp? My hair is snow white and very dry. I am 80 and have never used any kind of dye. I also have dry skin.—Mrs. J. E. B.

As we grow older the secretion of skin oils decreases and this can cause itching. There are bath oils for the body and oily shampoos and lotions for the scalp. They can be expected to give considerable relief.

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — So, apart from the obvious, such public and publicized Frontbench stars as Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin, who have been the oratorical bright lights of this First Session of the 27th Parliament?

No use asking the Professional Politician-Watchers in the Press Gallery, or in the Official Gallery where perch the Bureaucrats to watch the play and study the performance on the Commons floor below.

Much better, as the Session wore through late Winter to Spring and finally to Summer, to hear what the paying public had to say.

Matter of fact, might have done some of the Parliamentarians good to have sat among the taxpayers in the Galleries and heard some of the candid comments.

For while the spectators are supposed to sit in silence, who, amid the tumult and the shouting of the opening Daily Question Period, could be sure who was doing the heckling, or the cheering?

FROM THE BLEACHERS

And if, for a moment, the Parliamentarians thought they were making all the noise, doing all the shouting, getting off all the cracks — well, instead of listening to each other, they should have looked up and heard some of the comments from the Commons "bleachers" overhead.

Day in, day out, the MP, next to Dief, who caught the eye and ear of the Galleries and stirred the greatest interest and excitement among the spectators, was Donald MacInnis, the combative Conservative from Cape Breton South.

They didn't always know who he was, for the seating plan for the Commons floor which the Gallery attendants hand out to every visitor isn't easy to follow.

But they knew he was a scrapper.

And there were times, as Donnie MacInnis worked up a head of steam, you could hear somebody way back up there in the Public Gallery cry in excitement, "Go get 'em, kid," or maybe "Atta baby, that's telling the big slob."

For Donald MacInnis has the peculiar Parliamentary talent of appearing to be on the raw ragged edge of explosion.

Even those who know him and have watched him, relishing his performance through these past eight years, can't always be absolutely sure that when he seems so close to the boil-over point he isn't going to stride, red-faced and raging, across the floor of the House, and punch Jack Pickersgill or Allan MacEachen square on the nose.

HE'S SWEET

While Donnie MacInnis was the hero of the fight fan element among the men in the House Galleries, Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson was the darling of the women.

He seemed to bring out the mother instinct in them all, teen-agers and grannies alike.

They thought he was "sweet," and a real "darling."

And where the braw Donald looked ever at the point of eruption over a callous government's heartless treatment of coal miners, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia and the Maritimes in that order, the syrupy Thompson oozed with sweet reason, tolerant understanding and Christian patience for an earnestly striving administration struggling to do its very best.

Bob Thompson's particular talent in its own way was every bit as odd as Donald MacInnis'.

He saw good in almost everything.

He was forgiving in almost everything.

Sometimes people, things and situations seemed so impossibly wonderful to Bob Thompson he sounded as if he might dissolve into emotional tears, overcome by the glory of goodness itself.

Foursquare he stood for all that was clean and shining white, decent and right.

And he sounded so sincere, so convincing.

They loved him for it, as he stood there like Little Boy Blue or Little Jack Horner.

And every day the House sat, Bob Thompson, the White Knight, could have swept every last woman's vote in the oohhing and aahhing Galleries.

Gas(ex-Tax) Cost Less Today

Imperial Oil Review

Surveys have this to be said for them: they show the width of the gulf. A survey taken last year discovered that 43 people out of every 100 think gasoline is much too expensive. That hurts, becouse gasoline is one of the few things that costs less today than it did 40 years ago. In Toronto today you can buy a gallon of Esso for 27.9 cents. In 1926 it was 30 cents (You're right if you're thinking 27.9 cents is not what you pay. What you pay is 45.9 cents, but 18 cents of that is tax. The tax in 1926 was three cents).

Even so, 2.1 cents may not seem like much of a drop. Well, it's really more than it looks. If gasoline prices had increased like everything else, that gallon would cost you 55 cents today (plus tax). What's more, gasoline has improved enormously in quality during that time.

Just about everything else has gone up in 40 years. In 1926, the best suit in the catalogue sold for $33.50. In the same catalogue today the best suit costs $75. Steak was 30 cents a pound in 1926, it's $1.10 now. A two-door Ford cost $1,200 in 1926; a three-bedroom house was $5,500; and the freshman year in Arts at McGill was $535 less than it is today.

Mind you, the impression that gasoline is much too expensive isn't the only notion that people maintain, or even the only erroneous impression they hold about oil companies. Surveys show that people think oil companies make a profit of 23 cents per sales dollar, and that they believe it should be something like 16 cents. Know what Imperial's profit was last year? 7.4 cents.

And taxes. A Chamber of Commerce survey discovered that Canadians think business is taxed a little too heavily. They believed the tax rate to be 23.5 per cent of profits, and thought it should be reduced a mite to 23 per cent. Well, last year the income tax rates for corporations like Imperial were just over 50 per cent.

And so it goes.

Yet it would probably not be a good thing if everyone knew all the facts all the time and based their lives on cold certainty rather than shining belief. Where would we be if nobody believed two could live as cheaply as one?

Sweden Still Ranks Second

Windsor Star

Canadians returning from long and short vacations, and points near and far, may regard flattened purses and pockets as a mark of their country's financial standing. Yet they would be guessing wrong.

Not only is Canada the third richest country in the world, it is challenging the second place holder, Sweden, with good prospects of displacing it within the next decade or so. Then it would be second only to the U.S., which is unlikely to be dislodged from the top position in this century or the next.

This national wealth ranking incidentally, is not the possibly biased effort of specialists in the Department of Finance or Bank of Canada. The standing was worked out by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development in Washington.

The yardstick used was the national gross product per capita, which could be as fair as any. That Sweden stands so high is a tribute to its massive production and sales effort. But Canada's variety and wealth of resources won't be denied in the long pull. Be prepared to say goodbye to second place, Sweden, we're taking over.

Question: Your recipe for "Fried Chicken" is just wonderful. I was wondering if you would have a sauce to put over it? I make this recipe very often and everyone just loves it . . . Aime F.

Answer: I could not be sure just which of my Fried Chicken recipes you are using. So I have chosen Cream Gravy as used on Southern Fried Chicken and All-Purpose Barbecue Sauce as used in Barbecued Chicken and Chicken-on-a-Bun.

CREAM GRAVY

(As Served on Southern Fried Chicken)

After frying chicken, drain off all but 4 tablespoons of the pan drippings. Add 4 tablespoons flour, ½ to 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper and blend well, scraping sediment from bottom of frying pan. Now stir in 3 cups milk (preferable pre-heated) until thick. If desired add a shake of cayenne. This gravy is not strained. It is often served over Popovers with Southern Fried Chicken.

ALL-PURPOSE BARBECUE SAUCE

NOTE: This sauce may be served over Barbecued Chicken or Spareribs or Chops or Steak or Beef Cakes or Chicken-on-a-Bun.

One medium onion, chopped, 1 green pepper, chopped, ½ cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup catsup, 1 eight-ounce can tomato sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder, dash Tobasco sauce.

Cook onion and green pepper and celery in oil until soft but not browned. Add the remaining ingredients and simmer 5 minutes.

NOTE: This makes about three cups All-Purpose Barbecue Sauce which will keep if well covered in refrigerator.

Question: What is Parmesan? A.G.

Answer: Parmesan is an Italian cheese now produced in Canada, mostly in grated form. It is yellowish white and very hard, with a sharp distinctive flavor. Formerly known as the cheese sprinkled on spaghetti, now it is used also as a topping for casseroles, soups, especially French Onion, baked dishes and sauces.

Caldwell — Gingras

Gail Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gingras of R.R. 2, Trenton, and Alexander Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Caldwell of Welland, were united in marriage by Father T. Boyle in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville ,on July 2, 1966 at 12 noon. Wedding music was played by Bob Porter and Clifford Hunt was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length white organza gown with Empire bodice, Dior sleeves and a train embroidered with lace.

Miss Anne Culhane was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Eleanor Shannon, Eleanor Dillon and Marilyn McGurn. All wore full-length dresses of pink organza styled similarly to that of the bride, with embroidered trim.

Lawrence Farnsworth of Welland was groomsman and the ushers were Gary Gingras, brother of the bride and Ian and William Caldwell of Welland, brothers of the bridegroom.

At the reception held at Belleville Shrine Club the bride's mother received the guests, wearing an ensemble of beige silk brocade and lace with matching accessories and a corsage of orange cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a two-piece dress of turquoise lace over taffeta with beige accessories and a pink rose corsage.

On their return, the couple will live in Burlington, Ontario.

Ann Landers

Effects of Marijuana Are Quite Obvious

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married to Lee (made-up name) for nine years. We have four children and a nice home in the suburbs. Lee is a good husband and father and we have a happy marriage.

ANN LANDERS

Tonight, by accident, I ran across some cigarette paper for rolling your own. It was tucked in the back of Lee's desk drawer along with an envelope that had been taped and stapled. I opened the envelope and found some dried particles of what appeared to be a plant. It is dark brown in color and has some tiny seeds mixed in. Can this be marijuana?

I have not told my husband that I found the envelope and I don't know if I should. Please tell me what you know about marijuana and what I ought to do about it. — FRIGHTENED.

DEAR FRIGHTENED: Obviously, I could not attempt to analyze any substance without first seeing it, and in this instance, even if I saw it I wouldn't be of of much help. I don't know what marijuana looks like.

If you take the contents of the envelope to an organic chemist for analysis and if it turns out to be marijuana, prepare yourself for questioning by legal authorities. Possession of marijuana is against the law.

It seems unlikely to me that your husband could be on pot and you would not know it. This weed produces exhilaration which you would surely recognize as unusual behavior. Discuss the problem with your family doctor and accept his counsel.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Who is right? My husband's sister has two children who are in grammar school. Her son had a tenth birthday several days ago and my husband and I sent the youngster a very nice gift.

Yesterday we received a handwritten letter to "my dear Unkle and Ant" thanking us for the "beautiful presunt." The stationery was folded in a sloppy, haphazard manner and the envelope looked as if he had carried it in his pocket for a week.

I showed the letter to my husband and he said he thought it was "fine" that the kid took the time and trouble to write a thank you letter. I said it was the very least the boy could do. I also said I thought his mother should have looked at the letter before he sent it, and corrected his spelling and instructed him to write it over. Do you agree with me? — OLD WORLD THINKER.

DEAR THINKER: No, I do not agree with you. The child's note was an expression of appreciation. He thanked you in his own words — in his own way. For a 10-year-old, "Unkle and Ant" isn't too bad. You should see the letters I get from high school kids complaining about "kerfew" and not enough "freedum."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who is heartbroken. I went with Bart for six months. I knew the minute I laid eyes on him that he was very mixed up. I was his psychiatrist, his mother figure, his sweetheart and his parole officer. I was also his banker. He still owes me $9.00.

After I gave him everything he wanted he told me that I was too bossy and then he dropped me for another girl. He needs me but he doesn't know it. Please tell me how to get the message across to him. — LINDA.

DEAR LINDA: Never mind about getting the message across to him. Concentrate on the message he got across to you. You need this fellow like Custer needed more Indians. Consider yourself lucky to be rid of the guy.

Day Nurseries Topic At Study Guild Meet

The last meeting for the season of the Belleville Women's Study Guild was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Gill, Foster Ave., and began with a potluck supper, held indoors because of threatening weather.

The business meeting was the annual one, with president Mrs. C. R. Roulet presiding. Each convener gave her report of the year's avtivities. Mrs. George Wishart presented the report of the nominating committee, following which the election of officers for the 1966-67 season was held. Elected to office were: president, Mrs. H. G. Wylie; vice-president, Mrs. C. E. Plummer; secretary, Mrs. E. F. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. K. Daley.

Mrs. C. R. Roulet thanked the executive and conveners of the past year for their enthusiastic co-operation, and extended best wishes to the new executive for an enjoyable and successful season ahead.

Mrs. C. E. Plummer took the worship service with the theme "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old he will not depart from it".

PROGRAM ON NURSERIES

The evening's program was taken by Mrs. J. A. Buchanan and Mrs. H. R. Gibson, and was an informative one on day nurseries. With the absorption into the labor force of more and more women, whether through economic pressures, or because a mother is sometimes the only support of pre-school children, need for care for these children has resulted in this care amounting to a public utility in modern society of many countries.

Aspects of a variety of nursery schools and day care centres were presented - some run for compensation or otherwise, some with and others without educational purposes There developed interesting discussions as to the value day nurseries can have, particularly to culturally deprived children, and to young families which can only be kept together if the mother, the sole support, is free to go out to work, through the use of a day nursery

NOW ACCEPTED FACT

In considering the problems and possibilities of day care for children, a community is able to avail itself of information from many other centres where such facilities have been in operation for many years. Sweden was the first country to have Day Care Centres, and in Russia, Italy, and many other European countries they are an accepted fact.

Even children who cannot be classed as orphaned, or underprivileged, still need to live part time in a world of children their own age — as witness the problems of an "only child" living in a large city apartment building Most of what a child learns is through social contacts — and a valuable part of this learning is acquired as he associates with his own age group.

Mrs. Gibson brought the program to a close with an apt quotation — "Rather than waste time in defending the past, Canadians and Bellevillians should honor their pioneer heritage and strike out boldly in search of a socially responsible state in which the development of good welfare services will be as normal as good roads and good education.

Sweden's Sailboat Centre Light - Hearted Surprise

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

GOTHENBURG, Sweden — As everyone knows, Prince Bertil has declared 1966 — the 100th anniversary of the start of the great emigration from Sweden — Swedish Homecoming Year.

This, of course, creates untold new business from as far away as MeeneeSOtah for SAS which didn't exist in 1866, and the Swedish America Line, which soon afterwards became the biggest shipping company in Scandinavia's largest port. The customs house wharf in Gothenburg was the last of Sweden most of the emigrants saw.

In order to ensure that all who want to come home in homecoming year find a way, Sweden last year emerged as the world's largest shipbuilder, thanks largely to the capacity of Gothenburg's yards.

And so that homecomers will feel at home no matter where they come from, it should be noted that Gothenburg was created by Dutch architects and artisans; learned its successful business ways from the clever and canny Scot traders; and resembles variously Amsterdam, Paris, Mexico City, a German city we can't think of, Copenhagen, Washington, D.C., and the Bronx. It also has a good Italian restaurant.

LIGHT-HEARTED SURPRISE

Any way you look at it, Gothenburg is a light - hearted surprise as Scandinavian cities go. Most of them are either square-and-severe modern, or just plain old. Not so Gothenburg. Situated a couple of hundred miles up the coast from Malmo at the mouth of the famous Gothenburg Canal, the eighteenth century marvel of engineering that linked Stockholm with the Baltic, its lively, inviting international flavor reflects its long contacts with the outside world.

The city, as well as the coast from here north, is part of an archipelago, a beachless sea-washed complex of rocky islands and headlands. The Dutch designed it in their fashion, lacing it with picturesque canals that connect with the harbor and separate the cultural from the commercial centre. So it still stands, though some of the canals have been filled in because Volvos and Saabs don't float well.

Where downtown ends — or begins — the fish - faced but nobly proportioned Carl Milles statue of Poseidon stands in front of the modern art museum. It looks askance at Kungsport Ave., a broad tree-lined boulevard lined with unlikely sidewalk cafes and lacking only an Arc de Triomphe to make it another Champs Elysees.

Further on, classic buildings with carved stone facades, and bridges surmounted by fin-de-siecle statuary and ornate brass lamps, bear out the Paris image. Everywhere leafy trees bring Washington to the homesick American mind. The broad park with the roadway and bicycle paths cutting through it — known inelegantly only as The Alley — is a dead ringer for Mexico City's Paseo de la Reforma.

Around the edges massive apartment houses and patrician homes surmount the rock outcroppings and climb the hil eroppings and climb the hills for a view; it is more than a little reminiscent of New York's middle class residential borough of the Bronx. And out at Liseberg stands a somewhat more relaxed and park-like version of Copenhagen's Tivoli Gardens, with a hair-raising new roller coaster that looks like a new way of raising Sweden's notorious suicide rate.

BLONDE GUIDES

The best way to see Sweden's second largest city is from one of the Paddan boats that cruise the canals hourly from the central square. While a multilingual blonde guide in a Viking hairdo and poor boy sweater reminds passengers to duck — and she means it — under the low bridges, the boat passes the old fortification walls and the endlessly varied, but somehow harmonious, architectural styles of the city's stately old buildings. Finally it emerges in the sprawling harbor, where it is dwarfed by the mammoth cranes, floating dry docks and huge tankers from all the world.

One of the dry docks is described as capable of lifting the entire population of Gothenburg — but only before lunch. Considering how good the restaurants of the city are, postprandial levitation might be a problem.

Henriksberg is a venerable seafood place where the specialty is sole fried with grapes, nuts and rice, and served with a commanding view of the harbor. Downstairs is the annex called the Jolly Roger, an authentic replica of a sailing ship's dining salon complete with polished wood paneling and portholes.

The atmosphere of seagoing never is far removed from Gothenburg. It is the sailboat centre of Sweden. On Sundays many a burgher traverses the suburbs to Langedrag. In the Victorian pavilion restaurant, they gorge on smorgasbord and watch the regattas from the glassed-in terrace.

If Marstrand was good enough for King Oscar (grandfather of present King Gustav), as well as for King Olaf of Norway, for summer vacations, it's still good enough for 20,000 Scandinavians and northern Europeans. It lies an hour's drive up the usually-sunny archipelago, past the Gothenburg Canal and fourteenth century Aahus fortress staring down incredulously at the smoking new factories and shipyards.

BOATS PLENTIFUL

The farms give way to jagged and smoothed coastal rock, inlets and harbors cluttered with fishing boats, motor boats and sailboats. A five - minute car ferry takes you as far as you can go on wheels, another little one-cabin Toonerville ferry the rest of the way to Marstrand, where there are no stop lights, no parking tickets, and no cars.

Old Oscar would recognize it today. Still brooding over the scene from its rocktop is grim, gray Carlsten's Fortress, once the mightiest bastion of the north. From it, there are sweeping views of the rocky, wind-swept coast to the west.

Inevitably, Marstrand has become a hangout for poet and artist types. One morning the citizens awoke to find their Toonerville ferry gaily painted with curly flowers and animals.

But except for July's big regatta, that's about the extent of the fun-fun-fun in Marstrand. Mostly it's just sunshine, peace, sailing and fishing. Even kings seek nothing more.

A teacher of famous men, John Coney was also a silversmith of renown. This silver tankard was made by Coney in the early eighteenth century in Boston.

Talented Artists Are Often Outdone by Their Students

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

Teachers sometimes never become as famous as their students even if they are talented artists themselves. John Coney lived in Boston from 1655 to 1722. He was a silversmith and an engraver.

It is said that he made the plates used for the first American paper money. His silver work is considered among the finest made during the 18th century. In spite of his talent and success most books refer to him as the silversmith who had an apprentice named Apollos Rivoire. Rivoire, the father of Paul Revere, is a man of many fames such as engraving, silversmithing, and patriotic deeds.

Q. My mother collects purple slag; I have seen blue slag and have read about the very expensive pink slag. What is red slag?

A. Picture a glassware that is streaked like a marble cake. Slag glass or marble glass was made at many American and English factories in the 1880's to 1900. Most of the American purple slag was made by a Pennsylvania firm.

Pink slag is one of the great mysteries of American Victorian glass. No one seems quite sure where it was made, but it is attractive, rare and expensive.

Red slag has gained popularit during the past year. It was ignored by dealers until the very rare red Tiffany glass began bringing astronomical prices. All of the other red glasswares made at the same time were then sought by the dealers and collectors.

There are several theories about the origin of red slag. The Northwood Company of carnival glass fame and the Challinor Taylor Company of purple slag fame both seem to have made a red slag. There are some who claim to own red slag made by Mr. Carder of the Steuben Glass works.

Red can vary from a dark red to orange in a single piece. Other colors of slag also known are orange, green, butterscotch, and pieces that are a mixture of several colors.

Miss England In Tears Over Roommate

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Thirty-two international beauties flew in Friday for the annual Miss Universe pageant, noticeable weary and at least one,. Miss England, in tears.

Miss England wept when told her room-mate would be a girl who does not speak her language.

Janice Carol Whiteman, a five - foot, three - inch green-eyed beauty in a Beefeater costume 10 inches above her knees, was assigned to Miss France, Michele Boule, a blonde.

"I like Miss France," moaned the girl from England, "but I like to talk, too. Why not Miss Scotland, or Ireland or Canada"

Miss Dominion of Canada, Marjorie Schofield of Burlington, Ont., clad in a Mountie getup a foot above her knees, chuckled: "My chaperone doesn't speak English either. And my room-mate is Miss Italy."

But Miss Canada learned that Miss Italy, Paola Bossalino, a 36-24-36 bundle from Rome, speaks excellent and vivacious English.

SUNRISES

"The sun will not rise . . . without my notice, and thanks." — Winslow Homer, 1895, American painter.

* * *

"Sunrises? In my work," declares a young man, a new-comer to Belleville, whose occupation entails many hours of night driving, "I see them often. I like them. As a matter of fact, I've seen them from all over: land, sea and air (as a flier where the coloring is unbelievable.) But the ones I like the best are those over the Canadian Rockies. I'm a Westerner and I'm at home among them there."

How fortunate this young man is. Most of us are not lucky "sunrise-wise." Though there are such things, as the saying goes, we very seldom see them, for the run rises at the wrong end of the day when we are still prisoners of needed sleep from daily pressures.

Even poets are affected and are prone to write about sunsets rather than the sunrise; content to devote to it a mere phrase or line such as Rupert Brooke's " . . . the sun laughs up the eastern blue" or Milton's " . . . the sun is not risen, but the dawn lies red on the dew," or Coleridge's "Thou rising sun; thou blue rejoicing sky!"

Brick-blocked views deny city-dwellers the miracle of a sunrise and caused Winslow Homer a New York City artist, to move to the New England coast where he could watch the sunrise, the sea and the sunset and became so a part of that which he painted that he wrote his brother words, which he said all his life in paint: "The life that I have chosen gives me my full hours of enjoyment for the balance of my life. The sun will not rise or set, without my notice, and thanks."

So one sympathizes with a country friend coming to Toronto to live who rose early and was accosted by a policeman who asked why she was on a city street at four-thirty in the morning. Her reply: "To see the sunrise, sir," quite dumbfounded him.

It rests with the traveller then to supply us with a wealth of sunrise collections. One, a camera enthusiast, says: "Some collect glass, coins, dolls or rare books. My hobby is snapping sunrises from all over the world." The traveller's time-table is no respector of ideal, proper, civilized waking and rising hour routines, and Thaxter's reminder that "the sunrise never failed us yet," cloudy skies or no, is a constant one.

Still another touring the American west, saw the sunrise "brush the snow-capped Tetons with leaf-gold against the azure sky."

When Bunyan in Pilgrim's Progress wrote: "The Pilgrim they laid in a large upper chamber, whose window opened toward the sun rising; the name of the chamber was Peace,' he gave sunrise its key-note: serenity.

"The waves from our boat spread out like sculptured curves of blue-tinted jade. They shone with a wax-like sheen in the light of the mauve-red rising sun as if rubbed by hand. With each invisible rubbing the surface grew brighter turning from orange to rose-petal pink as the sun rose higher and higher, until the whole world was aglow in a symphony of color that gave birth to this day."

And so it was . . .

One summer's morning on the Bay of Quinte.

Women's Institutes

MELROSE W.I.

The June meeting of Melrose W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. E. G. McLaren on Thursday evening with Mrs. E. Pascoe, president in the chair.

Mrs. A. Long announced that the leaders' training school will be held in Stirling, September 20 and 21 on "Meat in the Menu". A letter was read from the W.I.'s foster child in Korea.

Mrs. C. Weese, convener of health, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. F. Beeby of Belleville, past president of the Hospital Auxiliary. Mrs. Beeby traced the growth of the hospital from its small beginning as an eight-bed hospital operated by the Women's Christian Association. In 1895 the first nursing class was graduated and in 1928 the Ritchie home was built for nurses. In 1950 the management of the hospital was taken over by the city and in 1963 Hastings County became part owner.

A question period followed and Mrs. J. McLaren expressed thanks to the speaker and presented her with a small gift.

Miss Barbara Weese, who will graduate from Guelph University next year in household science, outlined her work at the hospital, where she is a student dietitian during the summer months.

Mrs. K. McMechan reported on the swimming lessons for children in he community which continue for three weeks during July.

Stylemakers Present Case For Saner Dressing Policy

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of anti-mad, anti-Mod stylemakers Friday presented its case for a saner dressing policy to fashion writers here for the New York couture group's semi-annual press week.

Nobody carried placards, but commentators at the mike protested about the shocking unladylike goings on—in which more has come off than has gone on—of women's apparel these days.

Meanwhile, rail-thin, poker-faced mannequins, the paid marchers who were obviously neutral about the issues, paraded up and down the runway in examples of what four designers consider sanity.

Often the definition was a style from last year or the year before, a so-called timeless design. No one could quarrel with the ladylike creations of Jo Copeland of the Patullo fashion house who refused to bow to the Kiddy, the mannish or the Mod-ish influence.

Her styles argued for emphasis on grace and movement. Nips and tucks and bias cuts accent the positive. Loose skirt panels back or front, full, illusion organza sleeves and cowl necklines seemingly eliminate the negatives of a woman's figure.

No news is always good news to Davidow fans, so there was good news Friday in his collection of tweed suits and coats with modestly short, swinging sometimes six - gored skirts, back belts, raglan sleeves and yoke effects.

The Branell fashion house philosophy seemed to be that if your wardrobe is basically sane, you can be a little mad with color and fur for the fun of it. Besides a kaleidoscope of brilliant hues in daytime costumes, the house wrapped rabbits—dyed to look like tigers or giraffes — around women as shifty dresses or draped them from their shoulders as queenly capes.

Hemlines were mid-thigh for Branell, but closer to the knee for the more conservative designers.

Successful Living

Starting in Business Can Be Risky Venture

DEAR DORIS: My husband never really learned a trade, but has worked up to a fairly good paying factory job as a semi-skilled laborer.

Now a friend wants him to go partners with him and buy a lumbering business. It is not active right now and they can buy it very cheaply. To my husband this seems like a chance to get out of a rut and make some money, but I'd hate to see our small savings account go down the drain.

Am I being too timid? What do you think about such things? — IN DOUBT.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR IN DOUBT: That makes two of us in doubt. I'd have to know chapter and verse of the company's finances, its potential market, the partnership arrangement, before saying a thing. And then I wouldn't be the one to say.

It's one thing to let somebody pay you a wage and have your week ends to rest in; it's a completely different kettle of fish to start your own show and work night and day to get into the black. Many small businesses fail every year. Ask the D.E.S. just how many.

Even if the partner is a whiz at managing, and trustworthy beyond question, I'd say find out what your bank manager says; and get legal advice too.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: My daughter will be entertaining a friend and her fiance at an informal dinner shortly.

1. Does she as hostess sit at head of table?
2. Are guests seated opposite each other?
3. When serving wine at a meal, is it poured before or after guests are seated?
4. Also, are the glasses refilled as they are emptied?
5. Is it proper to serve an individual salad with the main course?
6. Should juice be drunk before the main course is served and glasses removed, or left to drink with the meal? — LOOKING FOR ANSWERS.

DEAR LOOKING:

1. No. You are hostess; your husband is host. You sit at opposite ends of the table.
2. The male guest is seated at your right; the female guest at your husband's right. This does put them on opposite sides of the table.
3. After.
4. No, but at some point, whoever is serving goes the rounds with refills.
5. Yes, as a side salad.
6. Either way.

* * *

Confidential to DESPERATE, TROUBLED: The word "hate" turned up in your letter 12 times. Somehow you are off on the wrong foot and you seem to be in rebellion against all authority. What makes you think you know what to do, about everything, without being told?

You hate, you have headaches, you are depressed. You will write to me, but won't talk to the psychiatrist; yet you sadly need his help. He could be your lifeline.

Make a new appointment with him. Write him a letter, just as you have written to me, and this will break the ice, and I mean "ice." Do it — before you do "something you'll regret."

Lines on Life

Kindness Is Essential

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

When they opened the diary of a renowned ethical teacher they searched for a clue to his thoughts. But all pages of the book were blank, save one. And on this page there was inscribed a note in a few short lines. This is the sum of it:

"Before you speak or act, ask yourself three questions: Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind? And the last is not the least but the most."

There is no substitute for the truth. It has a way of catching up with us. No matter how difficult to face, truth always gives us healing power. When we deal honestly with people, we feel "clean inside". Armed with a potent weapon, we have the confidence to face our problems.

But truth alone will not do. When we ask ourselves what we are doing, we must consider: Is it kind as well as true?

William Blake, the English poet, reminds us that "a truth that's told with bad intent, beats all the lies you can invent."

Some people, like Uriah Heep, deal with their neighbors in a smug, self-righteous way. They act as if no one else is honest and only they have cornered the market on truth. We've got to deal truthfully with people, but kindly as well.

And when we set about saying or doing the things we deem necessary, let's also remember to be kind.

Consider what we do as parents. Of course we must assert our leadership and help our children make wise choices. A parent who lets his children flounder about without guiding them has missed the whole point of parenthood.

But too many parents forget that their children are human beings. Too often they make all of the decisions for their children, instead of making decisions with them.

Instead of leadership, there is dictation, and in the place of kindly light, there is wooden command. The parent may think that he's only doing what is necessary! Yes, that's all he is doing — and forgetting to be kind.

Or think of some husbands you know. A man may suppose that he is doing everything that is necessary to please his wife. He earns a decent salary; he provides a nice house; he even offers his wife a long vacation. He thinks that he's doing "everything that is necessary and then some".

But if in the process he forgets to be kind, sweet, and understanding, then he's forgotten what is really most necessary. And since marriage is a two-way street, what's true of the gander is true of the goose.

Or ponder the primary and ultimate cause for failure of communism, fascism, or any of the assorted totalitarian forms of government. The leaders may be stoutly convinced of the truth and necessity of their plans and programs, but they have not sufficient confidence in the effectiveness of these two weapons of truth and necessity to work with them in kindly fashion.

They have forgotten the meaning of kindness and elementary humanity. And when they've lost this, they've lost everything.

No matter where you apply it — in the family, community, or nation — that teacher summed it up neatly:

"Is it true? Is it necessary? Is it kind? And the last is not the least but the most."

Sunday School Lesson

Aiming at Right Target

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

A man was riding in the country when he saw a barn on the side of which, at various heights were painted several targets. In the exact centre of each target, right in the bulls-eye, there was an arrow. The man was so impressed, he stopped to ask the farmer, "Who is such an expert marksman?" The farmer answered, "No one around here is an expert marksman. The village idiot does that. He likes to come out and shoot arrows into the side of my barn, and then he paints targets around them."

Any person can do something, and then think up reasons or excuses afterward to justify his action. It takes a person of vision and dedication to set a goal, and then strive to attain the goal. Without any great over-arching sense of the presence and righteousness of God, many set out to go their own way, and then think up permissive reasons to justify their self-centred existence. If most have any one target at which to aim more than another, it seems to be material success.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 10: "Supreme Loyalty to God," Exodus 20:3; Deuteronomy 6:4-9; 30:15-20; I Kings 18:17-21; Matthew 4:8-10; Mark 12:28-30.

Wherever a person looks in the Bible, he finds one primary target at which all men are expected to aim, and that is obedience to the righteous will of God. When it comes to the supreme loyalty of his life, a person is not supposed to look at other targets out of the corner of his eye. "You shall have no other gods before me," is the clear statement of God's commandment. (Exodus 20:3 RSV)

SUPREME GOAL OF LIFE

This objective is stated most clearly in the great Deuteronomic statement, "the Lord our God is one Lord; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your might." (Deut. 6:4 RSV) Every Israelite was expected to write these words on his heart, to teach them diligently to his children, to talk about them in and out of his house, even to fasten them on his person and at the entrance to his house.

So ingrained were these words in the mind of every Hebrew, that when Jesus was asked which He considered the greatest commandment, He immediately responded with this one. (Mark 12:28-29) He went on to say that the words of Leviticus 19:17, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," are part and parcel of the same commandment, since love for God and love for man are two sides of the same coin.

The great leader, Moses, explained why this is such an important target at which to aim. He told men to choose obedience to the commandments of God that they might live and multiply in the land. To worship and serve other gods would be to choose the way of death to the kind of society God wanted them to build. (Deut. 30:16-18)

BASES OF FREE SOCIETY

This is spelled out in a statement with which the Apostle Paul concluded one of his letters. He urges Christians to think and do whatever is true, honorable, just, pure, lovely and gracious. (Philippians 4:8) These are not just nice things to think about if people happen to be in the mood for them. They are the only bases on which a free society can exist.

For there are only two ways to hold society together. One is coercion in which people are told what to think and do. The other is cohesion in which people give voluntary allegiance to certain commonly - accepted ideals.

During the geo-physical year, scientists in every major country of the world carried out a massive study of weather. The success of this world-wide experiment depended on two things: on the accuracy of weather-measuring devices, and the honesty of the scientists.

Progress in any field depends on the methods used, and the integrity of the persons who use them. A lack of integrity, a lack of obedience to the will and the commandments of God can imperil man's life and progress on this planet.

The commandment to give first allegiance to God is not a device thought up by religious leaders to control people. It is the only way that can lead to mutual respect and trust. When men set out to make their own rules, they invariably interfere with the rights of others. Only when they put God and His laws first can they build the best life for themselves, and a world in which every person will be given the right to become what God wants him to be.

A Lift for Living

Excessive Busyness Can Prove Dangerous Poison

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Some of the weed-killers now on the market kill noxious plants by stimulating the weeds' cells to greater activity than the weeds can tolerate. The plants then exhaust themselves by the excessive busyness of their cells and they die. They are poisoned by busyness.

These days, when the tempo of life is moving faster and faster, we are in peril of destroying our souls by too much busyness. We move through our brief days so rapidly that the hours are blurred, and so are the highest values, such as family, friendship and worship. We hurry about trying to do so many things that we forget to feed our souls so that we can be worthwile people.

Some anonymous waggish writer of verses once described a female do-gooder who spent her energies at a furious pace:

On Monday she lunched with a housing committee,
With statistics and stew she was filled;
Then she dashed to a tea on "Crime in Our City,"
And dined with a Church Ladies Guild.

On Tuesday she went to a Babies' Week lunch.
And a tea on "Good Citizenship";
At dinner she talked to the Trade Union bunch
(There wasn't a date she dared skip).

On Wednesday she managed two annual dinners,
One at noon and the other at night,
On Thurrday a luncheon on "Bootlegging Sinners,"
And a dinner on "War: Is It Right?"

"World Problems We Face" was ner Friday noon date,
(A luncheon address, as you guessed);
Spoke that evening on "Social Unrest."

'On Saturday noon she fell in a swoon,
Missed a talk on the youth of our land . . .
Poor thing, she was through! She never came to,
But died with a spoon in her hand.

Such small souls are easily poisoned by their own busyness Moreover, they also hurt others, depriving them of the companionship they need. One father, reciting the hard luck he and his wife have suffered, said to a friend, "We lost our first child" The friend, shocked, exclaimed "I didn't know your daughter was dead!" The father responded, "Oh, she isn't dead, I was just too busy."

There are some people near to every one of us, and children are among them, who are disappointed, depressed, defeated, embittered, bored, weary, anxious and frightened, lonely rejected, blighted by their own sins and hurt by man's inhumanity to man. They need some word of cheer you can speak, some thoughtful deed you can perform. Are you too busy to notice? Too busy to act? What are you doing that is so much more important than their need?

Soon after a certain businessman died, his family erected a tombstone over his grave with an epitaph reading, "Born a human being. Died a wholesale grocer." Busyness can dehumanize us, poison and wither our souls, and keep us so excessively preoccupied making a living that we forget how to live.

We pass through this world but once. Why rush past the scenery? Why miss the slow savoring of friendships, the beauty of nature? Why overlook the skills of our fellows, their artistry in painting, sculpture, architecture, music and literature? Why miss the good we can do, the kindnesses we can show?

Why miss the goodness of God which is apparent only to those who take time to count life's blessings?

What's your hurry?

Arbitrators on School Levy Meet But Solution Doubtful

NAPANEE — Treasurers of all municipalities of the Napanee and District Collegiate Institute area, met at the school Wednesday to arbitrate the school levy. Their decision has not yet been made public, but there is wide-spread speculation that there was no unanimous decision. If there is even one dissenting voice, the matter must be put into the hands of the Ontario Municipal Board.

When the county equalization factor was used in preparing a first tentative budget, Camden objected and advice of the Municipal Board was sought. When the provincial equalization factor was used according to advice Adolphustown objected. Since the treasurer of each of these municipalities was on the arbitration board, a unanimous vote is unlikely.

Whatever the outcome, the provincial equalization factor must be used for this year. Any change made would affect the next two years.

The report of the findings of the arbitration board reached Gordon MacGregor Friday but will not be made public until Monday. Mr. MacGregor, secretary-treasurer of the school board, was not a member of the board of arbitration. He and several others left the meeting once it was organized with William Taylor, clerk-treasurer of Bath, as chairman, and Mrs. Yvonne Wilson, treasurer of Lennox and Addington as secretary.

Recreation Committee Advised for Deseronto

DESERONTO — Donald Maddox of Belleville, addressing the Centennial Parks Committee Tuesday evening, advised the formation of a municipal recreation committee. He suggested that an open meeting be held, with the Town Council, members of Centennial Parks Committee and the newly-formed Deseronto Sports Organization, and all other interested citizens, and agreed to attend such a meeting to give his advice and assistance.

Mr. Maddox represents the community programs division of the Department of Education.

Mr. Maddox pointed out that grants would then be available for such things as instructors, coaches and supervisors. Even though the new centennial park will not be opened officially until next July, he advised that the two young people who had been sent for training should be hired as supervisors this summer.

Mr. Maddox said it is not only the young for whom recreation should be provided, but also the older people.

In order to be eligible for grants, a recreation committee must be set up by a by-law passed by Town Council, which would then proceed to set up the committee.

EQUIPMENT INSTALLED

Work on Centennial Park is progressing rapidly.

Most exciting of all for the small folk, the playground equipment is being put in place. A slide erected by a member of the committee Wednesday afternoon, was in use almost as soon as it was in place. Thursday evening members of the Deseronto Sports Organization made good their offer to help install this equipment, and joined their elders to dig the holes for the concrete abutments.

Best of all, except for the bulldozing, tree removal, sand, and purchasing the playground equipment, everything else has been donated. The boys of the Sports Organization have organized themselves into shifts and Friday night saw the first shift on the beach teaching the children to swim. Men on committees have spent long hours of their time travelling at their own expense to see similar projects and will travel many more such miles. The interchurch White Elephant Store, a very modest undertaking as yet, reports that it has nearly $300 in the bank.

The only disappointment so far has been that the money subscribed for a covered rink and not used, will not be available for the park, as the committee had hoped.

Still ahead is the building of a dock and of two washrooms, but in each case some progress has been made. Qualified workmen have already volunteered their services.

Viet Nam

Chinese statement goes on to say that 'all support and aid rendered by the North Vietnamese people to South Viet Nam are within the sacred right of the Vietnamese people.'

"It is, none the less, this evident inconsistency which is the crux of the problem we are facing in Viet Nam and to which we must address ourselves if there is to be any prospect of a peaceful and lasting settlement of the present conflict."

Mr. Martin said Mr. Ronning, who speaks Chinese, may make more visits to Southeast Asia and that his main role has been to try to clarify the positions of both sides. He also said Mr. Ronning's mission was strictly the result of a decision by the Canadian government.

REJECTS DEMANDS

Mr. Martin's statement was made to reject demands from some opposition parties that Canada call for a reconvening of the Geneva conference.

He said that all the information available to him indicates a call for a Geneva conference now would produce few results because he would be "greatly surprised if the authority that must be at such a conference would be prepared to attend one at this time."

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) asked whether Mr. Martin was referring to the Soviet Union or the United States. The external affairs minister said he would prefer not to say.

Mr. Martin said he would be meeting again Monday with Dmitri Polyansky, deputy premier of the Soviet Union who is on a tour of Canada.

The Viet Nam debate began after the Commons approved the Canada Assistance Plan, a program to co-ordinate and extend existing welfare plans.

Health Minister MacEachen pledged to deliver a long-demanded statement about old age pensions before Parliament recesses for the summer, probably next week.

George McIlraith, government House leader, listed a number of minor items to be considered Monday. If they are approved a debate on the government's proposed medical care insurance plan will be started along with a bill to impose a binding solution on the Quebec longshoremen's strike, whose main issues were settled and the strike ended last month.

RECESS NEXT WEEK?

Medical care insurance is the first item scheduled for Tuesday and, the government hopes, MPs will be on their way home later in the week.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker opened the Viet Nam debate, demanding to know Canada's position on U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam oil depots and the reaction of Communist China and the Soviet Union.

"I am deeply concerned about the events of the last few days —more so than by anything which has taken place," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Martin said Canada has repeatedly expressed reservations about the bombings.

NDP Leader Douglas accused the U.S. of gambling with human survival by escalating a war that could turn into a nuclear conflict. Canadian silence at this time was "criminal."

The Canadian government has expressed only platitudes and bromides designed to lull Canadians to sleep, Mr. Douglas said.

Social Credit Leader Thompson is to speak on the subject Monday.

GETS TV SPOT

TORONTO (CP) — Jimmy Tapp, host of the Montreal television program Jimmy Tapp and His Friends, will replace Bill Walker as host of the CBC-TV network program Flashback this fall.

Unemployment Down From Last Year

NAPANEE — The number of applicants registered in Napanee for work with the National Service at the end of June declined slightly from this time last year, even though no major construction projects are under way in this area to absorb the male work force, and work for females is limited as well.

There were 207 men available at the end of June compared with 231 last June and 203 at the end of May this year.

There were 112 women compared with 115 last June and 106 at the end of May this year.

Little work is available for students who are returning to school in the fall because of the limited construction starts. Activity is expected in this field in the next two or three months.

The number of women needed for canning operations has decreased greatly this year.

Britain's

drain on its gold reserves this month.

This means they would have fallen by something over £200,000,000 ($600,000,000) in the five months since February. This time of the year is usually a good one for foreign earnings, but this year the trend has been reversed. The recent seamen's strike did not help.

In just over two weeks, Callaghan must face the finance ministers of the 10 rich countries who bank-roll Britain. He is due to describe to them the progress being made towards solvency.

Experts are saying it is almost inconceivable that he can face his fellow finance ministers without having taken further, stronger action to cure Britain's economic ills.

Employment News

By J. R. Staveley
Employment Relations Officer

The employment trend showed an accelerated activity throughout the community during the past week. The employment vacancies listed at the local National Employment Service Office reflected a labor demand covering practically all phases of the district's economy.

In the agricultural field, the local farmers were busy completing the first hay crop, and doing orchard and other crop spraying. The pea viners are now processing the early pea crop. A local canning factory is engaged in processing this season's strawberries. There was a steady demand for additional construction workers in various construction projects, covering buildings, highway and Centennial commitments. The services field continued to present an increasing labor demand, augmented at this season of the year by the summer tourist business and also activity in the transportation field.

The district's industrial plants are maintaining a near peak labor force with few additional workers required at this time. Following a pattern established in recent summers, several of the larger plants will be closing down, or paritally so, during the last two weeks of this month. However, it is interesting to note that due to new production items, some plants have urgent skilled labor requirements. Until these skilled or professional type of workers are obtained, there is a resultant delay in the labor demand for the unskilled or semi-skilled worker.

During the week the local employment vacancies were divided equally between both the female and male applicant seeking employment.

JOBS OPEN

In the female division locally, an experienced stenographer with good shorthand speed is required on a permanent basis. It is desired that the successful applicant possese a Grade 12 education and be single. Another position calls for an experienced clerk-typist. It is interesting work, being only part-time, this opening would be suitable for a married woman.

There is an opening available as an assistant display worker for a retail department store. Here, although experience is preferred, consideration will be given to someone interested in learning this trade and also possessing an artistic flair. Other local employment vacancies call for qualified cooks, an experienced counter-girl, and for janitorial work which demands the applicant be bondable.

In the neighboring Town of Trenton, a manufacturer of small engines, requires assembly workers. The requirements call for a high degree of manual dexterity, a Grade 10 level in education with a height of at least 5 feet 2 inches, to be single or a widow, 18 years of age or over and willing to work on a shift production basis.

In the male division locally a manufacturer of electronic panelling equipment requires an experienced sheet metal man with practical knowledge of metal cabinet work. Ability to lay out and to read blue prints is desirable.

A fittings manufacturer has been looking for a junior draftsman. A graduate of a recognized course and with some practical training is preferred.

Local banks still seek bright young men with vision and ambition.

VACANCIES IN STORES

There are a number of vacancies in local retail stores for young men as stock clerks.

An unusual opening has come up for a young man to train as a carpet layer. A fair starting wage is offered and this is a chance to learn a definite trade. In addition to rug laying, experience can be gained in rug and upholstery cleaning.

A large retail establishment will be requiring a number of people trained in retail dry goods and clothing sales. A man with some experience in counter and window display is also being sought. Also being sought by this company are young men having the necessary education, aptitude and interest to enter the retail field as manager trainees.

Both workers seeking employment and employers seeking workers are invited to contact the NES Office, 324 Church St., Belleville, Ont., or phone 962-8681.

Uranium Stocks Move Higher, Banks Fade on Stock Market

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Uraniums captured the imagination of investors on Canada's stock markets this week while banks faded despite proposed sweeping revisions of the Bank Act.

Analysts attribute current interest in uraniums to a number of factors:

1. Bright prospects for the use of uranium in nuclear power reactors;
2. Expected increases in the price of the ore because United States reserves are not sufficient for its uranium needs;
3. Thermal nuclear power is growing in importance in meeting electrical power requirements.

At Toronto, Denison jumped 6 to 60 after reaching a high of 61. Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, climbed 3⅝ to 15. It touched a high of 15¼. Rio Algom added 1¼ at 27¼ after reaching a high of 27⅝ and Preston 1⅝ to a high of 15⅝.

BANKS TURN SOUR

Banks turned sour following Finance Minister Sharp's proposed changes to the Bank Act expected to run into heavy opposition in Parliament. Some observers say it may take upwards of a year before the revisions are passed.

Highlights of the Bank Act revision include:

1. Six-per-cent ceiling on interest rates of bank loans is to be raised and removed when credit conditions become easier. The formula pegs the new ceiling at 1½ percentage points above the average market yield on short - term government bonds.
2. Banks will be allowed to make mortgage loans in expectation that increased competition will help small borrowers.

Wednesday, bank issues showed good strength following introduction of Mr. Sharp's proposals. They tumbled Thursday and Friday due to uncertainty about the passage of revision.

Imperial - Commerce paced the decline, falling ¾ to 63. Royal was down ⅝ to 73⅛ and Nova Scotia ¼ to 69½. Montreal and Toronto-Dominion were unchanged at 59 and 62½.

Among other industrials, Walkers declined 2 to 31 and Distillers 1 to 32⅝. Walkers is facing a possible $26,000,000 tax payment in the U.S. because of disallowance of certain interest payments and selling expenses between 1958 and 1962.

CPR ADVANCES

Massey-Ferguson was ahead 1½ to 35, CPR 1⅛ to 64⅛, Imperial Oil ⅛ to 54¾ and Algoma Steel ¾ to 29¼.

McIntyre Porcupine, which holds a large block of Falconbridge shares, increased 11 to 97. It was recently rumored that 200,000 McIntyre shares were sold by Power Corp. at $100 a share. Falconbridge advanced 2⅝ to 96⅛.

Western oils were stronger with Scurry Rainbow up 2⅛ to 30⅝, Canadian Superior 1½ to 20¾, Home A 1¼ to 19⅝ and Pacific Petroleum 1 to 12⅝.

Golds were lower. Dome dropped 2¼ to 46¼, Campbell Red Lake ¾ to 24, Kerr-Addison ½ to 10⅜ and Giant Yellowknife ⅜ to 12⅝.

On index, industrials were up .92 to 162.89, base metals 3.07 to 96.41, western oils 1.56 to 104.51 and the TSE 1.03 to 154.95. Golds were down 5.33 to 174.06. Volume was 14,212,355 shares compared with 12,049,400 last week.

At Montreal, industrials were up 1.48 to 162.03, utilities 1.33 to 142.34, and papers .47 to 116.90. Banks were down .28 to 119.18. Volume was 4,600,419 shares compared with 4,384,665 last week.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Those mild thunderclaps you hear freckling the heatwaves are nothing more than toes meeting leather as the pro-pigskin chasers, veteran and rookie, start shedding the summer lard in preparation for the annual Grey Cup Stakes.

From the shadow of "Expo '67" magnificence in Montreal to the sighing breezes of the Pacific that caress the BC Lions' lair, all nine paid-up members of the Canadian Football League are in preliminary muscle-stretching callisthenics.

Down east the Larks with several promising fledgelings in the nest took off three weeks ago, the first to hit the training trail. The Lions started activities last weekend, the last of the "nine" to see action.

"In Edmonton the strategists are already pointing to an improved season. Nobody was offside or messed up a play in their opening scrimage.. And Jim Thomas ran 90 yards the first time he touched the football. And Ron Brewer maintained his record as the last player to report because of his annual plea — 'unfinished business.'

"In B.C., B .W. (Rosy) Cheeks became the first Lion to be released. Bill Mitchell, the centre-placekicker acquired from Edmonton in the three-way deal involving Als and Peter Kempf, is practising his snaps for place kicks — and trying to beat the ball back to boot the three pointer!

"In Calgary, homesickness claimed one player, tackle Ed Pope, on the first day of camp. He returned home to Hattiesburg, Mississippi (the only town he had ever known) where relatives are urging him to return. At six-seven and 323 pounds Pope has a lot of returning to do. Stamps need him because of Pat Holmes' shift to Houston Oilers and Don Luzzi's possible shift to guard to replace Tony Pajaczkowski.

"In Winnipeg, the Bombers are bringing Jack Jacobs out of retirement. But it's only for a few plays i nan exhibition game with Ottawa July 18. Bombers don't need QB help though with Rich Badar, former Indiana and Richmond (Continental League) player cut by the Redskins last year, joining Ken Ploen and Dick Thornton.

"In Regina, Eagle Keys is counting his sorrows with the loss of Bob Ptacek, Martin Fabi, Bill Butler, Ian Hagomoen and Ed Hoerster. Ptacek and halfback Ed Buchanan were recovered from last season injuries until other sports intervened. Ptacek severed his other Achilles tendon playing handball and is finished while Buchanan reported with a broken hand — courtesy of a game of touch football. Otherwise, the Riders have sold nearly 8,000 season tickets for a club record.

In Ottawa, coach Frank Clair has inaugurated a system of fines as "I'm through trying to get results on words alone." Veterans Sam Scoccia and Jerry Selinger were the first contributors — for reporting late. Riders are seeking a defensive lineman from western Canada — could the trade bait be Ted Watkins and the player Dick Fouts?

"In Hamilton, the Ti-Cats have Hal Patterson back in the fold. Ond Jake Gaudaur is battling with Frank Cosentino, who wants to play out his option, and other signing problems connected with a championship club.

"And in Toronto, eight players STILL remain from the Nobby Wirkowski regime. Jackie Parker is throwing footballs although he can't run. Both Bob Swift and Dave Thelen are destined for the backfield along with Larry Ferguson and unsigned Bobby Taylor, Pete Manning and Barry Mitchelson provide some fine receiving. So much so that last year's whiz, Pat Brosnan, is playing defensive half."

Canadian Gymnastics

Weiler Takes Over Lead

WINNIPEG (CP) — Willie Weiler of Chilliwack, B.C, surged into the lead after six compulsory events at the Canadian gymnastic championships Friday in a bid to regain a title he once held.

The Canadian Army sergeant collected 53.45 points to lead an 31-man field. He was followed by student Andre Simard of Montreal with 52.22 points and Rick Kinsman of Camp Borden, Ont., with 51.65

Weiler, 30, captured the free floor exercises, parallel bars and high bar competitions and was third in the side horse and ring events.

He collected enough points to withhold a late rally by Simard, 21, who captured the vault and the ring events and placed second in the side horse event.

Kinsmen, 21, and RCAF physical education instructor, was second in the free floor exercises, the parallel bars and high bar events and captured the side horse competition.

DION PLACED FOURTH

Roger Dion, 28, Quebec City, placed fourth in the standings with 50.60 points, followed by Barry Brooker, 24, Toronto, with 49.80 and Kurt Eggerschwiler, 23, Toronto, with 46.60.

In the women's competition, student Irene Haworth, 20, Saskatoon, won the balance beam and vault events to gain a slim lead over 16 other competitors. Miss Haworth collected 35.100 points. Donna Schaenzer, Miss Haworth's school-mate at Southern Illinois University, had 34.600 and Sandra Hartley, North Vancouver, 33.834.

Southpaw Lew Krausse, a former $100,000 bonus baby who failed in three trials with Kansas City Athletics, will sharpen up American League batters before the All-Star game in St. Louis Tuesday.

Krausse showed his stuff Friday night when the Athletics edged Cleveland Indians 2-1. He allowed only four hits in eight innings while boosting his season record to 6-4 and lowering his earned run average to 2.76.

It was the third victory for Krausse in his last four decisions, giving him a 10-15 career mark since breaking in as an 18-year-old in 1961.

Meanwhile, Mickey Mantle smashed two home runs for a total of 11 in his last 14 games as New York Yankees divided a doubleheader with Washington Senators—losing 7-6 and winning 7-5—and Boog Powell gelted a ninth inning homer that lifted first-place Baltimore Orioles past California Angels 2-1 and tied him with teammate Brooks Robinson for the major league RBI lead at 67.

Neither Powell nor Mantle were selected for the All-Star squad. Powell finished third in the first base voting—behind Boston rookie George Scott and Detroit's Norm Cash. Mantle was No. 6 in the outfield balloting but reportedly requested that he be bypassed for the first time since 1953.

TWINS WHIP TIGERS

Minnesota Twins whipped Detroit Tigers 6-1 behind All-Star lefthander Jim Kaat and Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 3-1 and 5-1 in other AL games.

The Athletics, limited to one hit for seven innings by Sonny Siebert, pulled out their fifth victory in the last six games with two runs in the eighth. Roger Repoz knocked them in with a pop fly double after singles by Joe Nossek, hitting for Krausse, and Bert Campaneris set the stage.

Powell led off the ninth against southpaw Marcelino Lopez with his 19th homer, snapping a 1-1 tie. Lopez had blanked the Orioles on one hit until the eighth, when they tied it on singles by Sam Bowens, Dave Johnson and Paul Blair.

The victory increased the Orioles' league lead over second-place Detroit to 8½ games.

Mantle connected in each game for a season total of 18 but was forced to quit the nightcap in the fifth inning after pulling a hamstring muscle in his left leg. He is expected to be out of action two weeks.

Ray Baker's two-run single in the seventh brought New York from behind in the second game after Frank Howard's sacrifice fly broke a 6-6 standoff in the sixth inning of the opener.

Kaat scattered six hits for his 11th victory against six losses and smacked a two-run homer to cap a five-run Minnesota burst in the fourth inning.

Jim Lonborg pitched a six-hitter for his first complete game victory of the year and Lee Stange checked the White Sox on five hits in the nightcap as Boston completed its sweep.

Held to one hit through seven innings by Bruce Howard, the Red Sox sewed up the second game with four runs in the eighth—two on Tony Conigliaro's triple. Conigliaro also rapped a run-scoring single and Joe Foy homered behind Lonborg in the opener.

Bowling Proprieters

Reject Pin Elimination

TORONTO (CP) — Elimination of the counter pin in five pin bowling was suggested Friday at the annual meeting of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Ontario.

The counter pin is the pin on the extreme left for right-hand bowlers and the right for left-handers which must be knocked down to count any pins in a frame.

"It has to happen if they are going to take the frustration out of the game," said Carl Malcolmson of Hamilton, past president of the association.

He said it is luck, not skill when a bowler leaves the counter pin standing causing a split.

Delegates also formed a five pin national reporting body called the Canadian Bowling Press Association.

Gene Telpner of the Winnipeg Free Press was named president, Fred Sgambati, Toronto broadcaster, vice-president, and John Danko, Peterborough broadcaster, secretary - treasurer.

Among those named to the board of directors were Ray Alviano of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record and Jim McKenzie of the Belleville Intelligencer.

Jack Fine of Toronto was elected new president of the association, succeeding Malcolmson. Ken Drury of Sarnia was elected first vice - president. New two-year directors are Ron Hawkins of Thistletown and Don Walker of Kitchener.

Armbro Flight 1st 'Lady' Winner?

By TED MEIER

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—No mare ever has won the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, one of harness racing's most glamorous events, but Armbro Flight of Canada is expected to be the first of her sex to gain that distinction tonight at Roosevelt Raceway.

A crowd of close to 50,000 is expected to watch Armbro Flight, with Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I., in the sulky, try for her 50th victory in 64 starts. Owned by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., she goes against Noble Victory, the U.S. standard bearer, and six European trotters.

Noble Victory, to be driven by Stanley Dancer, is the second choice for the 1¼ mile classic. His winning time last week in the American Trotting Championship equalled the world record of 2:31 2-5 the same distance.

Still the Canadian mare has beaten Noble Victory six times. The last time they met was in the $86,111 Realization Trot June 25, and each broke stride at the first turn. Nevertheless, Armbro Flight came from far back to finish fourth only to be disqualified to last place.

Armbro Flight also has the advantage of post positions. She leaves from the inside No. 2 slot while Noble Victory goes from the outside No. 8.

Roquepine, a five - year - old French mare who won the $100,000 Prix d'Amerique, is considered the best of the European entries and is the third choice.

Rounding out the field is Pluvier III of Sweden, the surprise long-shot winner last year, Merceno of Norway, Carmelo of Italy, Pick Wick F. of Germany and Quioco of France.

Probable post time is 10 p.m. EDT.

Davenport Pinch-Hits Grand Slam

Marichal 3-Hits Reds; Bucs Close In

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Dodgers edged Atlanta Braves 7-6 Friday night on Jim Lefebvre's tie-breaking double in the eighth inning. It gave the Dodgers their fifth successive one-run victory and a 19-8 record overall in games decided by that margin.

That's a .667 percentage in the tight ones, compared to last year's .533 when the Dodgers topped the National League with 32 one-run triumphs en route to the World Series. The only trouble is they still are in third place.

The Dodgers remained four games behind front-running San Francisco Giants, who rode Juan Marichal's three-hit pitching and a pinch-hit, grand-slam homer by Jim Davenport to a 7-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Second-place Pittsburgh Pirates closed to within two games of the top as Willie Stargell and Bill Mazeroski each drove in seven runs in a 10-2, 9-2 doubleheader sweep of New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 5-4 and Houston Astros whipped St. Louis Cardinals 6-1.

Don Sutton started for the Dodgers and struck out the side in the first and third innings. But in between he allowed the Braves to pull out to a 4-0 lead. The Dodgers moved in front with a six-run, third-inning explosion, but the Braves tied the score 6-6 in the sixth.

Then, in the eighth, Wes Parker singled and Lefebvre doubled.

Marichal posted his 14th victory — one less than major league-leading Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers—and scored the run that put the Giants ahead to stay 3-2 in the fifth inning.

Marichal swung and missed at a third strike in the fifth but raced to first when the pitch was wild. He sped around to third on another wild pitch by Hank Fischer and trotted home on Tito Fuentes' double. One inning later, Davenport made Marichal's job a snap by hitting his grand slam.

Stargell and Mazeroski proved too much for the Mets to handle. Stargell collected two homers—for a total of 21—two doubles and two singles while Mazeroski collected a grand-slam homer among four hits.

Stargell's two - run double keyed a three-run uprising in the first inning of the opener, and he broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning of the nightcap with a three-run homer.

Richie Allen put the Phillies ahead to stay, snapping a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the fifth inning. Johnny Callison chipped in with three doubles and scored three runs, coming home twice in singles by Tony Taylor.

John Bateman's two-run homer off Bob Gibson in the first inning gave the Astros enough to beat the Cardinals. Bob Bruce, who came into the game with a 1-6 record, allowed only two St. Louis hits before giving way to reliever Claude Raymond in the ninth.

Injuries Claim Life Of Driver

HAMILTON (CP) — Sammy Snider, 29, a stock car driver from Gormley, Ont., died Thursday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, 13 days after he was trapped in his burning car at Flamboro Speedway.

Snider suffered extensive burns to his head, chest and hands and a broken right shoulder.

He was trying out in pre-race trials when his brakes failed on the third track turn. The specially-built car was travelling at 80 m.p.h when it hit a guard rail on the turn.

The driver, who sustained burns to 40 per cent of his body, seemed to be recovering and was listed in fair condition until two days ago when his condition became critical.

Rodgers Leads Nicklaus In Stretch

Two-Stroke Margin

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Phil Rodgers first handled a golf club when he was five years old, and he bit the ball right off.

Twenty-three years later the former U.S marine leads the field in the British open golf championship on 210 with one round to go in the 72-hole test of skill and nerves.

His 40-30 — 70 in the third round Friday put him into a two-shot lead as favorite Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, faded with a 75 for a 54-hole total of 212.

Making his fifth try for the British open title in the best year of his career, Rodgers has a reputation as a clowner on the course. But this time he has been playing like steel and restraining his antics.

Rodgers is paired with Nicklaus today, in the feature of this battle for one of the great prestige titles in golf. They will be the last pair to tee off.

Harold Henning had a swollen 75 that gave him a 215 total. Australian Kel Nagle with 76, Scottish Amateur champion Ronnie Shade (75), Bruce Devlin of Australia (74), Sebastian Miguel of Spain (70) and Alex Caygill of England (73) were all tied with 216.

At 217 were defending champion Peter Thomson of Australia who shot a 69 Friday, South Africa's Gary Player who had a 71 and won this tournament in 1959, and Robert De Vicenzo of Argentina with 71.

Peter Butler of England who set a course record of 65 Thursday ballooned to 80 Friday for a 218 total. Australia's 20-year-old Bob Stanton and Dave Marr and Dick Sikes of the U.S were tied with Butler.

Five Get Splattered

Wrestling a Gory Story

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

But they sure do have exciting endings, don't they?

Last night's main event wound up in a ruddy blood bath, with good guy Billy Cash spilling the blood, drawn by the hands and feet of Terrible Terry Garvin.

Referee Harry Barry, and a couple of earlier performers, Bill Williams and Big Al Bell also got into the act and got splashed along with the rest.

When it was cleared away somewhat, the official disqualified Garvin and gave the match to Cash.

Garvin and Cash were belting each other about but good after splitting the first two falls.

Terry flung Cash out on the arena floor and followed him to continue the beating. He dragged him back into the ring, crashed him head first into the ring post and hung him up by the heels in the ropes.

Blood flowed from his nose and Cash also appeared to be cut on the head and about one eye.

Garvin continued to kick him viciously in the face and both men were covered with blood. Ref Barry attempted to pull Garvin away and was belted flat for his efforts several times.

Into the ring rushed Bill Williams, to assist Cash, and Garvin handed him a few lumps too. When Williams did manage to hold the wild blonde, giant Al Bell, who had made himself very unpopular in the first bout, tore into the battle.

Bell and Garvin flattened everybody in sight and when the handful of fans in attendance circled the ring, they broke away for the dressing room. Cash's arm was hoisted and he was led away, blood-covered from head to toe.

Garvin sprung one of his before-the-bell surprise attacks to crush Cash in 37 seconds for the opening fall. In a rough-house second, Cash used a cobra hold to even it in 16 minutes.

Williams topped Charlie Fox, subbing for Jack Danials, in two straight falls in the semi-final. He won the first with a reverse shoulder stand off the ropes and the second with an airplane spin.

There will be no wrestling here next Friday but bouts will be held in the Trenton Community Gardens.

To qualify the juniors had to card an 83 score and under.

Juveniles failing to make the grade were: P. LeFebre, Trenton, 84; Wayne Legere, Napanee, 84; A. Campey, Trenton, 86 and J. Kennedy, Trenton, 92.

Qualifying juniors and juveniles will play in the championships slated for the Ancaster Golf Club with the bantams playing at the Tyandaga Golf Club, Burlington, on August 3rd.

The three top scorers here were presented with the sponsoring Pepsi-Cola Bottlers trophies and golf balls by representative Bill Spinelli. Second and third placers also received golf balls.

Canadians Show Well

BROOKWOOD, England (CP) LAC James Hennock, a native Estonian and now with the RCAF at Cold Lake, Alta., tied for first place in the century match at the Bisley rifle meet Friday.

Competing in his sixth Bisley, Hennock, 29, will shoot off Monday with four other marksmen, all Britons. They had 69 of a possible 70 in the 500- and 600-yard event.

Canadians showed well in the first day of major open matches, fired in cloudy weather but generally good light.

The prize list, about 175 of the 900 entrants, included 19 Canadians with scores of 66 or better.

Ontario Girls Set New Marks

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—A gusty 10-mile-an-hour breeze subsided long enough Friday night to allow two Ontario girls to better a provincial open record in the 100-yard dash and a home-town girl to beat her own provincial native record in the javelin throw.

Judy Dallimore from the Uplands Track Club at Ottawa and Jenny Wingerson of the Toronto Tigerettes Club both broke the previous provincial record of 10.9 in the women's 100 yards at the Eastern Canada senior track and field championships.

Beryl Rodrigues, a cinch to gain a berth in the Canadian finals for the British Empire Games, measured 132 feet 4¼ inches in the javelin throw to beat her previous provincial native record of 126 feet 10.

The men's events ran pretty well to form in the first day of the two-day event, with the only upset coming in the 3,000-metre steeplechase. Gerry Clyde of Halifax held off a determined bid from Hylke Van der Wal of Hamilton to win the event.

Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., had a relatively easy time in the 440, coming home a full second ahead of East York team-mate Al Brereton.

Harvey Ties Norman

WINNIPEG (CP)—Len Harvey of St. Boniface, Man., shot a two-under-par 70 Friday to share the lead with Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., after two rounds in the Manitoba open golf championship.

Harvey, one stroke behind leaders Norman and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., after Thursday's opening round, stood with a 141 total. Panasiuk's second-round 75 gave him a 145 total.

In second place, with two 72s, was Danny Stack, pro at the Glendale Country Club, scene of the 54-hole open.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Richard Burton, as the headmaster of a boys' school, falls in love with Elizabeth Taylor, an unconventional young artist, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Sandpiper." Eva Marie Saint plays the third member of a romantic triangle in the new Martin Ransohoff Production, directed by Vincente Minnelli. The picture was filmed in Panavision and color largely on locations in the magnificent Big Sur country of California. "The Sandpiper" opens Monday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre at regular prices. 2nd feature attraction, also in color, John Ford's "Young Cassidy" starring Rod Taylor, Julie Christie, Edith Adams, Michael Redgrave and Flora Robson.

AT THE PARK — Lovely Senta Berger stars opposite Kirk Douglas in "Cast a Giant Shadow," Melville Shavelson's Color by DeLuxe, Panavision epic opening Sunday at the Park Theatre. A Mirisch Corporation presentation and United Artists release, the film includes special appearances by John Wayne, Yul Brynner and Frank Sinatra. Complete shows 2.00 - 7.00 - 9.55.

AT THE PARK — Kirk Douglas plays the role of the fabulous Col. David "Mickey" Marcus, USA, whose legendary life included the first generalship of an Israeli army since Biblical times in "Cast A Giant Shadow". Melville Shavelson's epic in Color by DeLuxe and Panavision which opens Sunday at the Park Theatre as a Mirisch Corporation presentation and United Artists release. Senta Berger shares stellar honors with Douglas. Complete shows 2.00 - 7.15 - 9.55.

F Troop Good for 5 Years As Hit Says Star of Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"There's no stopping us now. We're good for five years at least. Maybe 10."

This was the unabashed prediction by Forrest Tucker for the television series in which he stars, F Troop. Judging from the performance by the ABC series in its first season, he could be right.

"Of course I'm right," says Tucker, a big, cheery, overwhelming man. "When I first read the script of the pilot film, I told my wife it was going to be a hit. I told everybody that, including Jack Warner. And it was a hit—against all odds.

"In the first place, they pitted us against Red Skelton and NBC's Tuesday night movies. You should get clobbered in a spot like that, but we survived. Also, they put us on at 9 o'clock, which knocked out a lot of our kid audience. But we still got plenty of them.

"The worst thing was that we were in black-and-white against two color shows. F Troop had uniforms, Indians, wigwams, trees, mountains, everything that cried out for color. But we had to go in black-and-white; whoever made that decision has got to be stupid."

SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

F Troop goes in color next season.

"And our time spot makes more sense," Tucker added. "We're opposite Daniel Boone, and a new shot that nobody knows anything about, Jericho. And we're on earlier in the evening, to catch the kids. We can't fail."

He qualified that. "Maybe the show will only go three years—if some heart isn't put into it. We've done all right with the knockabout comedy, and we could for another year. But sooner or later the audience will want more believability in the characters. They'll have to become more human."

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Rip Herbert, a strapping three-year-old pacer owned by the W. H Herbert stables of Lambeth, Ont., used thoroughbred equipment Friday night in winning the second race at Garden City.

The pacer, who had a habit of breaking stride at the start, wore blinkers to keep his attention on the business at hand. They worked. He led from start to finish and was never threatened.

Rip clocked the mile in 2:07 1-5 to return $8.80, $7.40 and $4.40.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Bill Troy, a driver from North Bay, won his 10th race of the trotting season at Western Fair Raceway Friday night, coming from last place in the seventh.

The 28-year-old former football player at University of Western Ontario won behind Gordon Lee, owned by Allan Kerbs of Toronto. The win paid $11.20 and started a $36 exactor with Mighty Creed.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elaine Tanner of West Vancouver changes personalities when she dons her swimming suit—she becomes a tiger in the tank.

"She beats most of the boys in practice because they aren't prepared to train the way she does," says Firby.

"I've never seen anyone who drives as hard as she does. Swimmers from out of town are astounded when they see her work at the pool."

Elaine is described as shy by friends but becomes talkative on the subject of swimming.

"I can't go to the pool without working hard," she said.

Her hard work carries over into school, where she has a straight A average in Grade 10. She says she spends her spare time "just goofing around" and plans to attend university when she graduates.

RECORD NO SURPRISE

Her world record 2:33.3 in the women's 220-yard medley at the B.C open championships July 3 came as no surprise to those who know her. The time was one-tenth of a second under the pending world mark.

"She clearly demonstrated she is in world class," said Firby.

Elaine, just five-foot-two and 115 pounds, has been impressing judges and coaches since she joined Firby as an eight-year-old novice.

Leafs Zero Chiefs 3-0, Jets Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A change of scenery apparently was just what Ed Rakow needed.

The veteran right - hander started the International League campaign with Syracuse Chiefs, but was released with an 0-2 record. He was picked up by Toronto Maple Leafs and hasn't lost since.

A four-hit, 3-0 victory Friday night over Syracuse was Rakow's fifth straight since joining Toronto.

Front-running Columbus Jets trounced Richmond Braves 7-2, runnerup Rochester Red Wings stopped Buffalo Bisons 4-2 and fourth-place Toledo Mud Hens drubbed Jacksonville Suns 7-1.

The 'Lip' Versus The Rule Book

That's why he is protesting Friday's 5-4 loss to Philadelphia Phillies.

In the third inning Friday the Cubs had runners on second and third with two out. Billy Williams hit a pop fly toward third base.

Philadelphia third baseman Richie Allen tried to shove Ron Campbell off third to get the ball. Campbell refused to move, the ball dropped and the umpires ruled interference on Campbell.

Leo protested: "There is no rule in the book which says my man has to leave his base to allow a fielder to make a play."

Right. But rule 7:11 states:

"The players or coaches of an offensive team shall vacate any space needed by a fielder who is attempting to field a batted or thrown ball."

"They don't say anything about the base," argued Durocher. "Let's say there are less than two outs: Is a man supposed to get off the base, let a runner catch a pop fly then turn it into a double play by tagging the base or the runner?"

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Sectario, big Chilean-bred bay, made up for a previous poor start in Canadian racing Friday by winning the featured Halifax Purse at Woodbine race track.

Under jockey Frank Barroby, Sectario followed the leaders briskly before moving up on the final turn to defeat Distix, owned by the Victura Stable, by a head.

Sectario returned $7.10, $2.90 and $2.30.

The exactor in the fifth paid $28.70 when China Rock and Maiden Myrtle ran first and second respectively.

Two Men Drown Here, Boy Killed

Pelee Island Focal Point For Smugglers

By STEPHEN H. MILLER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A small liquor store in the middle of Lake Erie is causing headaches among Ohio's anti-smuggling forces.

Agents of the Ohio department of liquor control are convinced that Pelee is a major source of Canadian booze seeping illegally through the walls of the state liquor monopoly.

Brig. Jack J. G Spragge, head of Ontario's Liquor Control Board, denies it. His records are secret, but he says Pelee's business volume is one of the lowest in Canada.

Under Ohio law, private citizens can import only one quart of alcoholic beverage, and the state levies a 28 per cent markup on that quart. Larger amounts of liquor must be bought from state stores or warehouses.

A fifth (four-fifths of a quart) of Scotch costs about $2 less in Canada, and if a gallon of the stuff can be sneaked into Ohio, it escapes not only the state markup but $10.50 in federal duty.

Donald D. Cook, Ohio's liquor control director, cites newspaper estimates that $50,000,000 in liquor is smuggled across the lake each year, but he says the figure sounds "a little high." Cook's deputy, Floyd C. Moon, places the figure at between $1,000,000 and $17,000,000.

Ralph Krieger, the department's top enforcement agent in the Cleveland area, and his men can do little but sit on the shore and fret.

NEED A ROWBOAT

"We'd try to catch them in a rowboat, if the state would just give us one," says Krieger.

The liquor department hopes to have a boat next year, but that won't entirely satisfy Krieger. Smugglers also can use planes. "Hell, they could make 10 trips a day if they wanted to," he says.

Krieger's concern apparently hasn't spread to the U.S Coast Guard, the only organization equipped to take on the smuggling problem.

"It's not a very important concern to the coast guard," says Lt.-Cmdr. John Packard, district chief of intelligence and enforcement. "Frankly, we don't run into it very often."

Chief Don Alberts of the coast guard's Marblehead Station near Sandusky, described by Krieger as the most adept smuggler-catcher on the lake, says his people have problems enough trying to keep up with the lake's honest boaters.

"We're primarily a search and rescue operation," he said. "We're limited by time, equipment and men." No one has had time to hunt smugglers this year, he says, although last year they frequently stopped boats carrying 10 or 12 cases of liquor for re-sale in Ohio.

Russian Pleased With Trip

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian and Russion farmers and agricultural scientists have a lot to learn from each other, Dmitri Polyansky feels after a first-hand look at Canadian farm techniques.

The Soviet deputy premier, back in Ottawa after 11 days on the road and in the air that gave him a look at a big cross section of Canada, said in an interview that he had read and heard much about Canada before the visit.

"But to hear is one thing, to see is another," he said through his interpreter during the plane ride from Calgary to Ottawa Saturday night.

Mr. Polyansky leaves for Russia Tuesday after a final meeting here today with External Affairs Minister Martin.

"This was a business trip. It has been a successful one. I'll tell you straight, I'm very satisfied with this trip to Canada," he declared on the plane.

Mr. Polyansky, 49, considered a likely successor to Premier Alexei Kosygin, showed the stamina of a youngster during the tight schedule of the tour that covered the provinces from Quebec to the west coast.

His ebullient sense of humor never disappeared, despite wilting hot weather in Quebec, Ontario and the Prairies. The only times he showed the least trace of impatience were when protocol seemed to call for speechmaking that might delay his search for more information about Canadian industry and agriculture.

But at the various functions where brief speeches were in order, he proved himself a witty

Airlines' Strike Still On

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators meet today to tackle the wage issue and other disputes in the strike against five U.S. airlines which has grounded thousands of travellers at the peak of the summer vacation season.

No progress toward a settlement was reported in advance of the joint bargaining session scheduled for midmorning of the strike's fourth day.

This marks the first time negotiators have met face-to-face since more than 35,000 ground personnel walked off their jobs with the five major airlines Friday.

During fruitless weekend negotiations, officials of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-CIO) met in one conference room in the basement of the labor department building, airline officials in another.

James J. Reynolds, assistant labor secretary who shuttled between the two rooms, arranged the joint meeting, telling reporters that 10 hours of talks Saturday and Sunday had brought no progress.

WIRTZ ENTERS TALKS

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, who was touring the Far East when the strike started, entered the sluggish negotiations Sunday. As talks moved into the night, he told reporters, "I should say with all candor that there is no reasonable basis for expecting any major developments in the situation."

Wages remain the major issue. The union is seeking increases of about 53 cents an hour over three years, while the airlines have offered a three-year contract with a 30-cent raise. Top-rated mechanics now receive $3.52 an hour with pay ranging down to $2.25 for janitors.

Other unsettled issues include vacations, holidays, health and welfare plans, pensions, overtime and hours.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton Dies Suddenly This Morning

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP) — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, soldier, scientist, statesman and one of Canada's great public figures for nearly half a century, died here today.

The 79-year-old former wartime commander of the Canadian army died at 4 a.m. EDT at his summer home. He had been in apparent good health but had been relatively inactive since he relinquished the post of chairman of the International Joint Commission four years ago.

Gen. McNaughton's career spanned many fields of public service, including pre-war presidency of the National Research Council, wartime army commander, brief service as defence minister and later as Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission. He held the latter post until his retirement in 1962.

His distinguished career was studded with controversy and political defeat at the polls. Yet his determination and brilliance kept his reputation untarnished even after wartime loss of command of the Canadian Army.

He was at the centre of two major military issues of the Second World War — composition and use of the Canadian Army overseas and the 1944 conscription crisis. After the war he was president of the Atomic Enenrgy Cotrol Board and Canada's ambassador to the United Nations.

As chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, he was unswervingly devoted to the protection of Canadian interests in use of waters where Canada and the United States had an interest.

He was a principal negotiator and, later, a bitter opponent of the treaty between Canada and the United States for development of the Columbia River.

While he participated actively in the negotiations he later denonced the treaty approved by the federal cabinet as a sell-out to the United States for the power and water-storage development of the great western river. He had helped wring some return for Canada from the huge power developments.

As wartime commander overseas, he fought efforts to split up the Canadian forces and insisted on keeping them intact as a fighting force.

He was relieved of his command—the official reason given was illness—then returned home to an unusual period of relative calm. Nine months later he emerged again into the public eye to fight a losing battle to save the voluntary character of the enlistment program.

Col. J. L. Ralston, the defence minister, resigned November 1, 1944, over his advocacy of conscription and Gen. McNaughton replaced him. Gen. McNaughton campaigned strenuously to fill up the casualty-depleted ranks of the forces with volunteers but the government adopted limited conscription in a sudden reversal of policy, and shortly afterwards sent the home-service conscripts overseas.

Gen. McNaughton twice suffered defeats at the polls in a byelection Feb. 5, 1945, and at a general election June 11, 1945. He remained in the cabinet for another two months before he resigned.

Viet Cong Down 3 Copters

SAIGON (CP)—The Viet Cong shot down three U.S. helicopters in South Viet Nam, killing four U.S and nine South Vietnamese soldiers, while two more U.S jets were lost in the air war against the Communist north, an American spokesman announced today.

A navy fighter-bomber became the 285th plane lost in the 17-month air war against North Viet Nam early today. The bombing continued with an attack on another oil storage depot 100 miles westnorthwest of Hanoi near the old French base of Dien Bien Phu. The pilots reported two buildings damaged.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam died down, with both U.S. and Vietnamese headquarters reporting only light patrol contacts.

In the jungles northwest of Saigon, a battered Viet Cong regiment escaped toward the Cambodian border, leaving at least 238 dead after the U.S. 1st Infantry Division decoyed the guerrillas into a furious fight.

All 13 helicopter deaths came when a U.S. UH-1D Iroquois was shot down 18 miles southeast of Ca Mau in southernmost An Xuyen province, which has been relatively quiet in recent months. The U.S spokesman had no further details.

The other 2 helicopters—both marine CH-34 troop-cargo carriers—went down in the northern part of the country 12 miles northwest of the marine base at Chu Lai. There were no casualties in either crash.

The Communists nailed a chopper as it ferried in marines to protect another CH-34 which had gone down Sunday night with mechanical trouble. A second CH-34 was brought down by this morning in the same area. However, the original helicopter was repaired and returned to action, a spokesman said.

C. Brickman Falls From Boat in Bay

Two men were drowned and a 14-year-old boy was killed in Quinte area accidents on the weekend.

An outing on the Bay of Quinte ended in tragedy yesterday. Clayton (Joe) Brickman, 49, of R.R. 1, Carrying Place, a car salesman at Weese Motors in Trenton, is missing and presumed drowned, after he fell from his 17-foot boat into the turbulent waters of the bay, east of Cow Island, off the Government Dock at Belleville.

Mr. Brickman, his wife Harriett and Mr. and Mrs. Asa Brickman of Port Hope left Trenton yesterday morning for a cruise on the bay. Police say the motor on the boat "seized up" and it was while Mr. Brickman worked on the motor that he fell overboard.

The boat, with its distraught passengers, drifted to shore at Point Anne about one hour after the accident. Police were notified about 11.30 a.m. The search for the body continues.

BOY IS KILLED

A 14-year-old boy was killed and nine persons injured in a two-car crash at Fox's Corners two miles north of Eldorado on Highway 62 Saturday night.

Dead is Robert Cole, a resident of the Eldorado district. He was riding in a car driven by Norton Hart of R R 1, Beaverton when the accident occured.

Driver of the other car was Charles "Tony" Lepore of 48 North Park St., Belleville. He is in the intensive care unit of the Belleville General Hospital. His wife, Vivian, is in Kingston General Hospital with multiple fractures and lacerations.

Mr. Lepore and his wife were reportedly en route to a friend's cottage at Maynooth when the accident occurred about 5:40 p.m. Saturday. All told, nine were injured and were taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance. Most of the injuries are not believed to be serious.

The vehicles were taken to Hyde's Service Station in Madoc. They are both complete write-offs.

RECOVER BODY

City police removed the body of 66-year-old Vincent Wims, 36 Gordon Avenue, from the harbor Saturday morning about eleven o'clock. First discovered by unidentified fishermen off the Moira-Schuster yard, the body was eventually recovered between the government dock and the Bay Bridge.

Mr. Wims had not been seen at home since Wednesday. An autopsy is to be held.

4 Move Up in Purge

TOKYO (AP)—Four men appear to have moved into key positions in China's Communist hierarchy as a result of the sweeping purge in the country's leadership.

The four were spotlighted during the weekend when most of China's top leaders appeared at a reception for delegates to an Asian-African writers' conference in Peking.

The list of the leaders and their titles was reported in detail by Peking radio, the official New China news agency and Peking newspapers. Foreign observers in Tokyo believe this may have been Communist party chief Mao Tse-Tung's way of announcing the team with which he intends to push forward his "cultural revolution."

The four men given new prominence were:

—Marshal Yeh Chien-yin, raised to the central committee's important 12-man secretariat. He is considered a possible successor to Gen. Lo Jui-ching as army chief of the general staff.

—Gen Po-ta, Mao's former secretary and editor in chief of the party's theoretical journal "Red Flag." He was identified as "leader of the group in charge of the cultural revolution under the party's central committee."

Mrs. Gandhi Wins Tito's Aid For Bid for Viet Nam Peace

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — Prime Minister Gandhi of India appears to have won Yugoslav backing for efforts by the non-aligned nations to bring peace to Viet Nam.

Mrs. Gandhi and President Tito today moved into the second and final day of their discussions on the Adriatic island of Brione.

In a dinner speech Sunday night, Tito called on all "peace-loving" countries to make joint efforts to prevent catastrophe arising from the Viet Nam war.

Mrs. Gandhi's proposal to have the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina reconvened is reported to have already won some support from President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic but has been rejected by China.

The Indian leader, who goes on to Moscow Tuesday for a five-day official visit, flew into Yugoslavia Sunday from two days of talks in Cairo.

Another major topic of her discussion with Tito was believed to be the planned three-party summit meeting in New Delhi, India, in October among herself, Tito and Nasser.

Speaking at the dinner he gave in honor of Mrs. Gandhi Tito said his country and other progressive nations cannot remain indifferent nor non-aligned toward a dangerous arms race, the policy of force and interference, and growing differences in economic development of individual countries.

"The cold war has turned into armed interventions and the use of rude force in some parts of the world," he said. "An example . . . is the aggression on Viet Nam which threatens to turn into a new blaze of widespread war."

"Such a situation obliges still more, not only the non-aligned, but all peace-loving countries and peoples of the world to join their efforts to prevent a new catastrophe of humanity."

Tito said non-alignment is a policy of peace and liquidation of the use of force and is being supported by an ever-increasing number of countries.

Social Democrats Win West German State Vote

DUESSELDORF (Reuters) — The Social Democrats embarked on negotiations for a coalition in North Rhine Westphalia today after trouncing Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democrats in West Germany's most important provincial election.

The victory carried implications for the national political picture. It stopped just short of securing an over-all majority in the state parliament where the Social Democrats had been in opposition for more than 17 years.

This was a 6.2-per-cent gain for the Social Democrats since the last state election in 1962, and a drop of 3.6 per cent for the Christian Democrats, who have formed a coalition with the Free Democrats since 1949.

The Social Democrats secured 99 seats in the new 200-seat state parliament compared with a previous 90. The Christian Democrats dropped to 86 from 96 and the Free Democrats obtained 15, an increase of one.

The Social Democrats, under their stat leader Heinz Kuehn, were expected to invite Franz Meyers, Christian Democrat state leader, and the Free Democrats to start coalition talks.

But Social Democrat officials believe the two larger parties will form a "grand coalition," forcing the smaller party into opposition.

Willy Brandt, Social Democrat national chairman and West Berlin Mayor, said in a television interview the election is a personal defeat for Chancellor Erhard and his policies.

The state is the most populated in West Germany with 11,300,000 voters and is the home of the huge Ruhr industrial belt.

Gun-Woman Sprays Policeman With Gold-Plated M1 Carbine

POST FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Lillian Jo Ramus, the young woman who charged out of a motel room spraying bullets from a gold-plated M1 carbine at policemen and FBI agents, lay seriously wounded today but was responding to treatment.

One FBI agent was wounded in the shoot-out just before midnight Saturday before the 28-year-old woman fell with bullet wounds in the head and left hip. After emergency surgery at a hospital in Spokane, Wash., 20 miles away, she was taken off the critical list, and doctors said she will recover.

"After we told her to come out, she opened and closed the motel door several times, then fired a single shot inside the room, apparently to make us think she had shot herself," said FBI special agent Robert Rockwell of Coeur d'Alene, who was shot in the leg.

"We told the officers over the bull horn to stay back, then she opened the door and started firing," he said. There were "almost a hundred" officers surrounding the motel, said the wife of the owner, Mrs. David Doty.

The sawed-off M1 carbine has been fitted with a pistol handle so it could be used as a hand gun.

The officers fired with pistols, rifles and a shot gun. Miss Ramus fell to the ground, screaming, and was quickly disarmed.

Police found a loaded, snub-nosed, .38-calibre revolver in her clothing, and a .22-calibre rifle and a .44 magnum carbine inside the room, along with ammunition for all the weapons and a fountain-pen-size tear gas gun.

Authorities had been looking for Miss Ramus since last Sept. 13, when she and Johan M. Bosley, 29, of Spokane, both held on forgery charges, used smuggled-in backsaw blades to saw through the bars on a cell window in the Spokane city jail.

They jumped from their third-floor cell window to the roof of the men's quarters on the second floor, then two storeys to the ground. However, Miss Bosley was seriously injured in the last jump and was left behind.

Miss Ramus and three other persons were accused of counterfeiting $40,000 worth of $20 bills, and printing $5,000 worth of fake unemployment, welfare and railway pay cheques. She also is charged with armed robbery in the $1,325 holdup of a market in a Seattle suburb.

Ten Handicapped Children Enjoying Merrywood Camp

The children will spend some 170 camp - days this summer at Camp Merrywood, a project sponsored by the Rotary Club of Belleville in conjunction with the Ontario Society. The local Rotarians are contributing some $1442. of their Easter Seal Fund towards the project, which enables crippled children to participate in a variety of recreational activities under the supervision of expert nursing staff.

Contributions to the Easter Seal campaign are also used in providing local handicapped children with many types of orthopedic appliances and help support the Crippled Children's Centre in Toronto in the research and treatment carried on there.

The Crippled Children's Society defines a physically handicapped child as "one under the age of 19 years, whose restriction of activity by means of a neurological, muscul-skeletal, or organic defect produces a physical handicap."

Enos David, Chairman of the Belleville Rotary Club's Crippled Children's Committee asks anyone who knows of such a child who requires assistance to contact himself or any other local Rotarian.

CHANGED INVITATIONS

Reports from Peking said invitations to the reception were changed at the last minute to include Kang Shen as joint host with Premier Chou En-lai, Tao Chu and Chen Po-ta.

The absence of Vice-Premiers Lu Ting-i and Lo Jui-ching was seen as confirmation of their downfall. Peng Chen, who has been stripped of his post as first secretary of the Peking Communist party committee, was also absent.

The absence of a third vice-premier—Chen Yun—was more difficult to explain. He has disappeared from public view from time to time since the disastrous "great leap forward" of 1958 and was at one time believed in disgrace. But he was re-elected to the national people's congress in September, 1964, and was listed as No. 2 of the 16 vice-premiers named in January, 1965.

The list indicated that none of the highest echelon has been caught in the purge. Mao and Defence Minister Lin Piao were absent, but both were reported to be in Shanghai. Lin Piao is believed leading the purge.

House Will Try to Adjourn End of Week

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons this week takes another crack at winding up its pressing business and adjourning for a summer recess.

Two tentative adjournment dates—June 30 and then July 8—went by when the New Democratic Party pressed its demand for an increase in the old age pension.

Last Friday the Canada Assistance Plan was approved after Health Minister MacEachen promised a statement on pensions before the recess.

The NDP might mount opposition to the next item—a bill to make recommendations by a federal inquiry into outstanding issues in the Quebec longshoremen's strike binding on both union and management.

Italian Ship Sinks Off Coast

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard said an Italian ship trying to make port at Norfolk, Va., for repairs to a leak sank early today 23 miles south southeast of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

The 32-man crew had abandoned ship shortly before it sank at 1:10 a.m. EDT. The crew was picked up from lifeboats by the tanker Hess Petrol and was to be transferred today to a coast guard vessel of Cape Henry, Va.

Killer Whale Drowns in Pen At Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—Namu, the killer whale captured off Canada, died Saturday night when he apparently was drowned after becoming entangled in a net at his pen on the waterfront.

Ted Griffin, owner of the 25-foot show animal, first killer whale to be kept alive for any time in captivity, said Namu apparently was drowned when he dived under a float at his pen and got caught in a perimeter net. Whales are mammals and must surface from time to time for air.

Griffin, 30, noted that this is the mating season and that Namu may have been trying to escape to seek a mate. He said the whale had been ramming the nets of his pen "at pretty high speed" in recent days.

"He hadn't eaten for a day," Griffin said, "and for a week or so his performances haven't been in the proper style, so maybe he was trying to escape."

Namu swam into the nets of some fishermen a year ago off the British Columbia town of Namu. He later was sold to Griffin, who operates a marine aquarium here.

After his capture near the town which gave him his name, Namu was brought to Seattle in a floating pen. His long trip down the coast received world news attention.

Couple Tour Russian Grain Carrier

TRENTON — Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Tufford of R. R. 1, Trenton and their family returned yesterday from a ten days' motor trip to Eastern Canada.

Mr. Tufford said some of the 60 men aboard spoke English very well and compared the prices of Russian and Canadian cigarettes, (around 10 cents to our 50 cents); and other commodities.

They could hardly believe the Tuffords had travelled 1,200 miles in their car and said no Russian car could make a trip of this distance "in one go"

Mr Tufford said he was impressed by the cleanliness of the Russian ship. One note of interest was that there was an elevator from the main deck to the boiler room talker. Excellent translators he brought with him from Moscow made the language barrier evaporate.

An agricultural institute graduate, Mr. Polyansky was at home on the farms and with the agricultural researchers he met. He clambered over farm machines, often explaining some function to a colleague.

At the research station in Lethbridge, Alta., he drove two tractors pulling different types of harrows.

"That wasn't just for entertainment," he said in the interview. One of his prime reasons for the trip was to study techniques to prevent wind erosion in the wheat belt drylands, a problem experienced in the Ukraine.

The harrows being demonstrated were designed to leave chopped straw on the surface of the soil to protect it against wind erosion.

In talks with agricultural research scientists, Mr. Polyansky covered this problem and others concerning developing wheat varieties suitable for northern climates, cattle breeding and raising, milk production and the use of chemical sprays for insects pests.

Summing up his impressions, he said Canadian farmers, using the high degree of mechanization and automation techniques in Canadian industry, produce a great deal for a small work force. Russians could learn from this.

SPRAYS ARE PROBLEM

Chemical sprays had proved a problem in some parts of Russia, leading to contamination that interfered with the natural life cycle. Russian scientists were concentrating on other control measures" for insect pests, such as sterilization to keep the number down.

This is "a very serious matter" and there were opportunities here for Canada" to benefit from Russian research, he said.

The similarity of climate and conditions in many areas of Russia and Canada made it clearly advantageous for the two countries to pool their knowledge. Progress would be speeded up this way.

"All Canadians received us very warmly and with great hospitality," Mr Polyansky said, "but the people of Medicine Hat beat everybody."

At that southern Alberta community, Mayor Harry Veiner met the deputy premier with a 17-member mounted escort in cowboy garb. Medicine Hat also gave the Russians a square dance and an open-air breakfast the following morning.

Throughout his tour of the wheat belt, Mr. Polyansky emphasized that Russia is not a casual customer for Canada wheat. The recent $800,000,000 three-year order pointed up the fact that "we Communists must be businessmen too," he said.

It was shorter from Vancouver to eastern cities of Russia than from those cities to the Ukraine. As long as Canada's wheat price remained competitive, Russia would be in the market.

Mr. Polyansky leaves for Russia Tuesday after a final meeting here today with External Affairs Minister Martin.

The Golden Years

This Man's Formula Can Help You Choose Retirement Spot

By THOMAS COLLINS

Raymond W. Bailey, of the U.S., who gets his pension later this year at age 65, has had retirement on his mind for the last four years. In this time he and his wife have travelled about 8,000 miles looking for a retirement paradise.

"Everybody advises you to make such a search," he says. "But nobody tells you how. As a result most people come home from their exploring trips more confuseo than when they left . . ."

Mr. Bailey worked out a search formula for his trips. It may give you some ideas.

"First we picked the three areas of the country we thought we would like best," he explains. "They were California and the Northwest (Washington and Oregon); Florida and the Southeast (the Carolinas and Virginia); and what we called the Southwest (Texas, New Mexico and Arizona). Over the four years we arranged that on vacations and special trips we would size up each area.

"Once this was done I got four large poster boards, which I tacked to the wall of my basement, and at the top of three of them I wrote the three areas we had chosen. The fourth one I labelled Hometown, because I wanted to compare each area to home.

"Then I separated each board into four identical departments, covering the four phases of life I thought would be most important to us in retirement: Statistics, Friends and Companions, Culture Level, and What To Do . . ."

COMPARE NOTES

Mr. Bailey's idea was to make comprehensive notes on each trip, then come home and record his findings in each department. Which he did, with Mrs. Bailey doing most of the work.

In Statistics, he recorded tax rates in each area, the climate, the quality of public services, availability of hospitals, costs of housing and household services, costs of food, types of local and national transportation, mileage to the homes of each of his three children, television reception, and the availability of good stores.

In Friends and Companions, he figured his wife had no problems since an older woman makes friends with old and young women alike and both are always around the neighborhood. He concentrated on himself. He made notes on how many other retired men were about in the daytime. He checked to see if any three-shift industries were in the area, which would assure that some working men would be around for golf or fishing in the daytime. He made note of all trucking terminals to assure there would be men he could talk shop with (since he was in the motor freight business). He listed all civic and luncheon clubs to which he might transfer his memberships. Once he returned from a trip he would ask his own personnel office and a motor freight association he belonged to for the names of any retired trucking men who had moved to the area.

CULTURE LEVEL

In Culture Level, he listed Lower (than his Hometown), Higher, Very High, or Same. His idea here was to avoid a crude town, a fancy one, or a country-club setting. In this department he listed social affairs of the town, such as Bridge, Shuffleboard, Conversation, Cocktails, Dinner Parties and-or beer and hamburgers.

In What To Do, he listed golf, fishing, shuffleboard, checkers, marbles and whittling. Then the names of any do-good organizations he might volunteer to help. Then all spectator sports from high school basketball to Spring Training baseball. Then all public entertainment. All gardening possibilities (soil poor or soil good). All participation sports (swimming, tennis, boating, etc.) All educational opportunities if he wanted to study. Any and all possibilities for a job if he wanted to work.

Now, on the eve of retirement Mr. Bailey has a dramatic series of posters in his basement, covered with hundreds of notes. At a glance he can get a comparative picture of what each area of the country offers him.

He doesn't look at them much anymore. He's decided he will stay on in his old home after he retires . . . it's closer than anywhere else to his children and grandchildren.

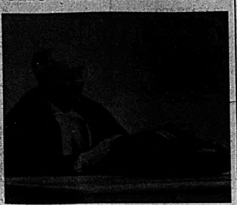
By RON MacDONALD



HANGING UP HIS BRIEFCASE — Mr. Justice John H. Sissons prepares to open one of his last hearings, a capital murder case in Spence Bay, N.W.T. Typically, the case was heard in the little community's school. Mr. Justice Sisson, for 11 years a staunch defender of what he believes are the rights of Indians and Eskimos in the Northwest Territories, retires July 15 as justice of the territorial court, a post he was the first to hold. (CP Photo)

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — For 11 years, Mr. Justice John H. Sissons has cast himself in the role of buffer between Indians and Eskimos of the North and the people who govern them.

On July 15, the Indians and Eskimos will lose their friend and advocate and the civil servants in the northern affairs department at Ottawa will say goodbye to a man who has often been their adversary.

Mr. Justice Sissons is retiring at 74 as justice of the territorial court, a post he was the first to occupy.

Since 1955 he has been taking the law to the lonely communities scattered across the Northwest Territories. He has had to contend with vicious weather, great distances, cultural differences between Eskimos and Indians and whites and the occasional brush with danger when his plane has been forced down in the barrens to wait out a storm.

But he has the rough-edged hardness that characterizes many who live in the North. Difficulties and dangers have only stimulated him.

His constant aim in bringing the white man's law to the Indians and Eskimos has been "to establish their rights on the basis of their own customs."

He has applied the principle notably in such areas as hunting rights and marriage and adoption.

ANGRY WITH CRITICS

"I have tried to give the people up here an understanding of the law," he says.

When outsiders, particularly appeal courts or federal civil servants, differ with his interpretation of what is right, Mr. Justice Sissons reacts angrily.

"These outside judges don't know the local conditions."

In a judgment on a hunting rights case, he defined the issue as whether "the rule of law or the will and interest of the colonial civil service bureaucracy which governs the Northwest Territories" would prevail.

He has by no means won all his battles.

In 1964, in a noted case involving an Indian accused of breaching the Migratory Birds Convention Act by shooting a mallard, the Supreme Court of Canada reversed Mr. Justice Sissons' acquittal. The duck, now stuffed, sits in his office.

The territorial court judge has been dismissing hunting charges against Eskimos and Indians since 1959, arguing that game ordinances couldn't be applied to them because a 1763 royal proclamation granted them freedom to [illegible] for their livelihood.

In May, the Supreme Court reversed his acquitial of an Eskimo accused of killing five caribou and, contrary to law, taking only parts of them home. It ruled the incident took place on land once owned by the Hudson's Bay Company and, since the 1763 proclamation excluded such lands, the Eskimo should be convicted.

ADOPTIONS RULED VALID

Mr. Justice Sissons delights in a collection of mementos of outstanding cases. Along with the stuffed duck, he has a rug made of the hide of a muskox that figured in another hunting case. Eskimos have produced soapstone sculptures depicting other major cases.

A sculpture showing one Eskimo couple handing a baby to another couple commemorates the judge's 1958 ruling that Eskimo adoptions are valid. In an Eskimo adoption, the baby generally is simply handed over to the new parents.

Mr. Justice Sissons also ruled, over protests from Ottawa, that Eskimo marriages are legal. In many communities, a couple are considered married when they begin living together after obtaining consent from their kin.

The judge said that if he hadn't ruled Eskimo marriages valid, half the Eskimos in the North would have been illegitimate.

On his twice-yearly circuits he has made a practice of running a relaxed, even informal court. That suits the Eskimos, who treat a court hearing as something of a social occasion, coming and going at will, the mothers breast-feeding babies in the courtroom.

The man the Eskimos call Erkoktoyee (he who listens) is squarely built and of about average height. He wears rimless spectacles. He smiles easily but usually with a trace of thrust.

WALKS WITH CANE

A game right leg is a legacy of polio contracted during his childhood in Ontario. His limp was aggravated in a fall at Frobisher Bay a year ago and he has walked with a cane since then.

Even as a judge, he has never hesitated to speak his mind on almost any subject—advocating self-government for the territories, calling for more judges in the North, asking proper settlement with the Indians and Eskimos for northern lands, stating that magistrates appointed by northern affairs to handle some cases in the Eastern Arctic are "under the domination of the department."

John Sissons was born in Orillia, Ont. Called to the Alberta bar in 1921, he practised law in the Peace River country until 1945, the year he was defeated after five years as an MP.

That year he was named a district court judge for district Alberta and held the post until he was named to the far north.

Following retirement, Mr. Justice Sissons and his wife intend to live in Edmonton. His successor is expected to be named in late July.

CBC Debacle

Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of the program This Hour Has Seven Days, has been dismissed. The showdown has also been marked by wholesale resignations of key members of the corporation's staff — the creative people who devise the programs and put them together. They include Reeves Haggan, general supervisor of public affairs, and Patrick Watson, a co-host of Seven Days.

It was the earlier dismissal of Watson, along with Laurier LaPierre, as co-hosts of Seven Days, that triggered the prolonged debate.

The battle has raged in public since April, cooling down only long enough to permit an independent inquiry by Vancouver publisher Stuart Keate. It flared up again last week with argument between Leiterman and CBC management over contract conditions.

Neither the producers nor CBC management has performed creditably in this matter. Indeed, it is clear that the entire administrative system of the corporation is both unwieldy and inefficient.

The CBC has lost some of its ablest people and programming is bound to suffer. However, from the ashes the corporation now has an opportunity to correct its administrative errors, build up a new executive body, and create an improved relationship that will make for happier working conditions.

Interpreter's Nightmare

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns has been Canada's chief disarmament delegate for so long that one suspects he will still be in there pitching if and when some inconsiderate gentleman pushes the button and the other side retaliates in kind.

We can just see the ghost of General Burns returning to haunt the chaps who blew up the world at the mere touch of a finger. By the same token, Canadians may feel confident that so long as General Burns (who commanded this country's first detail of UN troops in the Gaza Strip) is working on disarmament problems it is doubtful if fingers will ever be placed on those buttons.

And particularly, if he and his counterparts from other lands indulge in such intriguing displays of oratory as were in evidence in Geneva the other day. Interpreters were placed on their mettle as General Burns held forth with what was described as "an eloquent stream of metaphors."

Like the following: "I hope we can agree that although we would all have liked to have a whole pie in the form of either an agreed non-proliferation or an agreed comprehensive (nuclear) test-ban treaty to take to the UN General Assembly, half a pie is better than nothing."

Not to be outdone, British delegate Lord Chalfont came up with this sally: "I should like to hope we can now move on from this sterile exercise of scoring points against each others' position, as if we were competitors in some sinister world cup football competition."

Disarmament obviously is one of the most enduring dialogues in the sphere of east-west relations. Thus far it has produced a ban on nuclear testing in the atmosphere — a considerable accomplishment back in the days of Russia's Premier Khrushchev — but little else. The fact that they keep talking is encouraging, which prompts us to ask, "Anyone want a job as an interpreter in Geneva?"

Shock Treatment

Magistrate Eric Winch of Nanaimo, British Columbia, has introduced "shock treatment" to emphasize the need for safety to erring motorists.

He ordered a woman convicted of careless driving to look at pictures of a severe accident in which two men were killed. The woman was not involved in the accident but had been convicted for pulling out to pass a line of traffic, narrowly missing a head-on collision with a police car.

The magistrate said he had introduced the measure to counter an increase in such cases in the Nanaimo area. Occasionally brought to bear in the United States as well, it is one which might usefully be adopted in Ontario when the situation warrants.

Vintage Entertainment

The long-suffering listening public these days is all too familiar with the dictates of popular (teenage) tastes in music.

It has been pleasant, though, for some of us oldsters to contemplate the presence in Belleville of those expert performers from away back — The Ink Spots — and to express the hope that the city may have the pleasure of visits by other artistes of similar vintage reputation.

In Montreal at the moment is Kathryn Grayson, a lovely songstress who still may be beyond the ken of the contemporary younger generation.

Miss Grayson will be remembered starring with Howard Keel in Kiss Me Kate and other Hollywood productions a few years ago. Would that we could have her sing in Belleville!

Dairy Favors Grey Mare

(The War Cry)

After an "intensive" two-year study into operations, a Kitchener, Ontario, dairy is dumping its milk trucks in favor of the nag. The dairy found the horse more economical, efficient, consistent and faster than the truck.

When the dairy switched to trucks in 1960 and found $25,000-a-year maintenance costs were sapping profits — it decided to take another look at the horse. It found horse maintenance — shoeing every two months — cost only $365 a year. It found a sturdy draught horse could be bought for only $400 compared to $6,000 for a truck. It found hay and oats much less expensive than gasoline and oil.

"The other day our truck started out at 6 a.m. finishing at 2 p.m. The horse covered the same route in half an hour less. You see, the truck stops and starts. The horse is trained to keep on walking."

Horses even outlast the truck, claims Marran.

Need to Be Cunning To Alter Baby's Food

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a 2½-year-old girl who is still on baby food and will not attempt to eat solids. No amount of coaxing or bribing helps. All she has taken is chips.

How can I get her to eat solid foods? I become so nervous at feeding time that I shake badly. We never have peace at meal time. — Mrs. C. B.

• • •

There's a psychological factor here, I'm sure. "No peace at meal time" is enough to upset anyone. The baby undoubtedly senses your tension and she is successfully "pulling your leg." Don't think infants don't do such things!

Very small children also are wary about changes in the consistency of food, and often take their own sweet time about trying anything different. I recall a youngster who was still refusing to eat solids at the age of five. Then for some minor problem had to be hospitalized. A solicitous (and experienced) dietician took him in hand, and he was eating meat within three days.

I dare say you will get your youngster straightened out, but here are some suggestions to help:

Let the baby chew on a bone that still has some fragments of meat — a chop bone or a chicken bone (not too small a chicken bone, but one that will not break or splinter too easily). Most kids put things in their mouths quite readily. They can't chew a plastic or metal toy, but a tasty meat fragment is something else. Don't try to force her to chew on the bone. Just give it to her and let nature take its course.

Sometimes a small piece of toast with jelly or peanut butter tempts a youngster—and pretty soon the toast as well as the spread is being chewed and eaten.

Your technique will have to be one of calm cunning, and the little girl, will take the hint in time. If she will eat chips (I presume you mean potato chips) she obviously can and eventually will eat other solid foods if no fuss is made at the time.

Another thought: Maybe she takes the chips because she likes the salt. Maybe a piece of a pretzel would appeal for the same reason — leading her to munching on some solid breadstuff.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Can excessive washing of a teen-age boy's hair cause baldness or other damage — two or three washings a week? — G. M.

No. Two or three washings a week is not excessive.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 21 and never had measles or German measles. Should she at this age have measles vaccine? — Mrs. S. N.

Adults who contract measles can become very ill, therefore, I suggest that she have the vaccine. (In the last three years 12 million children were vaccinated for measles, and the number of cases appears to be declining substantially. Still, there were more than a quarter million cases last year, and the threat obviously remains considerable.)

As to German measles, which is a different disease, no vaccine has yet been perfected, but there are encouraging reports that great progress is being made. When that vaccine is available, I would favor its use for your daughter and for all women who have not had the disease but are still in the child-bearing age. The risk of German measles applies to unborn children rather than to adults. In the first three or four months of pregnancy it may cause birth defects.

U. S. Legal Mysteries

Watertown Times

Five minutes later the two men walked out. The man who had been wanted for questioning got into his impounded red convertible and rode away.

The questioning, reflecting the recent supreme court decisions on police procedures, was brief and to the point.

Sherry asked, "Your date of birth?"

The lawyer replied, "I think this has gone far enough."

The lawyer responded, "Lieutenant, my client stands on his constitutional rights. Either book him or let him go."

Sherry asked, "Where do you live?"

The lawyer said, "My client stands on his rights and will not answer. By the way, my client tells me that you have his car keys. Would you return them please?"

Sherry returned the keys and released the man.

"That's the rules of the ballgame," the veteran policeman commented. "We just have to work a bit harder, that's all. I didn't expect him to answer any questions anyway."

The questioning ended so quickly that the killing of Kathryn Murphy, 19, of Boston, never was brought up. Miss Murphy was shot four times and tossed from a car to die in a gutter.

Need for Challenge

New ideas, and constitutional changes, should be subject to argument; to examination, to discussion as nearly rational as we can make it; not just swallowed, simply because they are the newest fashion, the very latest thing — Dr. Eugene Forsey.

"Oh God, Oh Montreal!"

Betty MacDowell in Brockville Recorder and Times

A visitor back to Brockville from Bermuda, accompanied by her two small children, tells us that she had a rough time with immigration at Montreal's international airport. She was told on good authority that her Canadian passport was all that would be needed — and getting one for her children would not be necessary. But the French-speaking official who checked her credentials on landing at Montreal was of a different opinion. He told her she might have to spent the weekend at the airport as he would be going off duty soon and couldn't possibly make the necessary phone calls to clear up the situation. Summoning her best recollections of high school French she told him in no uncertain terms that he had better get on the phone and start calling — and that he could start with Mr. Pearson, who was a personal friend of her employer in Bermuda!

Experiences like these do little to cement bi-culturalism in Canada — nor do they give the visitor a good impression of Canada. Our Bermuda friend tells us that she eventually was allowed entry, but not before she seriously considered taking the next plane back to Bermuda. She says now she knows why everyone in Bermuda warned her that if she could get a flight to Halifax or Toronto to do so — as any place else, even out of the way, was better than disembarking at Montreal . . . We recall going through customs and immigration at Montreal last year after our "winning trip" — and it wasn't an all-together pleasant experience. In Bermuda we had all been greeted with friendly smiles by officials who wished us a pleasant trip — and the year before, when returning from Barbados to Toronto airport, the officials at Malton on a late Saturday night were all very courteous and friendly. We have always found local customs and immigration officials very helpful and polite — they seem to realize that a nice manner with the public often softens the blow of the sometimes unpleasant duties they must perform in enforcing regulations.

The Feminine Revolution

Letter to the Globe and Mail

Is Dennis Braithwaite laughing nervously to hide his terror? I'm sure the "feminine psyche' (June 21) is still beyond his ken. Despite the image that advertisers and the mass media are trying to impose upon us, the female forces are still on the march, and with renewed vigor in Canada, I might say. We are motivated to make history in Centennial Year, 1967, and a killing in 1968, Human Rights Year (figuratively speaking, of course). The late President Kennedy gave us an inspiration with his President's Commission on the Status of Women. This has been reinforced by many States' Commissions on the Status of Women whose first reports came out in 1965.

"A revolution is occurring in the patterns of women's lives—a revolution which requires that girls develop a new self-image. This must begin to form in the early teens. Components of these vast changes include:

"About half of today's young women are married by the age of 20 and have their last child at age 26; by the time the youngest is in school, the mother may have 40 or more years of life before her. It is estimated that 8 or 9 out of 10 girls will be gainfully employed at some time during their lives. Today we have approximately 26 million women in the work force; by 1970 it is estimated there will be 30 million. One out of every three workers is a woman; almost three out of five are married.

"In 1920 the average woman worker was single and 28 years old. Today the average woman worker is married and 41 years old.

"The greater economic demands on the family — in higher cost of educating children (etc.) — increasingly requires a two-pay-cheque household.

"Girls must be helped early in their teens to prepare them for the dual role of homemakers and workers. Only as meaningful choices are made early will girls be able to realize their fullest potential in both spheres."

So there, Mr. Braithwaite, if women are workers, they are going to demand regular pay cheques, in home, factory or office, to keep those hands kissing soft. And husbands, as well as the advertisers, better believe it. Which revolution are you in, anyway?

July 11, 1966 . . .

A fierce forest fire broke out in the Porcupine mining area of Ontario 55 years ago today—in 1911. It took 73 lives, burned more than 864 square miles, and destroyed property worth $3,000,000. Great activity by prospectors, because of gold discoveries, combined with a dry period when many small land - clearing fires were burning, provided the setting for disastrous results when high winds blew up July 11. These winds lasted several days, joining small fires into a single front 20 miles wide. It took more than a week to bring the blaze under control.

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—Sir Douglas Haig announced complete capture of the Germans' first system of defence along the Somme; Austrians tried to halt the Russian advance northwest of Kimpolung; the Germans launched their last attack at Verdun.

Second World War

Twenty - five years ago today — in 1941 — British naval forces intercepted the 7,000 - ton German ship Hermes en route from Rio de Janeiro to Hamburg; the Russians started counter - offensives at some points on the Eastern Front; President Roosevelt called for a huge ship construction program.

City Manager Study in Kingston

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

The city management form of civic government has been studied by the City of Kingston in recent months. Members of a committee, appointed by Kingston Mayor Robert Fray, paid a visit to Watertown, N.Y., a city of 33,000 which has had the city manager system in effect since 1920. And it as worked most efficiently.

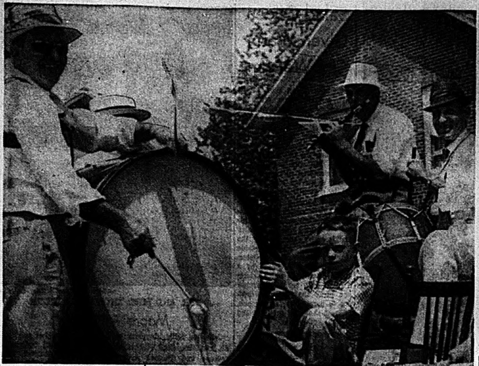
Since Cornwall city council is scheduled to consider this system, on recommendation of Ald. Donald Ross-Ross, council and ratepayers will be interested to learn the Kingston group attended a Watertown council meeting at which all business was completed in half an hour. This, indeed, was a most impressive display for the visiting councilors, but more impressive still was the lack of work for Watertown's aldermen.

Watertown's city manager, Ronald Forbes, explained there are no council committees and all details are taken care of by departments or by himself. But the councillors set over-all city policy.

It is the belief of Kingston's mayor that his city's present council of 14 members is too unwieldy. Kingston civic officials agreed the Watertown plan was much more streamlined than Kingston's system, which produces four or five committee meetings a week. Cornwall has a similar setup as Kingston's, with its 13-man council and several standing committees.

Outcome of the visit to the Watertown meeting was a suggestion that the committee visit Ontario cities which have the city manager form of government.

One of the chief objections to the city manager plan is that the man who holds the office could become a virtual dictator. However, this not necessarily so if council has the right to veto his decisions and suggestions. Watertown's general manager says the public, today, is impatient and wants to get things done quickly.



TRADITIONAL FIFE AND DRUM MUSIC is supplied by members of Selby LOL 2281 as they ride in Saturday's parade. It was the first time the County Orange celebration has been staged at Plainfield since 1940. Hundreds of LOL members from the district took part in the celebration and hundreds of spectators lined the parade route.

Memory Best Vehicle on Earth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the best vehicle man has ever known?

Why, memory, of course.

Memory is faster than a space missile, more comfortable than a limousine—and usually brings you back from a journey refreshed in body and heart.

You've put a lot of mileage on your own memory if you can look back and remember when—

You proved you were up on your slang by saying things like, "Oh, for crying out loud."

Mother did so much sewing that half the time she kept a thimble on while doing her other household chores. (Sometimes, when her eyes were tired, the youngest children would fight for the honor of threading her needle.)

The only thing most people knew for sure about Czechoslovakia is that's where the prettiest glass eyes came from.

In summer it didn't pay to lean out the window of a street car if you were seated behind a fellow who chewed tobacco.

DIDN'T WEAR TEETH

Most old farmers refused to wear their store teeth except when they went into town. The rest of the time they carried them in the seat pocket of their pants, wrapped up in an old handkerchief.

In vaudeville one funny routine would last a performer a lifetime. He didn't have to think up a new act every week.

Few boys achieved maturity without getting head lice at least once — usually caught while playing with kids from the wrong side of the railroad tracks. A favorite treatment was to shave the head and anoint it with coal oil.

It was fondly believed that a girl who packed a good picnic lunch would never have any trouble landing a good husband.

It was harder to get a tire repaired than to have a horse reshod.

The telephone was used so seldom that everybody in the house jumped when it rang—and assumed there was an emergency.

You knew you were in a pretty fancy home if, when you entered, the host hung your hat on a deer's antlers.

The height of juvenile sophistication was to wear a lapel button that said, "Oh, you kid."

Those were the days. Remember?

KING WILLIAM rides again in the person of Murney Bateman, County Marshal for Centre Hastings. He, along with Bill Rollins, County Marshal for Hastings South and nine-year-old Mark Gibson of Plainfield, headed Saturday's Orange Walk at Plainfield.

The population of Plainfield 12 miles north of Belleville was swelled to about 10 times its normal size Saturday as the County Orange Celebration was staged. Some 40 lodges were represented in the "Walk" and hundreds of other people were attracted to the event to view the colorful proceedings. It was the first time since 1940 that Plainfield has played host for the celebration.

Constable James Logue, Thurlow Township Police, said cars began pouring into the village about 10:30 a.m. When the parade was scheduled to move off about 1:30 p.m., parking space was at a premium. With the Ontario Provincial Police providing an escort, the procession moved off from the community park and proceeded through the village, later retracing its route and arriving back at the starting point where several speakers addressed the gathering.

Leading the parade were horsemen Murney Bateman, County Marshall for Centre Hastings and Bill Rollins, County Marshall for Hastings South. Nine - year - old Mark Gibson of Plainfield, astride his pony, carried the Maple Leaf flag. Next in line, was the Rob Roy Pipe Band of Kingston, followed by LOBA 782, Kingston, JOL 250, Kinston, LOBA 980, Kinston, Kingston, LOL 16, Kingston, LOBA 549, Battersea, the Quinte Highland Pipe Band from Trenton, LOL 488, Picton, LOBA 235, Picton, JOA 289, Napanee and LOL 2281, Selby.

WARDEN IS CHAIRMAN

Clayton Hall, Warden of Hastings County and a member of Plainfield Lodge was chairman for the activities following the parade. Guest speaker was E. Jackson Wildman of R. R. 3, Manotick, Deputy Grand Master, Ontario East. Mrs. Pearl Holmes of Belleville, Deputy Grand Mistress of the LOBA, Ontario East spoke briefly as did Stanley Reid, Worshipful Master of the host lodge. Also present were Lee Grills, MP for Hastings South and Clarke Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, Wor. Bro. Frank Bateman, Wor. Bro. Lorne Hagerman and Rev. Claude Gilbert of Foxboro United Church.

Mr. Wildman charged that many members of the Loyal Orange Association do not know what they are celebrating each year on July 12.

"Is the Battle of the Boyne the reason for the celebration?," he asked, "certainly not. It is the observance of the occasion when men first won the right to worship according to the dictates of their own conscience. The time when they were allowed freedom of speech."

Mr. Wildman warned that members of the Orange Association were being threatened by their own apathy. He said Orangemen were "hiding their light under a bushel".

"The general public doesn't know what we stand for. Some of them think we're a bunch of mad Irishmen, who run around beating drums every July 12."

Referring to the LOL constitution, he reminded his listeners that: "The Loyal Orange Association is formed by persons desirous of supporting to the utmost of their power, the principles and practices of the Christian religion: to maintain the laws and constitution of the country; afford assistance to distressed members of the association and otherwise promote such laudable and benevolent purposes as may tend to the due ordering of religious and christian charity and the supremacy of law, order and constitutional freedom. The members do not claim exclusive loyalty or exclusive protestantism. They disclaim an intolerant spirit."

He said the LOA stands for the religious and civil liberties of man gained as the result of the efforts of King William, the Prince of Orange.

"The association stands for special privileges for none and will defend the right of all men to worship in their own way. There is no room for bigotry in the LOA," he stated.

LITTLE SCRAPS OF PAPER

Dear Susanna: It was always annoying to me to try to gather up by hand the minute pieces of paper about the size of gum wrappers that accumulate outside of the house — especially around the front steps and the lawn.

Now I enjoy this daily hunt. Why? Because I go out there armed with an old, long-handled barbeque fork.

No more stooping down trying to reach a scrap of paper that has blown half under the step. I just reach out and spear it like a native spearing fish! —Miss Nellie Brown

ON THE BEACH

Dear Susanna: During our holidays I picked up a piece of driftwood on the beach — guess it was the stump of a tree. My husband hollowed out the middle, filled the hollow with earth and planted a fern in it. I bought two stuffed birds, the kind with wire on their feet, and put one on each side of the greenery.

Another piece which has branches I finished with "driftwood color" before lacquering then I placed small animals on the little limbs. Squirrels and skunks looked right at home.

Each time I get a piece of driftwood, I study it and turn it all ways 'til finally I can make something out of it. By glueing on a rhinestone from an old piece of jewelry for an eye, suddenly your piece of driftwood becomes an animal, or a snake, or a reptile or anything. Love your column! — Mrs. W.

Jungle Filled With Jaguars And Snakes

Her parish is in Araguacema, Brazil, and each month she makes a 125-mile trek through jungle infested with jaguars and snakes to visit private homes for Mennonite instruction and Bible sessions.

Raised in Indiana, Miss Eichelberger supports herself and the mission with another Hoosier couple by operating a ranch. She has adopted two Brazilian children, Deal, 7, and Elena, 8.

She's never yet met any headhunters while on circuit, she told the Mennonite board of missions, but snakes invade the ranch occasionally.

"It would get wet in the rivers and actually I have never seen a jaguar or any large dangerous animals although they are somewhere in the forest."

Mr., Mrs. John McGuire Mark Golden Wedding

The golden wedding anniversary cake was made by the brides sister from the old family recipe and the bride and groom figurines on the cake were those that graced the bride's mother's cake on her golden wedding, as Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire of 70 Gordon Street yesterday celebrated their half century together.

The couple were married by Rev. G. R. Beamish, Archdeacon of Ontario, at St. Thomas' Church July 10, 1916. In October Mr McGuire went overseas as a Private in the Army Service Corps and later transferred to Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Wounded at Amiens, he returned to Canada in 1919.

Mrs. McGuire, the former Mildred Ethel Cooke, was born in Ysliadyfoding, South Wales, and came to Canada in 1913. Mr. McGuire came from Ottawa and the couple have lived in Belleville for most of their married life. Mrs. McGuire's father bought their house at 70 Gordon Street in 1917 and since 1939 the McGuires have resided there. Retired for twelve years, Mr. McGuire was for twenty-eight years a metal polisher and buffer for Belleville Lock.

Mrs. John Hanna, a sister of Mrs. McGuire, held a dinner party to celebrate the anniversary on Saturday, while Mr. and Mrs. McGuire held open house on Sunday. Thirty of their neighbors surprised them with a gift of a lamp. Messages of congratulation were received from Governor-General Vanier and Mrs. Vanier; Prime Minister Pearson; Opposition Leader Diefenbaker; Premier Robarts; Lee Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, and Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West.

Cards, telephone calls, and presents have come from friends and relatives near and far. The Ontario Government presented a framed scroll to the couple.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McGuire are seventy. They have one son, Charles of Peterborough and five grandchildren.

Salad Queen Given Warm City Welcome

Stopping off on a brief visit to The Intelligencer office on Friday afternoon following a whirlwind tour of the various food stores in the city, Miss Verna Libman, this year's Ontario Salad Queen was loud in her praise for this city's hospitality. "Not only was the official committee in charge wonderful to me but also the people in general," she remarked.

Miss Libman a pretty blue-eyed blonde model from Toronto is goodwill ambassador for the 80 million dollar industry and is being sponsored by the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association of Ontario. The queen is chosen by a special committee which selects 6 to 12 girls for an interview and picks the winner according to personality, appearance, interest shown in products and general enthusiasm.

PURPOSE OF TOUR

The main purpose of the tour Miss Libman explained was to draw to the attention of the public the fact that fresh fruit and vegetables sold in local food stores are grown and distributed in Ont. and arrive fresh daily at the supermarkets. While here the Salad Queen distributed pamphlets which recommended a variety of uses for the health giving fruits and vegetables which are available in the food stores.

She was most enthusiastic about the tour having found it to be most educational and informative. She stated that the tour commenced June 21 and will conclude July 23. Her reign as queen though will be for the full fiscal year during which time she will be available for any special function.

SALAD BOWL KICK-OFF

On Thursday July 14 the Salad Queen will kick-off at the first exhibition Big Four football game between the Toronto Argos and the Hamilton Tiger Cats. This series of exhibition games will from now on be known as the Salad Bowl. On the Monday previous to the game Miss Libman will attend a luncheon in Toronto when members of both football clubs, sportcasters and sportswriters will be present.

Speaking of the tour schedule Miss Libman said she had visited a number of places including Leamington, Windsor, Chatham, Stoney Creek, Smiths Falls, Kingston and Belleville with visits planned for Burlington, Kitchener, Guelph, Brantford, Holland Marsh, Camp Borden, Collingwood, Owen Sound and will wind up in the Lindsay area. These centres are chosen according to the amount of fruit and vegetables produced.

The Salad Queen was accompanied by Pat Taylor of Presentation of Canada, Ltd., and son John, and upon leaving for headquarters in Toronto, all expressed sincere thanks to the people of Belleville and district for the wonderful reception given them while here.

Duplicate Bridge Session

While the Declarer is never subject to penalty for exposing a card, the Defenders are not in so fortunate a position. Whenever a Defender happens to drop a card face up on the table, or to hold a card so that his partner may see its face, the Director will designate such card a penalty card, and the card must be left face up on the table until it is played, or until an alternative penalty has been selected.

A penalty card must be played at the first legal opportunity, and if the Defender has two penalty cards that may be legally played, the Declarer may state which is to be played.

When a Defender has, or first obtains the lead while his partner has a penalty card, Declarer may require that Defender to lead the suit of the penalty card, or may prohibit the lead of that suit so long as Defender retains the lead. If the lead of the penalty card suit is prohibited, the penalty card may be picked up. If the lead of that suit is not prohibited, Defender may lead any suit, but the penalty card remains a penalty card. The Defender should not lead until Declarer has indicated his choice.

Best system — avoid dropping any cards.

The next Duplicate Bridge session is a "Master Point" night when the award-points are tripled or better in size. Everyone is welcome to attend July 12th at 7:30 at the Golf Club.

Ann Landers

Alcoholic Husband Does Not Upset Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I married my husband 15 years ago, I thought he was a social drinker. We were engaged for two years and I never once saw him drink in excess during that time.

ANN LANDERS

Shortly after our marriage I learned my husband had to have "just one drink" before attending a social gathering. He also needed "just one drink" before making a phone call to his brother or his boss.

Soon it became "just two," then "just three" — then four. When he began to lose whole weekends I knew he was in deep trouble.

Eventually we lost our home, our credit and our friends. It became fairly obvious that he did all the drinking and I was having all the hangovers. I agonized over the bum cheques and the bouts with the police. I withdrew from life, ashamed to face the neighbors.

I threatened, I screamed, I cried — I begged him to stop drinking. He lost 11 jobs in two years. But his drinking continued.

After some serious soul-searching, I came to the conclusion that I had become a partner in his alcoholism by covering up for him and suffering the consequences of his drinking. In my self-pity, I had neglected myself and our four children.

I went back to my church, joined a reading club, became active in community activities, concentrated on the children and told my husband to get help or go down the drain — by himself.

Since I stopped trying to change him and instead decided to change myself I have been 100% happier. The children are more loving and helpful. I no longer cry for the things I lost; I'm now thankful for the things I have.

It's difficult to watch my husband walk through the door, unsteady from drinking, but I say nothing because I know how he must suffer from his feelings of weakness and inadequacy. I pity him now — instead of hating him as I once did.

I know the hell of living with an alcoholic, but I know, too, that half of that hell is self-inflicted. There is help for alcoholism but unless the drunk wants to accept it, it is useless to nag him. I hope that one day he will seek help but until then I'm going to hold up my head and enjoy life. — FORMER PARTNER IN CRIME.

DEAR FORMER PARTNER: Yours is one of the most eloquent and constructive letters I've ever received on this subject. I'm deeply grateful to you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a waitress in a cafe, age 18. While I'm no Doris Day I don't look like Lassie, either.

For some mysterious reason I seem to attract nothing but married men and liars. Most of the men I go out with are the ones who come to the cafe to eat. When a man asks if he can take me out after work I make it a rule to ask if he is married. The answer is always "No." After a few dates I find out that he lied to me. The last flake had four kids. Why do I keep picking lemons? — ANGEL PUSS.

DEAR ANGEL: Because you are picking in a lemon grove. Peaches don't grow there. The best contacts are made through friends and social, political or church groups. You may not realize it, but you're being picked up, Girl.

Collective Bargaining Approved by Nurses at Annual Meet in Montreal

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Katherine MacLaggan, director of nursing at the University of New Brunswick, Friday was elected president of the 80,000-member Canadian Nurses' Association at the close of the organization's five-day annual meeting.

The association passed a resolution to assist its members in implementing collective bargaining to obtain better salaries and working conditions.

The resolution said the collective bargaining process appears to be "the only known method of correcting the situation."

It maintained that the salaries and working conditions within the nursing profession do not permit members "to maintain a standard of living equivalent to that available to other comparable professions."

SEEK CHANGE

The Ontario Registered Nurses' Association's resolution that Canadian nurses exert pressure to bring about a change in the "discriminatory policy of the department of national defence" which does not allow male nurses to be commissioned as nursing officers in the Canadian forces was also passed.

The nurses also passed a resolution calling for action based on recommendations of a CNA report on the quality of nursing service. The association will ask the federal and provincial hospital insurance authorities for financial support for nurse training at the bachelor's and master's level.

Dr. MacLaggan, who received her bachelor of nursing from McGill University, is author of the book Portrait of Nursing, a plan for the education of nurses in New Brunswick.

In an interview, she outlined three main goals the association would strive for during her two-year term.

DEALS WITH SCHOOLS

First was the transfer of control of diploma schools of nursing from hospitals to educational institutions and the implementation of other reforms in nursing education.

A second concern was nursing service where more bursaries and better salaries are needed to produce qualified teaching staff. Action was also to be taken to provide better economic and social welfare for nurses.

She said she hopes the association will work toward establishing uniform examinations for nursing candidates across Canada, bringing a national standard to provincial schools.

Each province now is responsible for the administration of its own examinations for nurses.

The new president said nurses will have to learn more about mechanical devices if automation in hospitals increases as "the nurse must be educated to handle the instruments of her trade."

She said automation would provide nurses with more time for the human relations of nursing.

Before her recent marriage, Mrs. John Storms, formerly Helen Addy of Belleville, was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Harold McNish and her daughter Elaine and Mrs. Robert Knox and Lela; at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Robert Ladoucier, with Ann Mott as co-hostess and at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Margaret Oliver of Sydenham.

FRESH STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Two families who were warm friends each had weekend guests at their two summer cottages on the same lake. Each wanted the other to meet and entertain their guests. But when they were all congregated they made a terrific crowd. The hostesses compromised by having two dessert parties, one on Saturday afternoon at one cottage, the second on Sunday evening on the verandah of the neighboring cottage.

One hostess had recently returned from Switzerland and she served a Swiss variation of our Canadian strawberry shortcake. The base was a crisp rusk spred with cinnamon butter. Sliced sweetened strawberries and whipped cream were piled on top. A slick shortcut for cottagers. But it was the cinnamon that caught my fancy. As soon as I returned to my home kitchen I made strawberry shortcake using my well known Tea Biscuit Supreme recipe, but adding 1½ teaspoons cinnamon to the dough.

Macaroni and Cheese with Tomato Meat Sauce Topping; Cauliflower; New Green Peas; Celery Hearts; Bing Cherry Crisp; Tea.

STRAWBERRY OR RASPBERRY SHORTCAKE (with Swiss influence):

Spiced Biscuit Dough:

2 cups stirred but not sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon (optional), ½ cup good quality shortening (or butter or margarine), 2/3 cup milk, 3 pints fresh strawberries or raspberries, ½ cup sugar, ½ pint 32% cream.

Sift together into mixing bowl the flour, baking powder, cream of tartar, salt, sugar and cinnamon (if used). Cut in the shortening or butter with pastry blender until size of peas. Add milk all at once and quickly stir in. Butter an 8" or 9" layer cake pan or pie plate and turn dough into it, patting it with your floured fingers to smooth the top. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes, but test at thickest part with a toothpick to be sure centre is baked. Turn out and cool on rack. With long sharp knife cut into two layers.

Wash and hull berries. Select about 16 perfect ones for decorating top. If strawberries are used, slice remainder. Sprinkle berries with the sugar. Arrange 2/3 of them over bottom layer. Put on top layer and cover it with remaining sweetened berries. Whip cream until stiff and if desired, sweeten it with 1 tablespoon icing sugar. Pile attractively over top and decorate with reserved perfect berries. In some families this will serve 8 but in ours does well to stretch for 6 berry shortcake addicts.

Hair Designer Advocates Women Wear Hair to Waist

By JEAN SPRAINWILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—To be absolutely sure there is no confusion in separating the men from the women, Kenneth is advocating waistlong hairdos.

Since Kenneth Battelle as Jacquelin Kennedy's hairdresser once influenced a world of women into teasing their tresses into a huge head of hair, he may get his point across.

But if you can't grow that much, can't wash it, or flip a disc trying to comb it, you can buy it and tuck the root of it into the crown of your hair.

Called falls, these spare hair parts have been gaining in popularity and in length during the year. But Kenneth probably has the record for the longest, 36 inches of silky stuff that costs about $750.

More hair than no one dares yank sells by the foot. These are braids that dangle the length of the body, or pull through hair loops, or form masses of intricate ins and outs at the nape of the neck.

—Eyelashes should be properly enhanced with two coats of mascara to give a woman an enigmatic appearance. False eyelashes, brushed together with natural ones, should be worn for evenings.

— Hair should shine with healthy highlights and fall to shoulders or the waist almost like Lady Godiva, if you are young enough.

The Millinery Institute introduced a group of small hats that managed to squeeze into the fine artistry of the hairdresser without wrecking it.

Slump Brought Changes for Czechs And Not Only in Field of Economics

Upset because Communist economic theories have failed, Czechoslovakia is becoming less dogmatic in its approach to its problems. The result, as seen by a Canadian Press reporter, is a refreshing breeze of liberal thinking.

By JOHN BEST

PRAGUE (CP) — For 18 years Czechoslovakia has been the scene of a unique experiment.

Communist principles have been applied for the first time in a country that already possessed the framework of a modern industrial economy.

So far the experiment has been a flop.

Before the war, Czechoslovakia was one of the world's most advanced industrialized nations. Today it's down among the third-raters.

An unprecedented economic slump a few years ago jolted the country to its foundations. Though it produced no surface convulsions (the Czechs are perhaps too gentle a people for that) it did bring about dramatic changes in official policies.

These are chiefly economic in nature, naturally enough, but it's not possible to separate the economic from the political and other spheres.

And so the economic reform soon to be launched is bound to have reverberations across the entire spectrum of Czech national life.

Already there is a ferment of new ideas and creative expression in different fields in this country of 14,000,000, despite what many observers see as an attempt by the government to keep things from getting out of hand.

FREEDOM IN ARTS

The open debates let loose by the economic debacle and what to do about it have contributed to freedom of expression.

In the field of arts, for example, anything goes provided it is not directly critical of the regime, does not ridicule communism or praise fascism.

Nobody in Czechoslovakia, with its memories of Munich and the German occupation, would care to praise fascism anyway. But Czech intellectuals say there is often a bite to satirical writing that, in effect, challenges the first two restraints.

There has been a blossoming of Czech culture in recent years, manifested most notably in the cinema. The award-winning Shop on Main Street is just one of a series of Czech films that have won international acclaim.

Little things tell you that healthy ideas are abroad in this country. Czech officials place great emphasis on the fact that jamming of Western radio broadcasts has ceased.

An economics professor tells approvingly of a student who got up in class and said he thought Marx's theory of value is nonsense, offering a cogent argument to back up his assertions.

SOUGHT EXPLANATION

Earlier this year a three-man Czech literary delegation was sent to the Soviet Union to get an explanation of the imprisonment of Andrei Sinyavsky and Juli Daniel, jailed in February for writing anti-Soviet works and having them published in the West.

The delegaton didn't accomplish much. It was a mere gesture, but one that Czech liberals like to talk about.

The unofficial reaction here to the jailing of the two appears to have been as adverse as in the West. Practically any government official will tell you he considered it a poor show.

Officials are also rather proud of the way they have reacted to youthful fads from the West such as long hairdos and the wearing of jeans, which have caught on here in a big way. Their response has been not to interfere.

Not that all the fetters have been removed in Czechoslovakia.

The fact that an economics professor dismissed three years ago for propounding theories ahead of his time hasn't been reinstated serves to remind Czechs that radicalism may still get them into trouble.

And while officials say an affair here like the Sinyavsky - Daniel episode would have brought only some form of administrative punishment, such as expulsion from the writers' union, there is no reason to expect the government's response would be nearly so mild.

Nevertheless, there is a general maturity in this country which suggests that, if possible, the Czechs will work out successfully and equably the problem of how to live with—or deal with—communism.

And day-to-day experiences with the friendly, likable, hospital Czechs are likely to make a visitor hope that they will succeed.

Aside from maturity, there are other grounds for believing the nation is capable of advancing. Fresh political thinking, for example.

There is a new interest in the workings of Western democracy. Younger specialists are beginning to understand the advantages of a division of powers in government, contrary to the Communist system where all effective power is vested in the party.

If the new ideas take root, they will ultimately provide theoretical support for political demands that cannot be met without profound changes in the existing system of dictatorship.

Czechoslovagia's foreign policy is dominated by the experiences of the Second World War when the country was occupied by the Germans and liberated by the Russians.

FRIENDLY TO MOSCOW

Like Poland, it puts great stock in friendship with the Soviet Union as a lever against West Germany, a policy diplomats say is compounded of genuine fear and propaganda. On the other hand, there is recognition of the need to live and trade with West Germany.

There have been signs that the Czechs are speaking more forcibly to Moscow. They are known to be unhappy about the amount of aid the U.S.S.R. expects them to supply to underdeveloped countries. They are also unhappy about having to re-equip their forces with modern Soviet weapons which they feel the country can't afford.

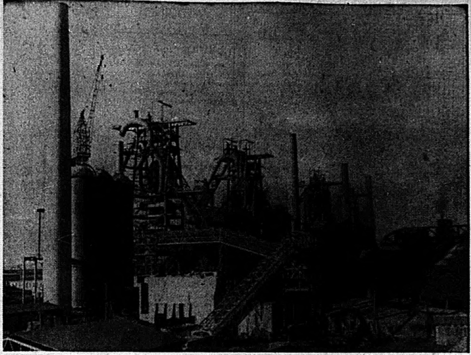
On the puestion of relations between the various East European Communist states, however, Czechoslovakia goes down the line with Moscow.

More than others, this country stood to benefit from Moscow-proposed plans for an East European economic community, plans that have been shattered by Romania's refusal to go along.

Romania s insistence on developing its own industry, instead of being merely a supplier of foodstuffs and raw materials, probably contributed to the economic setback Czechoslovakia suffered three years ago.

As a result there is a good deal of resentment here against the Romanians. Yet a Western diplomat contends the hurt is more political than economic. And it's not inconceivable that the Romanian example of political independence from Moscow could spread to the Czech regime.

Tomorrow: Economic housecleaning badly needed.



STEEL STUMBLES OVER POLITICS — This steel plant in Ostrava, Czechoslovakia, is one of the country's most modern. But, like other segments of Czech industry, it has suffered from a rigid application of communist economic principles. An unprecedented economic slump has prompted the country to take a more liberal attitude toward its problems. (CP Photo)

Non-Professional Hospital Workers in Que. May Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—The executive committee of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) is scheduled to meet in emergency session today to study the consequences of a possible strike by 32,000 non-professional hospital workers in the province.

The employees notified Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare of Quebec that they would strike July 14 if salary negotiations were not successful. The worker's representatives have said they would postpone the strike action on a day-to-day basis if negotiations are promising.

The workers, members of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), make up virtually all the non-medical staff of the hospitals.

The CNTU and representatives of the federation have called a press conference for today, at which they said they would announce the progress of negotiations to date.

The negotiations, carried on sporadically in the last few days, were expected to be resumed today in Montreal.

NURSES DISSATISFIED

An unaffiliated organization of nurses called la Federation des Syndicats Professionels d'Infirmieres Catholiques, which has been negotiating its own separate contract with the hospitals, said it is not satisfied with the latest offers made by the hospitals.

The amount involved in the management offer was not disclosed.

The federation has been negotiating with the hospitals since last November to renew an expired contract.

The employees in the federation of services have been trying for more than two years to obtain their first province-wide agreement with hospitals. Union spokesmen said the hospitals have offered pay increases ranging from $2.10 to $3.30. The union is asking for $8.

PREPARE FOR STRIKE

Hospitals throughout the province were reported Sunday to be making gradual reductions in the number of patients and to be making other preparations for a possible strike.

There have been reports of possible court action to block the strike. A hospital spokesman said such action would depend on a decision by the provincial government.

Monsoon Rains in India Light So Far and Threaten To Further Food Storage

NEW DELHI, India (Reuters) India, already hit by chronic food shortage because of the failure of last year's rains, may face even worse condition in coming months.

This year's monsoon rains have started meagerly and anxiety was growing throughout the country about drought, famine and power shortage.

Unless the rains are adequate and well spread out over the next three months, the serious damage done by last year's monsoon failure will be repeated and the situation may become even worse.

Bombay already is short of water.

The weather office in Poona, originally optimistic, said Saturday the weather was markedly different from the normal July pattern.

NEEDED FOR FOOD

The bulk of India's food, especially rice, is grown during the monsoon season. The rains also fill the reservoirs which provide water for crop irrigation during the following dry season.

This year's monsoon broke well on time in June and rapidly spread over the country, raising high hopes.

Farmers sowed their seed, but in large areas the rains failed to develop and the seeds have dried up in the ground.

Bombay, which normally has been deluged with rain by now, is in the grip of an acute water shortage.

This is forcing the closure of industries and talk of a possible shutdown of education institutions and the mass evacuation of the city.

WEST SUFFERS

The whole western coastal region, which is a heavy rainfall area, is suffering.

With reservoirs not filling up, there are fears of power cuts affecting industrial production.

Only in the North has rainfall been good. But in some areas rain has not always been a blessing.

The extreme northeastern state of Assam has had torrential rains and floods which may turn its normal rice surplus into a deficit.

Punjab, Deli, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar and Bengal have all had normal or above-normal rainfall

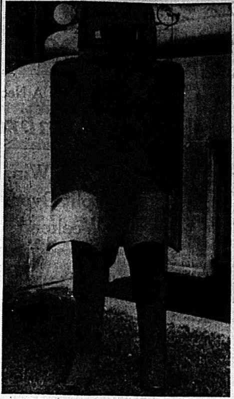
WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. agriculture department survey indicates a severe famine in India this year may be averted by outside aid.

The report says supplies of food amassed so far—mostly from the United States—appear to be turning the tide from what earlier had been feared would be massive starvation.

The analysis, prepared by Horace J. Davis, assistant administrator for agricultural attaches for the department's foreign agricultural service, attaches considerable importance to indications that the Indian people are becoming increasingly aware of their growing imbalance between food production and population growth. The report says India's population is increasing 12,000,000 a year. The government is placing ever - greater emphasis on family planning.



NERVES OF STEEL FOR MAN OF IRON — This modern version of ancient armor provides the ultimate in protection should any member of the Detroit police force be called upon to test his nerves of steel during a disaster. New People Needed at CBC Top--Haggan

OTTAWA (CP)—"Let's have some new people," Reeves Haggan, who resigned last week as CBC general supervisor of public affairs, said Sunday night.

He accused CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet and his senior executives of being hostile to the program department, of lacking understanding of how programs are made, and of knowing nothing about the communication of ideas.

In a televised interview on CJOH, Ottawa, Mr. Haggan expressed the hope that the new broadcasting legislation announced last week in a government white paper will be passed quickly by Parliament and that the CBC management will be reviewed.

"They (CBC) don't have persons experienced in the communication of ideas at the top," he told interviewer Douglas Fisher, former New Democratic MP for Port Arthur.

Mr. Haggan resigned to protest the firing of Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of the controversial program This Hour Has Seven Days.

Mr. Haggan expressed the hope that a new CBC management eventually would rehire Mr. Leiterman and Patrick Watson, who was fired earlier as the program's co-host.

"He (Mr. Leiterman) is the only authentic genius in the field of communications that I have ever encountered," Mr. Haggan said.

Mr. Leiterman had been a difficult man to work with but he had pioneered in public affairs programming and created "the most powerful single instrument of communication in the country."

Mr. Haggan said he had waged an endless struggle to keep Seven Days on the air for its two seasons. The CBC management had engaged in "sordid manoeuvres" to oust him and on Thursday he knew he would not survive for long.

"Finally my stomach turned and I got out."

Closer Check Found Child Was Missing

TORONTO (CP)—Dion Krisko's mother had so many children—nine—that she miscounted when she came home after visiting a friend Saturday night.

She made a closer check Sunday, Dion was missing.

In fact, he had been missing since Saturday afternoon and been picked up by a policeman and taken to the Children's Aid Society, thence to a foster home.

So when police received Mrs. Krisko's frantic call about 2 p.m. Sunday they put two and two together and delivered Dion to his home.

Always Powerful in Balkans, Nationalism Stirs in Romania

BUCHAREST (AP) — Nationalism, the powerful force that has often brought trouble to the Balkans, is stirring today in Romania.

The country's Communist leaders are cultivating the nationalist spirit to unite Romania in a determination to seek its own destiny without interference from the Soviet Union.

Romanian nationalism has proved a headache for the Kremlin, which has dominated this part of the Balkans for a generation.

In theory, Communists deplore nationalism which runs counter to the credo that the workers of the world should unite and break down national barriers.

Romanian nationalism manifested itself several years ago in a rebellion against Moscow's economic plans. The Russians wanted this land of rich wheat fields and oil wells to specialize in some products and import others, tying itself to Soviet economic needs.

Romania refused and made some pointed remarks about it being uncommunistic for one country to try to exploit another.

With success on the economic front, Romania became more assertive, moving into the field of territorial claims.

The extensive overlapping of linguistic groups in the Balkans—people speaking Romanian living among those speaking Hungarian, for instance—had been the cause of much bloodshed.

I 1964 Romania published some old writings of the Communist prophet Karl Marx, saying that Bessarabia should be part of Romania. Before the First World War Bessarabia was in czarist Russia but its people spoke Romanian, Ukrainian and other languages. After that war, Romania got Bessarabia from Russia and another Romanian - speaking region named Bukovina from the Austro-Hungarian empire.

Stalin, with Adolf Hitler's approval, demanded Bessarabia back in June, 1940, during the two-year Soviet - Nazi alliance before Hitler attacked Russia. Stalin also demanded part of Bukovina, although it had never been Russian.

Weak and defenceless, Romania yielded.

The Communist regime installed here after the Second World War did not talk about this. But in 1964, documents began to appear here to show that the majority of the people in Bessarabia and Bukovina still speak Romanian. These areas now are Soviet Moldavia and part of the Soviet Ukraine.

In a speech May 7, the general secretary of the Romanian Communist party, Nicolae Ceausescu, indirectly blamed Soviet leadership of the world Communist movement for hurting Romania in the period before the beginning of the Second World War. He blamed the Moscow-controlled party for calling Romania an imperialist state holding oppressed people in occupied territory.

A few days after Ceausescu spoke, Leonid I. Brezhnev, Soviet Communist party secretary genera., came to Bucharest The visit seems to have been hasty, possibly made because of the speech, which also contained criticism of all military alliances.

Brezhnev was here again last week for a summit conference of the Soviet bloc nations. One of the main items of business was strengthening the command structure of the East European military alliance, the Warsaw Pact.

Romania apparently blocked the Soviet plan because it did not want to relinquish any control over its own 200,000-man army.

Prince Edward Islanders In Two Ridings Hold Fate Of Govt. in Their Hands

SOURIS, P.E.I. (CP) — Most Prince Edward Islanders were tending their farms, pulling in fishing nets, catering to the increasing flow of summer tourists or otherwise occupied at various trades and professions today. But the enfranchised residents of rural Kings 1st were busy in a crucial political interlude.

Some 2,411 voters were eligible to go to the polls which opened at 9 a.m. ADT in a deferred election that could unlock a two-party stalemate and decide the fate of Premier Walter R. Shaw's Progressive Conservative government. The polls close at 6 p.m.

The Shaw forces and the Liberals under Alex B. Campbell ended the May 30 election with 15 legislature seats apiece. Each party needs a sweep of both the councillor and assemblyman seats in Kings 1st to gain majority control of the 32 seat house. Both seats were previously held by Liberals.

A split in the farming and fishing constituency, where the May 26th death of Liberal William A. Acorn brought about the deferred balloting, could result in a coalition or a new provincial election.

Mr. Shaw said in an interview Sunday night he was confident of victory, "although I never make predictions on the eve of an election." He said the Liberals had conducted "a dirty campaign," the likes of which "I have never seen in my political career."

Mr. Campbell said early in the campaign he was leaving most of the party's political persuasion to councillor candidate Daniel J. MacDonald, a member of the last house and Bruce L. Stewart, a former Souris mayor, who is running for assemblyman.

Conservative candidate for councillor is farmer Peter MacAulay, and seeking the assemblyman seat is Keith MacKenzie a car dealer here who was named public works and highways minister shortly after the May 30 election.

The Conservative government had a 17-13 majority at dissolution and won 19 seats to 11 for the Liberals in the 1962 election. Two seats were won by Liberals in 1965 a byelection and two were added by redistribution.

THE GREATEST SALE EVENT IN BELLEVILLE'S HISTORY

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

I tapped the "hot line" of the president of the Kingstone Aces, Limestone entry in the upcoming senior hockey league, early Saturday morning — and caught him with his pyjamas up.

I jarred his breakfast of would-be champions with the sally: "We're going to give you your comeuppance next winter like we did-or-tried to do — back in the balmy, halcyon days when you were the Graham McNamee of the airwaves and Mike Rodden would punch me in the nose with no provocation."

But Johnny Kelly did not bat an eyelash. At least I heard nothing of that nature over the telephone. Besides Johnny does not "bat eyelashes" easily.

What he did say when I asked him what he thought of Belleville re-entering the fold of senior hockey was:

"I'm happy as hell".

With all due respect to the Whitby Dunlops, the Cornwall Colts, the Petes squads and others that helped fill arenas in those days, the Kingston-Belleville rivalry, tinged with bitterness at times, was one of the highlights of the senior "B" era.

"We have had some lean years down here since Kingston ventured back in senior ranks" said Johnny. "Now with Belleville in again it could mean fans in the seats and dollars in the bank for both squads."

Johnny like hockey men in this city shrugged off the recent threat of Woodstock and Galt to withdraw from the league because the loop powers-that-be voted to retain a ten-team circuit insted of splitting into two five-team loops.

Kelly concurred in the opinion of Belleville observers that the Woodstock - Galt duo was bluffing and wanted to play easy to get.

The consensus was that the clubs were bluffing since as Kelly put it "No team is going to post a $1,000 bond and a $40 entry fee then drop out the next day."

The gentlemen were right. Woodstock has changed its mind and has agreed to enter the ten-team setup and a dollar gets you a doughnut Galt will soon follow suit.

It is understandable perhaps, that a two-section league would have some effect on transportation costs. On the other hand a ten-club loop would offset to some extent the possibility of weak sisters, if any, being the goats.

Kelly told Doug McConnell, Whig-Standard sports editor that the Aces were not objecting to splitting the league into two sections — but not the way Galt and Woodstock wanted the division made.

"Woodstock" he said, "wanted the same group as last year. That would be Galt, Guelph, Woodstock, Oakville and Kingston in one group and the five new teams — Belleville, Toronto, Barrie, Collingwood and Orillia forming another."

"That was ridiculous from our point of view."

"It would mean more travelling for the Aces than last year — and it would mean passing right by Belleville for every trip" he said.

Transportation costs in the ten-league will be no small item, but Kelly tells me that the suggestion has been made that teams closer to each other like Belleville, Kingston, Toronto, Barrie and Orillia play an extra home and home series, the same applying to the western clubs.

Closer to home there has been press releases from Bob Temple, Floyd Crawford etc, but with the bond posted and entry fee paid, it is assumed that all is going well.

A rough survey of senior hockey potential here indicates we have some ten players of senior calibre in the city. In this department's opinion four or five of them with senior and upper brackets experience could form a nucleus of what Bob Temple says "a contending team".

Vancouver Stars

Capture Diving Titles

HAMILTON (CP) — Larry Folinsbee and Kathy McDonald, both of Vancouver, made a clean sweep of the one- and three-metre diving competitions at the Canadian diving championships.

Both won the one-metre competition Thursday and the three-metre division Saturday night. Both divers had to come from behind Saturday.

Folinsbee, junior diver at the University of Oregon, scored only 237.85 points on his first seven dives but executed a near perfect 3½ somersault on his eighth dive to get back in competition and ended up with 400.85 points.

The come-from-behind victory was a complete reversal of form for Folinsbee, who led the one-metre competition all the way and had to stave off a late drive by 17 - year - old Peter Emond of Montreal.

SECOND LAST YEAR

Folinsbee competes for the Hollyburn Swim Club of Vancouver and was second in the Canadian championships last year to Gordon Creed, an Australian studying in Canada who has since returned to Australia.

Second in the men's three-metre event was Frank Groff, also of Vancouver, with 377.20 points, and Peter Emond, the leader after the preliminaries, came third with 357.60. George Huovinen of Toronto was fourth with 355.50 and Yvon Foisey of Montreal fifth with 332.20.

Wins French Grand Prix

ROUEN, France (AP)—Dennis Hulme of New Zealand drove a Brabham-Honda to victory in the Grand Prix of France auto race Sunday, the seventh straight triumph for the Brabham - Honda team in Formula Two competition.

Alan Rees of Britain, in a Brabham Cosworth, was second among the nine finishers. The 184-mile race was a runaway for the British-built Brabhams, powered by Japanese - built Honda engines.

Hulme's time was 1:46:33.5 over 184 miles for an average speed of 105.01 miles an hour, a course record for Formula Two autos. The old mark of 103.41 m.p.h. was set by Britain's Jim Clark in a Lotus last year.

Surging Red Sox Looking Upstairs

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

George Smith, Boston Red Sox second baseman, hit a grand-slam home run in the bottom of the 10th inning to give last-place Boston a 10-6 win over Chicago, a sweep of a double-header and its fifth straight victory.

Boston, which has won nine of its last 10 games, is within 1½ games of escaping the league's cellar. The New York Yankees, who dropped pair to Washington Senators, are making like a potential last-place club.

The Yanks lost to the Senators 3-2 and 9-2, while Minnesota Twins beat Detroit Tigers 4-2, California Angels shut out Baltimore Orioles 4-0, and Kansas City Athletics knocked off Cleveland Indians twice 4-1 and 5-3.

Smith, who lined a 3-1 pitch off Chicago reliever Juan Pizarro for his seventh homer this season, said, "I was looking for the fast ball, figuring it was the only thing he could throw me in such a situation. It was inside, just above the belt and I knew it was gone as soon as I connected. It sure felt good."

Yankee manager Ralph Houk, who hoped to have the team at .800 by the All - Star break, watched the Yanks fall 12 games behind that mark and 20½ games behind the league-leading Orioles. Homers by Ed Brinkman and Bob Savarine gave Washington the victory margin in the first game, while blasts by Willie Kirkland and Ed Brinkman powered the Senators in the second game.

Two-run homers by Harmon Killebrew and Don Mincher got the Twins past second-place Detroit despite Al Kaline's fourth round-tripper of the series. It was Kaline's 21st homer of the year, tying Baltimore's Frank Robinson for the league lead.

George Brunet set down the high-flying Orioles on four hits and kept Baltimore from increasing its eight-game lead over Detroit. Brunet, now 9-5, won his fifth game in a row, while Steve Barber, 10-3, took his first loss after eight straight victories.

Kansas City climbed into sixth place with its sweep. Rookie Jim Nash threw a three-hitter in the first game for his second triumph since being called up from the minors. Joe Nossek hit an inside-the-park home run. In the second game, a single by Larry Stahl drove in the go-ahead run and a double by winning pitcher Jack Aker drove in an insurance score.

REACHES FINAL

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Philip, the newest member of England's national polo team, led his local Windsor Park team into the English final Sunday. The 44-year-old prince, chosen last week to represent his country in a tournament in Argentina in October, scored one of the goals that gave his team a 12-8 victory.

Won By A Neck

Armbro, Driver Share Trot Fame

By TED MEIER

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—If there was any doubt about Armbro Flight being one of the world's greatest trotting mares, her victory in the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot has dispelled it.

Sharing the plaudits with the four - year - old Canadian mare was driver Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I., who gave a skillful exhibition in handling the reins as Armbro Flight won the blue ribbon event of harness racing before 40,117 at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

O'Brien steered Armbro Flight, owned by Armstrong Brothers of Brampton, Ont., to the outside at the mile mark of the 1¼-mile classic and the offspring of Star's Pride-Helicopter did the rest.

She sped past Roquepine of France and Noble Victory of the United States, who had been dueling for the lead. Her quick burst of speed gave her a five-length lead, more than enough to hold off the closing stretch drive of Roquepine, and she won by a neck.

"I hoped to open a big enough lead to get home free," O'Brien said. "I realized Roquepine was coming up and Armbro was tiring, but she's a game mare and deserves all the credit."

SET RECORD

The 4-to-5 favorite, Armbro Flight, set a record for the International of 2:31 3-5, one-fifth off the world mark for the distance. She paid $3.60, $2.60 and $2.20.

Her $50,000 first purse money upped her earnings to $493,602, with 50 firsts in 64 career starts.

Jean-Rene Gougen, driver of Roquepine, was surprised when Armbro and O'Brien zipped by them on the last turn. "I had put Nobel before I knew it Armbro was way in front and we just couldn't catch them."

Stanley Dancer, driver of Noble Victory, gave full credit to Armbro Flight.

"The best horse won," he said. "She's a great mare. I gambled for the lead by going five wide at the next to last turn, but Roquepine moved at the same time and Noble couldn't get to the front."

Roquepine finished eight lengths ahead of Noble Victory, who was four lengths ahead of Pluvier III of Sweden, the defending champion who had been stricken by a sunstroke Wednesday.

Pick Wick F. of West Germany finished fifth, followed by Carmelo of Italy, Quico of France and Merceno of Norway.

Noble Victory, Roquepine, Pluvier and Pick Wick get another chance against Armbro Flight in the $25,000 Challenge Cup Saturday night. Worthy Scott, Perfect Freight and Jes R. Hoot round out the field.

However, there's a chance the anticipated rematch may not come off.

O'Brien said Sunday his "game mare" had strained a ligament in the left hoof in a race at Roosevelt several weeks ago and might miss the Challenge Cup.

"We'll just have to wait and see how she comes out of the International," he said. "The entries aren't due until Wednesday so there's plenty of time."

Meantime, Gougen denied reports he had "mistaken the finish line" in the International. He gave full credit to O'Brien for opening a five-length lead with a quick burst of speed on the last turn—"That won the race."

In another development, Henry Levesque, owner of Roquepine, turned down an offer of $300,000 Sunday to sell her to Stanley Dancer.

Leafs Win, Split Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Like the frail kid who learned to throw a new punch tangling with the neighborhood bully, a baseball team — in this case Jacksonville Suns—will take it on the chin for just so long before it turns tiger.

The Suns had a five-game drought going into Sunday's contest with the league-leading Columbus Jets and seemed well on their way to disappointing the home fans with another notch in the loss column.

But then, down 2-1 at the end of seven innings, the Suns turned tiger with a three-run upsurge that earned them a 4-3 victory and moved them near the break-even point in the percentages.

A rain - called seven - inning game at Buffalo featured home-run hitters Larry Clayton and Tom Matchick, whose big blows with men on gave Syracuse Chiefs a 6-3 victory over the Bisons. The scheduled second game of the doubleheader was postponed.

Toronto and Rochester split a doubleheader, the Maple Leafs taking the first game 6-4 and the Red Wings the nightcap 4-2.

In Saturday's action Toronto defeated Syracuse 8-4, Rochester topped Buffalo 8-3, Toledo edged Jacksonville 3-2 and Richmond at Columbus was postponed because of rain.

NAME COACH

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) —John Mariucci, former defenceman with Chicago Black Hawks, was named Saturday night as coach of the 1967 U.S. national hockey team and the 1968 U.S. Olympic team. He coached the 1956 U.S. Olympic team to a 5-1 record and second place.

DIES FROM FALL

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—A West German tourist injured in Saturday's Mont Blanc cable car accident died in hospital Sunday. He was one of 19 persons injured when three aerial gondolas fell 30 yards to the snow-covered slopes. French officials said the three gondolas fell after a tow cable broke loose from a support pylon.

Nicklaus Won; Scots Liked Sanders

Sartorial Splendor

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) The man with the shortest swing left the longest memory after the British Open golf championship—even though he was a loser.

Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., one of the most colorful characters in world golf, was short by three inches with a putt on the home green that would have tied the winning score of 282 shot by champion Jack Nicklaus, from Columbus, Ohio.

If that putt had gone in, Sanders and Nicklaus would have played off over 18 holes for the title Sunday—and anything could have happened.

But, speculation aside, Sanders caught the imagination of the knowledgeable Scottish golf fans in a way that no other competitor would rival.

His 71-70-72-70—283 was the most consistent golf shot on the 72-hole test over the intimidating Muirfield links. It wasn't only consistent, it was entertaining—and it gave the golf addicts something to talk about until the next British Open.

Quite apart from his deadly precision at golf, Sanders sets a stunning sartorial pace. In the first round he sported an outfit of emerald green sweater and lime green pants. Next time out he wore various hues of blue. Salmon pink was his choice for the third round and ruby red for the final. Shoes to match, of course.

Sanders tied for second place in the British championship on 283 along with Dave Thomas of Wales.

The ball plumped onto the green and rolled 18 feet into the cup.

An official of the royal and ancient club, which runs the open championship, confirmed that the shot was precisely 85 yards.

Bruce McLaren

Wins Sports Car Race

ST. JOVITE, Que. (CP)—Bruce McLaren of Britain won the 210-mile sports car race Sunday at Le Circuit Mont Tremblant in this Laurentian resort north of Montreal.

He averaged 93.3 miles per hour for the 75-lap event in a McLaren Chevrolet.

Lother Motschenbacker of Germany was second, Bud Morley of Denver, Colo., third and Doug Revson of White Plains, N.Y., fourth.

Epple Weitzes of Toronto was the leading Canadian in the race as he placed fifth in a Comstock Ford GT-40. Weitzes survived a spin-out on the 13th lap which crumpled his front fender. Two other Canadians expected to make strong showings were forced out of the race.

Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto had to abandon the race after completing 25 laps when his car developed an oil leakage. John Cordts of North Bay was forced out of the 27th lap when his car caught fire.

An expected duel between McLaren and Jerry Grant of Seattle, Wash., the Indianapolis 500 driver, didn't come off, as Grant was forced to pull out of the race with engine trouble on the 36th lap.

McLaren established a lap record when he was timed at 1:42.4 on the 66th lap. The time wiped out his previous record of 1:44.9.

The track is 2.8 miles long. The Sunday competition was for the Pepsi-Cola Trophy.

DRIVER KILLED

ST. DOMINIQUE, Que. (CP) David Bouchard, 33, a Montreal stock car driver, was killed Saturday at a race track near this town.

Mantle Back In Week

DALLAS (AP)—Mickey Mantle, hit by another injury, returned to his Dallas home Saturday but hopes to rejoin New York Yankees within a week.

The baseball star pulled the hamstring muscle in his left leg Friday night in the second game of an American League doubleheader against Washington Senators after hitting a home run in each game.

"I plan to rejoin the Yankees in Kansas City Thursday and hope to be able to return to action at that time," Mantle said.

Mantle was riding a hot streak at the plate prior to the injury. He has hit 11 home runs in his last 14 games.

He termed the injury, "the same old one I've had before."

DOES IT AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Ron Clarke, the incredible Australian who has broken 18 world records in his track career, Saturday bettered the 13-minute barrier in the three-mile run for the second time in five days. Competing in the British Amateur Athletic Association meet, he was timed in 12 minutes, 58.2 seconds. In Stockholm last Tuesday he lowered his own world record for the distance to 12.50.4.

National Favored

Mele Promises AL All-Star Victory

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The embarrassed American League, winner of only one of the last nine All-Star baseball games, is ready to go all out Tuesday against the favored National League's impressive array.

The National Leaguers have been taking blows for winning both the World Series and the All-Star game in each of the last three years. Overcoming a 12-4 edge in the All-Star series once completely dominated by the American League, Willie Mays and company have taken the lead 18-17-1.

"I'll use my eight starters all the way if it will help us win," said Mele. "I'm going to win this one. We'll play to win."

In the old days it was common for most of the pitchers to work the Sunday previous to the game. That no longer is the case.

Five of the 16 pitchers were used Sunday but the only starters were Steve Barber of Baltimore on the American side and Jim Bunning of Philadelphia on the National side. Pete Richert of Washington, Claude Raymond of Houston and Phil Regan of the Los Angeles Dodgers were used in relief.

Regan was a late addition to the staff. He was named by Alston to take the place of Bob Gibson when the St. Louis Cardinal ace came up with a sore elbow. Sam McDowell of Cleveland, who lasted less than an inning Sunday, also bowed out with a sore arm and was replaced by team - mate Sonny Siebert.

Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, the majors' top winner with a 15-4 record, worked Saturday. So did Gaylord Perry of San Francisco and Billy McCool of Cincinnati. Jim Marichal of San Francisco has rested since pitching a three-hitter for his 14th victory Friday. Bob Veale of Pittsburgh has not pitched since Thursday.

Three American League starters worked Saturday—Gary Bell of Cleveland, Catfish Hunter of Kansas City and Denny McLain of Detroit, the league's big winner with a 13-4 record.

How's that for an outrageous claim?

We knew you wouldn't believe it. So we proved it.

Let's say you plan to keep your next car 5 years (and drive a total of 75,000 miles). Here's how it might work out.*

	New Volkswagen		Used Something Else
Price	$1,798		$900
Gas @ 45¢/gal.	900	(37 mpg)	1,875	(18 mpg)
Tires @ $28 ea.	112	(40,000 mi/set)	336	(20,000 mi/set)
Oil @ 70¢ qt.	43.75	(2½ qts. fills it)	53.20	(4 qts. fills it)
Anti-freeze	0	(air-cooled eng.)	12.00	(water-cooled eng.)
Cost for 5 years	$2,853.75		$3,176.20

So you're at least $180 ahead if you buy the new VW. (We didn't even count the extra $20 it saves on lower insurance and registration fees in many provinces.)

If you buy the new VW, you won't have to worry about why the first owner sold it. (And you won't have to pay for the expensive ailments that can hit an old Something Else.)

Now then. We don't have a crystal ball, but today's market is an interesting clue to the future.

After 5 years, the used car will probably be a 10-year-old candidate for the junk heap. But the VW will probably just be reaching its prime.

(Check the classified ads and you'll find 5-year-old VWs selling for $500 to $800, depending on the shape they're in.)

But you can do much better than that. Don't sell your VW at all.

Pirates Breathing Down Giants' Necks

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Veteran pitcher Bob Friend knows about pressure. But that extra squeeze put on by the Pittsburgh Pirates was just too much.

Friend, an ex-Pirate, became angry Sunday when the Pirates, leading by five runs in the eighth inning en route to a 9-4 victory over the New York Mets, tried to squeeze in another run. It backfired, but that didn't pacify Friend.

As he was leaving the field, Friend glared at the Pittsburgh dugout and shouted: "That's bush stuff, trying a squeeze when you're five runs ahead."

Pirates' manager Harry Walker shouted back, and he and Friend started toward each other but were restrained.

After the game, Walker said: "Whenever the club I'm playing gives up and quits, that's when I intend to stop trying to score runs. Baseball is played to win, and that's all I have to say."

The Cincinnati victory enabled second-place Pittsburgh to close to within one game of the Giants in the National League.

Atlanta Braves edged Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0, Chicago Cubs blasted Philadelphia Phillies 10-2 and Houston Astros nipped St. Louis Cards 6-5 in other National League games.

FIVE RUNS IN EIGHTH

The Pirates broke a 4-4 tie with their five-run eighth, Roberto Clemente's single driving in the go-ahead run. After all the runs had scored, Friend relieved Bob Shaw. With a runner on third and two strikes on the batter, ElRoy Face, the Pirates' pitcher tried the squeeze, but Face missed the ball for a strike out and the runner was caught off third.

Milt Pappas pitched out of numerous jams in winning for Cincinnati. The Reds built a 2-0 lead on run-scoring singles by Vada Pinson and Tony Perez before the Giants narrowed it on Ozzie Virgil's homer in the ninth.

Denny Lemaster pitched a five-hitter and Frank Bolling and Woody Woodward singled home runs in the fifth inning for Atlanta's victory over the Dodgers.

Ernie Banks was the big man in the Cubs' triumph over Philadelphia, driving in five runs with three hits. Southpaw Dick Ellsworth picked up his fifth victory against 12 defeats, with Jim Bunning taking the loss.

Rusty Staub hit a pair of homers, the second one with a man on in Houston's three - run eighth, as the Astros beat the Cardinals in 104-degree weather at St. Louis

T. and S. Softball

Crookston dumped league-leading Halloway 5-1 behind Dick Chapman's four-hit pitching effort in a T. and S. contest on the weekend.

Chapman whipped third strikes past nine batters and walked a pair. His opponent on the Halloway mound, Ron Denyes, gave up eight hits in defeat.

Kingston Defeats Trudeaus

Trudeau Motors took a 16-5 whipping at the hands of Kingston Smart's Braves in exhibition softball here Saturday night but that was not the worst thing that happened to them.

Pat Maracle, the aging district mound ace who suffered a muscle injury in his pitching arm a couple of weeks back, does not appear to be improving at all.

He went in to pitch the ninth inning against Kingston and was shelled for four solid hits, a hit batter and a pair of walks before shortstop Ralph Plane finished up the inning.

Maracle appears unable to lift his arm into the usual pitching position and on some occasions barely reaches the plate with his pitches. He has attempted to pitch several times since the injury.

Kingston rapped 16 hits off starter Bob Green, Rich Morton, Maracle and Plane, sewing up the win with eight runs in the ninth. Mac McMaster, Phil Litchfield and big Bubs Vanhooser allowed seven hits, with Vanhooser the most impressive for Kingston. Bubs and Litchfield fanned seven each in their three-inning stints.

Stu Muirhead drove in four Trudeau runs with a two-run homer, a single and fly ball. Roger Drake got two hits, John Baker a double, Larry Mavety and Larry Soule a single each.

Every man in the Smart's line-up, except Tony Pettitt, hit safely. Ron Spencer had two doubles and a triple, Bud Stewart a triple and home run, Dalt Lovelace, Phil Litchfield, Tom Hollingsworth and Mac McMaster two hits each.

England, Brazil Favorites World Soccer

By PAUL WARNICK

LONDON (Reuters) — England and Brazil are the teams favored to reach the final of the 16-nation World Cup soccer tournament, which opens here today.

The Brazilians, led by their great inside left, Pele, are natural choices to finish on top, having won the last two series in 1958 and 1962. No country has ever won the world soccer crown three times in a row but if Brazil makes it here, it will get permanent possession of the solid gold Jules Rimet trophy, insured for $90,000.

London bookmakers have made the Brazilians 2-to-1 favorites to win the cup, with the English second at 4-to-1.

England, which did not start competing in the series until 1950, has never advanced beyond the quarter-finals of the event. But this year, playing on familiar grounds and before their own rabid fans, the English are at last rated a chance to regain international soccer status.

Playing on home grounds has proved to be a major advantage in the past. Uruguay won when it was host to the inaugural competition in 1930 and the Italians won the next one on home grounds in 1934. Brazil was host to the tournament in 1950 and finished second, as did Sweden when it staged the series in 1958.

ONLY FOUR WON

Actually, since the cup competition began in 1930, only four teams have won the world title. Uruguay, Italy and Brazil have each won it twice and West Germany once. The series was suspended during the Second World War.

England opens the 32-game series tonight against Uruguay at London's Wembley Stadium before an expected crowd of 100,000, including the Queen and Prince Philip.

It is the only game being played today. The rest of the teams swing into action Tuesday.

The 16 clubs are divided into four groups for the first part of the series. After a round-robin in each group, with each team meeting each other once, the top two teams go on to the quarter-finals. The rest of the tournament is held on a straight knockout basis.

In Group I, England is expected to advance into the quarter - finals without much trouble, joined by either Uruguay or France. The French have a strong attacking team and they will be more at home than the South Americans in the unpredictable English climate. The fourth team in the group, Mexico, is a 200-to-1 outsider.

In Group II, Argentina, with its hardrock defence and individual brilliance in attack, appears the top team on paper. West Germany, surprise winner of the cup in 1954, is noted for its conditioning and calm, efficient play on the field.

The Spanish, led by Ruiz Suarez who was once sold for more than $600,000, are the master tacticians of European soccer. The outsiders in the group are the Swiss, who are regarded as having no chance.

Group III is dominated by Brazil with its galaxy of stars led by Edson Arantes do Nascimento, popularly known as Pele and generally acknowledged to be the greatest soccer player in the world. It will be the third World Cup series for the slim, 25-year-old Negro, star of Brazil's victories in 1958 and 1962.

Brazil's main rivals in the group are Hungary and Portugal, with Bulgaria given little chance of getting to the quarter-finals.

Italy, which is the third overall favorite behind Brazil and England, is the top team in Group IV. Strong competition will come from the Russians, who are expected to join the Italians in advancing to the quarter - finals. However, both may get a fight from Chile, which finished third in the 1962 series, played in Chile.

The other member of Group IV is North Korea, a team almost unknown outside Asia and the rank outsider of the whole competition.

The World Cup series is expected to have the largest audience of any sports event in history.

NA Water-Ski Championships

David Lean Wins Title

David Lean, of Point Anne, added the North American Water Ski Championship to his growing list of achievements this past weekend.

Competing against a field of 34 other men, many of them top competitors from the United States, Lean, a 28-year-old employee at Union Carbide, of Belleville, piled up the top overall performance.

Lean said this morning that many of the U.S. skiers are specialists, some taking part in only one or two of the events.

"My best placing was fourth in the slalom but this, added to the points compiled in the tricks and jumps, gave me the edge over the individual event winners."

While this was Lean's first triumphant in the North American tournament, he has captured the Canadian championship four times, in 1959, 1961, 1962, and 1964.

Lean has been named to the Canadian World Championship team on three occasions and hopes to make it again this year. He has travelled to Florida, Italy and California as a member of the Canadian team.

His current plans call for him to compete in the Ontario Regional Tournament, in Prescott, next weekend.

Lean will also be competing in the Canadian National Championships in Sherbrooke, Quebec, on August 27.

The top four men in Sherbrooke will travel to Mexico later in the fall for the Group One Championships.

Further in the future, the World Championships will be held in Sherbrooke, Quebec, during Centennial Year. Success in the earlier mentioned tournaments would assure Lean of this trip in 1967.

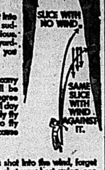
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

PLAY CONTROLLED SHOT INTO WIND

When faced with a tee shot into a strong wind, most golfers suddenly become distance-conscious. They tend to press for extra yardage. This is the worst thing you can do.

Shots into the wind that carry any amount of sidespin will be pushed off-line to a greater degree than would be normal on a still day (see illustration). They not only fly farther off-line, but they also fly much shorter than normal because of the wind.



The next time you play a shot into the wind, forget about distance. Just give the shot your best swing, one that will strike the ball as squarely as possible. Stress control, rather than length. By striking the ball squarely – even if it means shortening your swing – you will not only achieve a shot of decent length, but, more important, you will keep the ball in play.

John Mulvihill, David Wood in the fourth, Stan Brooks in the sixth and Art Wellsley in the seventh pitched for Belleville allowing seven hits, fanning 10 and walking five. Arnold hurled seven-hit ball for Sarnia, whiffing four and walking four while getting errorless support. The club completed three double plays to assist their pitcher.

Dan Lupenette and Wayne Andrews hit triples for Holy Rosary with John Mulvihill, Mike Goegan, David Smith, Barry Culkin and Rick Meagher singling. Zorica hit a home run and two Sarnia singles and Noely also homered.

John Mulvihill and David Wood combined for a three-hitter against Caledonia, striking out three and walking five. They collected 11 hits off the losers' Forbes and Doyle, leading all the way.

Dan Lupenette had a triple and two singles. Barry Culkin a triple and double and Gary Edwards a double and single for Belleville. Brian Cousins also tripled, David Wood doubled, Brian Gariepy and Austin Wilson each singled.

Holy Rosary led Chippawa 4-1 going into the bottom of the sixth when the losers netted a pair to make it tight.

Stan Brooks hurled seven-hit ball for Belleville, fanning three and not walking a man. Everson gave up eight hits, whiffed four and walked none in defeat.

Brian Cousins and Rick Meagher paced the winners with two singles each. Barry Culkin, Gary Edwards, Brian Gariepy and Austin Wilson had loners. Gauthier had a home run for the losers.

EOBA Minors Clean Sweep Weekend Tilts

Belleville teams went without a loss in E.O.B.A. play on the weekend. Ellis Bantams rallied from a two-run deficit to tie it in the 8th and win it in the 9th in besting Bowmanville 4-3 at Park Dale on Saturday. Yesterday, Peterborough forfeited 9-0 to Belleville, when they failed to make an appearance. In a tyke tilt at Park Dale yesterday afternoon, Booth Radio combed Oshawa 9-5. Ron McTaggart hurled six innings of no-hit ball, for Belleville.

ELLIS BANTAMS 4, BOWMANVILLE 3

Ron Jury's two-out ninth-inning single scored the winning run for Ellis'. Bowmanville led 3-1 until the eighth inning, when Belleville managed to tie it 3-3.

Jim Wood and Wayne Farrel handled the pitching chore for Ellis'. They fanned nine, walked three and gave up 10 hits.

McGregor and Alder pitched for the losers.

Steve Moore, Ron Jury and Paul Hall stroked three singles each for Belleville. Brian Coughlin and Jim Wood had two hits each, and Terry Meagher and Jim Potts one.

BELLEVILLE 9, OSHAWA 5

Tim Whalen started for Belleville and was relieved by Ron McTaggart after Oshawa had poured in five runs in the first frame. McTaggart then proceeded to pitch six straight innings of no-hit ball. He struck out nine and did not walk a man.

Murray Dales notched two safeties for Belleville. Jed Forster, John Venutti, Don McTaggart, Ron McTagartg and Tim Whalen had one base hit each.

The Tracks

Gomez, Canada's leading rider, literally threw Good Old Mort's neck forward and down to earn victory.

Good Old Mort, owned by Ed Seedhouse of Toronto, ran the mile and two furlongs over the turf in 2:04 1-5, paying $2.80, $2.40 and $2.20.

Good Old Mort, who earned $18,950 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $185,627, moved into fifth place on the list of all-time money-winning Canadian-bred horses. Only Northern Dancer, George Royal, Victoria Park, Hidden Treasure and Canadiana remain ahead of Good Old Mort.

Rejects Junior League

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Saturday refused approval for the formation of the Canadian Major, Junior Hockey League.

Following a meeting of western representatives, the CAHA said it did not disapprove of the organization as it was originally proposed, but refused recognition because the final plan disregarded original principles.

Details of formation of the new league were announced a week ago at Calgary. It was to include nine teams: Edmonton Oil Kings, Calgary Buffaloes, Estevan Bruins, Weyburn Red Wings, Moose Jaw Canucks, Saskatoon Blades, Regina Pats, Brandon Wheat Kings and a team from Winnipeg.

The league has also submitted several plans to the National Hockey League. These ask for increased financial support for existing teams from professional hockey. A decision on ratification or rejection of the league has not been announced by the NHL.

SWAP TOPS . . . Actress Linda Kaye paints a colorful fashion picture while wearing the latest of convertible cotton cover-ups.

'Swap Tops' Popular

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Paint a colorful fashion picture with convertible cotton cover-ups. Nicknamed "swap tops" because of their multi-uses, young pace-setters are wearing them everywhere. For instance, the flower-splashed design, favored by actress Linda Kaye, is equally at home as a swimsuit topper, dress jacket, sports blouse, or artist's smock. And, just to extend its style life, it can be reversed, with the little girl yoke and ruffled trim shifted fore instead of aft.

Another short, easy-to-wear "pop-on" is fashioned like a carpenter's apron. Its buckled straps and roomy front pocket provides an authentic work look. Made from striped denim and lined with red polka dot fabric, the hip-hugger can be teamed with shirt, shorts or matching sunsuit. Loose-fitting and high-backed, it comfortably adjusts to the sports scene.

A tartan plaid shift is the solution for those preferring a dressier look. The sleeveless A-line gains added importance with bands of eyelet lace trim that circle its skirt. Linda, who co-stars in the CBS-TV series, "Petticoat Junction," points out the hemline can be worn either knee-high for street wear or thigh-high for play time.

Andy Williams' Replacement Hit of Season

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The hit of the summer television season appears to be a reformed rock 'n' roller named John Davidson.

He is the husky baritone who took over for Andy Williams during the hot weather run of the Kraft Music Hall on NBC.

John and his youthful band have given the Monday night outing such verve and style there already is talk of elevation to the majors — a winter show.

"Yes, there is talk," John confirmed, "but I'll believe it when I see it."

Still, there doesn't seem to be much doubt he will ascend to the topmost ranks in show business. No career has been as well planned and directed. It helps that he also has talent.

Until recently he was working weekends at the Disney studios in his first film, The Happiest Millionaire, then hustling to NBC a couple of blocks away to tape the TV show on weekends.

"Now we've finished all 12 shows—we were scheduled for 13 but got pre-empted July 4," he said. "I thought maybe I'd be disappointed with them and find things I wish I had done differently.

"But I must say I think I did the best I could. If anything, I think I might have tried to sing more. But I did about five numbers a show—three solos—and just about exhausted my whole repertoire."

John is 24, the son of a Baptist minister of White Plains, N.Y., and a theatre arts graduate. He started as a rocker, then went straight. He might still be singing in night clubs and summer theatres except for a meeting with Bob Banner, the television producer.

Banner signed the young man to a personal contract and outlined a five-year plan to develop him into a star. First came the CBS series, The Entertainers. The show flopped but Davidson didn't. His dimpled, ingenuous charm and robust voice established him as a comer.

He followed with the Fantasticks special, a Columbia records contract, Bell Telephone hours. It was on the latter he was spotted by the Disney people. Then NBC decided John was promising enough to fill Andy Williams' spot.

"Now we're two and a half years ahead of schedule," said John.

New Suspense Thriller Hits Bullseye with Paul Newman as Harper

Warner Bros., the studio that established itself as the leader in the field of the fast-paced hard-hitting and emotion-pounding private-eye films with "The Big Sleep" and "The Maltese Falcon", has a notable modern successor to these classic sagas in the new Paul Newman starring vehicle, "Harper", continuing Today, Tuesday and Wednesday, for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

"Harper" is based on "The Moving Target", a best-selling novel by Ross MacDonald.

Newman, one of the foremost luminaries of stage and screen, is best known for his performances of complex characters in Tennessee Williams "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof" and "Sweet Bird of Youth." Newman has a complete change of pace in "Harper", playing a realistic detective. Lauren Bacall returns to Warner Bros., the studio where she made her film debut in 1944 in "To Have and To Have Not". Now she plays a wealthy socialite who hires Paul Newman to investigate the disappearance of her profligate husband, and eventually becomes a not-so-weeping widow.

Pamela Tiffin, a new star on the Hollywood horizon, has the best role of her acting career as a wayward society girl. The shapely Pamela dons a bikini and does a pool-side Watusi in one sequence that brought whistles and applause from an appreciative crew during rehearsal.

Shelley Winters has the heavy role of an erstwhile Hollywood star who can whip her weight in alcohol.

With "Harper" hitting the bulls-eye as a suspense-thiller, Paul Newman's private-eye Lew Harper has a good chance of becoming America's new detective hero-sensation. But no matter how great Harper's popularity, Newman insists there will be no sequels. "Positively none", he declares firmly.

AT THE PARK — Frank Sinatra puts in a special appearance, along with John Wayne and Yul Brynner in "Cast A Giant Shadow", Melville Shavelson's epic based on the life of the fabulous Col. "Mickey" Marcus, in Color by DeLuxe and Panavision now at the Park Theatre until Wednesday, as a Mirisch Corporation presentation and United Artists release. Kirk Douglas plays the amazing "Mickey" with love interest provided by Senta Berger. Complete shows 7.00 - 9.30.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Elizabeth Taylor and Richare Burton in a romanic beach interlude of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Sandpiper", engrossing drama of an unconventional woman who falls in love with a married man of conservative background. Eva Marie Saint also stars in the Martin Ransohoff Production, filmed in Panavision and color largely on locations in the magnificent Big Sur country on the northern coast of California, and directed by Academy-Award-winner Vincente Minnelli. "The Sandpiper" opens tonight at regular prices at the Beleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd feature attraction on the all color program "Young Cassidy" stars Rod Taylor, Julie Christie, Michael Redgrave and Flora Robson.

Lawrence Welk Defends Kind of Music He Makes

By LAWRENCE WELK
For CYNTHIA LOWRY

The hip musical shows, the variety hours come and go, but Lawrence Welk and his bouncy, danceable beat bubbles on year after year —and it will be his 12th on the American Broadcasting Co. next fall. Here he defends the kind of music he makes—and prefers.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Descriptive labels seem to be a part of the entertainment business. They include "cool," "hip," "far out," "Corny," "square." It's only natural that the champagne music makers would come in for a share of this.

"Square" is the word most frequently applied to me.

Now, how could I possibly resent that? It's no secret that our music appeals to the more mature audience.

The rating services show that mothers are our most loyal fans, fathers are the next most numerous group, followed by the smaller children, then the teen-agers.

It is difficult to please everyone, even members of the same family. Often the very fact that something is enjoyed by the parents is enough to have it branded "corny" by the youngsters.

Actually we very much want to add more teen-agers to our audience and are making effort to accomplish this without alienating our loyal older fans. On this year's spring tour, more teen-agers came to see us than ever before.

RECORDINGS HELP

I also believe that recordings have increased our popularity with young people. The jazz album made by our orchestra, and featuring Johnny Hodges of Duke Ellington fame, has had good play with deejays all around the country.

We watch the charts for what the kids like and are including some of the modern beat in our music. We now use two guitars on our show and as many as three on recordings. The kids like guitars.

There are times when I make an effort to stay "square." In the matter of hair styles, for instance. Since "page-boy' haircuts have been favored by certain rock-'n'-roll groups I find I visit my barber about twice as frequently as I used to.

A few years ago Stan Freberg put out a popular record, an extremely funny take-off on me and on our orchestra. I enjoyed it immensely. Not only did Stan do an excellent job, but he used our theme song, Bubbles in the Wine, which is my composition and on which I collected royalties on every record sold.

CONVICT FINANCIER

DETROIT (AP)—Ben Levinson, Detroit financier and one-time Democratic political figure, was convicted by a U.S. district court jury Saturday of 17 counts of fraud and conspiracy. His Franklin Mortgage Co. was convicted with him on all counts and Richard D. Mitchell, president of a defunct real estate company, was convicted on 19 counts. The charges were placed in connection with an estimated $4,000,000 worth of veterans administration home loans handled by Levinson's company. No sentencing date has been set.

Pea Crop Appears Certain To Be Down From Last Year

PICTON (Staff) — This year's pea crop appears certain to be down from 1965, but it is too early to predict how much lower the yield will be.

With harvesting expected to continue for two more weeks, the late peas could make up for the poor showing of the early crop.

As usual, lack of rain is blamed for the lower early yield. Rain fell in the county Wednesday, but the amount varied widely.

The Water Purification Plant reported that only .04 inches of rain was recorded during the first brief shower, and only .02 inches the second time.

Yet a few hundred yards away, it rained sufficiently hard to cause puddles to form on the street.

Belleville reported almost half an inch of rain during a sudden storm around 6 p.m. and Trenton received around the same amount.

Because of the poor early crop, the Baxter Canning Company Limited in Bloomfield has stopped selling peas for freezing purposes for the time being. Some of the firm's present 175 employees are making and canning lemonade.

However, most companies are optimistic that they will be able to supply their order quotas.

Fruit and vegetable extension specialist Evans Estabrooks said that yields appear to vary widely between areas.

"They are talking of higher yields up the top part of the county, around Consecon," he said. "And down through Waupoos, the crop is reported better than around Bloomfield."

Another factor is that the crop will inevitably be compared with last year, which produced a high yield of 1.2 tons, or 2,400 pounds, of peas per acre.

Meanwhile, the cherries are getting pink and should be ready for picking after the pea harvest, but the crop is expected to be down sharply from 1965.

Marysburgh Museum Open For Summer

PICTON (Staff) — There are 142 non - profit organizations in Ontario called Museums of which Marysburgh is one. They are owned by the municipalities and are aided by grants and the public who are interested enough to come and see what they have to offer and leave a contribution if they so desire. Many of course, charge a regular admission after they are organized and in full running order.

The collection can be a bunch of curios and miscellaneous objects, both valuable and worthless, thron together into a community discard centre; or it can be assembled with a definite purpose, from a region appropriate to the size of the area served.

The Marysburgh Museum is trying to depict pioneer life in this area. The museum is open from one p.m. until 6 p.m. every day except Monday during July and August. Visitors are welcome.

DEAR DORIS: Some years ago I obtained an American divorce and subsequently married in the U.S.A. We have recently moved to Canada because of my husband's work.

DORIS CLARK

My son lives in another city but comes to visit me and we correspond. Two months ago he got married, and in the write-up in the paper my name was missing entirely.

I had asked him if he would insert it but upon the advice of his future father-in-law he decided to omit it. I believe if I had obtained a Canadian divorce it would have been different.

What are your views on this? — FORGOTTEN.

DEAR FORGOTTEN: Is it the question of an American divorce or just any divorce at all that they are being sensitive about? Or are there hard feelings between you and your ex-husband which have carried over to your son?

One can hardly quibble about the validity of an American divorce, since there is reciprocity between our two countries in the legal recognition of a divorce in cases where the person seeking it was residing in the country where the divorce was obtained.

Sometimes divorce can be a blessed release from a union which shouldn't have taken place at all, and where two personalities are clashing to the point of extreme unhappiness.

Confidential to SEVENTY: Of course you feel out of place in company! You have devoted a lifetime — almost — to raising six boys, catering to boarders, keeping a home going, practically with blinders on. All you need is practice and you'll be able to mix with friendly company just as well as the next fellow. You might even take up bridge, or photography, or art. Remember Grandma Moses!

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Enclosed is ten cents. Please send me "Facing Forty." I am older than that and do get forgetful. I'm sure there is something for me to learn.

As to the part time job, I solved that after our family married and left home. We are left with a large house. A friend recommended me to a rehabilitated mental lady. It has worked out very well. Our lady is very nice, but not quite well enough to be on her own.

There are many people in our midst if we could [illegible] them. Sometimes they need a home and a little care; and we need that extra money, so it works out very well. — [illegible] SIXTY.

DEAR FACING: Not only that, but the right kind of guest can bring you the warmth of a new companionship. Persons who have recovered from mental illness are sometimes pathetically grateful for "a little care."

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Do you think the two-piece bathing suit shown in the picture (enclosed) is decent?

I am 15 and all my friends wear a two-piece. I think it is perfectly all right but my mother thinks it is not modest. Is she right? Up to two weeks ago she said the bathing suit was O.K. but with her friend's advice she changed her mind.

A two-piece becomes me and I would like to know if I should buy one. — THINKING IT OVER.

DEAR THINKING: It's decent. All it shows is a little innocent midriff, and it doubtless becomes you.

But modest? Modesty is a "judgment call" — as they say in football. In plain English, if your mother thinks the two-piece shows too much of you for her liking, you'd better cover up.

* * *

To STANDING UP: If they are just plain sore and perspiring feet, suffering from holding you up from dawn till dusk, you can work wonders with nightly massage and a foot bath. I'm sending you a simple formula your druggist will make up for you. Makes you feel good all over.

Three Children Bake to Death In Florida Car

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three small children died Monday in a car parked in the hot sun with the windows rolled up. They could have smothered or sweltered to death in temperatures that may have reached 130 degrees, officials said.

Their mother found the bodies when she returned from a medical supply house where she sold a pint of blood for $10, one of more than two dozen visits she has made since December.

The lab was unexpectedly busy and she had to wait for more than two hours, police said. They estimated the children were in the car for about three hours.

About noon, a passerby said she saw the children crying and noticed that the windows were rolled up, Police Sgt. Andrew Giordano reported. But she assumed the car was air-conditioned.

The mother, Geraldine Luke, returned to the car about 1 p.m and found the children unconscious in the back seat. Firemen tried to revive them on the way to a hospital.

They were Joseph, 18 months, Barbara, 34 months, and James, 4½ years.

ROLLED WINDOW UP

Mrs. Luke told police she had left one of the windows down when she went in the lab. Officers said one of the children must have rolled the window up while she was inside.

The temperature outside the car was 90 degrees when police arrived. The county medical examiner's office estimated the temperature inside the car could have been as high as 130 degrees.

An autopsy was planned.

Mrs. Luke and her husband, Joseph, a steel worker, have one other child, Skipper, 7.

Dr. James Griffiths, head of the medical supply house, said Mrs. Luke came a couple of times a week to sell blood.

He said her blood was not a rare type but contained properties that are needed for laboratory tests, especially the typing of other blood.

Tractors Will Roll July 25

TORONTO (CP)—About 1,000 tractor-driving farmers will be back on Ontario highways July 25 in protest of low milk prices, John Dolmer, president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, said Monday.

He said the tractors will be in small groups to block as many roads as possible.

The OFU called a halt to demonstrations about two weeks ago to allow farmers time to harvest their hay crops.

Mr. Dolmer said in an interview the next series of protests will be made up of groups of less than 50 tractors on highways across the province.

He said a small group of tractors can block the road as effectively as 200 or 300. When the demonstrations halted two weeks ago, as many as 500 tractors were patrolling various roads in the province on a single day.

CONSIDERS REQUEST

Meanwhile, J. J Greene, federal agriculture minister, is considering a request from Ontario and Quebec for increases in support prices for dairy products which could net farmers $4 a hundredweight for milk used in manufacturing.

William Stewart, Ontario agriculture minister, said the move would result in a guaranteed basic price of $3.50 a hundredweight in the two provinces. The present federal subsidy of 75 cents would bring the price to $4.25

The OFU claims that about 25 cents of the government subsidy is paid to processors in transportation costs. The current basic price is $3.25

Mr. Dolmer said such a price increase would take much of the impetus out of the planned tractor demonstrations but would not answer all the OFU's demands.

He said the demonstrations have also been held to focus attention on OFU demands for a rebate of education tax paid by farmers and for universal medical care plans.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Scattered thunderstorms will probably continue. Cooler air has invaded the western and northern Prairie provinces. It will continue to push southeastward and may reach the lower lakes by Thursday.

KITCHENER (CP) — A 10-month-old girl, Jo Ann Leger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Leger of Kitchener, suffocated Monday night when she pulled a plastic bag over her head. Coroner G. D. Lynne-Davies described the plastic bags as "lethal weapons."

Unions to Give Free Service To Sick During Hospital Strike

MONTREAL (CP) —Marcel Pepin, president of the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), said Monday a committee to help provide medical treatment for sick persons at home will be set up by the CNTU should 32,000 non-medical hospital employees go on strike Thursday.

The union service would be free of charge, he added.

Mr. Pepin told a press conference that a strike against 139 hospitals in Quebec seems "practically inevitable."

Union officials have said they would postpone the strike on a day-to-day basis if negotiations were going well but a union spokesman declined to say Monday night whether this was still the position.

Mr. Pepin said the unions, who "made every effort to continue negotiations, would take every possible measure to ensure that the population does not suffer from the irresponsibility of those to whom the well-being of the public is entrusted."

Hospitals across the province have been bracing for the probable strike by gradually reducing the number of patients.

Patients able to leave hospital beds without grave risk are being asked to do so and those having had an operation are being discharged as quickly as medical men feel it is safe.

Dr. J. Gilbert Turner, vice-chairman of the Quebec Hospital Association's labor relations committee, said Monday night admissions are being rigorously controlled.

He said only those requiring urgent treatment are being given beds, maternity cases included. Persons able to postpone operations were being asked to do so.

Paul Dalpe, president of the National Federation of Services (CNTU), said officials of his union, which represents the workers, have been meeting with management but that these meetings did not constitute negotiations.

The hospitals have been reported by union officials to be offering the employees pay increases ranging from $1.50 to $3.30 on their weekly salaries while the union was asking for $8. Management spokesmen

Canada Rejects Russia's Plan for A-Bomb Ban

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters)—Canada rejected today a Soviet proposal for an international conference to sign a convention banning the use of nuclear weapons.

What is wanted are concrete measures that could be verified, not mere verbal undertakings, Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief Canadian negotiator, told the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference.

He commented on a suggestion Thursday by his Soviet counterpart, Alexei A. Roshchin, who said agreement on such a convention would be a "serious success" and might help to improve the international situation and make nuclear disarmament easier.

Burns recalled that Canada had not voted in favor of a 1961 United Nations General Assembly resolution proposing a conference to sign such a convention.

He said Canada does not lack sympathy for the objectives of the sponsors of the resolution, and shared abhorrence of means of mass destruction.

"But it is our considered view that the only responsible way to deal with the nuclear threat is through balanced measures of arms control leading to general and complete disarmament. . . .

Alex B. Campbell Now Canada's Youngest Premier

By DON ANGUS

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The voters or rural Kings 1st, voting six weeks later than Prince Edward Islanders in 15 other ridings, ended seven years of Progressive Conservative administration Monday night and swept Liberal Alex B. Campbell, 32, into power as Canada's youngest premier.

The deferred balloting in the two-member constituency, brought about by the death of a Liberal candidate May 26, snapped a two-party stalemate and toppled the government of Premier Walter R. Shaw, 78, the nation's oldest provincial chief.

The standings:

Liberals	17	11
Conservatives	15	19
Total	32	30

"My reaction is one of disappointment," Mr. Shaw said after Liberals Daniel J. MacDonald and Bruce L. Stewart swept to victory by large majorities.

Mr. Shaw, who led his party to power in 1959 at an age when most people contemplate the ease of retirement, broken even with his young rival in the May 30 election.

The two parties, the only ones contesting the election, wound up in a 15-seat deadlock and consequently directed the political spotlight on the 2,411 eligible voters in Kings 1st.

The enfranchised residents of the fishing and farming constituency responded by giving Mr. MacDonald, Liberal councillor candidate, a 207-vote majority over Conservative Peter MacAulay and Mr. Stewart, a 158-vote margin over Conservative Keith MacKenzie in the race for the assemblyman's seat.

Mr. MacKenzie was the second public works and highways minister to suffer defeat within six weeks. He was appointed to the cabinet shortly after the defeat of J. Philip Matheson in Queens 2nd in the May 30 election.

QUESTIONS RAISED

The Liberal victory raised immediate questions.

When would Mr. Campbell announce his cabinet? "Within two or three weeks," was the reply.

When would Mr. Shaw and Mr. Campbell meet to discuss takeover plans? "Well, I think we could get together the first of next week, don't you Alex? asked the ousted premier.

"Yes, I think that would be fine," replied the premier-elect.

Mr. Campbell, whose father Thane L. Campbell was Liberal premier from 1936 to 1943 and now is chief justice of the P.E.I. Supreme Court, was excited and at the same time deadly serious about his new post.

"On the one hand I am overjoyed with the results in First Kings today," he said. "On the other hand, forming a government means a tremendous responsibility."

In a television interview, the Liberal leader said it is time to get down to business of gov-

Little Progress In Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant U.S. Labor Secretary James J. Reynolds described as discouraging today the outlook for settlement of the strike against five major U.S. airlines.

Reynolds, a veteran negotiator in railway and shipping strikes, said in advance of the scheduled midmorning resumption of negotiations between representatives of the airlines and the striking Machinists' Union:

"There's been very little progress. The positions of the parties are very fixed at the moment."

The dispute, now in its fifth day, has halted 60 per cent of the air transportation in the U.S. and is costing the airline industry and labor about $8,000,000 a day.

But while the strike goes on, non-struck airlines, bus lines and railways are reporting booming business.

Air Canada added 22 flights to its schedule Monday.

Another eight flights were to be added today.

Traffic was reported "steady" by officials at Montreal's international airport.

There still are eight major national issues — wages being the principal problem—and 38 local issues unresolved. Mainly, the International Association of Machinists (AFL CIO) is asking to be allowed to share in the prosperity that has fallen to the airlines in the last year or two.

The airlines have increased their wage offer to 48 cents an hour from the original 30 cents. A presidential emergency board that looked into the situation recommended 48 cents. The union has stood on its original request for a 53-cent-an-hour increase.

The struck lines are Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United. They agreed last August to bargain jointly with the union.

On Capitol Hill, Senator Frank J. Lausche (Dem. Ohio) introduced legislation that would authorize a five-member presidential commission to investigate future transportation industry contract deadlocks, making binding settlement recommendations.

ISN'T JUST A BODY

HALIFAX (CP) —Dr. Ernest E. Claxton, a consultant to the British Medical Association, Monday condemned what he called medicine's tendency to isolate man as simply a body and advocated a concept of man as a "spiritual being." He told a group of physicians and clergymen that as a spiritual being man can benefit from the weapon of faith. "Even when a patient doesn't get better, his living in such an atmosphere can prepare him for an operation, or even for death."

Viet Nam And CBC Debated

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—The government received approval Monday to pay its bills for the next four months—but not before MPs got in their licks over Viet Nam and the CBC.

The Commons spent most of the day debating a $662,000,000 interim supply bill that gave members a chance to raise just about any topic under the sun. They chose the Asian war and the national television network.

The supply bill went all the way to royal assent and the Commons today was to begin debate on the resolution proposing a national medical care insurance program.

Also scheduled for debate today were bills concerning terms of reference of a commission into unsettled issues of the Quebec longshoremen's strike, establishment of a national arts centre and minor amendments to the Income Tax Act.

Social Credit Leader Thompson offered solid support for the United States intervention in Viet Nam and the Canadian governmet's peace-making efforts. Terry Nugent (PC—Edmonton-Strathcona) took just as strong a position for the opposite viewpoint.

Mr. Thompson blamed the Communists for escalating the war, not, as many U.S. opponents would have it, the Americans. On the recent U.S. bombings of the key North Viet Nam cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, he said "oil depots are legitimate enemy targets."

REJECTS BOMB PAUSE

Mr. Thompson could not countenance the argument that a cessation of bombing would lead to negotiations. The Americans had tried this for six weeks with no results.

The U.S. strategy seemed to be having results. Defections by the Viet Cong were now running well ahead of those by the South Vietnamese forces. Only outside pressure on the U.S. could cause a weariness that might make the U.S. stop.

Mr. Nugent called for MPs to "stand up and explain by what right the United States has to be there." The U.S.

Ireland's Orange Grand Lodge Attacks Ecumenical Movement

BELFAST (AP) — One hundred thousand Protestants marched through this Northern Ireland capital today to oppose church union with Rome and affirm their loyalty to the Queen.

The procession of the Loyal Orange Order, from which Roman Catholics are barred, was estimated to stretch between four and five miles.

It took three hours to pass any given point on its route.

Orange-collared lodge members with drawn swords provided color guards for gaudy banners, bearing slogans like "Remember 1670" (the Protestant victory at the Battle of the Boyne) "I Will Maintain" (the Protestant faith), and "For Queen and Constitution."

On they came, lodges from Canada, Scotland, the Irish Republic, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

It was possibly the biggest Northern Ireland has seen in years. Roman Catholics mostly kept off the streets, or watched solemnly from the back of the crowd.

This afternoon a resolution from the Grand Lodge of Ireland, attacking the Christian ecumenical movement was being submitted to Orange meetings throughout the country.

The resolution, which has already aroused the bitter opposition of a number of leading Protestant churchmen, reads:

"The Grand Lodge of Ireland views with the utmost concern the present trend towards one united church, involving the surrender of our distinctive Protestant witness, and the atmosphere created by the World Council of Churches to promote this goal.

"We deplore the compromising implications of the successive visits to the Vatican of church leaders, culminating in the recent visit of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"During the past number of years there have been marked departures within the churches from the Protestant and reformed faith, and we firmly believe it now is time to call for the return in our Protestant churches to the principles of the 16th-century reformation.

"Members of the Orange Order are pledged to love, uphold and defend the Protestant religion, and are therefore called upon to resist any encroachment upon their heritage, regardless of the cost or consequences."

The resolution was being offered for the mass approval of about 100,000 Orangemen attending today's meetings celebrating the Protestant victory at the 17th-century Battle of the Boyne.

Several Church of Ireland Anglican leaders, including two bishops, have refused to attend the Belfast parade because they don't want to be associated with the Orange resolution.

The leaders of the Irish Presbyterian and Methodist churches have also protested against it.

Some ministers have gone so far as to deny from their pulpits that there has been any departure within in the churches from the Protestant and reformed faith, as the anti-Catholic Orange resolution charged.

Monday night in Belfast included wild dancing around bonfires in the streets to anti-papist songs. While the Protestant quarters of Belfast presented a scene of light and crowds, the Roman Catholic districts were shuttered and silent.

There will be approximately fifty of the finest classic and antique cars in Canada arriving at the west end of the city and forming up in parade formation at the Rite-Way parking lot at 2.30. At the Rite-Way parking lot, the tour will be welcomed officially to the city of Belleville by His Worship, Mayor J. R. Ellis, and then, the cars will be given a police escort to Victoria Park.

Through the co-operation of the Yacht Club, they will remain at Victoria Park for a short rest stop of approximately half an hour and then, will proceed to Kingston.

Each car at Victoria Park will be given a Black Diamond Cheese as a memento to their stop in Belleville and also the Mayor will present to the lead car four cheeses for delivery to the Mayors of Oswego, Rochester, Kingston and Niagara Falls.

The public is welcome to view these cars at Victoria Park around 3 p.m. but, the Parks Board requests the co-operation of the public in refraining from taking other vehicles into the Park during these hours, so that there will be plenty of room to park the vehicles in the parade.

Rotarians See Slides of Alps

In the mountains of Austria's famed Tyrol the visitor feels he is among the Gods, according to Robert G. Michaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Michaud of Belleville.

Mr. Michaud Jr spent last winter at the ski resort of St. Anton. Yesterday he showed slides of the area to Rotary, scenes which made it easy to appreciate why he spent so much time outdoors skiing and admiring the superb alpine scenery.

To earn money for the European tour, and put in as much time as possible skiing, Mr. Michaud and a fellow Queen's graduate he met aboad ship worked for a period in London. They also worked as odd jobs men (snovelling snow and the like) at a St. Anton ski chalet called the "Crazy Kangaroo" after its Australian owner.

The young Bellevillian and his friend shared attic accommodation with two ski instructors for less than $5 a day, mels included.

The Canadians hitch-hiked and tented their way through Europe, meeting other young people from many lands. They visited France, Greece, Crete, Italy, Capri, Spain, Holland and Germany as well as England.

From Greece Mr. Michaud brought back many interesting pictures of the ancient civilization of that land, including views of the Acropolis. In rural Greece the living is hard and every area of cultivable land is developed. Even at that the people just manage to subsist.

Rotary president J. F. McCorquodale presided.

Careless Driving Charge Brings Fine of $50

Harold Bentley, 38, of Belleville was found guilty of careless driving today and fined $50 and costs. He was found not guilty of impaired driving.

Police testified that at 10.30 a.m. June 5 they went to investigate an accident on St. Paul St. A constable said when he arrived he found Bentley's car in the ditch on the north side of the street, slightly east of the Saco Foundry. He said it was in a four-foot ditch which was partially filled with water and nobody was at the scene at the time.

As a result of information received, police went to the home of Jane Huffman, 90½ Cannifton Rd. Police testified Miss Huffman called Bentley several times before he walked into the room. "He was noticeably staggering and had the smell of an alcoholic beverage on his breath. His speech was very slurred. His pants were muddy and soaking wet part way up the legs and his shoes were wet and caked with mud."

He was taken to the cruiser and there he told police he'd been driving his car on St. Paul St. some time that morning and the steering broke on his car and he ran into the ditch.

Police said he was told he could phone his lawyer and given the phone book to look up the number. "He sat looking at it for five or 10 minutes, then dialed the wrong number."

Defence counsel Robert Temple moved for dismissal of the charge saying there was no evidence as to when the car went into the ditch. Magistrate T. Y. Wills said there was not sufficient evidence to find him guilty on the impaired driving charge.

Girls Putting Foot Down on Short Skirts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—There are buzzings of a mini-skirt rebellion among owners of the world's loveliest legs.

Most of the 57 girls vying for the Miss Universe crown put their foot down on the short, short skirt. Some stand up for it. Still others skirt the issue.

The skirts came in for discussion during rehearsal breaks for Wednesday night's semi-finals of the beauty contest. The finals are Saturday night.

Carol Whiteman of Britain, a country where the well-above-the-knee skirt is riding high, said she has one but can't decide whether to wear it.

"I am tiny and it would make me look tinier," said the five-foot-three supermarket clerk from Southampton.

"You have to be careful how to sit down," commented Miss Chile, Stella Dunnage, a 20-year-old daughter of British parents.

ANTI-ESTHETIC

The blue-eyed honey blonde added: "It (the mini-skirt) is anti-esthetic. You look too short on top, and below that you look short, and then there are long legs."

Miss Korea, Yoon Quee-young opined: "It is not so good." She wouldn't say why, just giggled.

Miss Guyana, Umbela Van Sluytman, commented: "It looks lovely on girls who have long legs, but not short girls."

One of the longest legged, five-foot-nine Lynn Carol de Jager of South Africa, voted yes: "If it's new, I'll like it. Anything comfortable."

Canada's representative in the contest is Marjorie Schofield, 18, of Burlington, Ont., runner-up to Miss Dominion of Canada, Diane Coulter, 18, who became ill in Grand Falls, N.B, while attending a potato festival.

Holt told the court he set the fire as a prank because "it was fun to see the people running about."

Youth Jailed, Two Others On Probation

Two Deseronto youths were given suspended sentences in court today and one was given two months in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Bruce Henry, 19, was sentenced to two months in jail for car theft and breaking and entering. Henry, and Phillip Earl Maracle, 16, were found guilty of the charges last week and remanded until today for sentencing.

Magistrate Wills gave Maracle two years' suspended sentence and said he would have to sign a bond to be of good behavior and keep the peace and report to the probation officer once each month.

In the case of Henry, Magistrate Wills said "There doesn't appear to be any prospect of success with probation, partly because of your instability.

"The purpose of the jail term is to let you understand that you can't do this sort of thing and you're going to be punished for it if you do."

Ralph Sparks, 17, was put on suspended sentence for one year. He pleaded guilty today to stealing a quantity of pocket books June 4 with Maracle from Franks Cigar Store. He was also ordered to sign a bond to be of good behavior and to keep the peace.

Social Democrats' Victory In W. German State Vote Means Trouble for Erhard

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The miners and metal-workers of West Germany's Ruhr district have humbled Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in an election that was national in significance although only state-wide in scope.

Erhard's Christian democrats suffered their worst setback in 20 years when voters went to the polls Sunday in North Rhine-Westphalia state, which embraces the Ruhr, Germany's industrial arsenal in two world wars.

The big gainer in the poll was Willy Brandt's Social Democratic party and some political observers did not hesitate to predict the victory will be a pointer for the next federal election in 1969.

The election was regarded as important from a federal standpoint because the state, with about 15,000,000 population, comprises nearly 30 per cent of all West Germans. It is the biggest of the 11 states, and a socialist majority at Duesseldorf—the state capital—would be a major step forward for Brandt's party.

NEVER AT BONN

The socialists have never yet formed the federal government and managed to increase their popular vote only a few percentage points in West Germany's general elections last September.

They gained ground in recent months, however, as the party that dramatically moved towards closer relations between West Germany and Communist East Germany. This was the attempt to stage direct "confrontations" between speakers from the two zones at public meetings.

The hopes aroused by the prospect of such debates perhaps show how passionate German ardor for reunification remains despite annual discouragements.

Another election factor was that the Ruhr is in ferment. Oil and natural gas—plus cheap imported coal from the United States—have damaged the Ruhr coal industry.

More than 200,000 miners have been laid off in the last four years and although they all obtained work in other industries, the situation has not helped the governing Christian Democrat position.

NINE-SEAT GAIN

The socialists captured 99 of the North Rhine-Westphalia's 200 seats—a nine-seat increase—while the Christian Democrats, losing 10 of their seats, won 86. The Christian Democrats had governed in coalition with the Free Democrats, who won 15 seats, an increase of one.

Clearly negotiations will be necessary to decide the new state government in view of the near-deadlock.

In any case, the election cannot directly affect Erhard's federal position at present.

Seating in the Bundestag, the federal parliament's lower house, will remain unchanged. But a socialist government at Duesseldorf would mean virtual disappearance of Erhard's majority in the Bundesrat, or upper house, since its membership consists of state delegates. The Christian Democrat edge in the electoral college which elects the federal president also would be upset for the 1969 presidential elections.

Some observers believe it is possible the state's two major parties will form a coalition in North Rhine-Westphalia, and that this solution could later form a pattern in federal politics, now dominated by the Christian Democrats and Free Democrats in coalition.

Peterborough Man and Daughter Perish in Flames After Piper Cub Crashes on Takeoff at Colborne

ONLY THE FRAMEWORK remains of a Piper Cub plane which was swept by flames when it crashed after takeoff at Colborne yesterday. Benjamin Franklin Wilson of Peterborough and his daughter, Margaret Anne, died in the flames, trapped in the cabin.

COLBORNE — A 52-year-old Peterborough man and his 20-year-old daughter met an fiery death at 8.20 p.m. last night, when their single engine plane crashed into a pasture land two miles north of Colborne.

Witnesses to the crash said the plane, a Piper Cub, attempting a takeoff rose to about 100 feet off the ground suddenly nosed into the ground and burst into flames. The accident occurred on Department of Transport property being used as a landing field by local aircraft.

Dead are Benjamin Franklin Wilson a Canadian General Electric employee and his daughter Margaret Anne, a Peterborough student nurse in her final year.

The two plane occupants had earlier flown to Colborne from Peterborough to visit the deceased man's brother-in-law Stewart Carr and his wife and family. Mr. Carr said that she and her husband and their two children Jacqueline, 8 and Larry accompanied the Wilsons to the air field to watch them take off for their return trip to Peterborough.

"The plane piloted by Mr. Wilson nose dived after raising off the ground and crashed, near where we all were standing," said Mrs. Carr. "It was horrible to watch the flames that followed. Mr. Wilson was an experienced pilot, I don't know how it could have happened."

Douglas Rutherford, a Colborne trucker said, "I knew there was something wrong when the plane would not start easy. I am an experienced pilot and when the plane took off it first veered to the right then made a sharp circuit to the left, although there was no cross wind at the time. The plane's motor sounded as though it had flooded and the pilot was attempting to make a landing when the motor stalled and the plane nosed into the ground and burst into flames. I rushed over the field and saw the occupants trapped in the crushed plane cabin. Seeing the flames that followed I then went and called the Colborne fire department and the Ontario Provincial Police. When I got back to the crash scene there was nothing left of the plane but the seared frame work containing the bodies. I must be jinxed, this is the third plane crash I have witnessed."

Colborne OPP detachment is investigating and an autopsy will be held.

Record Broken For First Day At Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — First-day attendance at the Calgary Stampede Monday broke a seven-year record as 112,446 persons went to the exhibition in fine weather, compared with 98,707 on the same day last year.

Previous record for the first day was 110,220 in 1959. Stampede officials said the crowds boosted hopes of total attendance of at least 600,000. The record is 591,695 for the six days, set in 1959.

U.S. Senator Robert F. Kennedy opened the exhibition Monday night before leaving for Washington. The Canadian petroleum exposition opened on the stampede grounds at the same time.

Greek Throne Security Improved by Showdown

By PHILIP DOPOULOS

ATHENS (AP)—Last July 15 25-year-old King Constantine of Greece rejected 77-year-old Premier George Papandreou's demand for control of the armed forces and forced him to resign.

Greece's worst crisis since the Communist civil war of 1947-49 followed, and for months the existence of the monarchy appeared threatened again.

Papandreou's appeals brought rioting crowds into the streets of Athens and other major cities. Communists and other leftist agitators took control of the crowds. A student was killed and hundreds injured.

Papandreou, who controlled 170 of the 300 seats in Parliament, challenged the young king repeatedly with the words "The people rule, the king reigns." He demanded immediate elections, asserting, "the people's will has been violated."

A year after the showdown the young king's crown is secure while Papandreou wanders in a lonely political wilderness, his Centre Union party shrinking and his magic apparently gone.

TREADS FINE LINE

The balance keeping Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos and his coalition government in power is precarious. Fearful of a real test, the premier has presented no major legislation since winning a paper-thin majority in Parliament on his first confidence vote Sept. 24.

But Stephanopoulos has performed a balancing act to stave off further political upsets, and his support appears to be growing. Talk of the early elections sought by Papandreou has died down. The king and the premier may be able to hold things together until the next scheduled elections in 1968.

The Centre Union, a loose association of leftist and rightist political parties which had banded together in 1964, began crumbling at the height of the crisis last summer

FEELS AGE

No longer as active as he was, Papandreou is beginning to feel his age. He has drastically curtailed speaking tours although he has not abandoned his fight to regain office. His son, Andreas, is struggling to take over the leadership of the party before it disintegrates.

Stephanopoulos has been working hard to win over more Centre Union deputies. So far 46 have abandoned Papandreou. More are reported planning to go over to Stephanopoulos before Parliament reconvenes in November.

Stephanopoulos now has the support of ERE's 99 deputies, the eight progressives and the 46 former Centre Unionists who constitute his Liberal party. That means 153 of the 300 seats in Parliament.

In opposition are 121 Centre Unionists and 22 members of the Communist-front EDA, the united democratic left.

Three independents are noncommittal. A government deputy who recently died has not been replaced.

No Increase In Seaway Tolls This Season

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be no increase in St. Lawrence Seaway tolls during the 1966 shipping season, Transport Minister Pickersgill told the Commons Monday.

If the government decided to boost tolls for the 1967 season, the announcement would be made in the House. The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority has proposed a 10-per-cent toll increase and the issue now is before the cabinet.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker had sought assurance that any increases would not be put into effect while Parliament is closed for the summer recess.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his party has taken a strong stand against any increase because it would be detrimental to the country.

Mr. Pickersgill said the government is required by the law to impose tolls in order to amoritize the debt of the seaway.

George Hees (PC—Northumberland) asked Mr. Pickersgill whether his officials have told him that the United States is opposed to any increase.

The transport minister declined any comment while negotiations are continuing.

Around the 'Cat'

Bill Fuller of the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club will represent district 15 in the zone playoffs for singles at Peterborough on Saturday. Along with Mr. Fuller will be "Jerry" Hyde and Bruce Miller, who have qualified for the doubles. A rink, skipped by Dick Edney of Kingston will also be on hand. These winners will meet the winners from three other districts and the eventual winners will proceed to Brantford for the Provincial finals.

Mr. Fuller won his district title on the local greens a couple of Sundays ago, when six entries vied for the singles title. In the preliminary round Bill Wright won over Jack Avery 21-17 while Frank Morrell defeated L. Chouinard of Trenton 21-12. In the second round Wright defeated Ken Peacock of Trenton 21-17 while Fuller won over Frank Morrell 21-6. In the final game Fuller won over Wright 21-13.

22 rinks of mixed doubles took part in the tournament staged by the Trenton Lawn Bowling Club on the Belleville greens on Saturday afternoon and the Belleville rink of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wright won the tourney. Morley Galt and Mrs. Muriel Springer of Kingston were in second place and Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan of Kingston followed in third place. Mr. and Mrs. William VanTassel of the Belleville Club won the two-game high score while Mr. and Mrs. Dick Edney won the one-game high count. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bruce of Kingston were high for no wins.

It was a fine tournament and the greens were lightning fast. On Wednesday afternoon the local club will stage a mixed trebles tournament and a large entry is expected.

May Control Scourge of Black Flies

DEEP RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Experiments of two Queen's University biology students in this area may result in control of black flies, long a scourge to loggers and to resort area residents.

The students, Norman Slate, 22, and John Gomery, 20, began their project in May under the direction of a biology professor, Dr. A. S. West, and biologist Dr. W. F. Baldwin of Atomic Enery of Canada Ltd.

They hope to learn where the flies breed, how far they migrate and their travel pattern.

The students pick rocks cov the river and immerse them in a solution of radioactive material.

Any radioactive adult flies trapped and placed on a sheet of unexposed x-ray film will make dark spots appear on the film, so the number of so-called radioactive flies can be counted.

The traps are painted dark blue, the black fly's favorite color, and striped white for visibility.

If the students find black flies that plague a resort or construction camp are bred in a nearby stream, it will be easy to control them by spraying the area during breeding season.

So far they have found about 800 radioactive flies, a small percentage compared to the number of larvae tagged, but far more than all other fly-tagging experiments conducted.

Canada's Neutral Stance

From a purely practical point of view it is easier to take sides than to walk the tightrope of neutrality.

Senator Robert Kennedy said as much last week when he replied to a question regarding Canada's neutral role in world crises involving the United States.

"I don't want to answer that question directly," replied the senator, "but I'd like to quote Dante. . . The hottest place in hell is reserved for those who in time of crisis preserve their neutrality."

However, Dante lived a long time ago, and it would be folly to regard his words as axiomatic. The hell in Viet Nam is not of Canada's making.

There are good reasons, moreover, for Canada's neutral stand. For one thing, this country is a member of the International Control Commission on Viet Nam. It is true this body (the other members are India and Poland) has been long since relegated to an observer role in Viet Nam, but it is nevertheless symbolic of Canada's non-combatant stance.

Then again, Canada has been active in attempts to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam conflict. Canadian diplomat Chester Ronning, for example, has had talks with North Vietnamese leaders, and at this point remains the only contact between all sides in the war.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin rightly points out that Mr Ronning's role is important in a situation where a breakdown in communications could be crucial.

In other words, if there are to be any peace feelers from the communist side, it may well be they will be communicated through neutral representatives such as Chester Ronning.

Over the years, no country has done more in the diplomatic sphere in the interests of peace than has Canada. For instance the United Nations peacekeeping forces that have helped restore order in various parts of the world were established on the suggestion of Prime Minister Pearson when he was Canada's External Affairs Minister.

In this way Canada has given a lead in keeping the peace in such widely-dispersed regions as the Gaza Strip where Jews and Arabs live in uneasy proximity, in the Congo and in Cyprus.

Should Canada ever renounce its belief in diplomacy as a means of achieving order in the world, and take up arms in circumstances short of there being no other recourse but to go to war, then the respect it now enjoys would be lost immediately. Thus, while remaining a good neighbor of the United States, Canada's neutral stance with regard to Viet Nam and similar military situations that may arise is all important.

West Indies Future

The new trading agreement between Canada and the Commonwealth countries and territories in the Caribbean is of prime significance.

With British influence waning as independence looms on the horizon for the different island territories, Canadian economic, political and moral support will become more and more important.

Not that Britain is bowing out, but Canada is ideally placed to promote the progress of the Commonwealth lands in the Caribbean at a crucial point in their development.

When it is considered that a prosperous economy is one of the foremost bastions against communist infiltration and aggression, Canada's new stake in this region may be seen in its full perspective.

Canadian assistance in the educational sphere, moreover will help to ensure a steady stream of trained people who in turn will fit into the pattern of prosperity the West Indies envisages in the years ahead. Already a considerable number of Canadian teachers are serving in the area.

The West Indies, of course, is not without its troubles. The original federation which stemmed from the early days of independence broke up some years ago and countries such as Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago are now going their own way.

In British Guiana (now Guyana) on the mainland of South America, there is a constant undercurrent of tension between the opposing races, and British Honduras (in Central America) is still at odds with neighboring Guatemala.

However, as aid from Canada and other western countries helps to promote a climate of increasing prosperity and stable administration these tensions will tend to become less pressing. All in all, the outlook in the Caribbean is bright, a factor that is greatly enhanced by Canada's renewed commitment in the region

20 YEARS AGO

The current passenger car tire shortage which is making it difficult for Canadian motorists to secure the tires needed to keep the jalopy rolling through out the summer is also creating hardships for American tourists now driving through this country, according to local tire dealers. "Every day we get sob stories from American motorists desperately in need of a tire to continue their journey," stated one dealer. "But there is nothing which we can do about it. Passenger car tires in the popular sizes are not just to be had."

Peopled used to tuck those cute American greenback bills away for future reference and discount. Since the government parity order came into effect, American money has appeared as if by magic in shops and stores. A saleslady will give you change in American currency as nonchalantly as she wraps up the parcel. "What a whale of a difference a few cents make."

Canadians In New England

Toronto Telegram

A Connecticut report reveals that Canadians now constitute the largest group of aliens living in that state.

According to the U. S. Immigration Service, there were 13,861 Canadians—native born and immigrants—who went to Connecticut last year to establish permanent homes. This was an increase of almost 1,500 over 1964.

Annoying to Canadian authorities is that for every one U. S. immigrant who comes to this country, three Canadians leave for south of the border. They are attracted by higher pay, better working conditions, and a warmer climate.

Canadian universities have been co-operating with Ottawa in "Operation Retrieval," which began in March. Teams have visited a number of states and the major colleges, in an effort to lure graduates — Canadian and non-Canadian — to this country.

Incentive Necessary To Stop Smoking

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would be so happy if my husband would stop smoking. He is one who can't, or should I say won't, cut down. Three packs a day makes me thoroughly disgusted, in silence! — Mrs. A.-S.

• • •

It's easy for a non-smoker to lose patience with people who should cut down or quit. Only a confirmed smoker can know how hard it is to "kick the habit." Nobody really knows why, but smoking has a tremendous but subtle appeal; otherwise there wouldn't be so many millions of habitual smokers.

I myself quit. I did it "cold turkey" which is hard, but the quickest way, several years ago. Possibly the most important element in giving up smoking is the incentive — how much do you want to stop?

In my case, I knew, as a physician, how much damage smoking can do. One cigarette never hurt anybody, but it doesn't take many cigarettes to establish the habit, and 20 or 30 or 40 years of smoking can do a lot of harm

We have very convincing statistics about the great increase in lung cancer among middle-aged people who have smoked for years, but that isn't necessarily the reason that is most impressive to physicians, who know what else smoking can do.

Statistics are building up to show how much more heart trouble afflicts habitual smokers. Bronchiectasis, asthma, emphysema and other breathing difficulties are common and at time dangerous.

I know one famous physician who gave up tobacco because his motive was to get more sleep. Until he quit cigarettes, he rarely slept a night through without waking up coughing. An even more famous surgeon who used to burn up four packs a day stopped because the nicotine was playing hob with the circulation in his legs, and a surgeon can't work unless his legs are steady for hours at a time.

As far as I'm concerned, I'm not afraid of dying. Everybody does it eventually, and when the time comes to die, most people are ready for it. But who wants to be a disabled old critter when he can remain active and comfortable in his older years if he will go through two or three weeks of misery to break the tobacco habit ?

There are various "system" methods being developed for breaking the habit, and I have no quarrel with any of them, except that none will work unless a person has incentive enough to try hard. There's no easy way for anyone.

There are various tricks that help, and I've assembled them into a booklet, "Tips on How to Stop Smoking." Anyone can obtain a copy by sending to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover printing and handling costs. But the most important "tip" of all, for anybody, is the realization that you need an incentive, a motive. If you know that the results are more than worth the effort for two or three weeks, anybody can quit. But don't expect it to be easy.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it dangerous to use cracked eggs? What is the possibility of food poisoning? We buy the eggs from a poultry man and keep them refrigerated until cooked. — L.W.

Raw egg is one of the excellent materials in which to grow germs in laboratories. It follows that if germs get into eggs anywhere else, they will grow. You can safely use the eggs since you keep them refrigerated (to retard growth of food poisoning germs if they are present) and — very important — by thorough cooking to destroy any germs. Do not use these for eggnogs, raw.

Note to D. S.: Griseofulvin drugs are taken by mouth to combat certain fungus infections; tolnaftate (Tinactin solution) is applied directly to the skin. Both require a prescription. My advice is to consult a dermatologist (skin specialist).

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 12, 1966 . . .

The military campaign of the War of 1812-14 opened 154 years ago today — in 1812 — when Gen. William Hull with 2,500 troops invaded Canada from Detroit. The United States had declared war on Britain almost a month before, but began the campaign with only hastily improvised plans to concentrate the military effort on Upper Canada. The force under Gen. Hull was repulsed three times at River aux Canards and was obliged to hurry back to Detroit within a month when General Isaac Brock and a British force counter-attacked. Hull surrendered Detroit to Brock exactly five weeks after the premature invasion of Canada.

1808 — Napoleon entered Madrid.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916—the British recaptured Mametz Wood and repulsed heavy German counter-attacks on Contalmaison and Trones Wood; Germans hurled 18,000 men against French positions east of the Meuse.

The Phenomenon That Is Britain

Christian Science Monitor

Most people like reading about themselves. There is even a covert, wry satisfaction when the reading is critical or nasty. Most people like talking about themselves, too. Thse remarks are prompted by what the London newspapers are saying about Anthony Lewis's column in the New York Times last week. In it, Mr. Lewis wrote: "The atmosphere in London today can be almost eerie in its quality of relentless frivolousness. There can rarely have been a greater contrast between a country's objective situation and the mood of its people."

Understandably, Mr. Lewis's tart and perceptive article has Britons wagging their tongues and pounding their typewwriters as much as did the recent cover-story in Time magazine on London being the world's swingingest city. It was with quiet pleasure that we noted that an American had risen in defense of Britons, with a wittily written piece in Sunday's Observer.

The Times — of London, of course — sent its man along to ask the London correspondent of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia what he thought about Mr. Lewis's picture of Britain. Perhaps hoping to score a point for his homeland against a critical American, the Izvestia man said: "I certainly do not consider that Britain is sliding slowly to economic and moral perdition, as Mr. Lewis appears to." Britain's problem, he added, was "not striptease but the brain drain." A Swedish and a West German correspondent, on the other hand, were reported as being largely in agreement with Mr. Lewis.

It was left to a Japanese and an Italian correspondent to say perhaps the most pertinent things about the Lewis article. With a shade of overstatement, the Japanese commented: "The Americans tend to oversimplify always." It is not so much that Mr. Lewis oversimplified as that the mood of which he writes is but one facet of the travail of a people who just cannot be counted out. Britain is so much more than Carnaby Street or Crockford's.

Said the Italian: "My diagnosis of the English affliction is that the country has lost, and not found yet, a national purpose. Britain is no longer a great power but is still a great country. And a great country always needs a demanding role to fulfill."

Of course these things have been said before. The problem is to define the role or the purpose in a way acceptable and rousing to Britons as a whole. Americans are blessed by having the inspired words of the Founding Fathers to bring them back on course, if they yaw. Let us not forget that Britain's role in the past was no mean one. Contemporary cynicism has perhaps gone too far in belittling it — above all among Britons themselves. For our part, we do not believe Britain is going to the dogs — for the simple reason that our faith in Britain remains unshaken.

"Les Taxes" Finished Lesage— Ottawa Please Take Note

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When the "impossible" happened and Daniel Johnson's under-rated Union Nationale toppled the over-touted Jean Lesage's Liberals, everybody seemed surprised except that old pragmatist Rene Levesque.

He knew why it had happened.

And it happened in Quebec for the same basic reason it happened in Prince Edward Island when Premier Walter Shaw's Conservative majority was cut from under him, and in Manitoba where Conservative Premier Duff Roblin was pushed perilously close to a minority.

In Quebec, he says wistfully, wishing foresight had been as perceptive as hindsight, "they got suddenly fed up to here with taxes, and took it out on us."

If this is so, and the election trend has been the same in PEI, Quebec and Manitoba, then the Federal politicians had better start worrying about les taxes and les taxpayers.

At least worrying about them more than they have been, which, so far, in this 27th Parliament, has been precious little.

SAVE? HOW'S THAT?

To have read Hansard, daily word-for-word record of this Parliament since it opened exactly 120 days ago on January 18, is to know that the only thing which really concerned a great many of its members was spending.

Everybody, Conservative, Liberal, Creditiste, Socred and especially New Democrat, was busy thinking up new and different ways to tap the Treasury — not, of course, neglecting all the old tried and true ways.

They wanted more for subsidies covering just about everything from alfalfa in Agriculture to Zambia in Foreign Aid.

No question involving money could be raised but that the problem routinely could be solved by spending it.

Spending more of it.

Government expenditures — all of which must be approved by Parliament — tell the story.

This year approaching $10,000,000,000.

Last year just edging $9,000,000,000.

But what about taxes?

It runs, for this Parliament, some 500 pages with more than 35,000 separate listings.

There are two pages, some 60 entries on Capital Punishment.

Seventy entries on the Auto Industry and Auto Safety.

TAXES? WHO CARES?

But on Taxation?

Seven listings.

Don't flip carelessly through the Index or you'll miss them.

Just seven references to Taxation.

Even Ghana rated seven.

What are the Taxation listings?

"Burden on Low Incomes". . . 'High Level Of' . . . "Increases In" . . . "Taxing Taxes" . . and three other entries having nothing to do with tax rates.

Well, maybe Taxation isn't really anything the Honorable Members should bother their heads about, when there are such things as "Uganda, Situation In" . . . "Kwame Nkrumah, Relationship with Guinea" . . . "Upper Volta, Aid For" . . . to worry them.

Could be Taxation's that unimportant . . . except that the Economic Council, the Government's own special agency assigned to keeping the national economy rolling prosperously along, has reported that Taxation accounts for 47 cents of every consumer dollar.

It isn't all Federal Taxation. The provinces and the municipalities pile it on, too.

But stack it all together and your dollar becomes 53 cents.

Interestingly, the Dominion Statistics Bureau sets the Consumer Cost Index—which is the Cost-of-Living official measurement — at 144. That means it takes $1.44 to buy what you could get for $1.00 when prices were "normal," as DBS puts it Which makes your $1.00 worth really only 56 cents. Coincidence, isn't it, that 53 and 56 cent relationship?

Is it because the Parliamentarians go tax-free on $6,000 of their $18,000 — paying only on $12,000 — that Hansard lists only seven entries under "Taxation?"

Strictly Personal

Princeton's Dating Computer

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

An outfit called Com-Pair Systems in Princeton has offered, for the paltry sum of $6, to match me up with a woman through an RCA - 301 digital computer. It has also promised me two extra "compatible counterparts" at no added cost.

This bargain seems too great to pass up. I have avidly sent for the questionnaire to be filled out and fed through the machine although I could save Com-Pair a lot of time and trouble by telling them exactly what this woman will be like.

My "one and only," when the computer tracks her down, will be a woman of immense beauty, but no vanity, who spends practically no time in putting herself together.

She will be exquisitely feminine and dainty, but at the same time able to change a tire while I sit in the car and wait, and put up storm windows while I loll in an easy chair reading.

She will be a superb housekeeper, able to run a 20-room house without help; a cordon bleu cook, whipping up a dinner for 10 couples in less time than it takes to tell it; and a magnificent raconteuse, equally adept at diverting an 8-year-old child and an 80-year-old dowager.

Although a woman of immense inherited wealth, she will be utterly free of the foibles, foolishness and snobbishness that so frequently flaw the possessors of long-term solvency.

She will be a mature woman—but innocent; a virginal woman — but experienced; a sensual woman — but athletic; a sophisticated woman — but enthusiastic; a maternal woman — but erotic; a complex woman — but uncomplicated; a rational woman — but intuitive.

She will be submissive but not cloying, amusing but not fatuous, serious but not solemn, efficient but not officious, discriminating but not captious, intriguing but not devious, and dependent but not demanding.

She will know where to buy a $300 gown for $16, or how to buy a $16 one and make it look like $300; she will be an accomplished linguist, researcher, typist, historian philologist, and clinical psychologist; at the same time, equally proficient in the skills of plumbing, carpentry, nutrition, decoration, landscaping, and repairing broken bicycles.

I do humbly recognize that all this may be a trifle too much for one woman — which is why Com-Pair offers those two extra "compatible counterparts" to take up the slack. On second thought, I've asked the company to forget about the questionnaire. Just send me RCA-301 digital computer, and we'll march down the aisle, arm in armature!

Bank Strike In Ireland

Financial Post

Strikes and rumors of strikes currently cast long shadows over Canada, but for the strangest strike of all take a look at goings-on in Ireland.

When junior bank tellers in the republic and the north counties went on strike last May, the nine banks involved simply put up the shutters on their 900 branch offices. It's true that the Irish are now beginning to run a wee bit short of ready cash. The money tends to gather in the hands of transportation companies, shops, pubs — all the places where people habitually spend their pay. It can't be deposited for recirculation.

But although the strike has been settled in the six northern counties, it still goes on in Eire. Many of the employees now have other jobs.

Irish companies with British connections are importing English notes and coins. That's how they meet their payroll and, indirectly, keep the financial machinery greased.

Must Sign Bond To Keep Peace

Gerald Herbert Wood, 24, of 174 Pine St., was given a suspended sentence of two years and told he would have to sign a bond to keep the peace when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assault in magistrate's court this morning.

Magistrate Wills told him that one of the conditions of the bond would be that he would have to stay away from his 16-year-old ex-girlfriend, and "neither phone her or annoy her in any way."

Police said that Wood and his girlfriend had a quarrel June 26 and when she refused to get out of his car, he grabbed her by the hair and put her out of the car. He also punched her and kicked her. She had a slight red mark on her face and abrasions to her hip.

They had been going together for about three years.

Canadian Hog Producers To Point of Accepting New Price-Grading System

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian hog producers moved Monday to the point of accepting a revised price-grading system and a national organization to press for its implementation.

Barring an unexpected hitch, a final decision is expected today on the double - barrelled move. There was no major floor objection to either at the hog producers conference here Monday.

The far - reaching grading change would classify dressed hogs at the packing plant on the basis of predicted lean meat yield determined by scientific tests and formulas.

Two physical tests of hog backfat would provide the basic data for the yield estimate on which the farmer would be paid.

Under the present system, a government grader places the carcass in one of three quality categories for payment. The assessment is largely based on weight, fat cover and length.

HOLD INQUIRY

However a hog producers' committee inquiring into the subject said the evaluation methods "leaves much to be desired" in predicting eventual lean meat yield.

While moving toward a decision on grading, the conference also talked over the constitution of the proposed Canadian Swine Coucil.

The council, comprised of provincial and other hog producer and breeding associations, would conduct research and formulate national policy to further the hog industry.

Its first envisaged task is to carry out any hog - grading change adopted by the current conference, which opened Monday.

James Bentley of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the chairman, is expected to place both matters before the conference today.

The meat packing industry gave qualified approval to the change. Keith Leckie, general manager of the Canadian Meatpackers Council, told the conference co - operation will be extended to allow for implementation if the move gets strong support from hog producers.

Federal Minister's Wife Cooks for Family of 11, Doesn't Believe in Maids

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — Gertrude Robichaud has a family of 11 to cook for, she has to undertake political entertaining—and she still doesn't believe in maids.

The wife of the federal fisheries minister is a native Acadian from New Brunswick and has taken the trouble to make all her nine children bilingual, as she is.

"I've always felt my duty was to my children first—to make their home a place to remember," says the plump, pretty, champagne-blonde with the big blue eyes.

"A man can have the best education in the world, but if he didn't learn good principles and a good way of life at home, he's missed a lot."

The Robichauds' home is in a modern ranch-style house in the Sandy Hill district of Ottawa, where there are several embassies and ambassadors' residences.

It's only a 10-minute drive to Parliament Hill for Mr. Robichaud, or a short walk to the University of Ottawa for the two oldest boys, Jean, 20, and Robert, 19. Also nearby is the General Hospital, where Linda, 22, is a nurse.

"The future politician," 16-year-old Eric, attends high school at the university and Richard, 10, "the baby," is in Grade 5. Anne, 14, and Louise, 12, attend Notre Dame Convent in Grades 9 and 8.

Only the two oldest girls are away from home. Doris, 27, who used to be a music teacher, now is a nun in the Notre Dame order and teaches in Montreal. Mona, 23, is a dental nurse in her home province in New Brunswick but expects to leave Bathurst for Ottawa in the fall.

PREFERS GIVING PARTY

Mrs. Robichaud does a good deal of entertaining at election time.

"I have accompanied my husband on some of his campaigns, but I prefer to campaign at home." Even now, she would rather give a party than go to one.

She solves the clothes problem with suits.

"Since we moved to Ottawa three years ago, when my husband was made minister, I've found if you have good suits, you can go anywhere. So I don't buy fancy cocktail dresses."

NO MAID FOR MRS. ROBICHAUD—Making a happy home for her husband and nine children is the personal role of Gertrude Robichaud, wife of the federal minister of fisheries. Even with political entertaining and all the other responsibilities of being a minister's wife, Mrs. Robichaud insists on carrying on without the help of a maid.

(CP Photo)

Her suits, in "practically every color," including her favorite pastels, are bought in Ottawa and Montreal. She would sew them herself but she hasn't the time.

"I used to make hats too. I think I should have been born a milliner because I just loved it."

The Robichauds were married in 1937. They first met when Mr. Robichaud came to Caraquet, N.B., from nearby Shippegan, on a baseball team.

He worked then for the provincial fisheries department and they lived in various New Brunswick communities — St. Andrews, Newcastle, Shediac and Fredericton—before moving back to Caraquet on Baie de Chaleur, when he was first elected to Parliament in 1953.

LOVES THE SEA

"Our house is on the main street. The town is 22 miles long, all along the shore. I love the sea—we used to go sailing all the time—and I miss the water here. I find I have to go for a walk down by the Rideau River almost every day."

The Robichauds went to Louisiana last winter to represent New Brunswick at the 200th anniversary of the Acadian settlement there. They stood in for provincial Premier Louis Robichaud, no relation but an old friend.

"The Louisiana celebration was for the French population and it was wonderful to see how two cultures work together. It's surprising how they've kept up the language—it's a lot like Nova Scotia French."

The Robichauds have also visited Japan, Europe, Mexico and Jamaica.

She never expected to marry a politician, says Mrs. Robichaud, although she was always interested in politics. She visits Parliament "as often as I can, because I'm interested and that's where you can really learn what's going on in the country."

Girls' Schools Given Code Of Conduct

LAHORE (Reuters)—Schools for girls in West Pakistan have been given a new code of conduct by the provincial government, which has banned dancing and music lessons for them. It has also ordered segregation of the sexes in school plays in co-educational schools.

The new rules were decided at a cabinet meeting under provincial governor Malik Amir Mohammed Khan, and announced in the West Pakistan assembly here by Law Minister Ghulam Nabi Memon.

The minister told the House that "dancing in any form, even before female audiences, will not be allowed."

In co-educational institutions boys and girls will not be allowed to take part in plays together. Institutions for girls must not allow press photographers to attend their functions "and take photographs for the press, which provoke criticism."

Another role for girls announced by the law minister states that when they are playing games they must not "wear immodest dresses which expose parts of their body."

School plays and cultural programs must not be shown to mixed audiences, he added.

Housemaids Hard to Get In Greece

ATHENS (Reuters) — The housemaid is fast becoming a disappearing species in Greece.

One of the main reasons given by sociologists to explain the lack of maids as compared with a decade ago is the ever-increasing number of young Greek women who emigrate each year in search of a better life.

Last year a total of 117,167 Greeks emigrated, mainly to West Germany and Australia. Of these, 52,000 were women in the 15-39 age group.

West Germany's labor exchange is constantly bombardin gthe Greek employment office with requests for presentable girls to work for German families who pay 280 to 500 marks (about $70 to $125) a month.

In reverse, German girls who come to Greece to work and see the country can only be engaged as nursemaids by rich families who can offer them the salaries and comforts they are used to.

Another drain on the availability of maids is Greece's industrialization. With factories paying as much as 60 drachmas ($1.80) for an eight-hour day, Greek women are reluctant to work as "servants," a word which has come to acquire a distasteful and degrading connotation.

Realizing the profits to be reaped from this shortage, available Greek maids are becoming more demanding. The average monthly salary now being asked is 1,500 drachmas ($45) plus food and clothing and three to four free evenings a week. The average monthly salary for female office workers is $50 to $60.

Camping Trip Leaves Wonderful Memories

DEAR DORIS: About the letter signed Pop, about camping. It made me very sad (just for a minute) for last year at this time we were planning a trip across Canada. It was one I will never forget. The reason I was sad is because I can't go this year again. It was nothing short of wonderful.

DORIS CLARK

So Pop go ahead and take the kids. Don't make too many plans ahead, as half the fun is planning as you go along. But don't forget your pressure cooker if you have one; it cuts down on half the time of getting dinner. By the time the meat is cooked and table set, your vegetables are cooked.

The camping sites are just wonderful and lots of them. I just couldn't get over the welcome we received from everyone. Always someone was around to help, with a friendly smile. We met a man in camp one night. He had a sister who lives close to us, so I phoned her when I got home to tell her I had talked to her brother.

Our pictures turned out fine and my diary is just wonderful to go back over. So happy holiday to Pop, Mum and the Kids from — ELLA.

DEAR ELLA: Better set the date for the next time right now. Until a family packs up and takes off they can't possibly know the excitement and Cloud Nine feeling of a camping trip, can they?

Let's hear from more Happy Trippers.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I was going with a wonderful boy and we were going to be married.

Then I met another boy who I thought was really it. I went out with him quite a few times. He speeded along the roads, talked a lot, even swore and he also drank. I thought, "Boy, this is really living!" In three months I realized I was a fool and that I was heading for trouble and perhaps a terrible unhappy marriage. So I quit him.

Now I know I really love the first boy and I think he loves me but I guess he does not know if he should come back to me or not. I don't know how to go about letting him know how I feel. Please, Doris, tell me what to do. — FOOLISH ONE.

DEAR ONE: Call him up; write him a letter; or even send an un-birthday card to say you are missing him.

Now that you've discovered how you feel, the hard way, waste no time. Give him a ring; and here's hoping he'll soon be giving you one.

* * *

Confidential to NOT TOO YOUNG: No, my dear, you do not "bring shame on your mother" by introducing a boy to her and the relatives when he comes to your door. The shame would be if you turned your back on them.

Doubtless they have chided her for not "holding you down" and she is terribly embarrassed. But times have changed since she was a girl and she should be standing up to the interfering aunt and uncle. If she hasn't learned about how to help a daughter to grow up gracefully and graciously, I could recommend some books to her.

Show her this column.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I prepared a lovely dinner for the man my husband works for and his wife. The time was set for 6:30 p.m. They arrived at 7:10, without one word of explanation for being late.

The broccoli was brown instead of green, the Hollandaise sauce separated out; the beef was ovedrone. I was browned off!

I say it was bad form to be late but my husband tells me to cool off. — STILL BURNED UP.

DEAR BURNED UP: Being late for dinner is very bad form, as well as inconsiderate. Arriving on the dot is a must in Canada. For an evening do it is fine to be fashionably tardy — but not for dinner.

But our European newcomers may raise their eyebrows in surprise. A Continental explains that he wouldn't presume to seem to be rushing his dinner hostess by being right on time.

C'est la vie!

Almost Every Designer Has Version of Pants Suit

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Some women must want to be men. Some women must want to be birds, giraffes, woolly bears and chickens — but, forbid, never hens.

Furs want to be fabrics, and fabrics pretend they are furs.

This became increasingly obvious Monday as the American designers group presented its fall-style program for fashion writers.

Almost every designer has a version of the pants suit, tweedy and tailored; sometimes military and sometimes not; some with space helmets, and others with motorcycle goggles.

There were two important exceptions. Mollie Parnis and Adele Simpson presented some strong arguments for women being women.

Vibrant colors, youthful smock clothes, and flouncy sheer lace costumes perfect for fun and games was Miss Simpson's story.

Mollie Parnis models strode the runway in dome dresses, full shapes which swing wide at the hem; frame dresses which skim across the figure; and blazing jewelled short evening dresses.

LEARN NEW TRICKS

Back to the paradoxes, the tanners have now learned to treat pelts to be handled as easily as dress fabric. The pile can be sheered, even shaved, until once-hairy animal coats look like velvet and brocade. The joys of the Persian lamb industry for example are its cut velvet-like dresses and suits once worn by the sheep.

And there's no end to the fraudulent spots, stripes and patches that bunny fur can take on. Jacques Tiffeau wrapped his misses in tigers, leopards and giraffes, once rabbits.

The textile industry, not to be outdone, has turned fabrics into fur. These shaggy non-creatures, dyed and patterned, are stitched into so-called fun-and-games coats.

All in all, they provide women with the chance to be animals, just as the feather hats by Adolpho, Lilly Dache, and all the rest give them a chance to be birds this fall.

Woman Loves Working in World of Men

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — Marie Rauter, 22, works alone in a world of men—and loves it.

She is a forester, the only girl to win a forestry degree from the University of Toronto, and works in the genetics and tree building section of the Ontario department of lands and forests.

One of her tasks is climbing a ladder propped against a swaying 40-foot tree to pollinate blooms, all the time loaded with notebook, safety harness and tape to reseal the bags isolating each blossom.

As an undergraduate, she went with her class for four weeks each summer to Dorset, Ont., to the forest ranger school.

"We had 600 acres of land. We were given the land and had to find out its history—what would grow, when there were forest fires, and what it could produce with help in the future."

There are no frills on the job as a forester. Marie changes to a dress to drive home to nearby Toronto but wears slacks and sneakers at work.

She hopes to win an MA degree next year in genetics.

Business Women Want Hospital Patients to Vote

VICTORIA (CP)—Despite opposition, the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs voted Monday to ask the federal government to make it possible for hospital patients to vote.

Mrs. F. E. Pfohl of London, Ont. was one of several delegates who said her club opposed the resolution because hospital patients might be temporarily incompetent to vote for several reasons.

About 600 observers and delegates are representing the federation's 6,300 members at the five-day biennial convention which opened here Monday.

They passed resolutions to ask the federal government to:

—Amend the Canada Pension Plan Act so that a wife employed by her husband or vice versa be included in the plan;

—Study the needs of federal female offenders with a view to rehabilitate them. They want the study done and a plan made before any new federal penal institutions for women are planned;

—Increase the income tax exemption for single people from $1,000 to $1,500 with an additional $500 exemption for single people who maintain a dwelling;

—Extend survivorship provisions under the Canada Pension Plan Act so that a lump sum payment of at least 50 per cent of contributions is paid to a deceased contributor's estate when there are no surviving dependents.

Delegates will deal today with resolutions on employment conditions.

Expert Claims Women Get Easier Treatment Than Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women are appearing in court on criminal changes more and more, says U.S criminologist Paula Newbrg, but they still get easier treatment than men.

It used to be that women faced misdemeanor counts such as prostitution or drunkenness, but more often women now are charged with embezzlement, theft and other "male crimes."

But they've still "a lot of prejudices" working in their favor, Mrs. Newburg said in an interview.

Prejudices did her own career no good, since her application years ago to join an American police department was turned down. By now her value as a criminology consultant has become recognized throughout the United States.

She thinks criminality in women is related to their rights in society. In such countries as Japan, where women are still protected, their criminal involvement is low.

However Japan is using brain-washing techniques, she said, to tackle the penologist's oldest problem—the tendency of criminals to repeat one crime over and over again.

Prisoners are left alone for 10 hours or so to reflect on their problems and then take part in a group discussion.

"I don't know why it wouldn't work," she said. "We are being subjected to brain-washing every day — look at our advertising."

Mrs. Newburg spent five weeks with a street gang in Chicago while working on her doctoral thesis for the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Most of the gang had been in trouble with the police and some had served prison sentences, she recalled. She learned how they acquired money, alcohol and guns, and once watched them rob an 83-year-old man of 75 cents.

The boys wanted to find someone interested in them, Mrs. Newburg said. They liked drinking and getting into trouble because it gave them something to do.

Lack of Sexual Drive Unusual in Young Men

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you will print my letter you will be helping not only me but thousands of wives who dare not discuss this problem with anyone, no matter how trustworthy.

ANN LANDERS

My husband and I are in our early 40's. We have been faithful to one another for 15 years. I am attractive and youthful-looking. We have a large family, a lovely home and no financial worries.

My husband's decreasing desire for any physical contact with me is driving me to the edge. I have joked, hinted, flirted, and finally I came right out and verbalized my need for him. He remained silent and fell asleep, leaving me feeling degraded and fustrated.

I am writing to you because I find myself thinking some dangerous thoughts. Other men are beginning to look extremely attractive to me. I fear that one day when the opportunity presents itself (as it inevitably will) I'll take it.

At the moment I am torn between self-condemnation and physical starvation. Please don't suggest that I keep myself busy because I am busier than anyone I know. My husband's pride would not let him see a doctor about this problem so that's out. To complicate matters, our family doctor is a personal friend.

The unfaithful husband who wanders because his wife is cold and unresponsive gets a lot of sympathy. But ardent wives with cold husbands dare not look left nor right or they are considered tramps.

I am not ready for the rocking chair yet. What shall I do? — GETTING NOTIONS.

DEAR GETTING NOTIONS: Tell your husband precisely what you told me. Make it clear that you are not threatening him, but that you are gravely concerned about your ability to remain faithful to him. Explain that if he is interested in preserving his marriage he must see a doctor — perhaps in another city. A trip to the Mayo Clinic or Johns Hopkins for a "complete physical" is always a good idea.

It is not normal for a man in his early 40's to be completely disinterested in sex. Your husband should learn if there is something physically wrong with him. If he refuses to see a doctor, I suggest that you see one, and ask his advice.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago our only son came home from the service. He brought with him a girl who was only 20 years old and already she had a divorce and two small children. When he said, "Meet my wife," we almost died.

Now the problem is the girl's housekeeping. I've seen dirty houses in my day, Ann, but nothing can compare with hers. I've gone over there myself and cleaned her house from top to bottom at least a dozen times, but the next day it's the same pig's sty. My husband refuses to let me do it anymore and my son has asked me to stop, too.

They have a beautiful little boy now. I am just crazy about those three grandchildren so please don't tell me to stop going over there. I need you to tell me what to do. — LOS ANGELES HEARTACHE.

DEAR HEARTACHE: If all the women who write to me on this same subject were lined up, they would reach from Anchorage to Amarillo.

My advice is to play deaf, dumb and blind when you go over there. Enjoy your grandchildren and take them to your house whenever possible.

If your son complains to you about his wife's housekeeping tell him to talk to her, not you. It is their problem and you should stay out of it.

Women's Fashions Change Like Weather, Styles Shift

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Women's fashions are like the weather: If you don't like it, wait a minute. The style winds are sure to shift.

Sometimes it took the models less time than that as the American designers group previewed fall collections Monday for fashion writers.

Wish hemlines would come down? Go up? Cover the knee? Want elegance? Fun? Color? Tradition? Youth? Middle age (No woman is ever older than that.) It's either here or it's sure to come.

Jacques Tiffeau's models shifted from suits with skirts so short the hemlines rose to meet the jackets to skirts that dragged to the shins. Matching gaiters covered what was left of the leg.

The lowered hemline is prophetic, said the commentator, possibly of styles next year.

Meanwhile, as if to make up for this dismal prospect for girl watchers, lean, long shanked misses got in as much leg art as possible Monday. They undulated across the runway in skimmer shifts, and shirt jacket suits, figure-hugging sweaters, and waist-cinching belts.

Partial to French rabbit skins, Frenchman Eiffeau dyed them zanier patterns than Easter rabbit's eggs and stitched them into short shifts. Mole fur lined jackets and coats and perched over all as fur box hats.

If you like weather as reliable as an air conditioner, then coat and suit designer Ben Zuckerma is your man. Nothing much changes about his masterfully tailored, Balenciaga-like costumes, not even the astronomical price tags.

Monday elegantly coiffed ladies sauntered onto the runway in delicate pastel coats with puffs of fox fur at the sleeves and neck. Sometimes the fur rose in status to mink, to chinchilla; sometimes the buttons were jewelled.

Always a diplomat, Miss Simpson, who designs for the White House, switched her models from young smock styles and bows to sophisticated figure slimming sheaths for women well endowed with birthdays.

Tight sweaters, which always have had a lot to do with rising temperatures, were only a part of the knit styles paraded by Kimberly. Their technological advances over grandmother's clacking needles included: High bosomed blazers dressed with yokes and cross seaming, and puffy, airy brocaded evening clothes.

Religious Spiritualism Is Upheld

It's a religion of "love, light and joy."

Rev. Elsie Tingley of the Open Door Spiritualist Church says she can't understand why religious periodicals attack spiritualism as something sinister and frightening.

"Surely there's nothing wrong in trying to contact loved ones," she says.

An attractive, grey - haired woman, Mrs. Tingley admits that there is a certain amount of hocus-pocus in the movement, usually connected with ouija boards and crystal balls in darkened rooms. But she says most spiritualist churches are engaged in a sincere pursuit of truth.

The dead, she says, "have left their bodies and passed into a new dimension," where their friends can still reach them.

"With all the marvels of science around us, why is it so hard to believe? . . . We have proved that they do. . . . It's no more remarkable than sending out radio signals which can be picked up 1,000,000 miles away."

Services conducted by Mrs. Tingley begin with hymns and Bible readings, like those of other churches. Then she gives clairvoyant descriptions of dead persons and passes on messages to individuals in the congregation.

Mrs. Tingley said she is in touch with her own husband, who died several months ago.

Tiny Doctor Given Award By College

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Fe Del Mundo is a tiny, jet-haired doctor who runs a children's hospital in the Philippines and occasionally has to sell possessions to keep it going.

Dr. Albert E. Holland is the handsome new president of Hobart and William Smith colleges who counts among his academic chores the presentation of honors such as the Elizabeth Blackwell Award.

Holland gave Dr. Del Mundo that award Sunday afternoon—the first time he and the 86-pound doctor had seen each other since the Second World War.

About 600 members of the Medical Women's International Association from 33 countries journeyed by bus from Rochester, where they are holding their biennial conference, to see Dr. Del Mundo, their president, receive the award. The presentation was made only a few yards from where Elizabeth Blackwell, in 1849, received a medical degree. She was the first American woman doctor.

Early in the Second World War, Holland, then a young businessman, was interned by the Japanese in the Philippines. He weighed 195 pounds when he was taken into custody and three years, one month and three days later, he came out of internment at 93 pounds.

Dr. Del Mundo was the young physician who talked the Japanese commandant into letting her use the Holy Ghost College as a home and hospital for interned mothers and children—mostly Americans.

CHILLED BEAN SALAD

In the Fall of 1964 there arrived here a flurry of requests for marinated bean salad and at that time, in this column, I gave a recipe that would serve 12 people.

Since then a Home Economist friend of mine has juggled and refined the recipe to her taste and passed it on to me for you. But after Wyn gave it to me I juggled the recipe a little more. When I served it icy cold with hot steak at a cookout supper my daughter-in-law Margie said it was the best thing on the menu. Better than barbecued steak? '

Judge for yourselves.

Boiled Beef Tongue with Raisin Sauce; Buttered Boiled Green Onions; Creamed Carrots; Bibb and Iceberg Lettuce Salad with Roquefort Dressing; Berry Shortcake (see Mon.); Coffee.

CHILLED BEAN SALAD

(serves 8 or 10):

NOTE:

This bean salad should be made in advance.

½ pound green beans (or 20-oz. can), ½ pound wax beans (or 20-oz. can), one 12-oz. package fresh frozen baby lima beans, 1 cup cooked (or canned) red kidney beans, 1 green pepper, cut into 1" narrow strips, ½ mild medium-sized onion, chopped, 1/3 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup spirit vinegar, ¼ cup salad oil, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon M.S.G. (accent).

Wash and cut the green and wax beans into 1" lengths and cook in small amount of boiling salted water until nearly tender. Drain. (If canned green and wax beans are used drain them well.)

Cook the baby limas separately in a small amount of boiling salted water until barely tender — about 5 minutes. Drain and add to green and wax beans in large bowl that has a lid. Add the drained kidney beans. (Note: If you care to you can soak dried kidney beans and cook them until tender and drain instead of using canned kidney beans.) Add cut green pepper and chopped onion, sugar, vinegar, oil, salt, pepper and M.S.G. and gently mix. Cover and chill for 24 hours at least stirring two or three times gently to marinate all ingredients during this period.

This salad is exceptionally pretty and is a blessing for busy hostesses. If any is leftover it simply improves with standing if kept covered and chilled.

Susanna's Family Fare

SEE WHAT I MEAN?

Are you a member of the clan? Fair and fortyish but frustrated, because the telephone book, the fine print on recipes and the instructions on the new box of starch are all a blur without your bifocals? And you can't find those elusive glasses when you need them most?

Take a trip to the dime store to pick up half a dozen little round magnifying glasses, and then place them strategically about the house. Tie them down if necessary, by the phone, in the laundry room and in the kitchen.

SHIFT TIPS

Hi Su: Ideal informal shifts for all the females in the family can be made from two fringed Turkish towels and a bit of white rope cord. Pastel flowered ones are so pretty.

Small sizes from hand towels for the little girls and bath towel size for mom.

Leave the fringe showing at the bottom, hem it under at the top. Stitch the sides together, allowing an adequate armhole opening

Run a length of cord through the top back hem and one through the front. Tie on the shoulders — gives cool boat neck effect and makes for easy access in and out of the garment, or finish off neck to your own special liking.

Wear it with a rope sash, or nice and loose and shifty. — Montreal Mrs.

Designers Gamble On Fall Tent Coat

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP)—The tent silhouette has come into its own. And the pants suit is making another bid for fashion flavor.

Most of the houses at the semi-annual viewing of fashion collections, presented by the New York Couture Bureau Council, have decided to gamble on the tent coat for fall.

Originala, a trend - setting coat-and-suit house, features a daytime tent coat in a scarlet-faced wool and a white evening matelasse with sparkle buttons.

The tent silhouette is not confined to coats. Late-day dresses and formals include stiffened fabrics that flare away from cut-back shoulders to wide circular hemlines.

The pants suit made its debut several seasons ago but was not popular. Now the pants suit returns in everything from a daytime combination of white gabardine pants with a blue-flaring tunic to at-home glamor in pale pink silk satin pants with a brocaded rajah tunic.

The costume look still dominates the scene, both for street and after - five happenings. Dresses with their companion jackets or coats match or contrast fabrics.

The latter is especially effective in Jack Sarnoff's deep pink, triple-worsted slim coat with its own chiffon broadcloth dress. With Davidow, the costume look extends to suits with coats, such as the matching tweeds in a blue-bronze plaid or a plum-and-shocking pink tweed.

Fabrics: Sears presented an entire collection of knits for the straddling teens - into - twenties, from poor boy knit shorts with a knit jersey top to several metallic glitter knits for partying.

Several of Hannah's Troy's double knits had the look of wool jersey. Gabardine is back in suits that are frequently fur trimmed, as well as in sportswear.

Formals: Floor - length formals are still fashion's choice but there is renewed interest in the short formal. The beaded look is back again but it's not too ostentatious. This fall the glitter is more likely to be confined to the bodice, a yoke and sleeves, or ribbon banding.

Canada seemed to be condoning a policy that was similar to the "very action that we hate and fear communism for." He criticized the U.S. for having "abandoned any pretence of using the United Nations."

It did nothing to "help the cause of democracy by abandoning its ideals." Small nations would wonder if the policy meant "democracy is hypocrisy."

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) wanted Canada to offer unqualified support to the proposal of U Thant, UN secretary - general, that U.S. bombings stop.

SAYS CANADA IGNORED

Colin Cameron (NDP — Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands) said the U.S. is ignoring Canada's role as a negotiator. Some 80 per cent of the South Vietnamese wanted the Americans to leave.

Although several MPs prefaced their remarks on the CBC in general and the Seven Days television program in particular by agreeing they might be flogging a dead horse, they still found a few points to raise.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) accused the CBC management of "insane, vindictive behavior" and asked the government to step in and stop it.

The management handling of the Seven Days controversy had resulted in 11 people leaving the program, and its death. J. Alphonse Ouimet, CBC president, must be told to reverse the situation and win back the talent that is leaving, Mr. Lewis said.

L. R. Sherman (PC—Winnipeg South), although agreeing that CBC management was "botching" its job, had no sympathy for the "temperamental rebels of the CBC who are pouting on the sidelines this week."

Irresponsible producers had been given their heads by a management that seemed hamstrung. Personally he bade the producers "goodbye, and good riddance."

The day ended with Labor Minister Nicholson leading off debate at the second-reading stage of a bill setting out the terms of reference of an inquiry into unsettled issues arising out of the 39-day Quebec longshoremen's strike that ended June 14.

The commission, whose findings are binding, is to look into size and make-up of work gangs at the ports of Montreal, Trois-Rivieres and Quebec, call-up and recall procedures for longshoremen, and job security.

Although the minister was still speaking when adjournment came, MPs, through their questions and jeers, indicated the binding nature of the legislation is what they want to talk about.

Mrs. Gandhi Is in Moscow For Parley

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The influence of non-aligned powers in international affairs faced a test today as Prime Minister Gandhi of India was expected in Moscow to present a new peace plan for Viet Nam to Russia's leaders.

Five days of official talks have been arranged for Mrs. Gandhi, who has the backing of two other non-aligned countries —Yugoslavia and the United Arab Republic—for her call for reconvening the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

Russia, co - chairman with Britain of the 1954 conference which ended the war in Indochina, is reluctant to resume the Geneva meeting unless the United States withdraws its troops from South Viet Nam and stops bombing the North.

Her appeal has already been rejected by China, which labelled it an attempt to sap the fighting will of the Vietnamese.

The U.S view is that her plan is unlikely to prove of any value because of North Viet Nam's expressed disinterest in negotiations.

Are Busy Making Plans For Picton 'Loyalist Days'

PICTON (Staff) — Big plans are being made again this year for another "Loyalist Days" celebration in Picton. The events this year will be launched with a colorful parade on Monday afternoon, Aug. 8th.

Members of the various committees are working overtime planning the week long activities. Victor Lord, who is in charge of the opening parade, is trying to arrange for at least two or three bands, decorated motorcycles and horses and riders.

Many merchants are co-operating and have already promised to enter a float. Tuesday's program is to include several different kinds of contests, such as a milking contest as was held last year, and a special contest to select a Centennial Queen, sponsored by the county's Centennial Committee.

Wednesday will be children's day, with a special parade for the children, followed by a penny carnival. There are plans to hold another carnival that evening for the adults.

On Thursday Vince Gentile is planning to officially open his new "old fashioned" general store on Bridge Street and he will also hold a track and field competition on the track behind his store.

Teenagers are scheduled to take things over on Friday and on Saturday the Picton Rotary Club is arranging a special event to be climaxed by a draw for the boat, motor and trailer.

Officials planning the six day event said they are still open for new ideas and events from any organization. Anyone interested can contact Jack Colden at the Canadian Tire Store.

Loyalist Days has become a successful annual event in Picton with active participation b yboth merchants and shoppers. Store windows are dressed with antiques and clerks as well as shoppers dress in the costumes of the times. It is like taking a journey into the past; the whole town is dressed in period costumes, honky-tonk pianos and barrel house organs throw music up and down the town's main street and one is liable to find anything from a sidewalk cuspidor to a horse tied at a hitching rail.

Burns welcomed a suggestion by the United Arab Republic to set up a working group to examine the question of how to reduce nuclear weapons and their delivery vehicles in an equitable fashion.

A ban on underground nuclear tests was one of the measures most urgently needed to deal with the nuclear threat, but the conference might not be able to achieve this.

"Could we come to agreement on something less?" Burns asked.

The union is seeking a two-year agreement, which would be its first province-wide agreement with hospitals.

Weekly pay for the workers concerned is in the $80-$65 range with higher rates for tradesmen and those with special qualifications.

Mr. Pepin said a study of his union shows a family's wage earner needs $90.40 a week for essentials.

The union leader said the CNTU would meet with the Quebec cabinet in a final effort to avoid a walkout, if the cabinet agreed.

Plan to Picket Lacrosse Game

PETERBOROUGH (CP) Striking employees at the Tilco Plastics Ltd. plant are planning to picket an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A game Friday night.

The employees, acting independently from the Textile Workers' of America Union (CLC), say they are protesting the use of Pat Baker, a new goaltender for Peterborough, whom they claim is a strikebreaker at the Tilco plant.

The strike began Dec. 14 to back up demands for higher wages.

Oh to be in England now that World Soccer is there!

From Lands End to John O'Groats; from Guernsey to the Hebrides, from the peat bogs of Erin to the chalk cliffs of Dover, football buffs kicked off a three-weeks binge yesterday that should make the world series look like Plunkville's annual fair and the Grey Cup explosion resemble a family picnic.

It is the greatest invasion of the tight little island and its suburbs since back in 1066 when William the Conqueror decided to expand his Norman territory and annexed Britain for roast beef and fish and chips reasons.

Some 100,000 soccer-mad foreigners from 16 participating nations, have seized what room is left in the tourist-packed island and are adding to the general hysteria.

Ideologies, races, colors, creeds and other world differences have been brushed aside by the magical broom of the world tournament, King Soccer reigns supreme.

Temperamental fiery Latins, stoical Germans, mingle with grim-faced North Koreans, Russians and other nationals in this colorful, pot-pourri of sport.

Sixteen teams will play in the tournament that climaxes the world's most feverishly partisan event. International emotions run high.

The players, as pampered as a French marquise's boudoir of poodles are scattered throughout the country under eyes of doctors, special chefs and trainers. The North Korean team, which has trained two years for the event, brought its own cheer-leaders and specialists. No smoking, drinking or gals for these chappies.

It is expected over two million people will see the matches in six key English cities. You can buy a scalper ticket for $50.00 for Wembley. That's thrice the face value. And they're selling well.

Brazil and Spain have beaten the hotel problem. Their fans will live aboard two ships, floating hotels anchored off-shore. The French and Portuguese brought along 1,200 bottles of their favorite wines.

More than 1,600 members of the news media are on hand including 200 Brazilians and 160 Russians. Some four hundred million are expected to see the final match via television. The BBC has set aside 50 hours viewing time for soccer during the tournament.

And some of these international soccer stars are worth as much on the hoof to their clubs and fans as the Ali Khan who annually gets his weight in diamonds on his birthday — or did.

Take the Brazilian star Edson Erentes de Nascimento — known as Pele. He's a national hero who will have a seven-figure bank account before he is 25. Each of the 352 players is insured against injury but Pele's policy calls for $750,000.

It is stated that Lloyds of London is covering some 75 million in insurance risks which include cancellation for "war, political upheaval, national disaster, calamity or sudden bereavement affecting the monarchy."

As former Kaiser Bill once dubbed it, "the nation of shopkeepers" will rock-n-roll cash register ditties that will out-Beatle the Beatles.

The drapers, the breweries, the tobacconists, in fact everybody in the trade is grabbing the bonanza bull by the horns, hide and hoofs.

The cockles and mussels alive-alive-o, the sausage-and-mashed, the baked spuds, and one-and-one fish-and-chips may not go over so well with the Latins, Nordics and whatnot, but souvenirs from special beer to lollipops, T-shirts to ties; blazers to bras — are expected to enrich the "shopkeepers" by at least six million.

The World Cup, a statuette of Winged Victory valued at about $3,000 is the symbol of soccer supremacy. It represents national honor and millions are spent yearly in quest of it.

Somebody "pinched the bloody 'mug" once and staid Britain was rocked to its foundations. It was found in a rundown London district by a dog named "Pickles." The pooch was given a medal and his owner a reward of $10,000.

Last-Frame Rally Wins For Warner

Trailing 3-0 from the first inning until the last, Stewart Warner exploded for six runs in the seventh to defeat City Hotel 6-3 in Commercial Softball play last night.

Crawford's home run ignited the big rally. Rowbotham's single, an error and wild pitch plated another. Wannamaker's hit, a base-on-balls and another error brought home the rest before City put out the fire.

Back in the first, City got one on a four - base error, another on Hull's home run and a third on Moreau's single, a sacrifice and another bobble.

Doug Ellis pitched five - hit ball in a route - going performance for the victors. He struck out four and issued one free ticket.

Tom Coolen threw two - hit ball for 3 2-3 innings for City while loser Dave Feeney gave up all six runs and three hits in the last 3 1-3 frames. They did not fan a batter and Coolen dished up five of the seven walks.

Playing - coach Floyd Crawford slammed Stewart Warner's home run and Doug Hull had City's circuit blast. They were the game's only extra - base hits.

Stewart Warner singles went to Lyle Wannamaker, Doug Ellis, John Trendall and Chuck Rowbotham.

The victory left the Warnermen in second place, four points behind Point Anne, and eight up on Lightfoots, City and Belvedere, clustered behind. Black Diamond trails the pack by two points.

Koufax, McLain All-Star Starters

* * * * * And Gary Bell

By MIKE RATHET

SANDY KOUFAX

FRANK ROBINSON

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Walt Alston, manager of the National League All - Stars, and Sam Mele, the American League manager, were running down their lineups when the discussion suddenly took a turn toward Sandy Koufax.

"I hope," said Alston, "Koufax pitches better than in his last start."

"That," interjected Mele, "wasn't last fall, was it?"

Then he laughed. He hadn't been able to do that last fall when Koufax pitched Los Angeles Dodgers to a 2-0 victory over Mele's Minnesota Twins in the seventh game of the World Series

And today didn't figure to start out as any laughing matter for Mele either with Koufax serving up the first pitches in the 37th annual all-star game.

The Dodgers' great lefthander, who holds the world record for strikeouts, has pitched four no-hitters and one perfect game.

MAKES FIRST START

Koufax shied away from placing any extra significance on the fact he is starting for the first time since he became a regular on the All-Star team in 1961.

"It's an honor to be picked for the team," he said. "There are other things which dictate whether you play or not. Alston just asked me if I'd prefer to start or relieve. I said start."

But Alston, in explaining his reason for picking Koufax over Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants, said what modesty wouldn't let Koufax say.

"There's not much to choose between them," Alston said. "Koufax has never had the honor of starting. He's pitched well enough to deserve a start.

"And I think he's enthused."

Koufax starts the game at Busch Memorial Stadium with a 1-0 record—he won last year when he pitched one inning relief — and a 0.00 earned-run average for his three appearances in which he allowed three hits, walked two and struck out two.

FACES MCLAIN

He is opposed by Denny McLain, a 13-game winner for Detroit Tigers who has won only two games fewer than Koufax.

Both pitchers face power-laden lineups in the game, televised nationally by CBC starting at 2 p.m. EDT.

Alston is expected to follow Koufax on the mound with Marichal. He also has Jim Bunning of Philadelphia Phillies, Gaylord Perry of San Francisco, Bob Veale of Pittsburgh Pirates, Billy McCool of Cincinnati Reds, Canadian Claude Raymond of Houston Astros and Phil Regan of the Dodgers in his bullpen. Raymond is from St. Jean, Que.

Mele is expected to follow with either of two Cleveland Indians pitchers, Sonny Siebert or Gary Bell. His bullpen also had Steve Barber of Baltimore Orioles, Jim Kaat of Minnesota, Jim Hunter of Kansas City Athletics, Pete Richert of Washington Senators and Mel Stottlemyre of New York Yankees.

"Armbro" Listed In Rich Trot

WESTBURY, N.Y (AP) Armbro Flight, winner of the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot, was listed Monday as a starter in the $25,000 gold division of the Challenge Cup trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

A definite decision is expected Wednesday from Joe O'Brien, trainer of the Canadian mare owned by the Armstrong brothers of Brampton.

Other starters in the 1½-mile gold division were listed as Noble Victory, Worthy Scot, Perfect Freight and Jes R. Hoot, all of the United States; Roquepine of France, Pluvier III of Sweden and Pick Wick F. of West Germany.

Riders Put 3 Imports On Waivers

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders Monday placed three import linemen on waivers, including guard John Pentecost of UCLA who won a starting assignment in his rookie season last year.

Pentecost has not signed a contract with the Eastern Football Conference club this season. He wants to play out his option and try for a spot with a West Coast team in the U.S. National Football League next year.

Also on waivers are tackle Bill Siekierski, 24, a 250-pound tackle from Missouri University who has been with the Riders for three years, and rookie John Crenshaw, 22, of Shaw University.

Ethier Tosses 5-Hitter

Juniors Defeat Madoc

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

MADOC — Belleville Ellis Juniors dumped Madoc 5-1 behind the five-hit pitching effort of Bob Ethier, in a B. and D. softball contest played here last night

Ethier allowed only two balls to be hit out of the infield, struck out eight and walked two in his strong performance.

The win pushed Ellis' into a second place deadlock with Picton and Belleville Trudeau Motors. All three teams have 12 points, four behind league-leading Belleville Bobcats.

Bob Moon gave Ellis' an early lead as he scored in the fourth on Don Gardiner's clutch single. Moon rounded the bases again in the sixth to give the visitors a two-run lead.

In the eighth, Al Reid singled for Madoc and scored to cut the margin to a single run. The game looked as though it would go down to the wire.

Madoc fell to pieces in the ninth, however, as Ellis' poured in three runs on a walk and four consecutive singles.

Daryl Kramp started for the home - towners. He gave up four hits, fanned five and walked one in his five inning stint. Larry Griffin came in to relieve him, striking out four, walking two and giving up four hits in the remaining four frames.

Don Gardiner continued hitting the ball f roEllis' with a pair of singles. Bob Moon, Carl Boombower, Bill Barberstock, Art Barker, Terry Wellesley and Bob Chick had base hits.

Corvair 500 Sport Coupe—believe it or not, Canada's lowest priced hardtop! Eight standard safety features include outside rearview mirror; always use it before passing.

Now you be the judge. Get a Corvair and test its easy cornering, its determination in tough going. Weight is concentrated over the driving wheels for better traction.

A sophisticated fully independent suspension like Corvair's gives firm control in a hard corner. Each wheel can move up and down without disturbing the other.

Try it. And all the while remember that its air-cooled engine requires neither water nor antifreeze, has no radiator, water pump or water hoses and clamps to replace—which is one of the reasons for Corvair's low, low operating cost.

Then decide for yourself. More than 1,500,000 owners already have voted for Corvair by buying one. You'll find you agree with all of them. Especially when you see the kind of buy you can get on a Corvair from your Chevrolet dealer right now!

Cementmen Maintain Win Stride

They whipped Black Diamond Cheese 9-3 last night to give them a 13-3 record, keeping the four points ahead of Stewart Warner who also won last night.

Bill Shaw's hustling young squad plated three in the first and were never threatened.

Ron Maracle hurled five-hit ball over the route, striking out 11 and walking five. He received good support.

Don Holoway gave up nine hits in a losing cause. He blew third strikes past ten while walking four. The club erred four times.

Maracle, who hits almost as well as he pitches, slammed a home run and a single to lead his own attack. Eric Maher contributed a double and single, Mike Cook a brace of singles and Jim Horwood a two-bagger. Gerry Maher and Vern Whalen rounded out the hit parade.

All five Black Diamond hits were one-baggers with two of them going to Gene Francis, Ross Empey, Don Holoway and Pat O'Connor divided the others.

Point Anne scored four times after two were out in the fourth to put the decision in wraps, 8-1 at that point. Three hits and two walks accomplished the job.

ROYAL FLIES IN

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip and Princess Anne will fly on a scheduled BOAC airliner Aug. 3 to Kingston, Jamaica, where he will open the British Empire Games the next day. Prince Charles will arrive in Kingston from Australia the same day.

World Soccer Opener Bores Fans

The Queen Yawned

LONDON (CP)—If the soccer stars of England and Uruguay have set the pattern for the 1966 World Cup tournament, it could smash all records for lack of goals.

If the 14 other national teams play the same safe defensive tactics, it's a glum lookout for thousands of addicts hoping for a supreme spectacle of soccer during the next three weeks.

England and Uruguay played to a goalless draw Monday night in the opening match of the World Cup tournament at London's Wembley Stadium. The only match played on opening day, it was a safety-first game that sparked little excitement and left 75,000 fans booing in frustration.

The Queen, who had just opened the tournament with a prediction of some "fine football" to come, looked as bored as most of the other spectators.

Everything seemed to point to the outcome that some spoilsport soccer pundits had forecast: Solid defences blocking off the net and stifling scoring chances on the basis that "if we can't win, we don't want to lose."

One British soccer official said: "I woke up screaming with a nightmare that the World Cup may produce no goals at all. Nobody wins and nobody loses.

FEARS FIASCO

"I keep dreading that we might end up with all 16 teams winning the championship because none of them scored a goal."

One big mystery surrounded the England - Uruguay match. What happened to 25,000 missing spectators who were supposed to be there?

Wembley Stadium officials announced at first that a sellout crowd of 100,000 paid to see the game. Afterwards, they checked the gates and found that only 75,000 went through the turnstiles.

"I can only assume that thousands who bought tickets didn't trouble to use them because they were deterred by traffic holdups on the road to the stadium," a ticket office inspector said.

In tonight's matches, West Germany plays Switzerland, Bulgaria meets Brazil, the defending champion, and the Soviet Union plays North Korea.

Everyone hopes a goal or two may be scored.

West Germany's darkhorse team faces Switzerland in Sheffield and starts its World Cup bid along a road that was carefully planned five months ago. The two countries of Group II are scheduled to meet at Hillsborough Stadium, home of the English First Division team Sheffield Wednesday.

The Germans, champions in 1954, are staying in a country retreat 40 miles from Sheffield.

GERMANS TIME ROUTE

They worked out their route to Sheffield in February, when manager Helmut Schoen visited England and planned his team's World Cup campaign. He rode over the route to Sheffield and chose an inn where the players could stop for coffee and stretch their legs.

"So we will travel for 45 minutes, have a stroll, and then go on for another 45 minutes to Sheffield," Schoen said. "This is typical of the thoroughness which makes West Germany feared by many teams in the tournament."

The Germans are favored to win their group over Spain, Argentina and Switzerland.

EXAMINING THE GROUNDS? — England's sharp-shooting Jimmy Greaves seems to be getting an extra-close look at the grounds as he and colleague Ron Flowers train for the World Cup soccer play-downs, being staged for the first time in England this month. Greaves' sentiments, might, of course be: "No matter how you look at it, we're going to win the Cup."

Warned Of Olympics Ban

Reds Cancel Dual Meet With US

NEW YORK (AP)—U.S. officials warned today that the Soviet Union might be barred from the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico City because of its "shocking and incredible" action in pulling out of its dual track meet with the United States.

The Soviet cancellation of its participation in the meet, scheduled for July 23-24 in Los Angeles, came without warning Monday from Moscow. The Soviet news agency Tass reported the cancellation was in protest of American participation in the Viet Nam war.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, said in Frankfurt, Germany, he plans to fly to Moscow to see whether he can still work things out.

Hull talked by telephone with Glenn Davis, director of the Los Angeles meet. "Col. Hull told me," Davis said, "that he could not believe the Soviet sports people would jeopardize their standing with the International Amateur Athletic Federation by failing to complete their contract to compete in Los Angeles."

"This news is shocking and incredible," Clifford H. Buck, president of the AAU, said in Denver, Colo. "We are particularly distressed because this puts the entire amateur sports exchange with the Soviet Union in jeopardy."

Tass said the U.S.-Russian basketball series of games, scheduled to start in Moscow July 25, also have been cancelled, but that the swimming competition between the United States and the Soviets, scheduled for Moscow Saturday and Sunday, was not affected because three other nations were entered.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

Buck said he regrets that "politics has been permitted to interfere with amateur athletic competition." He and Capt. Steve Archer, secretary of the AAU, as well as the state department in Washington and the U.S. embassy in Moscow, said they had received no official word from the Soviet government.

"Since this is a Tass release, I can only assume that it is official," Buck said.

Robert J. McCloskey, the state department's press officer, said in Washington the cancellation was "unfortunate" but "not a violation of the cultural agreement between the two countries."

The AAU said this is the second time this year Russia has withdrawn its athletes from a track meet in the United States. Archer said a touring group of Russian athletes abruptly was ordered to return to Moscow just before the national AAU indoor championships at Albuquerque, N.M., last March.

Tass reported that the resolution adopted by the Russian athletes which led to the latest cancellation, read: "Our hatred for the American military who are perpetrating atrocities in Viet Nam and our solidarity with the people of Viet Nam, who are fighting for their freedom and independence, does not permit us to take part in a match with sportsmen of a country from which this aggression comes."

Ontario Women's Golf

Marlene's 76 Tops Qualifying Field

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit shot a one-over-par 76 Monday to lead qualifiers for the Ontario women's golf championship and earn a chance to win her fifth Ontario title.

Five former champions qualified for the championship flight and the four days of match play starting today. Sue Hilton of London Hunt, defending champion, Sandra Post of Trafalgar, 1964 winner, Shirley Woodley of Thornhill, 1960 winner, Gail Harvey Moore, 1959 winner, and Rae Milligan of the Toronto Ladies' Club, 1955 winner, all followed Mrs. Streit.

Sandra was runner-up in the medal round with 77 while Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Edie Creed of Oakville and 21-year-old Vicki Larsen of St. Davids were in a three - way tie for third spot, each with a 78.

TIE FOR SEVENTH

Miss Milligan, Kay Helleur of Rosedale and Joan Donaldson of Thornhill were all tied at 79 for seventh place. Another stroke back at 80 were Miss Hilton, 18-year-old Sondrea Lees of Hamilton Beverly, Pat McCellan of Whitevale and Mrs. Cherry Morris of Oakdale.

Shortly after finishing her 76, Mrs. Streit said she was giving up her place on Ontario's interprovincial team to play in the United States women's amateur in Pittsburgh.

The qualifying round for the Ontario championship virtually clinched the makeup of the interprovincial team, although an upset victory by Miss McClellan, Miss Milligan or Mrs. Noreen McKay could change the fourth spot.

Mrs. Edie Creed and Miss Helleur are tied in the point standings for the team with 29. Both are assured of a spot on the interprovincial team.

SHE'S ALMOST ON

Miss Woodley is almost certainly on the team with 27 points, although she could be unseated. The Ontario champion gets a 12 - point bonus, enough to put Miss McClellan, Miss Milligan or Mrs. Noreen McKay in the last berth.

Gail Harvey Moore automatically earned the first spot with her victory in the 1965 Canadian women's championship.

The low 32 women Monday will play in the match - play competition today. The remainder of the 126 qualifying-round entrants will play in three handicap flights, also in match play.

Six juniors also qualified for the championship title hunt. Sandra Post, Ontario's three-time junior champion, Pam Miller of Oshawa, junior interprovincial team member, Jane Kirkpatrick of Lambton, Bonnie Mae Legge of the Toronto Ladies' Club and Miss Lees and Linda Deeton of Woodstock are all in the run for the Ontario title.

Mrs. Miller Gives Version Of Frank Sinatra's Song Hit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Watch out, Frank Sinatra, here comes Mrs. Miller with her version of Strangers in the Night.

Capitol Records is rushing a version by Elva Miller onto the market, and the Sinatra hit song may never be the same. But then, the whole record business hasn't been quite the same since Mrs. Miller came on the scene.

Her album, Mrs. Miller's Greatest Hits, already has sold 150,000 copies, a highly respectable figure. Her style? It has defied description. Suffice to say she sings teen-age record hits in a mature contralto. She also whistles.

Mrs. Miller, 58, has no illusions about her achievement.

"I'll go along with it as long as it lasts," she remarked. "It would be foolish at my age to become starry eyed. If all this comes to an end, I still have my home and my many interests. And I will have had a lot of fun."

STARTED AS GAG

It all started because Mrs. Miller, an amateur singer of Claremont, Calif., made regular visits to a Hollywood studio to record songs, mostly of a sacred nature, for her own pleasure. On one occasion, her accompanist, Fred Bock, slipped some rock-'n'-roll numbers among her hymns.

"I think you're having fun with Mrs. Miller," she said, but she went along with him. It happened that Capitol had been searching for an operatic voice to render Beatle-type hits. Mrs Miller seemed an ideal choice.

Mrs. Miller, who had done no real performing since her high school days in Dodge City, Kan., now finds herself in show business. She has appeared on the television programs of Ed Sullivan, Merv Griffin, Mike Douglas and Art Linkletter

"He knows I am mature enough to realize things like this run their course," said Mrs. Miller

Public Utilities, scrambling hard to catch the Departmental Softball League's last playoff spot, nipped the Intelligencer 3-2 last night.

The shortstaffed Utilities crew plated all their runs in the bottom of the sixth on a walk, fielders' choice and 3 hits after Intelligencer scored loners in the first and fifth.

Perry Mason Show Loser Had Exciting Nine Years

By WILLIAM TALMAN
(For Cynthia Lowry)

William Talman is television's champion loser—nine years as Perry Mason's principal adversary and he never won a case. The series is finished, but Bill will be around losing cases on reruns for a long time. He'll also be resuming his film and stage career.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A request for the reminiscences of the actor who played Hamilton Burger for nine years on the Perry Mason show is a little like asking the jockey who rode the horse that ran last to comment on an instant replay of the Kentucky Derby.

It could start a whole new trend—interviewing the losing pitcher on the post-game show. Or the on-camera arrival of a television fight announcer, complete with microphone and smelling salts, beside the prostrate figure of the loser of the big fight. "Rocky," he says, "can you hear me? What happened?"

I found that the best way to deal with Burger's astonishing proclivity for absorbing punishment was to develop a sense of pride in the consistency of his endeavors. If you can't win for losing, okay, learn to love that losing streak. This might not work for say Leo Durocher, but I managed to convert the reasonable frustration growing out of my weekly display of wrongness into an unreasonable sense of accomplishmet at continuing to compile the longest losing streak in legal history.

Actually, of course, aside from the courtroom contests, I didn't lose at all, and my memories of the last nine years are the rewarding memories of the people who labored together for a decade or longer, and whose labors made possible one of the proudest winners in television history.

From Erle Stanley Gardner, the literary prodigy whose works continue to sell hugely, and Gail Jackson, surely the prettiest executive producer in show business, to the crew—many of whom were with us all the way and most of whom, I'm happy to say, appeared with us in The Case of the Final Fade-out—we all were part of the team, and our team won. And I have made no closer, faster friends in my whole life than Ray Burr, Barbara Hale, Bill Hopper and that sparkling, indomitable spirit, Ray Collins, whose death last year was indeed a loss to all of us.

Didn't it get boring after all those years? Well, I'm subject to fatigue and boredom like any other human being, but I must say this, and most strongly: An actor who is lucky enough to be a hit and knocks it because it gets "boring" after a while is an idiot. Any actor who does that simply doesn't know the basic facts of his own business.

AT THE PARK — Angie Dickinson plays pivotal role in "Cast A Giant Shadow", Mel Shavelson's epic motion picture in color by DeLuxe and Panavision which is showing tonight and Wednesday only, at the air conditioned Park Theatre. The big attraction also stars Kirk Douglas, Senta Berger, John Wayne, Frank Sinatra and Yul Brynner. Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.30 p.m.

The Tracks

Then an accident sent the Summerside, P.E.I., youth to the hospital, where doctors told him he'd never ride again.

Monday the curly-haired youth flouted the doctors, riding the first winner of his career, Jiveoli, to a photo-finish over Balinode in the eighth race at Woodbine race track.

"It's a great feeling," said Poirier, "I want to be there more often."

Jiveoli, owned by John Calhoun and R. W. Young, returned $19.90, $7.90 and $4 across the board.

The daily double of Petente and Priced Right returned $82.80 while the exactor of Spike C. C. and Rhann in the sixth was worth $40.60.

Fire Chief Warns of Danger In Lighting Open Air Fires

NAPANEE — Fire Chief W. F. Patton warns of the danger in lighting an open air fire under any conditions while the country is so tinder dry. Even a wire covered incinerator is not safe It will keep sparks in, but the heat from the container itself may be sufficient to ignite material near it.

The Napanee Volunteer Fire Department was called on three times within 16 hours to put out such fires which had got out of control, twice within little over an hour Friday evening.

Alex McArthur of the River Road thought he would clean up his place by burning off the dry grass, but thefire did not stop with the grass. It got into some cedar trees and the fire department was called, when some cottages were threatened.

Just 25 minutes later came another alarm. This time it was a bonfire lit by William Charbonneau of Ontario St., trying to burn sawdust and rubbish at the rear of his home. The fire got into the pile of sawdust endangering his home and that of his neighbor.

Saturday morning an alarm came in at 11.20, and this time it was fire in a hay field north of the Lennox and Addington County jail. Sparks from a bonfire being carefully watched, had ignited the hay.

Inspector Del Hope of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office in Belleville, and an investigating officer of the Belleville Detachment of the OPP areinvestigating a flash fire which occurred in South Napanee about 11 p.m. Saturday evening.

An elderly woman, Mrs. M. A. Pybus of Sarah St. was talking on her telephone in the hall when the fire broke out in a nearby room. She escaped, and when firemen arrived a few minutes later, the telephone was melted into what Chief F. W. Patton described as a "blob."

The stucco bungalow was not destroyed, but the interior was badly scorched. It was definitely a surface fire, the chief says.

Inspector Hope was on the scene within an hour or so after he was summoned by Chief Patton. Firemen had contained the fire in less than an hour, but some remained on the scene until the investigating officers arrived.

A few minutes after the fire truck returned to the station, it was again answering a fire alarm on the south side of the river. An empty house was reported on fire, but when firemen arrived they found it was an old chair in the garage at the side of the house. Tenants moved out last week leaving rubbish in the garage.

Planning Committee Set Up for Centennial Parks

DESERONTO — A planning committee was set up by the Centennial Parks committee at their June meeting to consist of William Schell, Councillor James Sharpe, Ralph Lawlor of the Public Utilities, Andy Hrytzak, and William Higgins.

Before the meeting last week, this committee had been active. Site for the playground was decided on, and the position of the various pieces of equipment, purchased with money donated by the Lions Club. Installation was to begin the following day.

He also reported offers from workmen to erect the washrooms on a voluntary basis. An offer had been made also by the Fish and Game Club to bring in large trees. When the site was cleared of its scrub growth this spring, some trees were left and trimmed up, but all are unsuitable to remain permanently. They will provide temporary shade until better trees take their places.

Mr. Schell also advised having the west end surveyed so that a proper fence could be built when necesary. A motion was passed requesting the town to have the line established.

Bert Lloyd commented on the excellent job done by the county grader in levelling the top soil brought in from the Pearl St. development. In his opening remarks, Albert Marks, chairman of the parks committee, had reported the cost of moving this soil at $267. Markers and ropes for the beach had cost $28.57. The Deseronto Sports Club has offered to assist in setting up the playground equipment.

Everyone was interested in the address of Donald Maddox of the community programe division of the Department of Education, who outlined the advantages of a Municipal Recreation Committee, and consented to attend a public meeting with a view to having such a committee set up by the Town Council.

Escape Injury In Train Car Collision

NAPANEE — Four Port Hope people miraculously escaped injury when their car was struck by a freight train at Napanee at 8.10 Sunday morning. Police Chief Harry Benn estimates the damage to the car at $1,000.

Alan Curtis, his brother J. B. Curtis, and two boys James Smith and Larry Martin were on Highway 41 approaching the crossing where the highway becomes Centre St. as it runs through the town, when someone noticed a train coming around the bend, east of the station. The driver apparently panicked. He put on his brakes and pulled to the right against the track. They attempted to open the doors, but could not do so and it is presumed that the frame of the car had been twisted by the impact. The driver then attempted to back up, but failed in that, also, and the engine of the slow freight struck the front of the car.

The warning light came on just as the passenger shouted. It is believed that if Mr. Curtis had gone on at the same speed he was travelling, he would have crossed safely.

"Gramps" Bobo Olson Eyes Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Grandfather Carl (Bobo) Olson of San Francisco now wants another shot at world light-heavyweight champion Jose Torres after defeating European titlist Piero Del Papa.

Olson, former middleweight champion, won a split 10-round decision Monday night over the Italian from Pisa.

There were no knockdowns but Del Papa staggered Olson in the fourth round with a right uppercut to the chin.

"I got careless in the fourth but I wasn't hurt," said Olson, who was celebrating his 38th birthday.

In the other dressing room, Del Papa, 27, was getting three stitches over the left eyebrow from a cut he got in the second round. He said it was caused by a head butt.

The judges voted for Olson, Johnny Lotsey calling it 6 to 3 and Vern Bybee 5 to 2. Referee Jack Downey saw it 6 to 4 for Del Papa in his first fight in the United States.

Olson's record now is 94-16-2. Del Papa is 28-3-3.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) Blaze Pick, owned by Russell and Jean Miller of Dutton, Ont., paced the fastest mile of the season here Monday night when he clocked 2:03.4 in the second elimination heat of the $3,159 Canadian Juvenile Stakes. He returned $2.90

Blaze Piik, purchased by the Millers in Chicago last fall for $5,000, increased its earnings to $13,606 with the victory.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jimmy Chief Junior won the $650 ninth race Monday night at Western Fair Raceway. It was the horse's first win in 10 starts this year.

Hungarian Humorists Have Fun

BUDAPEST (AP)—On the opening day of the World Cup soccer tournament in England, Hungary's none-too-optimistic Communist Party newspaper allowed itself to indulge in a little humor.

The party newspaper Nepszabadsag issued a warning to the millions who will sit glued to their television sets nightly. The warning:

1. Whoever drinks poison in desperation if Hungary is beaten by its first opponent, Portugal, shows rash impatience.

2. Soccer isn't so important if your own side loses.

3. If (Hungarian star centre) Florian Albert kicks the ground instead of the ball when in front of the opponent's goal, don't blame the government.

4. Even soccer referees are human, so they can sometimes err. It is possible, therefore, that offside goals will be called against the Hungarian team, although it is naturally incapable of such sloppiness.

5. Even a monthly pay of $3,000 can't stop soccer stars from hitting the post instead of the net.

6. Don't threaten divorce immediately if your wife wants to have dinner while a match is on.

Littler Named To Series

TORONTO (CP) — Gene Littler of San Diego, the defending Canadian Open champion, could turn last year's victory into an extra $50,000 this year.

Littler has been named-on the strength of his 1965 Canadian Open win-to the foursome which will play the World Series of Golf at Akron, Ohio, Saturday, Sept. 10

First prize is $50,000.

It happened this way:

Eligible for the World Series are the winners of the U.S Masters, the U.S Open, the British Open and the Professional Golfers Association's championship.

First alternate is the winner of the Western Open, with the winner of the Canadian Open second alternate.

Jack Nicklaus qualified for the series by winning the Masters in April. When he won the British Open this month he left the door open for the first alternate to make the squad.

The first alternate was Billy Casper, who had qualified by winning the U.S Open last month.

LOSES GARB, WINS GAME

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Brazil's Maria Buena, former Wimbledon champion, was given special permission to play in a red track suit Monday after her tennis clothes were stolen before the start of the Hoylake lawn tennis tournament. She then defeated Mrs. Joyce Broster of Hoylake, 6-0, 6-0.

Even Money To Beat Archer

Odds Drop On Griffith

NEW YORK AP)—The odds on middleweight champion Emile Griffith have dropped from 7-to-5 favorite to even money but the champ's handlers feel he is a cinch to beat challenger Joey Archer in their title fight Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

"I'll make the prediction for Emile," Gil Clancy, trainer and co-manager, said Monday night. "He's going to knock out Archer in an early round.

"Emile hits harder, although Archer is heavier. If it goes the distance Emile still will win."

This will be the 13th title fight for the 28-year-old Griffith. He has a 9-2 record for welterweight title fights. In his only middleweight championship contest he dropped Dick Tiger en route to dethroning the Nigerian in a 15-rounder April 25.

Archer, 28, never has gone more than 12 rounds. He went that far last Dec. 13 in losing a decision to Don Fullmer in a bout billed for the American middleweight title.

On the other hand, Archer never has been stopped in posting a 46-2 won-lost record. Griffith has been stopped once—a first-round loss to Rubin Carter Dec. 20, 1963.

Night Fishing Most Rewarding

I doubt if there is a field in the sport of angling that has more appeal to the senses than fishing after dark. With one of your major senses affected (that of sight), hearing must fill in the gap.

A number of years ago, several of us stayed at the fabulous Blue Hole trout stream in northern Ohio. This stream is deep and food-rich, winding its way like a serpent down through the property of the club, stretching its length by a full three times the actual measurement of the land by its turns and twists. Its banks are severely undercut and stream improvements of rip - rap and dams have added to its capabilities of raising and holding some truly monster brown and native trout.

Fishing this stream by day, you could catch any number of fair to good trout, but seldom did you take anything over two pounds. After two days, my partner and I quit fishing by day.

After supper, when the sun was full down and the moon a promise on the horizon, we would gather together our gear and take happily forth.

Early in the trip, we had stood by one of the pools and calculated its depth at its critical area . . . the spot we expected the biggest fish to live. We knew (because we had timed it) that our lines would sink one foot a second. Therefore, if we had nine feet of water, we would cast and count to eight before starting our retrieve. The results were absolutely frightening! In pools where we had been hard-pressed to find a fish over 16 inches in length, we wert getting smashed to smithereens on tackle with which you could tangle up a mule on any given day. The fish we landed were gargantuan . . . the ones we lost were unbelievable.

At the end of four days, my biggest trout landed weighed 7½ pounds . . Jack Nelson had a 10 pounder to his credit. We had weighed and released all but five of these monsters, but the five filled to overflowing a pan a yard long and two feet wide in the big icebox. I have never seen such a catch of fish before or since.

To be sure, this happened on heavily-stocked club water and the results would have to be somewhat predictable. But you can apply the same thinking on your own waters and catch fish that will make your hair stand on end.

One cardinal rule you should always follow is that you never fish by night a pool that you have not thoroughly committed to memory by day. You should know, by feel underfoot, exactly where you are in the pool at all times. You should know the hazards and the fish lies throughout its length. You must know its depth throughout.

Fly coloration is optional. There are those who feel that night lures should be black. I feel that it does not make one bit of difference. If you are happy fishing black flies, fish them with my blessing. But bear in mind that nocturnally feeding trout (and bass) feed by two senses, hearing and scent . . . never sight unless by silhouette. Therefore color would not have the bearing on a fish's likes or dislikes that it could have by day.

When you size up a pool by day which you plan to fish by night, take a look at it from the fish's point of view. You may very well hook him here, right out in the open. Now, where will he go when you do hook him? Take a look at the trouble . . . the snags, the ledges, the trash wedged in the bottom from the flood last spring. Which way will you attempt to lead him after you have him under control? A bit of planning here might well land you a fish that could have been lost had you not taken the time to check in advance.

You need some very necessary equipment with you when you fish at night. You'll require bug dope to slow down the inroads of gnats and mosquitoes. You will definitely need a flashlight, both to get to and from the pool as well as to tie on fresh flies. Trying to find the eye of a size No. 10 after dark makes a needle in a haystack a cinch. I like a miner's headlamp as it gives me light when I need it without taking a hand out of action.

Never show a light where it can be seen over the pool. Shold you need to change flies, leave the stream and get behind a tree. Only when you are ready to net a big fish, do you show a light. Small fish are best picked up by feel so that you do not destroy the pool.

Wade very quietly after dark . . . moving slowly and with a minimum of water movement. Fish your flies slowly and deep. Work all sections of the water you select and fish during a solunar period. You may very well get the shock of your life if you give this method a try.

Took Month To Swim 440 Miles

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP)—Russell Chaffee received a celebrity's welcome Monday after losing 25 pounds the hard way—by swimming the 440 miles of the Susquehanna River.

The Sayre, Pa., high school mathematics teacher swam to the yacht basin in this city late Monday afternoon, ending a month-long swim where the river flows into the Chesapeake Bay.

He was welcomed by Mayor Henry Loeblein, the entire city council, other city officials and a large crowd.

Chaffee, 39, had begun the swim June 14 in Cooperstown, N.Y, swimming along with two canoes on a journey that grew out of a planned canoe trip and a scale that showed 232 pounds.

The teacher, swimming professionally for about 10 years, said he uses the breast stroke.

Leafs Bow To Wings, Jets Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jacksonville pitcher Tom Seaver has pushed his International League strikeout figure to 112 for the season. He struck out 10 Columbus Jets in the second game of a doubleheader Monday night for his third shutout of the season as the Suns drubbed the Jets 8-0.

It was Seaver's fourth straight win, giving him a season record of 8-5.

The league-leading Jets won the first game 4-1, with George Spriggs slamming his ninth homer and Gene Michael adding a two-run homer in the sixth.

Other action saw Syracuse Chiefs and Buffalo Bisons split a doubleheader, Buffalo winning the opener 2-1 on the four-hit pitching of Dom Zanni and Syracuse taking the nightcap 11-7 with 15 hits.

Swim Championships

Newcomers Are Favored

HAMILTON (CP) — The annual Canadian swimming championships begin today at McMaster University's new indoor pool, where newcomers are expected to swim away with the honors.

Missing will be such familiar figures as Dan Sherry of Hamilton, Dick Pound of Montreal and Mary Stewart of Vancouver, all retired from competitive swimming.

But officials believe they have the best groups of young splashers ever assembled in Canada.

The kids, led by Elaine Tanner of Vancouver, will be shooting for berths on Canada's team going to the British Empire Games Aug. 4-13 in Jamaica.

Miss Tanner, 15, is dubbed Mighty Mouse because of her size—five - foot - one—and because of her achievement. Ten days ago in Vancouver she shattered the world record for the women's 220 - yard individual medley with a time of 2:33.3, three - tenths of a second better than the former mark.

She could also be in the running for four gold medals at the Games, where Canada is expected to give the favored Australians a tough battle.

Miss Tanner could wind up breaking as many as three Canadian records in Hamilton, the 220-yard individual medley, the 440-yard individual medley and the 20-yard butterfly. But she isn't the only Canadian threat.

Jane Hughes, also of Vancouver, is a good bet to shatter the Canadian mark in the 440-yard freestyle.

Other gold medal candidates from British Columbia include Ron Jacks and Marion Lay of Vancouver and Sandy Gilchrist and Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls.

Nation-Wide Slowdown Plagues Once Efficient Czech Economy

Apathy among workers is one symptom of Czechoslovakia's economic malaise. The problems faced by the Communist country and their causes are discussed in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

By JOHN BEST

PRAGUE (CP) — The "black apathy" of the worker is one of the ailments that must be cured if Czechoslovakia is to overcome the stagnation of recent years.

The expression is used by a diplomat who has watched a tragic chain of circumstances almost strangle the economy of this Communist nation.

"A nation-wide slowdown" is the way another diplomat describes the situation.

Part of the apathy is attributable to frustration over having to cope with an impossible system that places a minimum premium on inventiveness and hard work.

Inseparably linked with this is a tendency to accept things as they are and get by with as little work as possible.

—In a Prague hotel dining room most mornings we were there the number of waiters and other workers was matched by the number of customers, an average of about eight. There was also a full kitchen staff. Most members of both groups spent their time doing nothing of consequence.

—A foreign family living here hired two men to erect a small garden wall. It took them three months, assisted part of the time by two students.

—A young civil servant called a plumber to fix his leaking tap. All that was needed, he now believes, was a washer. A job that should have taken a few minutes occupied several hours.

WORKERS—INEFFICIENT

It's in industry where, qualified observers say, only a few workers produce at reasonable rates of efficiency, that the pinch has been most acutely felt.

And since industrial growth is sacred to Communist leaders everywhere, when it turns into decline the blow is doubly hard to take because of the emotional consequences.

The visitor sees other examples of stagnation.

You notice the high proportion of coal-burning locomotives on railways compared with diesels. You see the antiquated streetcars in Prague and feel the bumpy ride over miles of track that should have been long ago torn up and replaced.

And you notice scaffolding everywhere — denoting a belated attempt to rescue ancient, unsteady buildings from disintegration.

One strange notion, that applies both to factories and everyday services, is that the more material and parts and time you put into something, the higher the productivity of the worker.

Not that Czechs are unconcerned about the situation.

"Czechs cry about it," says a foreign diplomat, referring to the stagnation.

TRAGIC SYMBOL

Their country stands as a symbol of all that's wrong with Communist - style overcentralized planning—a good example of how not to run an economy.

For the Czechs, who once owned one of the world's most advanced industrial economies, it must be humiliating indeed.

The worst setbacks occurred three years ago and there has since been a gradual improvement. But productivity remains low — the main element of the problem —and influential Czechs are aware that without a thorough housecleaning the same or worse could happen again.

Hence the recent adoption of a wide-ranging, long-overdue economic reform.

One of the most influential men in Czechoslovakia today is Prof. Otakar Sik, director of the economics institute of the Academy of Sciences and architect of the economic reform.

"We have only produced quantities of machines and have not made sufficient progress in technically - advanced, modern production skills in engineering," Prof. Sik says.

Some observers trace the present structure of the Czech economy to decisions adopted between 1949 and 1951 which oriented industry away from its traditional concentration on consumer goods and toward heavy industry.

By 1953 Czechoslovakia was supplying more than half of Communist Romania's machinery and equipment imports, nearly one - third of Hungary's and a quarter of Poland's.

But as the years passed these countries provided more and more for their own needs. Czechoslovakia's hopes for an integrated East European economy, in which her dominant industrial position would be preserved, were disappointed.

At the same time there was growing competition from East Germany and some from Western Europe. Czech industry, which had failed to keep pace with technological developments, was unable to cope with the competition.

To pay for sorely-needed raw materials and foodstuffs the country had to export an excessive share of its best machinery output, with the result that the domestic plant became more and more obsolescent.

Even the Soviet Union, the old standby customer of East European countries, began shifting some of its Czech purchases to the West.

A half-hearted attempt at economic reform, instituted in 1958-59, was abandoned. In 1963, darkest year of the decline, national income dropped by four per cent and there was an unprecedented, though slight, dip in gross industrial output. Real and nominal wages also suffered a slight setback.

EFFICIENT PENALIZED

Unrealistic plans for agricultural production had not been fulfilled for many years. Losses to the economy from time spent by people searching for food and consumer goods were, and still are, considerable.

In framing five-year plans, different enterprises lobbied for high investments, a large number of workers and low production targets.

Often, efficient enterprises were penalized and inefficient ones rewarded on the basis of distorted and unrealistic criteria.

Usually the five-year plans were in effect abandoned after a year or two because they lacked stability. Annual plans took on a decisive importance.

Interest in fulfilment of annual plans had the effect of halting technical innovations since these would have hindered realization of the immediate production goal. Appeals for technical advancement were ignored.

Foreign trade, which should have acted as a catalyst to improve efficiency, actually had just the opposite effect. Enterprises sold their goods to state trading corporations without ever knowing the relationship of production costs here to those abroad.

Profits and losses of the trade corporations — usually losses — were swallowed up anonymously in the national budget.

SIGN OF THE TIMES — Dilapidated buildings covered with scaffolding are a common sight and illustrative of the economic stagnation of Czechoslovakia. Apathy and inefficiency have almost strangled a once-modern industrial country. (CP Photo)

Collision Ignites 2 Ships

From AP-Reuters

LISBON, Portugal (CP) — A Greek and a Norwegian tanker collided and caught fire today about 20 miles northwest of St. Vincente Cape, the southernmost cape of Portugal, and one officer was reported missing overboard. Both crews were rescued.

A Portuguese Navy plane and a ship were dashing to help the tankers after a positional mix-up had delayed assistance, a navy spokesman said.

The alarm was raised shortly after the 11,577 - ton Greek tanker Marietta Nomikos — bound from Hamburg to the Persian Gulf—radioed that she was on fire.

Almost immediately the 34,-895-ton Norwegian tanker Mosli reported she was also on fire.

One officer of the Marietta Nomikos was reported lost overboard.

(In Athens, it was announced that only a small fire was burning in the Greek tanker.)

CREWS RESCUED

The Mosli's 46 crew members were rescued by the 2,374-ton Norwegian freighter Bayard and the Greek seamen were picked up by the West German vessel Stuttgart.

The Stuttgart has fire-fighting equipment and was trying to halt the blaze.

Medical Care Bill Given First Reading

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—The government got conflicting advice Tuesday on its medical care insurance program.

New Democrats called for full speed ahead, delaying further the Commons' summer recess if necessary. But members of other opposition parties suggested legislation traffic signs should read: "Proceed with caution."

The Commons approved a resolution preceding the bill, got a first look at the legislation, and gave it first reading after 7½ hours of debate.

Health Minister MacEachen, piloting the legislation, said he hoped the bill would get second reading—approval in principle—before the House starts a summer recess. Second reading was listed as one of the points of business before the Commons today but there are several other matters listed ahead of it.

LISTS CONDITIONS

The bill set out the four conditions announced previously under which provincial plans qualify for a share of an estimated $340,000,000 annual federal kitty. A provincial plan must:

—Cover the full range of physicians' services.

—Cover 90 per cent of the province's population at the start, rising to 95 per cent in three years.

—Be publicly operated, non-profit and open to public audit.

—Be designed to be portable from one province to another.

Mr MacEachen reiterated his hope that the bill would "result in the commencement of provincial medical care plans covering all Canadians on the 100th birthday of Confederation, July 1, 1967."

He added he would like to see the bill receive second reading before a summer adjournment but this was not a government requirement.

Conservative, Creditiste and Social Credit MPs plumped for thorough study of the bill before approval.

But NDP leader Douglas said it should be pushed through as soon as possible.

Medicare was promised in the Liberal party platform of 1917, he said. There might be some problems inherent in the proposed plan "but if we wait until we have a perfect setup we will never start."

Buddhist Joins Cabinet

By STEPHEN SOMERVILLE

SAIGON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky today reshuffled his cabinet in a move seen as a bid to enhance the public image of his predominantly-military government.

The most noteworthy development was the creation of a second deputy premiership and the appointment of a Buddhist civilian, Dr. Nguyen Luu Vien, to the post.

Vien is a member of the southern branch of the church which did not join in the Unified Buddhist Church's recent intense campaign to topple the Saigon government.

The appointment of a civilian to the high office followed other moves to give the Ky regime a less military appearance.

However, military control increased in two other major changes.

The interior ministry was dissolved and its main functions, including control of the national police force, were handed to a military man while the ministry of information and control of a campaign aimed at convincing Viet Cong guerrillas to desert went to another soldier.

OFFICE ENLARGED

The prime minister's office was enlarged by the appointment of two new secretaries—both former ministers.

In other changes, former interior minister Tran Minh Tiet was made justice minister and the man he replaced, Lu Van Vi, became inspector general.

The cabinet reorganization, in the wake of the recent wave of Buddhist opposition, came less than two months before elections, scheduled for Sept. 11, for a constituent assembly.

CHANGES SYSTEM

OTTAWA (CP) — The Air Transport Board of Canada has changed its classification system to permit more recreational flying. Holders of Class 4 and Class 7 licences, previously good only for passenger charter flights, now will be able to provide recreational flying services.

Dispute Breaks Up Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators meet again today in an effort to resolve the U.S. airlines strike after a dispute over a "status quo" agreement abruptly broke up talks Tuesday.

The International Association of Machinists (AFL - CIO) halted the talks and accused Northwest Airlines, one of five companies shut down by the walkout which began last Friday, of putting economic pressure on its employees living in the airline's compound in Tokyo.

Northwest denied knowledge of any violations of the Aug. 9, 1965, union-management agreement "to keep things the way they are" pending the outcome of contract talks.

Today's meeting, sources said, will attempt to determine whether there is any basis for the union complaint and whether the Tokyo developments were local in nature or connected with the Northwest headquarters in Minneapolis, Minn.

More than 35,000 machinists walked off their jobs Friday against Northwest, Trans World, Eastern, National and United.

The strike has halted 60 per cent of the air travel in the U.S. at a cost to the airlines and labor of an estimated $8,000,000 daily.

IMPACT GROWS

Miami reported thousands of empty rooms along its oceanfront resort row with workers being laid off by the hundreds. Some hotelmen predicted a full-fledged financial crisis if the strike lasts two weeks or more.

Air freight shipments were delayed and flower lovers in New York and lobster lovers in the Midwest, South and Southwest were doing without. New York officials said the slowdown in air freight will "interfere" with production in the area's electronics manufacturing plants.

The chief dispute is over a union demand for wage increases of about 58 cents an hour over a three-year contract period.

Old MiGs Are Sighted Near Hanoi

SAIGON (AP)—Carrier-based U.S. Navy bombers left an oil depot northwest of Haiphong in smoke and flames Tuesday and for the first time in the Viet Nam war encountered old-model MIG 15s.

Two MIG 15s, the first of the type built by the Soviet Union, were sighted near Hanoi, but did not engage the U.S. raiders.

The MIG 15s, slow by present standards, made their combat debut in the early 1950s during the Korean War. The previous Communist jets encountered in this war have been MIG 17s or the newer model MIG 21s.

Ban Animals From Beaches In 92 Parks

TORONTO (CP) — Animals are being banned from beaches and swimming areas in Ontario's 92 provincial parks by a provincial cabinet order aimed at keeping beaches clean and water free from pollution.

It carries a maximum fine of $500.

George Hulme, director of the Toronto Humane Society, said today the order was a shock.

"I think (dogs) should be allowed if they are on a leash and under control. Pretty soon you won't be able to take your pet anywhere."

Tom Hughes, director of the Ontario Humane Society, did not agree.

"It is a sensible decision and I entirely agree with it."

Former Pentagon Aide Is Charged With Spying

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former military aide to the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff has been accused of conspiring to deliver defence information to the Soviet Union.

A federal grand jury indictment naming William Henry Whalen, a retired army lieutenant colonel, said the information included data on atomic weapons, missiles and the retaliation plans of the Strategic Air Command.

It said Whalen received a total of $5,500 on six occasions between December, 1959, and March, 1961, from two former Soviet embassy officials who have returned to Russia.

Whalen, 51, and now unemployed, was taken into custody Tuesday by FBI agents in suburban Alexandria, Va., where he lives. He was arraigned on the espionage conspiracy charge, which carries a maximum penalty of death, and released several hours later after posting $15,000 bail.

The two Russians, Col. Sergei Edemski and Mikhail S. Shumaev, were named as coconspirators in the indictment returned by a grand jury in Newport News, Va. The justice department said the Russians were not charged because they are no longer in the United States.

Whalen, who had been awarded the Legion of Merit and Army Commendation Medal, served in the office of the joint chiefs at the Pentagon until Feb. 3, 1961, when he was retired on a physical disability after more than 20 years of active duty.

Asian 'Peace of Conciliation' Aim of His Policy, LBJ Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has spelled out a four-point policy for peace in Asia, combining U.S. commitment against aggression there with a continuing effort for improved relations with China.

"The peace we seek in Asia is a peace of conciliation," Johnson said in a speech Tuesday night to the American Alumni Council.

"Communists in Asia still believe in force to achieve their goals" and the United States, as a pacific power, "will not retreat from the obligations of freedom and security in Asia" and particularly in Viet Nam, he said.

But lasting peace depends on international trade, the free flow of people and ideas, the full participation of all nations in an international community and a common dedication to human progress and development, he said.

Declaring that "a peaceful mainland China is central to a peaceful Asia," he said Peking must be discouraged from aggressive hostility and encouraged toward peaceful co-operation with others.

He cited U.S. efforts—so far unsuccessful—to open up travel between the United States and China.

Such initiatives will continue, he said "because we believe that co-operation, not hostility, is really the way of the future" toward a pacific era in which America and Asia are partners across the ocean.

Johnson delivered his speech from the White House theatre after thunderstorms cancelled his plans to fly to the alumni council meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., in person.

The speech was carried by radio and television networks.

In what appeared to be part of an administration effort to hold down excessive optimism from reports of recent successes in Viet Nam, the president kept stressing that the war "may last a long time."

Johnson's reference to the U.S. effort in Viet Nam was part of one of the four essentials he cited for peace in Asia. As he phrased it, this is "to prove to aggressive nations that the use of force to conquer others is a losing game."

His other three points were "the determination of the United States to meet our obligations in Asia as a pacific power," "the building of political and economic strength among the nations of free Asia" and "reconciliation between nations that now call themselves enemies."

It Was Hotter 30 Years Ago

So you think it's been hot, do you? Admittedly the temperature has soared over 90 on June 23, 24, 25, 26, 29, and July 2, 3, and 10, but a glance at the Intelligencer for July, 1936, might give one pause.

"103 Degrees at Belleville — All Time High" reads the headline on Thursday, July 9, of that year. The heat wave really began the day before when the high was 95. Residents of the city searched high and low for cool places to sleep, even to the extent of parking their cars beside the road to the Bay Bridge. On July 10 the Intelligencer's streamer proclaims "Twenty Deaths in Ontario Blamed on Heat," although "policemen on the beat in the city, obeying the dictates of neatness even at the cost of comfort, continued to patrol their territory with tunics closely buttoned and warm helmets perched solidly on their heads."

"Heat Deaths Approach 100" is the head on a July 11 story but the temperature was down to a mere 95. By Monday, July 13, the Intelligencer was able to say "Mercury Drops Down to Eighties for a Breather."

British Expert Says Truscott Evidence Sound

LONDON (CP) — Professor Keith Simpson, one of Britain's leading authorities on forensic medicine, says the medical and scientific evidence in the Steven Truscott case is "surprisingly sound."

The 58 - year - old professor, head of forensic medicine in the famous Guys Hospital Medical School, slipped quietly out of London today and appeared headed for Canada. An informant said he may give support to the position of the Ontario prosecution in the review of the controversial sex murder case.

Truscott, now 21, was found guilty in 1959 of the murder of 12-year-old Lynne Harper near Clinton, Ont. He is serving a life sentence at Kingston Penitentiary.

A book on the case, written by Isabel LeBourdais has raised questions about the handling of the case.

Last April, in a letter to the lord chancellor, Professor Francis Camps, one of Britain's top pathologists, said that on the basis of the book, "I do not think the medical evidence for the prosecution can possibly stand up to scrutiny."

Camps later made a trip to Canada and said he conferred with Truscott's lawyers. In an interview Tuesday night he said he did not know whether he would testify on behalf of Truscott during the review.

Meanwhile, Simpson wrote a

Heat Wave Smothering Parts Of U.S. in 105 Temperature

CHICAGO (AP)—The longest heat wave of the summer gripped most of the eastern two-thirds of the U.S. today, causing widespread misery and inconvenience.

Temperatures have soared to 100-plus for five straight days in parts of the U.S. midsection and in the South.

In St. Louis, where the mercury climbed to 105 Tuesday and has been 100-plus for four days, 20 deaths were attributed to the hot weather. More than 100 persons at the all-star baseball game in St. Louis were treated for illnesses caused by heat.

The Union Electric Co. in St. Louis said it planned to continue rationing electric power to 600,000 customers in an attempt to avert a blackout.

Many cities reported record consumption of power because of round-the-clock use of cooling devices.

In Washington, Chairman Lee C. White of the U.S. Federal Power Commission said the heat wave is causing a critical electric power situation in most of the U.S. east of the Rockies.

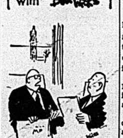
But he said he does not foresee any massive power failure such as the one that blacked out the northeastern U.S. and part of Ontario last November.

Severe thunderstorms struck Sandusky, Ohio, and nearly a foot of rain caused flooding. About 200 persons were evacuated.

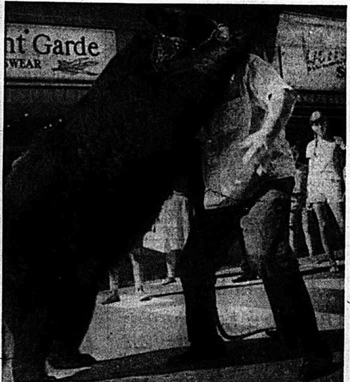
Heavy thunderstorms cut electrical service in several suburbs of Detroit.

Storms, with high winds and heavy rain struck across New England, knocking out power and telephone connections and downing trees.

FIRST CALL with Ben Wicks



"How come Polyanski's interpreter understands Martin and we don't?"



NOW YOU KNOW — Ever wonder where the expression "bear hug" came from? The famous form is demonstrated on Ottawa's Sparks Street shopping mall Tuesday by Terrible Ted, a 400-pound black bear from King City, Ont., 26 miles north of Toronto, and his owner Jean Dubois. The bear has been wrestling for 13 years. Dubois offers $1,500 to the first man who can win a wrestling match with the bear. "Ted" has already won 1,500 bouts and never lost . . . obviously.

Michael Bawtree's Play On Last Tsar Impresses

By ROBERT TANNER

STRATFORD — Breaking away from Shakespearean drama once again, the Stratford festival last night presented a most interesting dramatization by Michael Bawtree of the last years of the Russian monarchy. "The Last of the Tsars" was specially commissioned for the festival, and last night's performance at the Avon Theatre was its world premiere. It tells its story of the period between 1913 and 1918 with almost cinematic technique, using flashbacks and a curious interplay of "then" and "now", which is extremely effective for the first act, keeping the action flowing briskly yet clearly. In the second act, however, the technique tends to run away with its inventor, betraying him into some wordy scenes which do little to enhance the play. But this is Mr. Bawtree's first full length play, written under considerable pressure, and must be judged a very considerable success. He is obviously a master of smooth flowing and natural dialogue; oddly enough it is the actual letters and speeches which he has woven into the play's fabric that sound unnatural and stilted to the modern ear. His characterizations are clear and sharp, and the play offers some splendid opportunities to the cast, which they have no hesitation in seizing.

WM. HUTT STARS

The most important role is not that of the Tsar, but of his brother, the Grand Duke Michael, admirably played by William Hutt, acting as narrator, a full participant in the stirring events portrayed, and as the chief protagonist of the monarchical side of the play's argument. In this latter function, he is nobly supported by Tony van Bridge as Comrade Samoilov, his principal opponent, and by Barry MacGregor as his very English servant, Johnson. These three carry much of the weight of the whole play, although there are many other strong performances. Joel Kenyon portrays the Tsar Nicholas as the weakling he apparently was, completely under the domination of his German - born Tsarina, Alix (Amelia Hall), herself dominated by Rasputin (Powys Thomas) whose evil influence contributed so much to the Tsar's downfall. All three of these were excellent portrayals of very unsympathetic roles.

With the remainder of the cast headed up by such stalwarts as William Needles, Mervyn Blake, Frances Hyland and Bernard Behrens, Stratford's admirable teamwork was once again in full evidence, and Mr. Bawtree should feel that his new play has been given a very strong send-off, as far as the acting is concerned.

With Michael Langham in charge of direction, this aspect of the production is also in excellent hands. Although the Avon is a normal proscenium theatre, Mr. Langham scorns the use of a curtain, and with the help of his designer, Leslie Hurry, gives us a setting which at first sight is as plain and as bare as the Stratford Theatre itself. But just twice during the action, a spectacular lighting change reveals Mr. Hurry's dramatic backcloth and conjures up a little of the splendor and magnificence of Tsaroom. The whole production makes great use of subtle lighting (which was perhaps not quite as subtle on opening night as it will be later on). Music and effects were in the capable hands of Louis Applebaum, and both contributed notably to the evening's success.

It would be presumptuous to pass judgment on a play of this calibre after only one performance. It may well be that on seeing it in production the author may make changes which will improve and strengthen the second act. But even as it stands, it seems clear that, in its venture into the promotion of new dramatic material, the Stratford Festival has achieved something well worth while, and perhaps has established a new name within the ranks of dramatists to be reckoned with.

Recover Body Near Smoke Is.

A 12-hour search ended just before noon yesterday when O.P.P. officials located the body of Clayton (Joe) Brickman, 49, of R. R. 1 Carrying Place, just off Smoke Island behind Union Carbide.

Mr. Brickman drowned Sunday morning after he fell from his 17-foot boat into the bay east of Cow Island off the Government Dock at Belleville.

Mr. Brickman, his wife Harriett, and Mr. and Mrs. Asa Brickman of Port Hope were cruising on the bay when the motor seized up. The victim fell overboard as he worked on the motor.

The boat, with the three distraught passengers aboard, drifted to shore at Point Anne about one hour after the accident.

Police were notified about 11:30 a.m. and began a search which lasted until the body was found yesterday.

No Fatalities From Cholera Epidemic

The Bay of Quinte region suffered one of its first and worst epidemics in 1882 when the dread cholera arrived from Europe. Hundreds died at Kingston, Picton, and other centres, but there were no fatalities at Belleville. Why?

A letter from Samuel Wilmot dated Belleville, June 29, 1832 suggests an answer: "There is a guard armed stations on all roads leading to this place night and day to prevent the approach of all strangers . . . and no steam or sailboat allowed to land goods or passengers."

Accordingly, the recently constructed hospital built from money sent by the provincial government stood empty. As sick emigrants are not allowed to approach the town. Wilmot noted, "the hospital will be required only to add appearance to this Village."

This information was discovered by Gerald Boyce during a four - day stay last week at the Public Archives in Ottawa. This week, workshops are being held at the County Museum each day from 9 to 5 to locate interesting pictures for the county history now being prepared as a centennial project. Eight persons took part in the search Monday and other interested persons are invited to help out.

The race set for Sunday, July 17 starts at the Trenton Yacht Club and finishes at the town dock. Weed Harvest Now Available To Farmers

TRENTON — Farmers in the district have been invited to take truckloads of fertilizer and livestock feed away from the waterfront area at no charge. The material is being dumped on the yacht basin shoreline from a barge hauling the annual weed harvest from the town's bay approaches.

Yesterday the acquatic weed-cutter returned to Trenton waters and started to work in the north channel of the Bay of Quinte connecting the town harbor with the Murray Canal. The machine under contract for the Department of Public Works at Ottawa now has been on a cutting assignment on the Trent Waterways System around Frankford for the Department of Transport.

Earlier the floating harvester was engaged on the Rideau Canal system in the Smith Falls' region. It will be clearing the Bay of Quinte areas for about three weeks; first at Trenton and then Belleville and its surrounding weed-infested waters.

Livestock nutrition experts claim acquatic weeds make excellent farm animal food as well as containing large quantities of natural chemicals for encouraging soil growth.

And according to a spokesman for the company doing the government weed-cutting the Quinte' and adjacent waters return the heaviest harvest so far this year.

May Provide Service Road For Centres

TRENTON—Highway travellers may soon be able to cross the 401 to reach the service centres west of here without having to drive all the way to Brighton.

Depending on the success of a meeting in Toronto yesterday there is a good possibility a service road will be provided to solve the problem. As it stands now violators are subject to police court action and fine. The alternative for those wanting to visit either of the centres separated by the four-lane route involves a 14-mile return trip to the inter-change north of Brighton.

Yesterday Mayor James MacDonald and a delegation from Murray and Brighton townships went to the city to discuss the matter with authorities there.

review on the LeBourdais book, published in the current edition of Britain's Medico-Legal Journal, a quarterly.

In his review Simpson said the book is "so biased by the outraged feelings of the authoress it is difficult to weigh the facts."

He described Truscott's defence by his lawyer, Frank Donelly, as "colorless" and observed that no major legal figure appeared on either side of the case. Except for the young age of the accused and the victim, he wondered why this case, which seemed "like so many others," was selected for "such a meticulous scientific dissection."

He said it is "unfortunate" that the authoress repeatedly invokes the aid of two historic Scottish textbooks of forensic medicine of 1938 and 1939 which still bear the "misleading title" of "recent advances in forensic medicine."

This "hardly adds substance to her argument," Simpson said.

"The medical and scientific evidence given seemed to us surprisingly sound coming as it did from quite moderate experts and we do not subscribe to the feelings of outrage that are repeatedly called for in this account of the Truscott case," he concluded.

Canadian Economist Discovers Yugoslavia Looking to West

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Would you believe that a taxi driver in a Communist state could import his own foreign automobile, run it on the streets of a Communist capital city, and be allowed to make more money by private enterprise than his fellow cabdrivers working for the state?

That is being done in Belgrade under new economic reform which is spreading in Yugoslavia, says a noted Canadian economist who recently spent a week there delving into what seems to be a new Communist revolution of the quiet sort.

O. J Firestone, vice-dean of social sciences at the University of Ottawa and formerly topflight economic adviser to the Canadian government, also found these developments — startling in the context of a Marxist society:

—State - inspired enterprizes which can't make a profitable and competitive go of it are being allowed to go bankrupt.

—The egalitarian principle of equality of incomes is going by the boards, and workers are being paid on incentive rates reflecting their productivity.

—The collectivization of farm lands is being stopped, and people with small land holdings are being encouraged to sell produce at the best price they can get on the market.

LOOKS TO WEST

"Yugoslavia has become international - oriented, outward looking to the West rather than inward or Communist-oriented only," the 53-year-old professor and consultant said in an interview on his return from presenting a paper to the Yugoslav Institute for Economy and Foreign Affairs in Belgrade.

He said he asked one high-placed Communist theoretician how the introduction of some basic principles of a free enterprise economy squared with Marxist socialism.

He was given the frank answer that experience had proved that state planning can become bogged down in too much detail and too great an effort to direct the economy from the top. Instead, the planners now concentrate more on broad goals and objectives, and tend to let price and market forces of supply and demand play a freer role.

Some of the principles of the new economics of Yugoslavia are to pave the way for:

—"A freer and economically more expedient distribution of capital accumulation through the market and prices . "

—"Income distribution according to work performed "

—"A freer action of the laws of the market . "

—"Elimination of undue and unnecessary administrative interference in the field of foreign trade and foreign exchange."

CAN DOUBLE INCOME

These quotations are from a report presented to the Central Committee of the League of Communists of Yugoslavia last year as a forerunner to adoption by the National Assembly of the new economic reform.

How does the new economic reform work in practice?

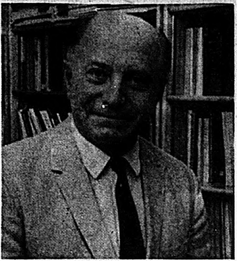
Mr. Firestone says a worker in a textile mill now receiving the equivalent of $100 a month in dinars at the official rate of exchange—or $300 a month in terms of Canadian earning power—can double that if he moves to metal-working where productivity is higher.

An enterprise which in Canada would charge wages and salaries as well as other expenses to its gross sales and compute a net income or profit charges only its other expenses to sales in Yugoslavia, and then divides its profits between reinvestment in expansion and workers' incomes.

The taxi driver can, if he wishes, invest his own money in a foreign car—French Peugeots cost $5,000 at the official rate of exchange. By showing enough enterprise to work longer hours and charge premium rates for the somewhat more luxurious service, he can meet his costs and pocket a profit.

On a visit to the University of Belgrade, Mr. Firestone discussed his own special field, economics, with his opposite number and asked to see the library. He found there most of the same basic reference books in English that the University of Ottawa has here.

For its course in international economics, the University of Belgrade uses a Czech text and an American text, the latter one the same as Mr. Firestone uses here



YUGOSLAVIA LOOSENS THE SYSTEM — Cash value instead of communist system seems to be the new guiding principle of Yugoslavia, says Canadian economist O. J. Firestone. The vice-dean of social sciences at the University of Ottawa says the new state planners are concentrating on broad goals and objectives but are leaving much of the economy free. (CP Photo)

Quebec Hydro Plans Meet Snag in Boundary Dispute

By CLAUDE HENAULT

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's refusal to recognize the Quebec-Newfoundland border may force the former into spending $200,000,000 prematurely, top Hydro-Quebec officials say.

Two men, Michel Kazanovitch and Rene Levasseur, were interviewed separately Monday and Tuesday during a visit to Quebec's gigantic hydro-electric project on the Manicouagan and Ugardes rivers in northern Quebec.

Mr. Kazanovitch, who co-ordinated building of the project's Manic 2 dam, costing slightly more than $150,000,000, said that if agreement is not reached soon on the proposed Churchill Falls project in Labrador, Quebec will be forced to accelerate its hydro projects.

"An agreement to develop Churchill Falls must be signed by September and the work begun there immediately because there will be a hole in Quebec's electricity-producing system by 1971 or 1972 and some way of filling that hole must be found."

In its long - range planning, Hydro-Quebec had thought the "hole" would be filled with power from Churchill Falls, having a capacity of 9,000,000 horsepower.

Mr. Levasseur, co-ordinator for the still uncompleted Manic 5 project, said the province will have to turn to the projected Manic 3 scheme to fill the gap.

"The putting into operation of the Manic 3 scheme is therefore dependent on Churchill Falls," said Mr. Levasseur, whose Manic 5 project will cost $500,000,000.

Mr. Kazanovitch felt negotiations, to set the Churchill project in motion now involve politics rather deeply and that economic issues are not the only ones at stake.

Churchill Falls would be put into operation by the British Newfoundland Corp., and the Newfoundland government. However, before beginning the project, markets such as Quebec and the United States, must be assured.

One of the difficulties Mr. Kazanovitch saw in the negotiations for marketing the power by the provincially-owned Hydro-Quebec was that "signing of such an agreement implies approval of the present Labrador boundary between Quebec and Newfoundland."

Such an agreement would be directly contrary to the Union Nationale's policy on Labrador. In their campaign in the June 5 Quebec election, the Union Nationale promised it would not recognize the present boundary and would try to get this area for Quebec.

INDIANS FACE FIRES

More than 900 Ontario Indians have been trained as forest fire fighters.

Conservation Grants Made

J. R. Simonett, Ontario Minister of the Department of Energy and Resources Management, has confirmed the approval of three provincial grants for capital improvements to the Moira River Conservation Authority.

A $450 grant for capital improvements in the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area and two grants of $300 for the Price and Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation areas have been given approval.

Miss Ireland Wants Bikinis Compulsory

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Down with one-piece bathing suits, Ireland's bikini-boosting entry in the Miss Universe beauty contest said Tuesday with a brogue.

"You can get away with murder in the top of a one-piece bathing suit," said Gladys Ann Waller, who has no problem with a 36-23-36 figure. "You don't even have to have a bosom to wear a full suit.

"And you can cover up scars in the full suit as well," she said.

In the interest of fairness, the blue-eyed model proposed, the girls ought to have to parade in front of the judges in bikinis.

Miss Luxembourg, a stately five-foot-eight, agreed. She argued that the full suits, which contest rules say cannot be padded, give contestants too much leeway.

"A girl can make herself appear as she wants in a one-piece bathing suit," said 19-year-old Gigi Antinori.

Most of the girls said they preferred the bikini for the beach but the full suit for the stage. Some conceded that the bikini was fairer, but they weren't going to change their vote.

"I don't have the shape for the bikini," Miss Guam, Barbara Perez, said. "Anyway, it's not our custom back home."

Miss New Zealand, Heather Gettings, said: "Bathing suits do so much for you. If you're a little bit wide, the bikini makes it even wider."

Equal Rights Mean Equal Responsibility

By JEAN SHARP

VICTORIA (CP) — If women are going to continue to demand equal rights they must be prepared to accept equal responsibilities at work and at home, the president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs said Tuesday.

Lady Barbara Littlewood told delegates at the Canadian Confederation convention in England that when a married couple separates, the husband can get maintenance payments from his wife if he is unable to work.

Her audience of about 700 working women appeared disapproving and she scolded them.

"If a woman is healthy and able to work and a man isn't, why shouldn't she help to maintain him?

"You groan but if we're to have equal rights we must accept equal responsibilities."

Lady Littlewood, of Guildford, Surrey, England, is a solicitor, as are her husband and son. She was dinner speaker on the third day of the five-day, 20th biennial convention.

She told delegates the international federation, with a membership in 34 countries, still have to work to do in helping to get political rights and quality of opportunity for women in many countries.

Prime Minister Drops in on New Premier

By DON ANGUS

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP)—Alex B. Campbell had been premier-elect of Prince Edward Island for less than 24 hours when Prime Minister Pearson dropped in on short notice Tuesday to congratulate him.

And Mr. Campbell almost missed the meeting.

The prime minister, en route to Ottawa from Newfoundland, arrived at the airport here earlier than expected. Mr. Pearson waited briefly near the transport department aircraft.

He was turning to head back into the plane when Mr. Campbell's car pulled up and the 32-year - old provincial Liberal leader strode across the tarmac.

The two men chatted informally for several minutes before Mr. Pearson's plane took off for Ottawa. The prime minister had officially opened the Trans-Canada Highway in Newfoundland earlier in the day.

It was a day of initial meetings for Mr. Campbell, whose Liberals won two seats in a Kings 1st deferred election Monday to gain a 17-15 legislature majority over Walter Shaw's Progressive Conservatives.

Canada's youngest premier and Mr. Shaw, the nation's oldest at 78, held their first formal meeting Tuesday morning and at noon issued a joint statement approving in principle the establishmet of a Prince Edward Island labor-management council.

BIBLE CITY FOUND

AMMAN (AP)—British archeologists exploring in Jordan think they have found the ruins of the Biblical city of Sela. One discovery at the site was a stamp with the name of Edomite king Kozbal in Phoenician characters and a winged sphinx figure.

Tourist Traffic Particularly Heavy in Past Two Weeks

Brad Bradley, secretary - manager, Belleville Chamber of Commerce, said today that tourist traffic, particularly in the last two weeks, has been heavy.

He said, "Tourists have been floating in regularly all day long asking for information. They seem pretty well split in their interests, but there seems to be more wanting to go towards Prince Edward County than to the north."

He said that over 50 per cent of the tourist traffic coming into the office is American tourists. The Chamber has been answering an average of five letters a day from U.S. tourists requesting information.

"There is a heavy demand for a serviced trailer camp, but we can't help them at all, because there just isn't one in this area."

He said most U.S. tourists want to find out about customs regulations. They want to know how much they can take back to the U.S. with them.

"The most popular piece of tourist material this year is the new indexed official Ontario road map put out by the Department of Highways. Also popular is a folder called "Roads to Recreation," which lists all resort areas, picnic grounds, historical sites and so on in the province."

GIVEN MAP OF CITY

Mr. Bradley said the Chamber also gives all tourists a free map of Belleville. The map, completely indexed, has the main thoroughfares marked in color and has a list of Chamber members on the reverse side.

"A comprehensive map of the city is something we've needed for a long time, so the Chamber took it upon itself to supply this service." He said there is always a heavy demand for a map of the city.

"Requests for camping information have hit an all-time high in this area. We find it difficult to keep up with the demand for camping booklets and information."

He said there is the usual number of tourist inquiries about the 1000 Island cruises. "From requests we've had, it seems a large number of tourists are visiting Upper Canada Village and Old Fort Henry."

Centennial Thoughts

We trust this will not be so, but it is just as well that Canadians give the matter some thought lest by apathy and inaction such a dire forecast comes true.

Just how enthusiastic are we about the 100th anniversary of Confederation? Apart from Expo 67 in Montreal, which by its very nature and scope can scarcely fail to be a success, how much thought are we giving to presenting a lively and interesting image in towns and cities across the land?

Belleville's project at Zwick's Island is coming along nicely. When completed, the tennis courts, park and other recreation facilities will be important assets for the use of citizens during their leisure hours.

It may be early yet, and the progress on the city's project is encouraging, but if the present mood of Canadians regarding 1967 is any criterion the celebrations could make less impact than is intended. True, a great deal of energy and work are being directed toward making the various projects a success, but they require a much greater degree of interest and support on the part of citizens generally.

At the provincial level the Centennial celebrations could have a bearing on the date of the next election. The fall of 1967 is regarded as a likely date for such a poll. On the other hand it could be earlier.

The Globe and Mail's Arthur Brydon, in a survey of election possibilities in Ontario, says one factor that could change the date "is the belief by some Conservative party officials that Canada's Centennial celebration will flop.

"These sources believe that to avoid vote losses through the vicious political backfire from such a flop ,the Ontario election would have to be held in the spring of 1967.

"The professional politicians," concludes Brydon, "will keep a close watch on Centennial preparations in an attempt to foresee such a flop."

Canadians will not be expected to change their way of life just because it is Centennial Year, but it is well to consider now, with 1967 drawing closer, what the Centennial means in terms of historical interest and contemporary affairs. One hundred years ago the pioneers were concerned with the fundamentals of life, tilling the land, feeding and clothing children in a harsh climate. Today we enjoy one of the highest standards of living in the world, and the problem is not just one of subsistence but of keeping a galloping economy within manageable bounds. In 100 years we have come a long way — and that is what we are supposed to be celebrating in 1967.

Links With Moscow

The establishment this fall of two-way flights between Montreal and Moscow puts the seal on the whirlwind Canadian journey of the remarkable Dmitri Polyansky, deputy premier of the Soviet Union.

The new link is symbolic of the equally remarkable turn of events which has brought Canada into perhaps closer association with the Soviets than is enjoyed by any other country of the western world.

First, there was the inauguration of a Leningrad-Montreal ocean liner service by the Soviet vessel Alexander Pushkin. Thus, by sea and air an entirely fresh field for achieving better understanding has been opened between the eastern and western worlds.

The recent big wheat purchase by Russia was another event of significance which Mr. Polyansky predicted will be followed by further substantial orders by his country.

For Air Canada the agreement is a notable achievement. The airline will become the first to have a direct route to Moscow from this continent. Flights will be made via Copenhagen and it is on this leg of the journey that the company expects to make most of its profit. In time, however, traffic to Moscow should increase, particularly during Centennial Year when considerable numbers of Soviet visitors are expected in Montreal.

P.E.I. Decision

In Prince Edward Island the Liberals are in power after seven years of Conservative administration.

Majorities in two ridings in which voting had been deferred ensured victory for the Liberals and swept Alexander Campbell, 32, into power as Canada's youngest premier.

The outcome of the election is a triumph for youth. With Mr. Campbell at the helm, Prince Edward Island should benefit from new ideas and energetic leadership.

At the same time his majority is narrow, only two seats out of a total of 32. And if he should be inclined to try to accomplish too much too soon, the restraining hand of Conservative leader Walter Shaw, who at 78 was the nation's oldest provincial leader, will not be far away.

Contact Lenses Need Proper Safeguards

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Shortly after having bought my daughter (she's 18) a pair of contact lenses, I read an article that says you can go blind from wearing them. Is there any truth in this? Now I am afraid to let her wear them. — Mrs. J. J.

* * *

I'm not sure I saw the precise article to which you refer, but will mention another — and unauthoritative — one.

Contact lenses have become extremely popular, and it is estimated that 90 percent are worn because people feel they "look better." Others, such as actors, some athletes and some professional people have more urgent reasons.

Contacts are here to stay. I strongly believe in letting the decision rest with an eye specialist who will consider the real need and the individual's temperament (some folks cannot tolerate them). He will also explain proper use, and the necessity for follow-up observation.

Anyone wearing contacts should be thoroughly instructed in the right way to insert and remove them; proper cleansing and storage; how long to wear them at the time; and signs of trouble, if any develop.

It is essential, in my opinion, that the wearer be checked every six to 12 months to detect any defect in the cornea — the covering of the eyeball. Of course any pain or irritation should be reported to the eye specialist at once.

As to blindness, a recent survey of reports from 1,900 eye specialists on 49,000 patients wearing contacts revealed 14 instances of blindness or loss of an eye. These were due to infection, which is why periodic examination is so necessary. If irritation starts, and leads to infection, it must be detected and subdued before serious damage results.

The foregoing survey also showed that among the 49,000 patients, some complication arose, but was corrected, in 7,600 instances, which bears out the warning I have voiced before: Not everybody can wear contact lenses, and some people can wear them only for a limited time.

The lens, after all, is a foreign body in the eye Some folks tolerate this readily, some cannot.

This should not be construed as a condemnation of contact lenses. but only as a warning that they must be used with adequate precautions — proper fitting, proper care proper use.

Do not insist on having them if your specialist advises otherwise. Some specialists believe that wearing them for no more than five hours at a time is a wise safety measure because certain secretions can occur under the lens and be irritating.

In short, Mrs. J. J., there was truth in what you read, but if your daughter is careful and observes proper safeguards, she can wear her contacts in safety.

Dear DDr. Molner: What is a floating rib — its cause and cure? — Mrs. H.

It's normal, hence no cause, and no "cure" is needed. Everybody has four floating ribs, two on each side. They are the 11th and 12th ribs, the lowest, and are called floating because, unlike the rest of the ribs, they are not attached to the breast bone.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a woman with fibroid tumors (several rather small ones) to become pregnant? I have been told that the walls of the uterus must be smooth to make pregnancy possible. —S.C.

Such tumors sometimes do prevent pregnancy. But there are thousands of babies who are living proof that fibroids don't prevent all pregnancies.

Cornwall's Industrial Boom

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Cornwall citizens have received more good news from the industrial front. Establishment, here, of a plant to manufacture television color tubes by Sylvania (Electric) Canada Limited keeps the city's industrial progress rolling along to the mutual satisfaction of citizens and the city as a whole.

This is the second new industry to be acquired by Cornwall within the past few days and is cause for rejoicing, since it should reduce the city's unemployment rolls considerably. At the outset the plant expects to employ 110 men.

Acquisition of the new industrial firm is a continuance of the industrial development and expansion program launched here back in 1959, when Cornwall's economy hit an al-time low with the closing of Canadian Cotton Mils Ltd., and ending of St. Lawrence seaway and power construction.

Formation of Cornwall Industrial Commission and establishment of Cornwall Industrial Development Commission, a public shareholding company, have been the mainsprings behind the steady development on the industrial and business scene. Both have received backing from city council's industrial committee. The results in the five - year period have been most gratifying.

Small, growth industries have formed the bulk of the new firms. Some of the city's well - established industries (Domtar Construction Materials Ltd.); TCF of Canada, Edo (Canada) Limited, Courtaulds (Canada) Limited, and Howard and Sons (Canada) Limited have been among the plants to expand. The industrial development plan has been based on diversification.

Here are just a few of the products manufactured, or to be manufactured, here: artistic glass, pressure sensitive tapes, stereo and hi-fi records; blended fabrics; fertilizers, plasticers; citric acid, carpets, precast terrazo, carbon bisulphide, gloves, vinyl coated fabrics, car seat covers, bookbinding fabrics, sorbitol, solvents, nylon, gloves, handbags, not to mention fine papers, tufted carpets, viscose and tyrex, zzinc hydrosulfite and others.

West Coast Indians Lag

Vancouver Province

Indians' living standards, attitudes and general progress in adapting to white men's ways vary, of course, from coast to coast. But in many areas — much of BC included — it is clear that the current approaches to Indian wants and welfare are largely ineffectual.

There are exceptions, but as a general rule West Coast Indian reservation life shows little evidence of progress and few signs of improvements to come. Bluntly, members of most Indian communities seem to accept welfare relief and other government hand-outs not as emergency help but as a way of life.

Yet this attitude does not mean many Indians should simply be written off as unworthy ever of sharing in white society's growing affluence.

For countless generations before the white man came to this coast, the Indians lived in a natural welfare state. Every year salmon filled the rivers, free for the taking. Game of all kinds abounded, wild berries were plentiful, all the materials for home-building were readily available.

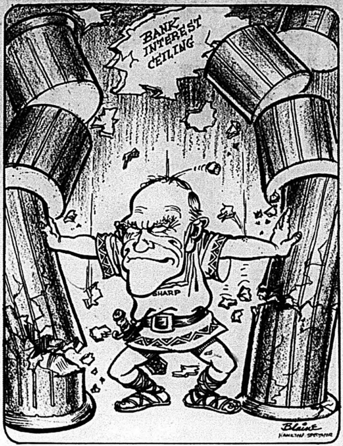
What's more, the women did most of the work, leaving the men free to hunt, fish, and contemplate the universe. Then, as now, living standards were not high by modern measure, but life was full and easy.

Surely it is not surprising, then, that in the span of one century few Indians have been able to grasp the white man's desire to compete, improve, change and get rich.

Until a way can be found to inculcate that desire in the Indian, all the Young Canadian plans, government assistance programs and missionarie's pleas will probably continue to fail.

They Pity Us

Vancouver is still, in my judgment, the most beautiful city in Canada. I hope this opinion of mine does not get back to the Vancouverites, because they are smug enough about their community now, when they look with ill-concealed pity upon some poor wretch from the east They appear to have a genuine sympathy for easterners, whom, they seem to feel, are human too, in a manner of speaking. - - Bruce West in The Globe and Mail.



Strictly Personal

Morality Has Merely Shrunk

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A phrase greatly in use these days is "the decline of morality." I don't happen to agree that morality has declined" in modern times; I think it has shrunk, which is a rather different thing.

Our personal standards are no lower than they have ever been. There are just as many honest, decent people as always — but their honesty rotates in a smaller circle. What the sociologists call their "area of loyalty" has become compressed.

Many people, for instance, would find it abhorrent to steal fom a friend, a neighbor, or even a fellow citizen. But these same people think nothing of defrauding an insurance company a department store, or any large institution.

The growing size and impersonality of such firms make it difficult for the average person to identify himself with them, to feel them as part of the fabric of the human community. And this is one of the prices we are paying for a highly industrialized society — each man performs his little task in his own sphere, and feels a kinship only with those directly associated with him.

The rise of the juvenile gang — both in number and in intensity — is eloquent warning that loyalty has shruken in the modern era. Boys have always grouped together in gangs, but never before has the distinction between the gang and the "outsiders" been so sharp, bitter and implacable. It is worth remembering that the boys who comprise these gangs are moral creatures — within the gang. They practice the cardinal virtues, but only with each other. Within the gang, they adhere to a strict moral code of honor, faithfulness, and dependability; but toward all outsiders, they feel free to declare open or concealed warfare.

Loyalty toward the community as a whole, toward the ancient idea of the "civitas," has been losing ground among adults as well as among juveniles. It is scarcely surprising that only in those towns — now relatively rare — in which adults display an old-fashioned community spirit has the growth of juvenile delinquency been met and mastered.

Technical changes in society always bring psychological changes. As the system gets larger, the individuals get smaller in comparison; as they shrink, their loyalties diminish with them. It is indicative of our failure to cope with this looming problem that so many boys today apparently feel that nothing outside the gang is worth their deepest allegiance.

Canada's Ethnic Background

By Walt McDayter in Toronto Telegram

Although Britain and France are recognized as Canada's two founding nations, neither country can claim credit for being first to set foot on our shores.

The Norsemen of Scandinavia were the first Europeans to step upon our soil, about 1,000 A. D. It took another 500 years for Britain to plant its flag in Canada, but even then it was done not by a Briton, but by an Italian. He was Giovanni Caboto (John Cabot), who sailed for Henry VII in 1497, landing at New Found Land and claiming it for the English king.

Jacques Cartier is often called the first man to explore New France, althought, the credit here too must go to an Italian. Giovanni da Verrazano led the expedition to Cape Breton in 1524, with Cartier merely accompanying him, and Verrazano wrote "Gallia Nova" (New France) on the map of the world for the first time. Not until 10 years later did Cartier lead his own ship into the St. Lawrence.

But if Britain and France were not the first to arrive here, they were the two who did most to build our country, to give us our laws and customs. For this reason they alone are considered Canada's two motherlands, though we recognize the contribution made by many other countries to our cultural mosaic.

In 1867, of Canada's 3 1-3 million population, only about 8 per cent was of other than British (61 percent) or French (31 per cent) origin. In our last national census, 1961, the British ratio had shrunk to 43.8 percent, the French hovered at 30.4 per cent while people of foreign origin now represented an impressive 25 per cent.

Of this figure, Germans comprise the largest group, totalling 5.8 per cent., and could date their presence in Canada back to 1753, when a group of 1,500 settled at Lunenburg, N.S.

Ukranians make up the next largest racial group, and have added almost ½ million people to our population since the first two Ukrainian pioneers, Vasyl Eleniak and Ivan Pylypin, arrived here in 1891.

Icelanders were even earlier immigrants, with 160 settling in Ontario as far back as 1873, and soon after established a thriving community at Lake Winnipeg. Mennonites settled in Manitoba in 1874, and after 1880 came a welcome flood of Hungarians, Norwegians and Swedes into the Canadian West.

From Italy, Netherlands, Poland, Russia, Austria . . . from every corner of the world they came.

Granted our Asiatic population is slight. In 1900, British Columbia excluded Asiatics from the province by law, but this was revoked by Ottawa. Ottawa, in turn, discouraged Orientals by imposing a head tax of $500 for each Chinese immigrant. Fortunately, our immigration laws were revised in 1962, placing stress for entry on education and skills, rather than race or color.

Military Budget Of the Israelis

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In your article about my speech to the Rotary Club in Belleville, "Charges Russia Making Egypt Into New Cuba" on page 3 of your publication dated July 5, 1966, an unfortunate mistake was made in the quotation of the military budget of Israel in paragraph 3 where it is compared with Egypt's $320 million and mentioned an amount of Israel's $1882 million. I was misquoted here in the figure which should have read Israel's $182 million.

Servicemen Get Uppish

Peterborough Examiner

Canadian servicemen who are preparing to leave the RCAF base at Marville in north-eastern France have made some peculiarly insensitive remarks to a passing reporter. One French-Canadian corporal said: "I think the French here are all dirty. They try to make us talk French the way they do. They don't want foreigners.' Offering a contradictory but no less arrogant point of view, an English speaking officer said: 'We get along pretty well — most of the local people speak pretty good English.' Another complained that the local produce was untouchable because of lack of hygiene and said that imported stuff was eaten for the most part.

The local inhabitants seem no less kindly disposed towards their visitors, being unhappy that the Canadians subsist off canned food and not local goods and, in one case, complaining about early Canadian residents at the base ipping up flags, tombstones (!) and flowerbeds in the vicinity.

Amicable relations are always difficult to maintain in a barracks town or area. But in this case there seem to be particularly good reasons for the mutual satisfaction at the closing of the base. From a Canadian viewpoint it is a little distressing to note the patronizing attitudes being expressed about the inhabitants and, of all things, a about the locals expecting visitors to talk to them in their own tongue (he must have been away from Quebec for some time). A lot of fun used to be poked at the ignorance and insolence of the Englishman abroad with his "wogs-begin-at-Calais' attitudes. Now it looks as if we could do with a dose.

Peace — Maybe!

If we could only solve the problem in Viet Nam, and we think we are on the way to doing that, we could have a world that is rather peaceful and generally prosperous. - - President Johnson.

Current problems confronting restaurant owners in Belleville and across Canada were discussed by members of the Eastern Ontario Branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association at a recent meeting in Belleville when local restaurateurs unanimously approved a brief which in the near future will be presented to the government. Growing costs of materials and difficulty in securing competent help are making it practically impossible for restaurant owners to serve certain items and still remain in business, it stated. To cover growing costs of materials restaurant owners will ask permission of Wartime Prices and Trade Board to increase meal prices accordingly.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 13, 1966 . . .

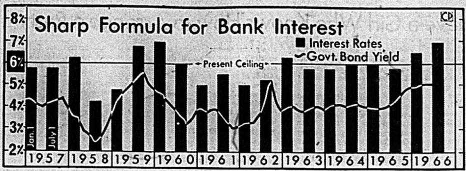
The United States government enacted the Northwest Ordinance 179 years ago today—in 1787—providing for the government of the vast portion of the country north of the Ohio River and west of the Allegheny Mountains. The region was to be divided into districts which, after passing through territorial or colonial status, would be admitted to statehood. This principle of ultimate statehood became the distinguishing feature of the American colonial system in the 19th century. Another provision of the ordinance which long played a prominent role in U.S. history was the prohibition of slavery in the territory forever.

1938 — Howard Hughes completed his flight around the world in a record four days.

1949—The Vatican warned that Roman Catholics who support anti - Christian or materialistic aspects of communism face excommunication.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1916 — British forces launched a new advance eastward toward Combles and Bapaume; a parallel French advance started toward Maurepas; Russians took 2,000 prisoners in fighting west of Buczacz.



NEW BANK CEILING PEGGED TO GOVERNMENT BONDS—Finance Minister Sharp has proposed a new formula for bank interest rates. The present six-per-cent ceiling would be lifted and a new ceiling set at 1¾ per cent above the average yield of short-term government bonds. The new rate would be published twice a year — Jan. 1 and July 1. This graph, based on information provided by the finance department, shows how interest rates would have fluctuated in the last 10 years had the proposed system been in effect. Bond yields are based on three-month moving averages. Bank interest rates are calculated on the average bond yield for the three months preceding Jan. 1 and July 1. (CP Newsmap)

Hog Producers Approve System And Agency

OTTAWA (CP) — Climaxing more than two years of planning and research, Canadian hog producers Tuesday approved both a new price-grading system and an agency to put it into effect.

The agency is the Canadian Swine Council comprising representatives from swine producers and breeding associations. It is empowered to negotiate the operation of the new carcass evaluation method with both the federal government and meat-packing plants.

It is also authorized to "carry the new procedure through into operation."

The council and the new grading system were given unanimous approval in a show-of-hands vote at a conference of hog producers under the aegis of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The grading system involves the taking of two instrument tests of the dressed carcass to determine backfat thickness. With a conversion table, this data would provide a lean meat yield estimate for the carcass on which the farmer would be paid.

The current system, in use without substantial changes for decades, involves the grading of the carcass into one of three quality categories for payment. Total weight, length and fat cover are important factors in the grade assessment.

For the guidance of council negotiators during implementation procedures, the conference endorsed an Ontario delegate's proposal for a grading preference to hogs in the 125- to 180-pound category within the new system. This preference exists in the current system.

OIL PRODUCTION UP

Canada produced 8.1 per cent more crude oil and hydrocarbons in 1965 than in 1964, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. Production was 324,300,000 barrels for the year or 888,447 barrels a day, an increase of 66,917 barrels a day over 1964.

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS UP

Dividend payments by Canadian companies in the first seven months of this year will be the highest seven-month figure ever, J. R. Timmins and Co., Toronto - based investment dealer, reports. Cumulative total for the first seven months is $748,940,891, up 14 per cent from the previous record of $654,247,982 established in 1965.

WITHDRAWS OFFER

Northern and Central Gas Co. Ltd. has decided not to make an offer to acquire the shares of Quebec Natural Gas Corp. and discussion between the companies have been terminated, it was announced Tuesday in Toronto. Northern and Central said June 13 it was considering a share exchange for Quebec Natural. Tuesday's announcement didn't give any reasons for the decision. However, negotiations apparently got bogged down on the question of price.

NET INCOME HIGHER

Quebec Natural Gas in a preliminary report Tuesday said net income for the fiscal year ended June 30 was $2,861,005, an increase of 67.7 per cent over the previous year. After dividends on preferred shares, earnings were equal to 63.4 cents a common share, compared with 45.2 cents the previous year.

Mosquito Population Said Heavier

TORONTO (CP) — Blackflies in Ontario and Quebec bushlands are no worse this year than the average of recent years but the mosquito population is heavier, say specialists at the department of lands and forests research station in Algonquin Park.

Blackflies may seem worse this year because weather conditions in breeding season delayed them a week or 10 days. And more visitors may have been in the bush when they were at their worst.

A late spring and considerable moisture in May and early June resulted in a late season for blackflies and mosquitoes.

Dr. Murray Fallis of the Ontario Research Foundation, who is conducting a blackfly study program in Algonquin Park, said in an interview he could not remember a season when the mosquito population was so heavy in Ontario. There were masses of the pests in the north. The situation varied in southern Ontario according to local breeding conditions.

The hot weather of early July should cut down the numbers of mosquitoes, as it had reduced the blackfly population last week.

Medical province an alibi for not being ready to come into this plan on July 1 next."

OTTAWA PAYS HALF

Mr. MacEachen said it was estimated the plan, which entails a payment by Ottawa of 50 per cent of the per capita cost of insurance for physicians' services in the participating province, would cost the federal treasury $340,000,000 a year. The provinces would match this amount.

It was estimated Canadians spent $600,000,000 a year on these services.

"Thus, by redistributing the estimated $600,000,000 and adding another $80,000,000, all residents of all the provinces of Canada will have physicians' services available to them."

He said some 6,000,000 Canadians still lack any medical insurance coverage, 3,000,000 have only limited coverage and "probably not more than 10,000,000 Canadians at the present time have what could be called adequate comprehensive coverage."

Some provinces had said they would proceed by next July 1 with medical care insurance. Others hadn't committed themselves but had said they believed they could adopt existing plans to meet the federal requirements.

MANNING CRITICAL

No province has turned down the plan, although Alberta's Premier E. C. Manning has criticized it, Mr. MacEachen said.

Good medical care should not be contingent on a fat bank account and the program would be a fitting way to mark the centennial because "an investment in health is an investment in human resources."

Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East) predicted the bill would raise a problem because Canada has neglected training of doctors and "we now have an acute shortage."

Canada had one doctor for every 960 citizens, compared to one for every 740 citizens in the United States. Increasing the already heavy workload by starting medicare would result in "a poor quality of work" that would set medicine back years.

Canada had "starved" development of doctor-training. Imposition of medicare "may break down the whole system."

He also said experience shows government cost-estimates are usually low and Canadians "are paying more taxes than ever." The government should "proceed cautiously and carefully" to avoid mistakes.

MUST MEET CONDITIONS

Mr. MacEachen stressed in his speech there would be no dipping into the kitty by provinces which have plans in force that do not meet the four conditions. Neither would there be provision for a province that elected to stay outside the plan to get a tax abatement equal to what it would have received under the bill.

This did not sit well with Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste-Lapointe). He saw it as an encroachment of the provincial jurisdiction in the field of health.

Quebec should be able to get such a tax abatement and decide the sort of plan it wanted to operate, he said. It could be operated by the state or private interests, whichever proved most efficient.

It should embody complete freedom of choice for patients and doctors and should not turn doctors into bureaucrats or public servants. Time was needed to study the bill.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said medicare should not cover those citizens with the means to care for themselves. Bringing every Canadian, rich or poor, under the plan would make it "vastly more expensive." If Canadians knew the eventual cost of the program they would reject it.

The economic aspects of the bill drew comments from other MPs. Gerald W. Baldwin (PC—Peace River) proposed an amendment that medicare be delayed until a study of its economic impact could be carried out. It was ruled out order.

Mr. Baldwin said many public welfare programs are being brought in without regard to the increased productivity needed to pay for them.

David Fulton (PC — Kamloops) said the bill is on shaky constitutional grounds and could pose serious problems economically. If the government accepted the suggestions in the Bladen report on increased aid for higher education, federal payments could soar by close to $2,000,000,000 over the level of 18 months ago.

Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) said the royal commission report on health demonstrated that many Canadians would not have adequate coverage without a universal plan.

Arguments about the lack of success of the national health plan in Britain didn't hold water. If they did, the Conservative government which took over there after Labor instituted the program would have scrapped it. They hadn't dared.

The same would hold true if the Liberals brought medicare to Canada.

All Diplomatic Missions Have a Girl Who Knows How to Arrange a Party

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP) — The next time you turn up at the Greebs' dinner party a day ahead of time, you might consider hiring a social secretary. If you want one with experience, Ottawa is the place to advertise. All the 80-odd diplomatic missions in the capital have a girl who knows the party business.

The job varies from deputy lady - ir. - waiting to envelope-licker, depending on the size of the embassy and the views of the present head of mission.

"You bet it's a full - time job," said one girl who had been doing it for eight years. She did everything from settling disputes between the butler and the upstairs maid to filling in at dinner parties when distinguished guests didn't arrive.

Another woman manages the social whirl with one hand while taking dictation from the ambassador with the other.

"I don't suppose I pay enough attention to the social side," she sighed. "But when you've got to get out a letter to the government at home, you can't be bothered finding out for the social pages what kind of flowers will be on the table tonight."

PLENTY OF WRITING

The one constant care in the job is filling out the endless invitations Each embassy gives one big party annually, usually cocktails for about 2,500. It's held on the country's national holiday and the whole diplomatic corps has to be invited or feelings are hurt.

Every envelope is addressed by hand, and each printed invitation needs handwritten name-of-guest and time. When you practise doing that every month for at least two cocktail parties for 175, and eight or 10 small dinners for 20, you know who's who in the capital.

Besides gobs of patience and flexy penmanship muscles, a social secretary must combine the tight-lipped secrecy of James Bond with the clinical good-humor of Doris Day. She has to maintain embassy silence, but nicely, because she is "her" country's image to casual callers.

Most of the women are from Ottawa. "You have to know the local scene." Most can at least get along in French, but many don't speak the native tongue of their employers.

MAY MEET CELEBRITY

They deal with women at least half the time. Ambassadors' wives get a steady stream of invitations to open bazaars, pour at teas and sit at luncheon head tables. The social secretary intercepts the requests, relays them to her lady and conveys her acceptance or regrets to the group in question.

Some secretaries may have to order and arrange the flowers or draw up a seating plan in diplomatic precedence for a dinner party. "My family was in external affairs," said one girl. "That helped."

The job has its uneasy moments, but apparently that's one of its charm for the girls. And there's always the chance of meeting an international celebrity at the embassy residence.

"It's great fun, especially the dinners and cocktail parties," said one woman who usually attends the parties she arranges. "I try to plan every night what I'm going to do the next day. But I never succeed in sticking to the plan."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN M. WALSH

Walsh — Herrington

A double-ring ceremony was performed in St. Andrew's Anglican Church, Wellington, recently when Joanne Alma Herrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Herrington of Wellington was united in marriage to John Muhern Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh, Consecon R R 3.

Rev. J. M. Soutter officiated and wedding music at the ceremony was rendered by Mr. Fred Smale who also accompanied the soloist Miss Brenda Hickson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Mona Lisa sheath gown of silk featuring an Empire waistline and scoop neckline and was highlighted at the back with a chapel train edged with Alencon lace. Her headdress consisting of a large rose encircled with orange bolssoms was accented with a four - tier veil. She carried a Bible crested with a large amber and gold rose with rosebuds on the cascading streamers.

Mrs. Lynn Ackerman as matron of honor and the bridesmaids Miss Betty Herrington, sister of the bride, Miss Connie Neuman, cousin of the bride and the junior bridesmaid Miss Lana Herrington, sister of the bride were identically attired in apricot shade brocade A-line dresses featuring Empire style waistlines and scoop necklines. All wore wedding ring headdresses with short veils. Each carried an arm bouquet of white Shasta 'mums and bronze daisies.

Mr. David Yourt was groomsman, while Mr. Ken Herrington, brother of the bride and Mr. George Sainbury were the ushers.

For the reception in the parish hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing an Empire styled ice blue silk crepe dress with matching blue and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother wearing a beige silk shantung ensemble with beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Quebec and points east the bride donned a three-piece white suit in jacquard pattern pink flowered turban hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh will reside in Dorval, Quebec for the summer months and will return to Belleville in September.

Washington Working Up To the First White House Wedding in 52 Years

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Washington is working steadily toward the appropriate emotional pitch for the first White House wedding in 52 years.

Daily snippets of information are building up a picture of the events to reach a climax at noon Aug. 6 when Luci Baines Johnson, 19, walks down the aisle on the arm of her president-father to be wedded with John Patrick Nugent, 23.

Seven hundred guests — for the wedding mass and for the White House reception — have been invited.

Identity of the recipients is a well - guarded secret but undoubtedly Texas and Illinois, home states of the bride and groom respectively, will be well represented. The invitations are for personal friends only.

The wedding will be in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, the largest Roman Catholic edifice in the United States and the world's seventh - largest religious building.

Two choirs will blend voices of 100 men and boys.

The wedding dress is an exclusive design from Neiman-Marcus, that Dallas emporium patronized by the oil-rich haute monde of Texas.

In the words of one of those usually - reliable Washington sources, Luci Baines tried on about 12 creations but came back to her choice with the words: "It's that one, it's that one."

The matron of honor and four of the five bridesmaids are — naturally — from Texas.

Meanwhile, the young bride-to-be is being showered literally with gifts from intimates and the public at large and her housekeeping — to be tested first in a Washington apartment complete with Secret Service protection — will have to cope with sheer abundance.

Some ultra - lavish functions were cancelled because of presidential concern about them in light of the Vietnamese war.

She has also been selecting her own essentials and one just revealed is an American crystal service called Epicure ranging from water goblets to eight different types of wine glasses. She already has chosen her china design — French — and her silver — American.

The scope of the press, radio and television coverage to be devoted to the nuptials can be measured by the ambitious plans just announced by the Washington Post.

A series titled White House Brides of 14 illustrated chapters is being published describing major events of love and marriage in the White House.

Luci Baines will be the eighth daughter of a president to marry while her father is in office. The last was Eleanor Wilson, daughter of Woodrow, in 1914, but the most lavish party—500 to 1,000 guests—was for Alice Roosevelt, Theodore's daughter, in 1906.

Girl Violinist Enjoys Tinkering in Mechanics And Playing Baseball

VICTORIA (CP)—The hands of Vivienne Abbott were probably destined to hold a violin and bow.

This 18-year-old Victoria tomboy's hands are supple with a bow but can wield a baseball bat in a vice-like grip. Her delicate-looking fingers can be firm and flexible on a fingerboard but are equally at home clutching a wrench or a wood-carving tool.

Now she's holding a two-year contract to play in the string section of the Rotterdam Philharmonic Orchestra.

But first will come her final appearance with Canda's National Youth Orchestra which will play engagements in Europe for the first time this summer.

Franz - Paul Decker, musical director and conductor of the Rotterdam Orchestra, offered her the contract after hearing her under his baton last summer, as an NYO guest conductor.

His state-supported European orchestra has much to offer Vivienne besides a monthly salary.

There is a provision to pay 50 per cent of tuition for a first-class teacher, 40 per cent of her living expenses, a clothing allowance, social and medical benefits, plus a six-week holiday.

TINKERS WITH CARS

When she isn't practising or teaching at Victoria School of Music, Vivienne likes to tinker or participate in active sports.

She enjoys bewing conductor's batons from Sitka spruce or birch and is sometimes found under the hood of an automobile.

"I'm fascinated by mechanical things," she says. "If something breaks down, I like to make it work."

One Victoria service station operator was so impressed by her mechanical aptitudes he offered her summer employment but was outbid by the Rotterdam Philharmonic.

Music has always been the centre of her life, since piano theory and ear-training classes began at the age of two

She started the violin at nine and learned the oboe, flute and drums in high school, when she was concert master of the Greater Victoria Schools Symphony. Four years in the Victoria Symphony paved the way for the Rotterdam offer.

Vivienne's studies were aided by several local and national scholarships, including two from the Royal Conservatory of Music at Toronto, but it wasn't always easy.

"That's one of the big things I'm grateful to my parents for. They wouldn't let me be a quitter."

When she wanted a better violin, she financed it with a bank loan, under her father's supervision—for $1,000 for a 250-year-old instrument.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON A. SMITH

Smith — Wingate

Picton United Church was the scene of the marriage recently of Penelope Kathleen Wingate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wingate, Picton and Gordon Aubrey Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. P. Smith, Belleville.

Rev. Zufelt officiated at the ceremony and the church organist Mr. Benvie rendered wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown. The bodice styled with a square neckline and short sleeves was of Guipure lace (daisy pattern). The sheath skirt of pure silk organza over taffeta, falling from a natural waistline was trimmed with a wide band of similar lace. The back of the dress was highlighted with a flowing train from the waist. A shoulder length veil was held by a wedding ring of Guipure lace. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

The bride's attendants were Miss Carleen Simpson of Kingston, as maid of honor, Miss Leslie Wingate, sister of the bride and Mrs. N. Patterson, of Belleville as bridesmaids. The attendants were similarly attired in floor length yellow and coral printed chiffon gowns with flowing back panels. They carried yellow shastas.

Mr. Bruce Reid of St. Catharines was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Randy Paterson of Montreal, cousin of the bride and Mr. Paul Campbell of Toronto.

For the reception held at the Prince Edward Yacht Club the guests were welcomed by the bride's mother who wore a sheath dress of pink crepe with matching white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother dressed in a pale blue shantung sheath with matching blue acessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Susanna's Family Fare

CRISSCROSS CAMOUFLAGE

Dear Susanna: If you have a corner bathroom sink with slightly unsightly plumbing pipes below, and your bankbook hasn't quite given you the go ahead sign on the modernization bit, you've no idea how beautifully and attractively you can camouflage those pipes.

Take that dear lattice baby gate with the diamond-shape openings you used for years and don't need anymore, (at least, that you don't think you're going to need any more), and extend it upright along under the edge of the sink. Fasten conveniently to walls on either side of the sink.

Lace it through with artificial greenery such as ivy and philodendron and sit back and admire your artistry — your friends certainly will! — Binnie Maitland.

PERIL ON A PICNIC

She took a vacuum bottle of ice cubes with her for cooling off the soft drinks, which were to be poured into cups. At lunch time when she took off the lid and reached in to remove some of the ice cubes the lining of the bottle shattered right on her hand.

Fortunately, she only received one tiny, tiny cut, but I was most anxious, for all our sakes, to find out the relationship between placing ice cubes (unmixed with water) in a vacuum bottle and what happened when she went to take them out.

A long talk with a representative of the manufacturer revealed some interesting facts — this is the very type of thing about which they are trying to educate the public.

If the lining of a vacuum bottle is penetrated by being scratched or bruised by a sharp object the air will rush into the vacuum between the lining and the filter and cause the lining to shatter and burst inward.

In our case, the ice cubes had formed a solid block, and then they were touched, a sharp corner must have pressed against the side breaking into the vacuum chamber and thus causing the implosion.

He further advised that one should never remove the contents of a vacuum bottle with a metal service spoon — use a wooden or plastic one.

It is also unwise to eat the contents right from the bottle—even with a plastic or wooden spoon — as the continued dipping and scraping against the sides may cause similar damage.

Because these paper-thin glass linings are so relatively fragile, vacuum bottles with plastic linings are now being marketed.

This particular manufacturer is sending us one for testing and when we have had a few weeks to try it out under as many conditions as possible, I'll write you a sequel called, naturally, The Inside Story on Vacuum Bottles. — SUSANNA

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

When baby starts sleeping less and moving about more, you'll find that toys become an increasingly important part of his life. And interestingly enough, toys represent more than play value. They're very useful tools in helping your baby's mental development and manual skills. Roughly, the stages of development fall into these categories: the look-and-listen stage; the pull-and-poke stage; the take-apart-and-put-together stage. Fun and games, anyone...for the serious business of improving oneself?

•

Growing in all directions...that's a baby for you! And growing is aided by the hearty protein foods. Protein is a big factor when it comes to building up a little lass or lad. It contributes appreciably to your baby's growth. Gerber Strained and Junior Meat Dinners (7 delicious varieties of each) offer these nutritional assets:

- Three times as much succulent meat as our regular vegetable-and-meat combinations. That, of course, means more protein.
- Selected, garden-good vegetables are blended with the meat for additional nutritional benefits and flavour interest.

•

Neighborly note. Friend of mine happened to hit upon the idea of doing away with some dishwashing. She serves fruit, custards, and juices to her eager eater from paper cups. Just throw them away and grin.

•

More on growing and going. During that all-important first year, your baby is on the grow and go every minute, every day, asleep or awake. Another fine protein food to help your baby grow: Gerber Protein Cereal Food. How? It has a 35% protein content, that's what. Add to this a delightful, toasty, nut-like flavour and you've got it made for good nutrition and eating pleasure.

•

Naturally, like all Gerber Cereals, it has added iron, in a form that's easy for baby to assimilate. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

SPRUCE MOP IMAGE

SOUTHPORT, England (CP) Britain's charladies, irreverently known as Mrs. Mopps, after a radio character, have chosen the more impressive title of "sanitors." The annual convention of a part-time office cleaners' organization voted to "scrub up" the old image of the profession.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W.I.

5TH SIDNEY — July meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Bush, R.R. 2, Frankford.

Membership tickets were given out to three members, Mrs. Ross Dafoe, Mrs. Mary Sine, Mrs. Kenneth Faul to the Historical Museum in Belleville. A letter from Clayton Hall in connection of Hastings Manor was read. Also a letter from Janet Munroe who is leaving her home economist position, being followed by Mary Elizabeth Oliver. Girls' club are having a training school (meat in the menu) in September.

Mrs. Alton Sine played with a harp solo. Mrs. Grenville Sine gave a paper on symptoms of diabetes. She said it is the oldest disease known and can be controlled if diagnosed in time.

Mrs. Carman Frost gave a paper on, "Life begins at 40 if you don't work like 20 when you are 20."

The August meeting will be at Mrs. George Striper's with the district president in attendance.

KEEP THEM PRIMARY

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—A separate school trustee objected to promoting students from overcrowded Grade 8 classes to Grade 9 in high school because "when they go to Grade 9 they quit going to church for a year." He cited outside attractions and premature association with older youngsters as the reason.

Ann Landers

Office Phone No Place For Private Business

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work for a large organization and all telephone calls go through the switchboard, with the exception of the executives' private lines, which, of course, I cannot use.

ANN LANDERS

My husband telephoned me this morning and I knew at once he was bombed and calling from a bar. It is Jack's habit to telephone and pick a fight when he knows he's in the doghouse — which he certainly was, because he didn't come home last night.

I lost my temper and used some rather salty language. Jack said some things he shouldn't have said and it was not a conversation you'd want an outsider to hear.

As I was leaving the office for lunch, I encountered one of the telephone operators. She gave me a wise-apple smirk and asked, "And how are things at your house?" I felt like strangling her.

Should I write an anonymous letter to the personnel manager about this snoop? If she listens in on my conversations she undoubtedly listens in on others. Your advice is wanted — INVADED PRIVACY.

DEAR I.P.: Most telephone operators have very little interest in and even less time to tune in on, family fights. The woman's greeting was probably an unfortunate coincidence. In the future make it a rule never to discuss private business on the phone and then you won't need to worry about the eavesdroppers.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please, please, please — let me know how a man can tell a woman he is in love with her, ask her to marry him, let her clue in family and friends, make all sorts of plans, and then change his mind? If he was only infatuated why would he propose marriage?

This happened to me and I am so humiliated I can't hold up my head. My friends tell me that my former fiance loves me but he is afraid of the responsibility of marriage. They say I should be patient and wait, and that he will come back.

What I need to know is how long should I wait? It has been eight months and I have not heard one word from him.

Am I being a silly romantic to believe that true love can overcome any obstacle? — LEIGH.

DEAR LEIGH: You are right. True love can overcome any obstacle, but from your account of the way the young man has treated you, I would doubt that this is true love.

I suspect your friends are trying to be kind, but I don't think it's an act of kindness to give you false hope. If you have not heard one word from your ex-love in eight months I suggest you write him off and make new friends!

* * *

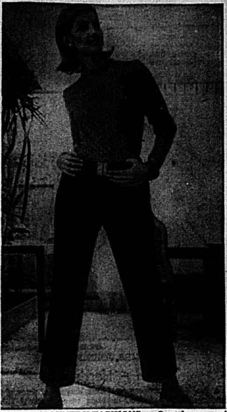
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please give us an answer to a question that is bothering us. Our daughter is 17. At first we thought she was just putting on weight. Now we know she is pregnant.

Last week she told us she and her boy friend want to get married because he may be called into the service soon. He is 21. What kind of a wedding should a pregnant girl have? — NO NAME PLEASE.

DEAR NO NAME: A quick one — with as little hoopla as possible.

* * *

Confidential to NEED A WISER HEAD THAN MINE: There's nothing wrong with your head, my dear. Your letter was an extremely good one. Those "friends" are giving you a bum steer. I've never heard of such "biblical advice." It may be a little late for you to "go forth and multiply" but a marriage that offers companionship in the evening of your lives makes a great deal of sense. Good luck, and God bless you.



COW COUNTRY FASHIONS — Once known only as tough and sturdy work pants, levis or jeans hit the fashion scene in a variety of shapes, colors and fabrics. This new casual wear is low slung, hugging the hips but flaring out to a loose, comfortable leg and accented by a wide belt. (CP Photo)

Western Look Popular In Sportswear Fashions

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP)—The Western look is America's contribution to sportswear fashions. Now coming back to the Americas from London and Paris are the cowboy's hipster pants and embroidered jackets which California designers introduced some years ago.

This summer a bare midriff often divides the two, even in sleepwear, in what Rudi Gernreich calls his Jesse James pyjamas.

He matches low-slung belted shorties in charcoal and white stripes with a red and white checked top. The pyjamas are so smart they could easily be worn as a romp-suit in the house or on the patio.

This stripes-with-checks interest is found everywhere this summer, from street co-ordinates to swimmer.

A new variation on the Western look is introduced by the firm called Mr. Pants These are "garrison pants," modelled on early colonial soldiers' uniform. The modern version is ultra hip-hip and low-slung, loose in the leg and accented by a wide patent belt.

The dotted look and the bare midriff show up in Mr. Pants' wildly Western blue jeans. The pants are pink with yellow coin dots, contrasting with pink dots on the brief yellow crop-top.

These blue jeans are a spruced-up version of the classic levis—the accidental result of a chance remark more than 100 years ago.

Levi Strauss left the eastern U.SA to seek gold in California. His grub-stake was a bundle of tough, heavy cloth that he hoped to sell to tentmakers.

A miner told him he should have brought pants instead of the fabric, because pants wore out quickly in the goldfields. Levi had a brainstorm on the spot, took the miner along to a tailor, and had pants made for each of them from his cloth.

The miner was so delighted that everyone was soon demanding Levi's pants. The name stuck and a new fashion was born. It was not by panning gold, but Levi Strauss made a fortune before he died.

Jeans became the cowboy's work-clothes for heavy wear in the saddle, and were reinforced by copper rivets in 1873. They spread to women's wear and the eastern states when dude-ranches became fashionable for holidays.

The universities made levis really important, after sophomores at a large Western university adopted them as a uniform.

Now they're made of silk again, for casual wear, coming full circle. For jeans used to be made out of serge denim ("de Nimes," from Nimes in France) and serge comes from the Latin word for silk.

Today's jeans can be made from gingham checks, cotton ottoman, linen and wool as well as tussore silk or denim.

Synthetics are popular too. DuPont included several Western styles in its spring-summer fashion show, with a white sports outfit of pleated hipster skirt with a bra top and shirt jacket, in a duck fabric of acron and cotton, and blue jeans with a red tank top, knitted in orlon.

Army of Women Will Be Uniformly Dressed This Fall

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—It's no military secret — an army of women will be uniformly dressed this fall.

The only question is whose uniforms will they wear?

First World War soldiers, Russian Cossacks, French sailors, the Foreign Legion, and the government issue of U.S. troops in Viet Nam are all camp among the style pacesetters.

Models marched past fashion writers during the week-long style previews presented by the American designers group so often in battle dress (or battle pants) that they seemed to be parading for a general's reviewing stand.

Knickers, gaiters and caps, even gas mask - like helmets worn by 1916 soldiers made the fashion parade grounds last week during the New York couture group shows.

DOUBLE-BREASTED COATS

But the favored warlike-wardrobe items for peaceful women are double - breasted military coats with epaulets and shiny brass buttons, squared Eisenhower battle jackets with a double set of pockets and banded at the waist; and the trench coat, sash - belted, back-yoke, with a wide, notched standup collar which foreign correspondents and secret agents borrowed from the trenchmen in the first place.

Victor Joris, designer for cuddlecoats, sent his pretty soldiers into the fashion field in trim, tailored pants with long jackets. Over these were often military coats. Once the lady looked Russian, in a double - breasted, back - belted Camel's hair coat that reached the floor. With it, incongruously she wore a Viet Nam-inspired green beret by Hatter Adolpho.

The kind of uniform the Frechtel fashion house would like to sell is not military, but classic. Women who look physically fit, with slim hips and flat tummies, made the runway parade in two- and three-piece suits with pleated skirts providing plenty of stride room. Jackets with small collars or none at all went to any length.

ALCOHOLICS DIE FAST

An Ontario study found the mortality of alcoholics is nearly three times that of normal people.

The Experts Say

One Can Begin Learning To Swim in Wash Basin

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP)—You can begin learning to swim at home in a wash basin with four inches of water in it.

First step is to scoop up water with both hands and rub it all over your face. When you are used to this stage, then take a breath (not too big), hold your nose and dip your whole face under water for a few seconds.

When that has become easy, dip your face in water without holding your nose. Only before you do, you take a breath and start to breathe it out through your nose. You don't actually blow it out, but be ready to. This step is to teach you that you must have air pressure in your nose when your face is under water to keep water out.

The fourth step is to learn to bubble your breath slowly out through your nose while your face is under water. When you can do it easily, blow slowly, stop, then start again. Try to blow bubbles out through your nose and mouth at the same time.

The fifth step is designed to help you learn to open your eyes under water. Drop a penny in the basin, take a breath, put your face in the water and look at the penny. Get closer and read the printing on it.

All of these stages should also have taught you that the water will not hurt your eyes and that when they are wet, you should just blink them not rub them.

The wash basin routine is among techniques used by the Red Cross to take the fear out of the early stages of learning to swim.

M. A McMartin, Ontario director of water safety services for the Red Cross, says: "I don't believe in this old story of 'throw them in and they'll swim'. I think we've driven kids away from the water with that attitude."

Mr. McMartin says the approach to swimming should be as slow as the child needs it to be, as much mun as possible to overcome fears, and well supervised in shallow water for safety's sake.

"How fast you go through the early stages will depend on the child. Some you should play with, have them sit on the beach and watch the other kids. Some do have fears which are difficult to overcome.

"If you can, get them to have fun in the water—ring around a rosy, playing with sand pails or water balls—anything that has them having fun and falling in. After all, they may be going into a lake that's sort of dark, and they don't know what's underneath there.

"But once they have the desire to swim, any instructor can teach them."

Mr. McMartin says he believes a qualified outsider can teach swimming better than a parent. He has training and he has authority. When he's working with a class he can use buddy and group methods, and the children may take courage from one another.

Mr. McMartin says, in addition to its regular classes, the Red Cross does provide instructors for groups that want one. He suggests cottagers' associations could hire a qualified instructor.

He adds that a few swimming lessons do not make a child an expert. Children still need supervision and they stould get as much skill as possible.

"I think people have to know how to swim to survive, and I think they have to go further than the beginner level. Surveys have shown that parents feel that after their children have had a few lessons they can swim withot supervision. Every year about 90 children in Ontario die swimming without supervision. I haven't the national figure here, but it's about three times as high.

"Think how quickly a child can disappear in a supermarket. He can do the same thing on the beach.

"And most of the drownings happen close to shore. If the victims had had any skill they might have survived. People don't learn enough. They don't develop enough skill for safety."

FRENCH TOAST FOR BRUNCH

In vacation time breakfasts take on importance because weekend guests come and go and we love to send them off with a full stomach.

Last Sunday, after some of our crowd had returned from church, we had brunch in the garden, before our guests took off for the North country. It was a full scale hot breakfast too. Instead of serving fruit first we did it backwards and served strawberries for dessert.

Our main course menu was bacon, fried chicken livers and French toast garnished with watercress. It is the French toast that stole the limelight.

FRENCH TOAST FOR BRUNCH (serves 4 or 5):

NOTE:

You need an unsliced loaf of bread for French toast for it should be sliced thicker than the regular ½" slices that the bakeries cut.

Eight ¾" slices bread — white or cracked wheat, 4 eggs, 2 cups milk, 2 teaspoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon (optional), bacon drippings or butter (for frying).

Cut the slices of bread in halves to make them easy to turn over in frying pan.

Beat the eggs until foamy in a shallow bowl then beat in the milk, sugar, salt and cinnamon (if used). Soak the half slices of bread in the egg-milk mixture about 5 minutes or until they are saturated. (French toast is no good if the bread is just passed through the egg-milk mixture.) Drain over bowl for a moment then transfer to frying pan in which you have 2 tablespoons of melted bacon fat or butter and brown it. Turn over with narrow spatula when bottom is golden and brown other side. Fry about four halves at a time, keeping the slices that are cooked in warming oven until all are done. Serve hot with bacon. If it is to be a midday brunch chicken livers or sausages are a delicious addition. Some of our crowd wanted black currant jelly with their French toast. One individualist sprinkled hers with candied ginger. The very young preferred maple syrup. I like it bare.

NOTE:

Apropos of guest breakfasts, a reader wrote: "We find it easiest to have guests, particularly with children, for Sunday breakfast, when all are rested, and not too much preparation is necessary."

Little of Bean Crop Is Sold Fresh

OTTAWA (CP)—If you've got a fresh green or yellow bean in your hand, you're holding a comparative rarity. Only about 25 per cent of the crop is sold fresh, because the bean is one of our principal canning vegetables.

They taste best when soaked as soon as possible after picking, the cooks at the federal agriculture department say. They should snap crisply when broken between the fingers and should not be washed, stemmed or cut until immediately before cooking time.

A pound of fresh beans serves three or four people, and there are only 36 calories in a half-cup service. If calories don't bother you, home economists advise slathering the cooked bean with butter or mayonnaise or sour-cream sauce.

CHANGE FOR SUMMER

Says Laws Will Remain Outdated Until Women Gain Legislative Power

MONTREAL (CP)—Many of Canada's laws will remain outdated until women obtain legislative power, Mrs. M. J. Sabia, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, said Tuesday.

Mrs. Sabia, an alderman for the city of St. Catharines, was addressing some 200 delegates to the Canadian Home Economics Association meeting here.

"Men must shed themselves of this atiquated, outdated concept that women can only fulfil themselves in the home and that the political, professional and economic arena is not for women," Mrs. Sabia speaker said.

"Women should not be relegated to patrolling the biological beat of bed, board and babies. Society cannot afford the loss of segregation of half its potential from its intellectual, professional and industrial life."

WOMEN TO BLAME

Calling the majority of Canadian women "safe, conservative coupon - clippers," Mrs. Sabia said women themselves are largely to blame for their subordinate position.

"Women must assume the responsibilities that go hand-in-hand with their rights."

Women could fulfill many roles in a life span of 75 years and their status should not "be suspended from a little gold ring."

As legislators, women would not permit such laws as the one currently governing domicile to remain in force.

This law says a woman's domicile is automatically that of her husband, whether the two are separated or not.

She said home economists are in a position to influence young girls.

Prejudice against women was part of the reason they were relegated to secondary positions, and this prejudice was found in all fields, including religion.

"As a Roman Catholic, I take a dim view of 2,500 celebate bishops and cardinals discussing birth control, family planning and the 'pill,' with not a married woman permitted to give her point of view," she said.

Conservative Communists Fight Czech Economic Reform Plans

Economic reform has been made government policy in Czechoslovakia but conservative elements in the Communist party are fighting against it. A Canadian Press reporter describes the battle.

By JOHN BEST

PRAGUE (CP) — An all-out battle has been joined in Czechoslovakia between liberal economists and conservative elements in the ruling Communist party resisting their economic reforms.

The reverberations are certain to be felt in political and social fields as well.

The fact that economic reforms have been officially adopted as government policy doesn't blind the liberals to the inevitable clash with the vested interests.

Opposition to the changes, perhaps the most sweeping ever undertaken in the Soviet bloc, starts "just below the top" of the party-government machine, a leading member of the reform group told me.

It extends down to factory managers and even production workers who have learned to live with a system which, while it doesn't offer great material rewards, doesn't demand much hard work either.

Opposition will also come from local party bosses whose personal power largely derives from their ability to use influence to keep unprofitable factories going. Under the new system such enterprises will become profitable or close down.

This could have important political repercussions in Slovakia, southernmost of the three provinces and less developed than Bohemia and Moravia.

WILL FREE PRICES

The essence of the program is to introduce market factors into the economy and eliminate planning rigidity which, reformers say, has brought about stagnation.

The price structure will be loosened to allow many consumer goods to find their own level while other goods will be allowed to float between price limits agreed upon by producers and retailers. Prices of raw materials and basic foodstuffs will continue to be controlled by the government.

Factory managers will be given more independence. But they will also be expected to operate more or less as factory managers in the West do—generally without props or subsidization — and still turn a profit.

This is the sore point, experts say. Many directors who enjoy large bonuses, who have learned the rules of the game and know how to juggle manpower, resources, statistics, and whatnot in order to show what looks like a profit, will not take kindly to the new order.

It is assumed some will try to sabotage the reform.

"The old methods of management are so firmly entrenched that it will not be easy to abandon them," says Prof. Otaker Sik, sometimes called the father of reform.

Sik, chairman of a state committee for planning and administering the economy, speaks out frequently and boldly against interests he suspects of bucking reform.

WORKS FROM WITHIN

He is a member of the Communist party's central committee. This gives him a certain power base from which to attack prevailing dogmas. Yet he isn't in the position of, say, Russia's Premier Kosygin who has behind him the prestige of the highest government in the land when he plumps for a liberal reform.

Sik knows he's up against powerful people—some more powerful than he—but one of his strengths is that he offers a cure for a chronic illness. This was the consideration that apparently brought Antonin Novotny, president and Communist party chief, around to backing reform.

Novotny, an old-guard Communist whose leadership extends back to the Stalin era, accepted the changes only after he had become convinced of the absolute necessity.

Sik has laid down two principles for transforming Czechoslovakia's economic structure: It must conform to market demands and must ensure "optimal profit" of enterprises.

"Society cannot afford to maintain those enterprises which are in fact supported by the work of others."

Change can be brought about "only by the consistent implementation of the new system of management."

"It will be up to all of us to open up real space not only in the economic, but in the political and ideological field, for its early implementation."

BOOSTS ECONOMISTS

The implication is that the party should loosen up and make itself more receptive to new notions and ideas.

Sik, the economist, doesn't hide his dislike of political tampering in the economic sphere.

Steps to improve the competitive efficiency of Czech industry should have been taken years ago, he says, and would have if the economists, and not the politicians, had been running things.

Another economist talks bitterly of the feeling of many liberals that they are "banging their heads against a stone wall" in trying to bring about a change of attitude.

It was only with the recent 13th Communist party congress that reform was accepted as party - government policy. It is scheduled to take effect at the beginning of next year.

One acute problem it will face is the tradition of wage equality. Probably nowhere else in the Communist world is this principle carried to such extremes.

All workers in a factory get paid more or less the same no matter how hard they exert themselves. It's said even foremen would prefer to be workers since the difference in salary doesn't begin to compensate for the extra responsibilities.

Crane operators have been known to claim approximately equal pay with professors—and get it. And there was the charwoman at a university who complained that the president was making four to five times as much as she was. It's not unlikely she made her point and got a raise.

This tendency to equalize pay regardless of performance and ability has destroyed incentive to work hard and be inventive. And the cost to the economy has been high.

One purpose of the reform is to substitute a comprehensive system of bonuses for managers and workers based on productive effort.

Another task is to reshape trade unions into organs working to promote industrial efficiency rather than thwart it.

Until now trade unions have acted to some extent as a shield protecting the jobs of lazy workers. Qualified observers say it's practically impossible to fire anyone no matter how much he deserves to be.

Reformers would like to see the trade unions change into agencies genuinely concerned not only with the welfare of workers but with promoting efficient labor.

But they would be up against a powerful enemy if they attacked unions directly. Run by men of proven political reliability but little ability, they have been "traditional dumping grounds for the party faithful," says a reform economist.

Girl Rightly Feels She Is Imposed Upon

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: I am a Canadian sailor, at present serving with the RCN in Bermuda. Perhaps a personal experience of mine might be of some help to the young ladies who ask you "To tell or not to tell?"

I have been married for 13 years now, and am very happy. My previous experience is now only a memory, but from the male point of view here is an opinion.

When I was 18, I met a very pretty girl, and in a short time we had a serious romance going. We began talking of marriage, and after a year we had set a date. It was after this that I learned that the girl had been married, separated, and widowed, all in the course of a year, and in fact was the mother of a child being raised by her sister.

When I took stock of my situation, I asked myself, "If she lied to me then, would she lie to me in the future? Can I ever trust her again?" My answer to the second question was a definite "No!" Marriage is based on mutual trust, and if I could not trust her, I could never marry her.

My advice to girls who are in a similar situation is this: Don't try to make a Father Confessor out of every boy you meet, but as soon as it looks as though things might get serious, clean off that slate. Give him every reason to trust you completely. — TRYING TO BE HELPFUL.

DEAR TRYING: This is a poser which comes up time and time again. Thanks for your male point of view. I know it will help someone — or more than one.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am 15. My mother and father say that I cannot go to a mixed party unless they know who's going and the parents. Do you agree? I don't.

Sure they'll know some of my friends that are going but let's face it: what am I supposed to do, bring about 30 kids home just so my parents can see who's going to the party? At this rate I will never get out of the house. As they say "You live life once. Why not enjoy it while you can?" — STUCK AT HOME.

DEAR STUCK: Believe it or not, the time will come when you'll boast about how particular your Mom and Dad are about you!

Bring all 30 home — a few at a time — to a record-playing session. Then your folks can look them over to their heart's content. Some parents may even call for their boys and girls and introduce themselves.

(Note to Stuck's Mother and Dad: Your easy hospitality now can make life more interesting for both you and your girl. Fill the fridge with pop and chips and let joy be unconfined.)

Health Minister May Have Landed in Hot Water With Party Over Medicare Bill

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister MacEachen may have landed in hot water with some cabinet colleagues and Liberal MPs with his decision Tuesday night to push forward with the government's medicare bill before the summer recess.

His statement, which brought shouts of "no, no" from the Conservative's Gordon Churchill, is to be raised at a morning Liberal party caucus meeting.

Mr. Churchill, member for Winnipeg South Centre, charged that Mr. MacEachen broke a commitment made by George McIlraith, the government House leader, during inter-party talks to arrange a date for Parliament's summer recess.

The health minister's statement came at the conclusion of debate on the resolution preceding the medicare bill. The Commons had just given first reading—a step that permits the bill to be distributed for study by the parties.

Mr. Churchill said that in numerous discussions with Mr. McIlraith during the past 10 days it was indicated the government would not proceed to second reading — approval in principle — of medicare before the recess.

WOULD 'BREAK WORD'

He said he thought Mr. MacEachen's action "is breaking the word of the government House leader that he conveyed to us on this side of the House."

A spokesman who talked later by telephone to Mr. McIlraith, who is in Prince Edrwad Island, said the public works minister told him:

"I did indicate to the opposition that the government would only proceed to first reading on the basis of a June 30 adjournment.

"In fact for the first few days after June 30 I took a similar view.

"But there have been no recent discussions with the opposition House leaders stating the bill would be given only first reading. In fact recent discussions have concerned whether we could get Mr. Knowles (NDP — House leader Stanley Knowles) to reach an agreement on any adjournment date."

Informants say Mr. MacEachen has wanted for some time to take the medicare bill through all stages before the recess.

He is opposed to leaving detailed study for the fall because it might permit reluctant provincial governments to delay action on the plan. Delay might mean missing the July 1, 1967, target date for a start of the plan. His view has the support of the New Democratic Party.

Other cabinet ministers are understood to feel the bill should stay at the first reading level for the summer to permit the provinces and the Canadian Medical Association to study it and make representations.

Some Liberal MPs, anxious to get Parliament recessed for the summer, favor this approach.

One informant said the issue was unresolved in the cabinet and Mr. MacEachen may have gone too far in adding the second-reading stage of medicare to the list of Commons business for today.

Should the government proceed, the chances of Parliament recessing this week appear dim.

Mr. MacEachen said during the debate he doubted whether the medicare bill—because it contains little that has not already been published—will need to go before the Commons health committee.

He said that most negotiations will occur between the provincial governments, which are to administer the plan, and members of the medical profession.

"It would seem to me that committee study in these jurisdictions would be more appropriate," he said.

Several Conservative speakers, however, urged the government to proceed with the measure only after careful study. They expressed concern about a shortage of doctors in Canada and the economic effects of the plan.

Chicago Negro Youths Riot

CHICAGO (AP) — Bands of Negro youths ran through a Chicago neighborhood Tuesday night, breaking windows, looting stores and hurling rocks and homemade bombs.

The disturbance was ignited during the late afternoon when police turned off a water hydrant in the Negro neighborhood during hot, muggy weather.

It was the second major disturbance in Chicago this summer.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and Negro community leaders helped police quiet the disturbance.

Twenty-four Negroes were arrested and several persons were injured during the melee, including motorists whose car windows were shattered by rocks as they drove through the area.

Camp Picton Fire Dept. Had Busy Time

PICTON (Staff) — Since Sunday the Camp Picton fire department have had a busy time fighting county grass fires. Due to lack of rain and the hot weather, grass is very dry and ignites easily. Motorists are asked by Police and Fire authorities to refrain from throwing lighted cigarette butts from moving vehicles and persons should use extra care when fires are lighted.

Sunday, the Camp Brigade were called to an isolated area in Elmbrook where three acres of brush and grass were burned over. Area residents did a fine job of helping control the outbreak. The department was called back to the scene Monday evening when an old stump started burning and sparks threatened to again ignite the grass. Monday morning the call was to Tom Walmsley's farm in the Point Petre area, where a couple of acres of pasture was burned over and about 20 rods of fence were destroyed. Also on Monday, firemen were called to Roy Simpson's farm, Northport to battle a fire in a hayfield. Needless to say the efforts of the Camp Picton fire brigade are very much appreciated by residents of Prince Edward County. They have never yet failed to respond to any call for assistance and their abilities in combatting fires are a real asset to town and county.

ASK TIRE STANDARDS

TORONTO (CP) — The Garage Operators Association of Ontario will ask the provincial government to set minimum standards for auto tires sold in Ontario. David S. Prowse of Toronto, the association's general manager, said garagemen frequently see unsafe tires on cars.

China Faces Loss of Bastion Of Influence in N. Viet Nam As Soviet Union Increases Aid

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Caught by political conflict at home, China now is faced with the possibility that its last great bastion of influence in North Viet Nam may be lost to the more affluent Russians who have promised increased military aid to Hanoi.

It seemed just a short time ago that Peking was shouting that its troops were ready to march into the Viet Nam war to teach the Americans a lesson they would never forget. Now China says its troops still are available, but it might be better if Hanoi depended on "self-reliance."

It is evident that Peking doesn't want to get deeply involved in the Viet Nam struggle. Undoubtedly one reason is that such involvement would add to the strain on the Chinese economy. Perhaps more significantly, it might tend to switch vigilance from the home front where the Mao Tse-Tung forces are busy purging their ranks of those reluctant to bow to the Mao image.

FACTS SCARCE

The bamboo curtain prevents a clear understanding of the depth of the internal political cleavage. Some observers suggest it is perhaps more serious than meagre reports would indicate.

The evidence of internal conflict may have been one of the arguments President Johnson considered before ordering the bombing of oil installations near Hanoi and Haiphong. It was an open invitation to the Chinese to respond if they could. The Chinese did not.

The North Vietnamese need help. There have been reports—in the nature of rumors since they cannot be substantiated—that Hanoi has told both Moscow and Peking there is a limit to North Vietnamese ability to resist unless the big Communist powers provide more arms.

The Soviet Union almost immediately announced a substantial increase in military supplies and it goes without saying that Moscow won't give equipment away without getting something in return. In this case it undoubtedly will demand more influence over Hanoi's foreign policy and a withering of Peking links.

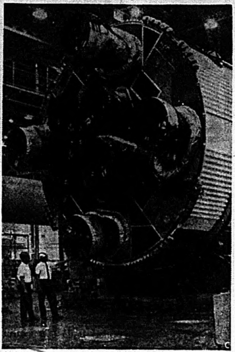
DISPUTE OVER LENIN

Whether Moscow would use its influence to end the Viet Nam war is doubtful. It is more likely it would seek to promote wider international acceptance of its own interpretation of Leninism.

Part of the Soviet-Chinese clash involves acceptance of a quasi-religious mesmerism and the Mao challenge to the supremacy of Lenin.

In the Chinese view, Mao appears to be the true successor to Lenin. Premier Chou En-lai has said repeatedly: "Mao Tse-tung's thought is our most powerful weapon for defeating the bourgeoisie and revisionism. The banner of Mao Tse-tung's thought is the banner of victory."

This is an attempt to elevate Mao at least to equality with Lenin—perhaps even a notch higher. It would be a blow to Mao's ego if, through the loss of influence in Hanoi and elsewhere, he no longer can be assured of wide acceptance as the supreme philosopher of Communist doctrine.



THE BUSINESS END — Even on its side the first stage of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Appollo Saturn 203 towers high above technicians at the assembly plant in New Orleans. The eight Rocketdyne H-1 engines produce a total thrust of 1,600,000 pounds. The four outer engines can be swivelled in flight to correct the course of the rocket. (CP Photo)

Check Fails to Substantiate Charges Mills Not Allowed To Make Sales to Cuba

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Winters said Tuesday a check with several U.S.-owned flour mills in Canada has failed to substantiate charges they have been forbidden by their American head offices to mill Canadian wheat for sale to Cuba.

He said more checks would be made today with other U.S.-owned companies to see whether they have received such instructions.

In Peterborough, a spokesman for Quaker Oats Co. of Canada Ltd. said the company is forbidden by its U.S. parent company from processing any wheat bound for Cuba, China, North Viet Nam and North Korea.

In Montreal, a spokesman for Robin Hood Flour Mills Ltd. said he has received no such order.

Mr. Winters was replying to L. R. Sherman (PC—Winnipeg South), who said he has learned on good authority that Robin Hood, Quaker and Pillsbury flour mills, all three U.S.-owned, have been forbidden to mill wheat for sale to Cuba. He said no such restriction applies to American firms in Canada milling flour for Russian use.

AREN'T NEW

Mr. Sherman said the instructions were not new—they had been issued some time ago and never been rescinded.

The Winnipeg broadcaster said 45,000,000 bushels of the recent big grain deal between Canada and Russia were to be milled into flour. Two-thirds of this was earmarked for Cuba and carried a $6,600,000 annual price tag.

While there were enough Canadian-owned mills to handle the Cuban order and no loss was involved if the American companies did not take part in the order, Mr. Sherman said he was concerned about the effect on Canadian sovereignty.

Would such actions on behalf of the American-owned mills adhere to principles of good corporate citizenship?

Mr. Winters agreed that Canadian processors would gain from such an American directive but there was no proof such a directive existed.

The government too was concerned about the possible "extra-territoriality" in any such U.S. directive.

WERE PURSUED

Mr. Winters said several other such alleged cases had been brought to the government's attention and had been vigorously pursued with the U.S. government. If the actions had been contemplated in the other cases, steps had been taken to prevent it.

The government would get the facts in the case brought to its attention by Mr. Shurman. If a case existed, it would be taken up with the Americans.

Earlier External Affairs Minister Martin, replying to Mr. Sherman and Opposition leader Diefenbaker, said the matter hadn't been brought to his attention. He promised to look into it.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Sherman's question is of great consequence to determine whether the U.S. administration is asserting extra-territorial jurisdiction over Canadian corporations. He said the United States had tried this when he was prime minister.

Mr. Martin said he wanted to indicate that if there has been any extra-territorial action Canada will take the "strongest action" in the national interest.

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A spokesman for Quaker Oats Co. of Canada Ltd. said Tuesday night the company is forbidden by its United States parent company from processing any wheat bound for Cuba, China, North Viet Nam and North Korea.

U.S. firms are forbidden to trade with some Communist countries under the federal Trading with the Enemy Act.

In Montreal, John Tatam, president of Robin Hood Flour Mills Ltd., said his company has no such instructions from the U.S. parent firm.

Mr. Tatam said in an interview that even if Mr. Sherman's remarks were true, he could not understand how it would hurt Canada.

"One point that has been overlooked is that Canada has so much milling capacity that it could not be hurt even if the statement were true."

Mr. Tatam said his company has made shipments to Russia but not to Cuba. Asked whether Robin Hood would make shipments to Cuba, Mr. Tatam said his answer would have to wait until that occasion arose.

LATINS GROW FAST

The population of Latin America is expected to grow to 360,000,000 from 200,000,000 within 20 years.

Price-Fixing Charge Killed

HULL, Que. (CP)—The federal government has ordered withdrawal of charges against H. J. McFarland Construction Co. of Picton, Ont. under the Combines Investigation Act. The company had been charged along with six other firms in incidents of price-fixing on street paving contracts.

NEED MORE EFFORT

QUEBEC (CP) — Arthur Laing, federal minister of northern affairs and natural resources, said Tuesday sufficient efforts are not being made to preserve Canadian animal life for the benefit of future generations. He spoke at the federal-provincial conference on animal life.

New P.E.I. Premier Follows Father's Footsteps into Office

By DON ANGUS

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Alexander B. Campbell has followed his father's footsteps into the office of Prince Edward Island premier without caring a hoot for traditional age barriers.

Dark and handsome, the dynamic young Liberal won't reach his 33rd birthday until Dec. 1 this year but has already crammed a veteran's share of political experience into 17 months.

He parlayed his youthful image and reorganization of the province's Liberal machine into a hot contender at the start of the May 30 election campaign and ended in a 15-seat deadlock with the Progressive Conservative forces of Premier Walter R. Shaw, 78.

A deferred election in Kings 1st Monday, brought about by the death of the Lib. candidate May 26, was swept by two Liberals and lifted Mr. Campbell into power as the youngest man to be elected premier of a Canadian province in this century.

The youngest premier ever to be elected was William Thomas Pipes, who was born April 15, 1850, and became Liberal premier of Nova Scotia for a two-year period Aug. 3, 1882. Another Liberal, Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick, was 34 when he first took office.

Ernest Manning was about 3½ months away from his 35th birthday when he was sworn in as Social Credit premier of Alberta in 1943.

Mr. Campbell is also 10 years younger than his father when he became premier at 42 in 1936.

NOW CHIEF JUSTICE

Thame A. Campbell, now chief justice of the P.E.I. Supreme Court, took over the reins of office following the death of Premier Walter M. Lea, inheriting a house of 30 Liberals and no opposition members. He was re-elected in 1939 and resigned in 1943.

The younger Campbell admits his father's career was a determining factor in the choice of his own, but paternal eminence has little or no effect on him as a youngster.

"When I was a youngster at my father's knee and my teacher told me my father was premier, I didn't understand what she was talking about."

If Mr. Campbell wasn't originally sure of his future in politics, island Liberals had less difficulty in sizing up his potential.

"On the day I set up my law practice in Summerside in 1959, I had three callers," he recalls. "Two were insurance salesmen and one was a gentlemen asking if I would offer myself as a Liberal candidate in the 1959 provincial election."

Mr. Campbell declined then, but was in the running for the Prince Liberal nomination in the 1963 federal election. He lost the convention choice by one vote to J. Watson MacNaught but he had made himself known.

WON BYELECTION

He won election in a provincial byelection in February, 1965, and the following December was chosen the youngest Liberal leader in the history of the provincial party.

The premier-elect greeted the news of Monday's Liberal sweep in Kings 1st with mixed feelings.

"I'd wondered for the last two months what my reaction would be. My first reaction was one of relief that the matter now was settled."

Now he faces the problem of choosing a cabinet and speaker from the 17 Liberal members and has pondered the effects of his new post on his young family.

If the premiership becomes a six-day-a-week job, Mr. Campbell said he would consider moving his wife and their two children, Blair, 3, and Heather, 2, here from Summerside.

The premier-elect, a native of Summerside, set up law practice in the busy town of 8,000 shortly after graduating from Dalhousie University in Halifax in 1959.

TUESDAY, July 12, 1966

The Commons gave first reading to the government's medical care insurance bill after an all-day debate.

The government announced its intention to get the bill through its toughest parliamentary stages before the summer recess.

Conservative spokesmen accused the government of trying to impose a federal plan on satisfactory provincial plans.

The NDP gave the measure strong support and urged that it be handled before the holidays begin.

A long list of broadcasting licences was recommended by the BBG including a new CBC FM station at Vancouver to broadcast in French. Canadian hog producers approved both a new price-grading system and an agency to put it into effect.

Immigration Minister Marchand said in the Commons the July 25 deadline may be extended for visitors wishing to apply for landed immigrant status.

In the enthusiasm of planning the highly publicized "Side Walk Sale" for Down Town Belleville this Friday and Saturday, the Down Town Business Men's Association did not give due consideration to the fact that occupying the side walk would be contrary to established by-laws. As law abiding citizens, it is felt that existing by-laws should be respected. In that spirit we have decided to forego the sidewalk aspect of this week's tremendous value promotion in Down Town Belleville. This means that our

"Now that Don Drysdale has decided to play Tonto to Sandy Koufax' Lone Ranger in the Dodgers wild west drama, I look for the Giants to grab the big share of the world series loot."

The man shifted a heaping helping of Philadelphia Scrabble from the port to the starboard cheek, and pointed a steady finger across the desk.

"However, I say that with reservations even if the refugees from Coogan's Bluff have the hottest hill combo going for them at the moment. Juan Marichal and Perry Gaylord are making a pass at 50 wins between them — and that's halfway to flagville on a pair of wings."

It was pointed out to him that Wilbert (Uncle Robby) Robinson of the Daffy Dodgers of fond memory once said "Give me three fellows who can pitch that ball and four who can hit it, and I can win a pennant."

Someone reminded him that superlative pitching two-somes like Koufax and Drysdale and Marichal and Perry are not always conclusive. Pitching may represent 75 per cent of the decision, but there are other guys around, factors that enter strongly, too.

The records prove that. Back in 1924 Dazz Vance and Burleigh Grimes had the habitues of Ebbet's Field in spasms of joy with 50 wins to their credit but the Daffy gang managed to lose the race.

Back in 1944 Detroit fans were riding high with Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout of the Tigers chalking up 56 wins but there was no Tiger in the world series tank.

Nor did the Newhouser - Trout and Vance - Grimes combos lose many games. The former dropped only 23 decisions and the Dodger pair a mere 19.

Vance and Grimes led the dizzy Dodgers from sixth place to first in 1924 against a Giants' team that had won three pennants in a row.

And Uncle Robby was right with his request of "three pitchers who can pitch and four players who can hit." He missed by one pitcher, one hitter.

As the Dodgers roared down the stretch in hot pursuit of the hated foeman from across the river, Flatbush went "d'lerus wit' joy." From Greenpernt to the Fish Market, along the banks of the fragrant Gowanus foaming schupers were held high in tribute.

On September 22 the Dodgers rated .600, the Giants .601. But Uncle Robby did not have the "third men."

In 1944 the lowly St. Louis Browns won their lone flag after 43 years of trying. They won it on the final day with an all-time low percentage of .578 yet Trout and Newhouser of the lordly Tigers could not beat them.

The Browns won and deserved their pennant. The Tigers had a one-game lead in the final four-game series but lost on the final day. The Browns ran wild with a four-game sweep over the proud Yankees to cop the flag.

"That is all very well," said the man across the desk, augmenting his cud with a pinch of fresh Scrabble, "but there's another side to the story. All you've told me — or what you've read in the records — concerns the hot combos that lost flags. How about those that came through with pennant winning efforts?"

The guy was right. It is more to the rule than the exception that flags fall to these hot two-somes. After all 20-game winners are scarce — and some clubs have none at all.

Four of the six combinations that recorded 50 or more wins also took pennants. Jim Bagby and Stan Coveleski of the Indians scored 55 wins in 1920. Bob Grove and George Earnshaw racked up 52 for the Phillies in 1931. Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer also had 52 for the Reds of 1939. Grove and Earnshaw also won 50 for the 1930 A's.

'Was On My Own,' Wills

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Satisfying," said Maury Wills, slowly and softly after his game-winning all-star hit.

"This was certainly my most satisfying All - Star game."

While his National League team - mates congratulated him, the Los Angeles Dodger Shotstop explained his 10th inning single.

"I was on my own, whether to bunt or hit away," Wills said.

"A safe bunt would have been a great play—men on first and third. It had to be either a perfect bunt, or foul.

"I started to bunt, but it was a bad ball. Then I noticed (Brooks) Robinson move a couple of steps at third, so I decided to hit away."

Wills drove in Tim McCarver of St. Louis Cardinals with a single to right. McCarver had singled and was sacrificed to second.

"It was a low fast ball," said Wills of the pitch by Pete Richert of Washington Senators. "It was almost right down the middle—maybe a little on the outside of the plate."

It was the first All-Star run batted in for the 33-year-old Wills, the base stealing king of baseball in recent years. But it hiked his All-Star average to .357, 5-for-14, in six games.

Nats Snatch All-Star Win In 10th

* * * * * Two Singles Did It

By MIKE RATHET

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"You read what an edge the National League has," said pitcher Denny McLain of Detroit Tigers.

"It's as if we're supposed to go out there and concede the game."

the American League didn't concede. But they didn't win either.

The National League did that, 2-1 in 10 innings.

But in Tuesday's 37th All-Star Game it wasn't better pitching and it wasn't the powerful NL sluggers who took command.

The job was accomplished with a pair of 10th inning singles by Tim McCarver of St. Louis Cardinals and Maury Wills of Los Angeles Dodgers, and extended National League domination of the midsummer classic through 10 games.

The American League has won only once during that period—there also was a tie—and the National now has reeled off four straight victories while pushing its over-all lead in the series to 19-17-1.

There's little doubt that the American League wanted this one. Manager Sam Mele even admitted that the All-Stars were getting embarrassed, and Baltimore Orioles' third baseman Brooks Robinson would have handed back his awards and records for a victory.

[illegible] AWARD

Robinson, who played the full 10 innings and collected three hits, the Most Valuable Player award and two fielding records, said as much after the game.

"It's nice to get the MVP thing and nice to get the records, but it's nicer to win."

The loss may have taken some of the glitter off things, but there was no shoving the American League around. As a matter of fact, the American League came away with all the awards, better pitching performances and the same number of hits. But they couldn't find a way to win.

The 10-inning struggle was played in oppressive 102-degree heat that turned new Busch Memorial Stadium into a furnace. It was so hot that about 100 of the 49,936 spectators were treated for heat exhaustion and several deaths in the St. Louis area were attributed to the heat.

The heat was on the National League at first, despite the fact that the Dodgers, great left-hander, Sandy Koufax, was making his first All-Star start.

MISSED CATCH

In the second inning, Brooks Robinson slammed a liner to left field. Hank Aaron of Atlantic Braves, started back, apparently lost the ball in the sun, then raced in, but was unable to make a shoestring catch. When he retrieved the ball Robinson was standing at third with a triple.

Boston Red Sox' George Scott fouled out but Koufax then uncorked a wild pitch over the head of Atlanta catcher Joe Torre and Robinson raced home for a 1-0 lead. McLain protected that with three perfect innings, taking only 28 pitches to retire nine batters.

Willie Mays of San Francisco Giants then started things for the National Leaguers against Jim Kaat of Minnesota Twins, rifling a single to left in the fourth inning for his 22nd All-Star hit and extending his own record.

A single by Robert Clemente and a grounder got Mays to third and he raced home on a dribbler down the third base line by Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs that went for a single. The run also extended another one of Mays' records, giving him 19 in All-Star competition.

It stayed 1-1 through a profusion of pitchers—Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees and Sonny Siebert of Cleveland Indians for the American and Jim Bunning of Philadelphia Phillies and Juan Marichal of San Francisco for the National—until the 10th when Gaylord Perry of the Giants ran into trouble.

Brooks Robinson led off with a pop fly single, and immediately proceeded to second on a wild pitch.

"FELT GOOD"

"I felt good," Perry said. "Robinson broke his bat on that hit."

Still there was a conference as Manager Walt Alston trotted out.

"He was getting a little tired," said Alston. "I went out to talk to him to give him a little breath."

Perry went back to work. Detroit's Norm Cash flied out, Willie McCovey of San Francisco reached into the stands for a pop by the Yankees' Bobby Richardson and Perry threw a third strike by California Angels' Jim Fregosi.

Then Washington Senators' Pete Richert, a left - hander, came in to pitch for the American with McCarver, also a left-hander, due up. The book called for a pinch hitter.

"It was no hunch to let McCarver bat against the left-hander," Alston explained. "He hits left-handers pretty well."

INTENDED TO BUNT

"I was on my own whether to bunt or hit away," Wills said.

"A safe bunt would have been a great play—men on first and third."

Wills squared away as if to bunt, then pulled back on the pitch.

"I started to bunt, but it was a bad ball," he explained. "Then I noticed Brooks Robinson move a couple of steps at third, so I decided to hit away."

The hit didn't go to Robinson. It went to the opposite field, but fell in for a single that Tony Oliva of Minnesota grabbed on one hop and fired home—too late to get the sliding McCarver.

"Two-to-one," said McCarver later, "that's a laugh for Los Angeles."

But not the American League.

BROOKS ROBINSON

'A Win Better,' Brooks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Brooks Robinson sat on a stool in the American League dressing room, one leg up on a trunk as he sucked on some ice cubes, and steered the conversation away from his performance in Tuesday's All-Star game.

The Baltimore Orioles third baseman had played the full 10 innings in the oppressive 102-degree heat that roasted Busch Memorial Stadium, collected three hits for a .391 All-Star batting average, scored the Al's only run in a 2-1 loss, set one All-Star record and tied another while fielding brilliantly.

But he brushed aside the plaudits after unanimously being voted the most valuable player in the 37th classic.

"It's nice getting the MVP thing and it's nicer to win," he said. "A hit in the right place the last couple of years and we win one. But they win . . . well . . . it takes a little glitter off everything."

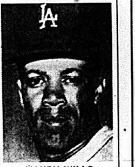
In gaining the MVP award, Robinson slammed a triple and two singles and made three exceptional fielding plays. He grabbed Ron Santo's hot line shot in the second inning, snared Hank Aaron's grounder in the sixth and threw his out, and ranged over the bag to come up with another Santo smash in the ninth.

"Satisfying" Said Wills

Dodger Captain Hit Win Single

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Maury Wills of Los Angeles Dodgers, who has made larceny on the base paths his trade mark, stole the baseball headlines Tuesday with his bat in the annual All-Star classic.

* * *



MAURY WILLS

* * *

Willis, anxious to prove he should have been the National League's starting shortstop, said after his 10th - inning single scored the winning run:

"It seemed that I was on the bench a week waiting to get into the game."

When he got into action he didn't waste any time. In his first appearance at the plate he lined a single to right which scored catcher Tim McCarver of St. Louis from second and gave the senior circuit a 2-1 victory over the American League.

He also made a dazzling over-the-shoulder catch on Frank Robinson's bid for single in the ninth after eplacing Leo Cardenas, Cincinnati Reds at short.

But baseball's base-stealing king and the Dodgers' captain was not smiling when he walked from the steaming 102-degree heat of the playing field into the cool of the clubhouse.

A photographer asked Maury for a big smile and he replied: "I'll smile for you in October."

Wills did admit the game was satisfying to him.

"Satisfying," said Wills softly.

"Just being here rates with the Series," said McCarver, hero of the Cardinals' 1964 World Series victory.

In the American League clubhouse, starting pitcher Denny McLain of Detroit Tigers listened to the 10th inning on radio.

McLain needed only 28 pitches for thee innings of no-hit ball as the American League starte.

"I got a tip a couple of weeks back I was going to start," he said "Frank Robinson (of Baltimore Orioles) told me not to throw Willie Mays a fast ball on the first pitch. You saw him miss that slow curve.

"My father-in-law (Lou Boudreau, ex-Cleveland Indian star and now a Chicago Cubs broadcaster) told me which guys like low balls and which ones hit high balls. It helped."

West Germans Loom As Cup Threat

In Top Form

LONDON (CP) — The giant shadow of West Germany hung over the soccer teams of Spain and Argentina today as they faced each other at Birmingham's Villa Park in Group II of the World Cup tournament.

The West Germans, winners of the trophy in 1954 and the last Europeans to take it, hammered Switzerland 5-0 at Sheffield Tuesday night with the kind of form that could make them champions again.

They were led to victory by two powerful midfield linkmen, Franz Beckenbauer and Helmet Haller. Both scored two goals.

In other games Tuesday, Russia beat North Korea 3-0 and Brazil, the defending champion, downed Bulgaria 2-0.

Argentina faces the Germans Saturday, and Spain plays them next Wednesday. With the Germans showing such impressive form, the team losing today's group II match will have only a slim hope of finishing in the top two and making the quarter-finals.

The 16 countries in the tournament have been divided into four groups of four, and the top two in each group will move into the quarter-finals. From that point, things proceed on a straight knockout basis until there are two survivors for the sudden-death final July 30.

A crowd of 36,000 watched West Germany build up an unassailable 3-0 lead by halftime against Switzerland Tuesday.

All three goals came after clever individual dribbles, a hint that the Germans may possess the skill to find the hole in the tight modern defence patterns that threaten to dominate the tournament.

SLIPS THROUGH

Left winger Siegfried Held wriggled past three Swiss defenders to score the first goal, and Haller weaved past two to score the second. Beckenbauer also rounded his man and ran on to cap a great individual run to make it 3-0.

Beckenbauer scored again in the second half and Haller made it 5-0 on a penalty shot.

The West Germans, not rated as highly as the defending champion Brazilians, host country England or the Italians before the tournament began, made a profound impression on the British press in their first start.

The Daily Telegraph says: "Uwe Seeler and company are a rare mixture of muscle and skill and it is as certain as anything can be that their qualifying games with Argentina and Spain will be classics. The Swiss, as tidy and industrious as ever, were merely "extras."

Cyril Chapman of The Guardian writes of the Germans, "clearly they are going to be one of the most powerful challengers in the competition."

But, besides German prowess, there was another spectre hanging over the tournament: Rough-house soccer.

The Russians and the Bulgarians were on the receiving end of bitter complaints that they are trying to bulldoze their way to victories without respect for the essential skills of the game.

Bulgaria lost 2-0 to Brazil at Liverpool Tuesday in a match that produced raw tempers over tough tackling.

PELE COMPLAINS

Pele, attacking star of the Brazilian forward line, complained: "I have received more blows than ever before. I don't see why the Bulgarians have to use such tactics."

Peter Lorenzo writes in The Sun: "One second you were watching superb soccer craftsmanship, and next you shuddered at the sight of vicious tackles and physical contact."

The Brazilian players were all checked in the dressing room by team physician Dr. Hilton Gosling, but he reported no injuries immediately apparent.

Russia defeated North Korea 3-0 in a match that turned ugly at times, as the taller Soviet players crashed into the short, stocky footballers from Eastern Asia.

The British crowd cheered the underdog Koreans and booed every infringement by the hard-tackling Soviet team.

All the matches Tuesday at least produced results with plenty of goals, and World Cup officials were jubilant.

After Monday's opening match in which England and Uruguay played a scoreless tie, there were fears that defensive tactics might stifle the championship and produce a boring series of non-results.

But 10 goals were scored in Tuesday's matches, and the outlook for the fans was suddenly better.

In tonight's games, France plays Mexico in Group I, Argentina plays Spain in Group II, Hungary plays Portugal in Group III, and Chile plays Italy in Group IV.

Parsons Blank Crusaders

Belleville Parsons stayed near the top of the Kingston District Soccer League standing last night by blanking the Kingston Crusaders 2-0 at the Fairgrounds.

The heat made for a slow game and Parsons were well below full strength but they had little trouble with the visiting club. Only superb goalkeeping kept the score at 2-0.

Parsons travel to Kingston to meet the Flying Dutchmen at 6:30 Saturday.

Jim Patterson potted the opening goal after about 30 minutes of play. Collecting Bob Rutherford's pass, Patterson slammed the ball low into the corner of the Crusader net.

Play slowed considerably in the second half as the heat took its toll.

Alan Brown cut loose with a hard drive and it deflected past the goalie off a Crusader player to close the scoring at 2-0.

Outstanding for Belleville were Pete Evenden and Ron Gale on defence.

MUST HAVE BELTS

LONDON (AP)—The government told a conference on highway safety Tuesday that seat belts will become compulsory for cars in Britain next April 1.

Bradley Leads Open Qualifying

Gary Bowerman, 72, Ties For Second

KINGSTON (CP)—Bob Bradley of Oshawa, son of former Ontario amateur champion Bruce H. Bradley, shot a one-over-par 71 Tuesday to lead qualifiers for the 44th annual Ontario Open at Cataraqui Golf and Country Club.

The 25-year-old law student at Queen's University shaved two shots off par going out then came in three over par for his winning total.

Ben Kern of Cooksville and pro Gary Bowerman of Richmond Hill tied for second place with 72s while Ron Brown, Cataraqui club champion, Gus Maue Jr., Ontario left-handed champion, and Bob Young of Woodbridge shot 73s.

John Ellison almost carded a hole in one on the 160-yard eighth hole when his six iron shot hit the back of the cup and bounced out. The 21-year-old from Islington who attends the University of New Mexico on a golf scholarship, was left with an easy tap in for a birdie two which helped him qualify with a 78.

Strong winds swept the tree-lined course, causing some scores to soar. An 80 was low enough to qualify 92 golfers for the 54-hole tournament play beginning Thursday.

A cut Friday will reduce the field from 142 to 60 finalists for Saturday's play. There were 50 exemptions from Tuesday's qualifying round.

Moe Norman and Nick Weslock headed the exempted shooters.

Norman has won the Ontario Open twice and is after his third provincial title in three weeks. Last weekend he won the Manitoba Open in Winnipeg and the week before the Alberta Open in Calgary.

Weslock has won six Open titles and the 47-year-old veteran will try to make the record book by making this his third consecutive win in the Open.

Two players known more for their skill with a puck than with a ball also made the cut. Vic Hadfield of the New York Rangers and Andy Bathgate of the Detroit Red Wings, both pros at Richview Golf Course in Oakville, shot 77s to stay in the run for the money.

The winner of the Ontario Open wins an expense paid trip and starting spot in the $200,000 World Championship played at the Royal Birkdale Golf Club, outside Liverpool, England, and first-place money in the Open of $1,200.

Score Was 5-0

Trudeaus Blank Picton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Some unexpected hitting and a strong pitching chore by Bill Baldwin provided Trudeau Motors with a 5-0 shutout victory over the Picton Kinsmen at Alemite Park last night.

A good crowd watched Trudeaus move to within two points of the B. and D. softball leaders, the Bobcats, with the win and the two clubs clash Thursday.

Baldwin tamed Picton on six hits, two of them coming after two were out in the ninth, to earn his shutout. He struck out three and walked none.

Picton's most dangerous threat came when it was a 2-0 game in the fifth. Carson led off with a double, Baldwin gave up the lone walk and MacDonald hit a slow tap that Baker could not handle, to load the bases with two out. A force at the plate left three stranded.

Trudeaus combed losing pitcher Ken DeMille for nine hits, five of them doubles. DeMille struck out four and did not walk a batter.

Bob Wannamaker had his best night of the season for Trudeaus, lining a double and two singles, as did Ralph Plane. Stu Muirhead hit the ball solid on four occasions, robbed of a homer by Dave Lockwood in the first, but settled for a double on the night. Larry Soule and Phil Bennett also had doubles.

Eldon Carson and Keith MacDonald each hit a double and single for the Kinsmen. Jim Guernsey and Keith Stacey also singled.

Plane doubled and scored when Soule hit one past Gray for the initial run, in the second. MacDonald was charged with an error for having his foot off first to set up another in the third. Muirhead's two-bagger and Weston's fly ball brought it home.

Plane's base hit ignited a two-run sixth. Wannamaker doubled and after two were out, Bennett's pop fly fell just beyond Keith Stacey at second to score the pair. Plane's bunt single, a wild pitch and Wannamaker's third hit completed the scoring.

Trudeaus' biggest problem was the lack of bench strength after plate umpire Mike Whelan resented their questioning his balls - and - strikes calls. He ejected Pete Weston in the seventh and threatened to do the same to several others, although no abusive or profane language was heard.

Lightfoots Awarded Victory

Lightfoot Construction broke a three - game losing streak the easy way in the Commercial Softball League last night.

The Lightfoots were awarded a 9-0 forfeit victory over the troubled Belvedere Hotel team.

Belvedere had only eight players at game time.

The two clubs were tied prior to the game, along with City Hotel, and the win boosted Lightfoots into sole possession of third place.

Lightfoots went on to defeat Belvedere in the exhibition, slipping in the standings, after standing near the top of the six-team league in the opening month.

Only the one game was scheduled last night.

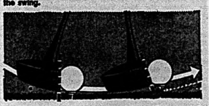
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

SWEEP DRIVES UP AND AWAY

Many golfers fail to achieve proper height on tee shots because they play the ball too far back in their stance.

You will note in the illustration how the club's loft is reduced when the ball is played back in the stance and struck on the downswing, and how its loft is increased by playing the ball farther forward and hitting it later in the swing.



If you have trouble getting your drives off the ground, play the ball farther forward in your stance and tee it a bit higher.

Once this is done, sweep the ball away and up into the air. However, don't try to scoop it up by allowing your weight to remain on your right foot.

RIDERS SIGN CONROY

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference have announced the signing of veteran corner linebacker Jim Conroy. Conroy, a native Canadian who played college football at the Uiversity of Southern California, returns for his seventh campaign with the club.

Meets Archer Tonight

Griffith Seeks A Quick K.O.

MEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Fmile Griffith, 28, will try to score a quick knockout over Joey Archer, 28, tonight in their title fight if he follows the plans of his handlers.

Griffith was rated an even money shot in the betting, however, against the New York challenger for their 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Starting time is 10 p.m. EDT.

"I told Emile we don't want to take any chances on a close decision because the Irish will be out in full force to root for Archer," said trainer and co-manager Gil Clancy, an Irishman himself.

"This can sway officials. I told the commission I didn't want any Irish officials used and that if any of them were going to be used I would not let Emile into the ring until I talk to commission chairman Ed Dooley.

"That's to be on the safe side. Emile's going to knock out Archer in an early round, anyway."

"I haven't been knocked out by anyone and I don't expect Griffith will do it either," said Archer. "I've waited three years for this shot and I'm not going to muff it now."

Archer, at 160 pounds, probably will have from eight to 10 pounds on Griffith. The champion, involved in a court battle to retain his welterweight crown, has had trouble getting up to 150 pounds in training for his first defence of the 160 pound crown.

Griffith, 50-7 over - all, has scored 18 knockouts and been stopped once.

Archer has a 46-2 record, including eight knockouts.

The Garden predicted a crowd of 13,000 or more will provide a live gate upwards of $100,000.

In addition the bout will be telecast by about 90 stations coast to coast. New York will be blacked out.

Griffith will collect 45 per cent of all receipts and Archer will get a flat guarantee of $17,000.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. The referee and two judges will be named at fight time.

CHIEFS SIGN STEPHENS

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League Tuesday signed Sandy Stephens former Montreal Alouette and Toronto Argonaut quarterback. Stephens, 25, was the first draft choice of New York Titans, now New York Jets, in 1961. He was the second draft choice of Cleveland Browns of the National League.

Art Bridge Scores First Hole-in-One

Art Bridge, 1965 men's champion of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, realized a golf life ambition on July 7th.

But Art had to go to Victoria, B.C. to do it.

He scored his first hole-in-one on the Gorgevale Country Club course.

And Art is going to see to it that future Bridge generations will always be reminded of the "first ace".

He took the ball to a Victoria jeweller and had it mounted on a wooden base. An engraved plaque gives all the details.

Art, who was named vice-president of the Country Club here earlier in the season, was transferred to the Pacific coast city on July 1st.

Most Advance

Canadian At Bisley

BROOKWOOD, England (Reuters)—Most Canadians advanced Tuesday through the first stage of the St. George's Challenge Vase match at the National Rifle Association's Bisley meet.

The best Canadian showing was by Nicholas Beckessy of Montreal, who scored 74 out of a possible 75 with his 15 shots at 300 yards. This was one point short of the score of four other competitors.

The three-stage match continues until Friday.

The long-delayed results of Saturday's Aggregate Trophy match, based on the scores in Saturday's four individual events, were issued Tuesday, showing that the top-scoring Canadian placed five points behind the victor.

C. F. O'Sullivan, a former British navy chief petty officer who now teaches school in Plymouth, topped the list with a record 196 out of a possible 200.

For some years the top Fleet Air Arm shot, O'Sullivan had to withdraw his name as a likely candidate for the British team which is going to Canada later this month because of personal reasons.

LEADS CANADIANS

LAC Jim Hennock of Toronto led the Canadian scorers, placing eighth with 191.

He was followed by Officer Cadet Ralph Grant, Dartmouth, N.S., 14th with 190; Cadet Lieut. W. R. Cottick, Winnipeg, 189; Arne Sorensen, Calgary, 187, and Beckessy, 185.

Scores released Tuesday showed a Scot beating a Canadian by one point for the trophy for the best aggregate in Monday's three events at 200, 500 and 900 yards.

Colin McEachran of Glasgow was the winner with 146, the same score totalled by LAC Hennock last year.

LAC Ernest Roger, 26, a native of Esquimalt, B.C., now serving with the RCAF at Lancaster Park, Alta., tied for runner-up spot at 145 with B. H. B. Wrey of the Oxford and Cambridge Rifle Association, but placed second on the "count-out." LAC Roger's long-range score, 49, was better than Wrey's.

Departmental Softball

City Hall took a 9-0 lead by the fifth inning and hung on to defeat the Fire Department 9-7 in Departmental Softball last night.

The win boosted City two points up on the Intelligencer, who play Public Works tonight, in their battle for first place.

Gary Reid hurled the win, allowing 10 hits, while Larry Reid was the loser before giving way to Craig Rump for the Firemen. They gave up eight hits.

Dick Kraft had a double and single and Brad Lee a brace of base hits to spark the City Hall attack.

Bob Lloyd slammed a home run and two singles and Grant Parks a long homer and a single for Fire Department.

Galt Hornets Back In Fold

GALT (CP) — Galt Hornets, who withdrew from the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series almost two weeks ago, have reconsidered and will operate in 1966-67.

Hornets had objected to a 10-team league proposed by the OHA on the grounds it would create financial hardships on their club.

Officials said Tuesday the team now is in a better financial position because of recent fund-raising projects.

Galt joins Guelph, Woodstock, Oakville, Toronto, Kingston, Collingwood, Belleville, Barrie and Orillia in the expanded league.

RAISE SERVICE PAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Congress passed a 3.2-per-cent pay raise for the armed forces Tuesday and authorized $17,400,000,000 to buy, build and develop the weapons of war.

Koufax Made It Hotter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Everyone was talking as much about the blistering sun Tuesday as they were about the major league all - stars. But Sandy Koufax was doing something about it —he was making it warmer.

His National League teammates couldn't believe it.

"Do you know how warm it was out there," one asked the Los Angeles left - hander in the locker room. "You must be crazy."

But Koufax spread a rubbing compound over his body to keep himself warmer during his starting stint.

"He does it before every game," said St. Louis Cardinal trainer Bob Bauman. "His body is so used to it, it doesn't affect him as much as you would think it would."

In contrast, Koufax, bothered for several years by an arm ailment that requires hot-and-cold treatments, soaks his arm in ice water after he pitches.

Koufax showed the 100-plus heat did not bother him as he allowed only one run in three innings—a line drive misjudged into a triple and a wild pitch.

Leafs Cuff Wings 12-6, Chiefs Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ed Rakow, a former major leaguer making a comeback with Toronto Maple Leafs, won his sixth game in eight decisions Tuesday night as Toronto trounced Rochester Red Wings 12-6.

The result moved the Maple Leafs to within half a game of second-place Rochester in the International League and to within four of front-running Columbus Jets, 3-2 losers to Jacksonville Suns in 10 innings.

In other action, rookie Art Todtenhausen handcuffed Buffalo Bisons on six hits in a 5-2 Syracuse Chiefs' victory while Jack Cullen shut out Richmond Braves on four hits as Toledo Mud Hens romped to a 7-0 victory.

Minor Softball Results

A couple of strong pitching efforts highlighted the Belleville Minor Softball Association's peewee games last night. Hyde and Son Giants 14-3 Barrett's Yankees whipped with the winners' Johnny Sprackett hurling three - hit ball and striking out 18.

Western Tire Colts shaded Woodland Braves 4-2 and the Colts' Steve Ellis also tossed a three - hitter. He struck out 17 batters.

T. and S. Softball

Halloway scored four times in the seventh inning to defeat Centenary 7-5 and Foxboro nipped Glen Miller 7-6 in a pair of Thurlow and Sidney Softball League games last night.

Ron Denyes pitched eight-hit ball for Halloway while Brian Harder was combed for 11 hits on the Centenary mound.

Bruce Kennedy hammered two doubles and a single and Ted Ray hit a pair of triples to spark the winners' attack.

Merle Christopher had a triple and two singles and Brian Harder added two hits to pace the losers.

Jim Wood helped himself at the plate with a homer and single. Dick Fobert, Terry Meagher, Ian Rutherford, Ed Christopher and Bill Bunnett stroked singles.

No particulars were turned in concerning the peewee game.

Ron McTaggart pitched all the way for the Lions Club in the five inning tyke tilt. He struck out 11, walked four and gave up six hits.

Parker May Be Through

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Parker, plagued by knee injuries, asked Toronto Argonauts for a week off workouts Tuesday amid growing speculation he will retire after 12 seasons as a top line star in the Canadian Football League.

Parker sought and received the rest period from Argo coach Bob Shaw to see if his knee problems will respond. He had two knee operations since last season and had hoped the workouts would strengthen his knee.

But the knee was reported to be inflamed this week.

Parker, who came to Canada in 1954 from Mississippi State University, has scored more points than any other player in CFL history—744.

He began as a halfback at Edmonton but in his second season moved to quarterback. He was traded to Toronto prior to the 1963 season and since has seen service in both the offensive and defensive backfield.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Poland has joined Russia's boycott of scheduled track and field meets in the United States this month.

Now amateur sports officials are waiting to see whether the International Amateur Athletic Federation takes action against either Communist country.

The IAAF, headquartered in London, presides over track and field throughout the world and could administer a severe wrist slapping to Poland and Russia for failing to keep their commitments, a tactic the IAAF usually frowns upon. So far, it has remained silent.

Polish athletes were ready to leave for Berkeley, Calif., when word came Tuesday of the cancellation. The Russians had called off their July 23-24 meet in Los Angeles Monday. American involvement in the war in Viet Nam was given as the reason for both pullouts.

In Chicago, Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said he deplored political influence in sports.

Col. Don Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, who is in Europe, said he would fly to Moscow to try to bind the split.

The Communist sports freeze extended to basketball with the announcement that Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia were cancelling games against a touring American all-star team.

Saskys Defeat Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP) — Fullback George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders spun over for a touchdown from the one-yard line with less than three minutes to go in the game to give his club a 23-17 win over Montreal Alouettes in a Canadian Football League exhibition game Tuesday night.

The game, played in 85-degree weather, marked the first contest for both clubs in preseason play.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

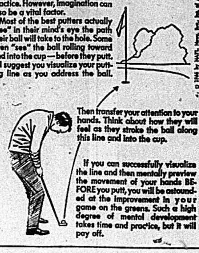
VISUALIZE PATH OF PUTT BEFORE STROKING BALL

Good putting comes largely from a sound stroke and a good deal of practice. However, imagination can also be a vital factor.

Most of the best putters actually "see" in their mind's eye the path their ball will take to the hole. Some even "see" the ball rolling toward and into the cup—before they putt.

I suggest you visualize your putting line as you address the ball.



© 1966 by NANA, News Synd., Inc. of America

Then transfer your attention to your hands. Think about how they will feel as they stroke the ball along this line and into the cup.

If you can successfully visualize the line and then mentally preview the movement of your hands BEFORE you putt, you will be astounded at the improvement in your game on the greens. Such a high degree of mental development takes time and practice, but it will pay off.

Canadian Diving

Select Team Saturday

By JERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP)—A former Vancouver amateur boxer and a 15-year-old Pickering, Ont., high school girl appear to have the best chances of gaining a berth on the Canadian diving team for the British Empire Games at Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 4-18.

Terry Fitzpatrick, 18, of Vancouver, who boxed in city competitions for five years prior to turning to diving in 1962, captured the Canadian men's 10-metre tower diving championship Tuesday with 391.5 points, believed the highest total ever scored. Official records are not kept.

Beverley Boys, youngest competitor in the 10-metre event, won the women's tower diving championship with a 288.9 point performance.

The victories for the pair do not automatically qualify them for the Canadian team, but will have a bearing on the final decision.

Officials of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association will make selection of the team Saturday in Hamilton at conclusion of the Games swimming trials.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Baranof, a four-year-old son of Canadian Champ which raced in England as a two- and three-year-old, came off the pace Tuesday to win the $2,600 sixth race at Woodbine race track.

The colt, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, came within one-fifth of a second of equalling the course record of 1:48 for one mile and one furlong. It paid $8.90, $4.50 and $2.50 and combined with Dabo for a $28.70 exactor. Admiral's Gift was third.

Longshot Cairnarctic paid $69.90 in winning the second race and combined with Admiral Armbro in the first for a $342.20 daily double.

B.C. Sport Fishermen Account For Large Share of Salmon

By STEPHEN SCOTT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Picture a man sitting in a small boat on a cold winter day, his eye fixed on a thin line dropping into the chill waters.

Picture another on a sunny summer day staring at the busy but peaceful scene around him, his hand periodically tugging a line trailing behind his slow-moving boat.

There you have the two extremes among thousands of British Columbia sport fishermen, most of them on the southern part of the coast, who are in varying degrees addicted to salt-water fishing.

Millions of dollars are spent annually for boats, tackle fuel and rentals for the privilege of sitting for hours in a boat to catch the elusive salmon.

Nobody has estimated how many thousands start launching boats before dawn on a weekend and crowd the offshore waters between Vancouver Island and the mainland, generally within 100 miles of Vancouver.

But their numbers are so large that in some areas they come close to outfishing the commercial operators.

Depending on their point of view, conservationists worry about them or protect them.

Commercial fisheries spokesmen and the federal department of fisheries are concerned. Maurice P. Houghton of the department here says that between 30 and 40 per cent of all fish caught in the strait of Georgia go to sport fishermen.

The result is that the commercial fishery in the area must be closely restricted to permit enough salmon to reach rivers where they spawn. The Pacific Salmon Society, representing sports fishermen, says only a small percentage of the salmon caught in B.C. are hooked by pleasure boaters.

Tommy Sewell, operator of a large boat and tackle rental business, says the time is coming when Georgia Strait must be reserved for pleasure fishermen.

Sewell says a fisheries department boat five years ago counted 2,000 small boats one Sunday in the Horseshoe Bay area of suburban West Vancouver. he says the number must have increased considerably since then, although exact figures are not available.

Depending on the season, British Columbians can strip cast, troll or mootch (still fish) with flies or bait, for coho, spring or pinks all year round. Their catch will generally be under 10 pounds although big Tyees have been caught as high as 85 pounds.

But they probably won't catch much. Surveys show that about 20 per cent of the fishermen catch most of the fish—Sewell says some may bring in 150 in a summer season.

This 20 per cent—"hardnosers" in the words of Houghton—have spent anything up to $55,000 for a yacht and sophisticated tackle just for the pleasure of fishing.

The average hardnoser has spent up to $6,000 for boat and tackle. Many of these will go out at any time of year to catch fish.

The casual fisherman can pick up a rod, reel, line and lure for $10, more or less.

Sewell says it has been estimated there is $1,000,000 worth of pleasure craft renting space from him. At nearby Fisherman's Cove there is the biggest dock rental area in Canada.

Most of the boats have fishing gear, says Mike Crammond, outdoors editor of The Province, Vancouver's morning newspaper.

"Remove the impulse of a boat owner to fish and you remove the impulse to go to sea," Crammond says.

The Trots

ST. CATHARINES (CP) Creed Stone, owned by Grace Brennan of Ottawa, scored its fifth win in 19 starts this season in the featured $1,400 sixth race at Garden City Raceway Tuesday night.

Creed Stone paced the mile in 2:07 1-5 and paid $3.50, $2.30 and $2.10. The exactor of Creed Stone and Shady Valley paid $8.70. Dapper Grattan was third.

ACTION ON ITALIAN FRONT — Memories of the Italian front will be traded by members of the 48th Highlanders of Canada at its 75th birthday reunion in Toronto this summer. Waiting to put in an attack are: Lieut. I. MacDonald of Windsor, Ont. (with field glasses) Sgt. J. T. Cooney, Hanover, Ont., Pte. Athol R. Downie, Sarnia, Ont., Pte. G. R. 48th Highlanders Planning August Reunion in Toronto

By VOLKMAR RICHTER

TORONTO (CP) — The 48th Highlanders of Canada is a unit with a proud tradition.

Its first battle honors were won in the Boer War. It was the first Canadian regiment to volunteer for action during the First World War and one of the first Canadian regiments to be sent overseas in 1939 early in the Second World War.

The 48th Highlanders will be 75 years old this summer. To mark the occasion there will be a reunion of members in Toronto Aug. 19 to 21 at which old memories will be rekindled.

At the Canadian National Exhibition, the place of honor in the Warriors Day parade Aug. 20 has been reserved for the 48th. Mayor Philip Givens will confer the freedom of the city on the unit.

Freedom of the city, an old English custom, is an honor rarely bestowed by Toronto. It entitles the regiment to march through the streets at any time with all colors flying, all bands playing and with bayonets fixed.

Parades are popular among the old members, but just plain talking is too—maybe more so.

No one knows exactly how many men have served in the regiment, but Lt.-Col. Michael George, former commanding officer, estimates the number at between 10,000 and 12,000.

COMMANDED BY QUEEN

Col. George, who is also chairman of the reunion committee, expects upwards of 1,500 men to participate in the reunion ceremonies.

The regiment was formed in 1891 by the Gaelic Society, a group of citizens who felt the need for a unit with Scottish trappings which their sons could join.

The first choice of name, the Queen's Highlanders, was rejected by Ottawa, but today Queen Elizabeth is the commander-in-chief.

The regiment holds a total of 49 battle honors.

It holds other distinctions too. Members of the 48th Highlanders were the first Canadians to endure gas attack at the second battle of Ypres, April 22, 1915.

George Eyles, 71, vividly remembers the encounter.

"It was a bright day and suddenly we saw this yellow cloud appear in the sky at about 5 p.m. Some French colonial troops on our left got it first and we could see by the way they were gasping and falling down that we were in for something bad."

ATTACK CONTAINED

But the Germans were content with a small advance that day. The strong resistance of the Canadians kept the Germans from realizing how close they were to a break-through.

Two days later the Canadians bore the full brunt of the attack. But again they resisted vigorously and the Germans were unable to exploit fully the use of the new weapon.

In the Second World War the regiment was the first to puncture the Hitler line in central Italy. It advanced behind enemy lines by night, then held on to its position despite fire coming from three sides, until other troops broke through.

Later its commanding officer was killed in action in northwestern Europe. Lt.-Col. Donald MacKenzie was hit by shrapnel from an exploding shell as he knelt in a trench studying a map. He had become dissatisfied with communications with the front line and decided to go up to the front himself.

The regiment lost a total of about 1,600 officers and men during the two world wars.

As Mr. Eyles put it, the men love nothing better than to talk about the regiment.

"We don't talk about the tragic things, though," said James Brannan, 56, who saw action in Sicily and Italy during the Second World War.

He was wounded in the face and leg and remembers best the three "pleasurable wheel-chair-ridden" months he spent recuperating on Malta.

RETAIN OLD TIES

In Toronto the men get together to talk often at the memorial hall operated by the 48th Highlanders Association as a social club and meeting place. The association keeps the men who served in the regiment together after they stop wearing the uniform with the kilt of the Davidson tartan.

George Stanley, 67, said he hasn't missed a parade yet. He got a charley horse in last year's Warriors Day Parade at the CNE but he plans to be back this year.

The 48th Highlanders, now a militia unit, recently moved into new quarters in the Moss Park Armories in downtown Toronto. The move came after the University Avenue Armories were torn down to make way for a new court house.

Today standards are high and the unit is not neglected.

"We're getting better equipment now because of the integration of the armed forces," said William Elms, 45, regimental sergeant-major.

"The regiment has not been allowed to fall into disuse. There are no 70-year-old officers and that sort of thing."

Special-Effects Man Tells Of the Problem of Color

By DICK ALBAIN
(For CYNTHIA LOWRY)

Behind every science-fiction or fantasy program there is an ingenious special-effects man who really creates the illusions. Dick Albain, behind-the-scenes magician of the National Broadcasting Company's I Dream of Jeannie, tells of the problems the addition of color creates for him.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rainbow-colored smoke; shirts which float out of the automatic washer all ironed and folded; rowboats which speed like PT boats.

Such special effects on I Dream of Jeannie are my unholy bailiwick.

To the American viewing public, Barbara Eden is the moving force behind the strange things happening. Although Barbara is an enchanting girl, she is no magician.

The magic is the result of neither Barbara's acting ability nor my gimmickry. Producer-writer Sidney Sheldon dreams up the tricks we're expected to stage successfully.

Since the show goes to color this fall, we decided that her emergence from the genie bottle should be in colored smoke, instead of last year's old garden-variety grey.

LIGHTS ARE ANSWER

Out came the dry ice machine, the fans to blow the smoke and the bright-colored lights across which it must blow, from lavender to green to royal blue. It took days of experimentation. Finally Barbara was summoned in her genie outfit to shoot the rainbow-colored smoke. Everything went beautifully—with one exception. I forgot that chiffon harem pants when exposed to the moist, colored smoke, would shrink. And they did—right up to midshin. There was no solution for that problem except to keep the camera at about knee level so it would miss the sight of Barbara's climbing pantaloons.

The folded shirts from the washing machine are a simple matter of well-manipulated puppet wire (with me up on a catwalk above the machine). The rapid changes of clothes effected by Jeannie and her astronaut master, Tony Nelson (costar Larry Hagman) are a matter of stopping action, making a quick change of clothes, assuming the same pose and continuing with the story line.

There are more complicated matters—miniature ships sinking in simulated ocean storms so that they appear as full-sized ships on camera; golf balls circling in flight (we drilled a hole through the ball and had it circle a tree as though it were turning in flight).

Ben Selvin Tops Bing Crosby In Number of Records Made

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Here's an easy way to win a bet with an unsuspecting record buff.

Ask him which artist has made the most titles in the history of the record business. Unless he's a walking encyclopedia of gramaphone lore, you've won your bet.

Bing Crosby? Frank Sinatra? Wrong—the answer is Ben Selvin, an American dance-band leader popular in the 1920s who made no fewer than 9,000 recordings in his 44-year career, working under nine different names for nine record companies.

Crosby ranks second, a long way behind with a figure between 2,600 and 2,700. The late Peter Dawson, Australian tenor, is a surprising third with 2,500 and fourth is Sinatra with a mere 1,000.

Crosby however, can claim to be the world's biggest-selling record star, with 250,000,000 "disc units"—in the language of record sales one long-player equals six singles—followed by the Beatles with 150,000,000 and Elvis Presley with 115,000,000. Guy Lombardo, the bandleader from London, Ont., whose Royal Canadians haven't changed their sweet, melodic style since the 1930s, pops up in fourth place with 100,000,000 sales.

COMPILED IN BOOK

These and a hoard of other oddments of information appear in a new British publication called The Daily Mail Book of Golden Discs, which took music researcher Joseph Murrells seven years to compile.

As the title suggests, the book is mainly devoted to records that have sold 1,000,000 or more—the magic figure that wins the artist a golden disc from the recording company — and it gives a potted history of each best-selling song and singer, covering 1,100 records from 11 countries.

The list begins in the dawn of the phonograph age, ranges from Enrico Caruso to post-Beatle pop groups like The Seekers, and contains some fascinating nuggets of knowledge.

The world's first million-selling record was Caruso's version of Vesti la Giubba from the opera Pagliacci. Made in 1903, it took some 30 years after Caruso's death in 1921 to reach golden-disc level.

Swifter success came to a hit of 1905, The Preacher and the Bear, sung by Arthur Collins. This American comedy number sold in vast quantities for 20 years, but when it was first imported into Britain each record had to be accompanied by a leaflet explaining the blackface dialect jokes.

Golden disc artists through the years have included Paul Whiteman, Al Jolson — whose Sonny Boy ranked twice as a million-seller, in 1928 and 1946—Glenn Miller, Judy Garland, Fats Domino and Bill Haley, the man who launched rock 'n' roll.

ANKA WAS FIRST

Paul Anka, the boy prodigy from Ottawa whose song Diana, written and recorded by him at the age of 14, became a world-wide sensation in 1957, was the first Canadian-born singer soloist to sell more than 1,000,000 copies of a record.

First Canadian-made record to top the million mark was The French Song, by Lucille Starr of St. Boniface, Man., in 1964.

Anka's Diana, which sold an estimated 9,000,000 copies, ranks among the biggest-selling discs of all time. Top of the heap is Bing Crosby's White Christmas with some 25,000,000 sales, followed by Bill Haley's Rock Around the Clock, the pre-war Mills Brothers number Paper Doll and the Beatles' hit I Want to Hold Your Hand.

Fastest-selling record ever issued was a memorial album of President John F. Kennedy's speeches which sold 4,000,000 copies in six days in December, 1963.

The most recorded songs are Hoagy Carmichael's Stardust and the W. C. Handy New Orleans jazz classic St. Louis Blues, both with about 1,000 different versions.

Family Counsellor of Air Now Being Starred in Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Mr. Anthony, I've got a problem. . . ."

For almost two decades such a preamble started a recital of family trouble which Mr. Anthony would then analyse before radio listeners. The phrase became an American saying and it still is, though John J. Anthony has not been heard by a national audience for a dozen years.

He is very much alive and at 63 is entering a brand new career as an actor.

Recently the makers of Divorce American Style were casting the role of the judge who tries to arbitrate the differences between Debbie Reynolds and Dick van Dyke. Remembering the longtime family counsellor of the air, one of the men suggested: "Why don't we get Mr. Anthony?"

The Columbia casting department queried the TV-radio actors union, and he was located at his home a few miles away. He proved a perfect type for the role.

"I'm having the time of my life," he commented of his career. "I'm just kicking myself because I didn't try it sooner."

HE'S PERFECT

Seldom has Hollywood performed such a perfect piece of type-casting. With his neat appearance and calm, reassuring manner, Anthony looks exactly like a—well, a Mr. Anthony.

A native New Yorker, Anthony started out to be a writer but moved into broadcasting. He discovered that most Americans were abysmally ignorant on the subject of marriage. He did some research and went on a Long Island station with a counselling program April 10, 1930.

His show went national in 1935 and remained on the networks until 1953.

He continued his advice program on Los Angeles radio and TV stations until 1959, when he suffered a heart attack. He recovered and launched a career as a lecturer and commentator on world affairs.

Report No Progress Made Re Public School Addition

DESERINTO — When questioned Tuesday about the progress of the building for the two - room addition to the Deseronto public school, chairman of the school board, J. W. Spence replied that no progress has been made since the last regular meeting of the board four weeks-ago.

At that meeting James McVicker, the local postmaster, and John Neal, an employee of the Bell Telephone Co., questioned the need of the new rooms, saying that they belived the school to be big enough for next year's pupils.

A motion was passed agreeing to hire an architect and call for tenders, to be acted upon only if additional space is necessary. James McVicker was appointed to make a survey of the probable registration in September of this year.

At present there are ten rooms with an attendance fluctuating between 353 and 358 during the last school year. There is no kindergarten, and also no opportunity class. Peter Roach, the former principal who was with the board for 11 years, strongly advocated setting up an opportunity class. Mr. Roach will be principal of a school near Toronto next year.

Tuesday evening, Mr. Spence states, only two members of the Board joined him and the secretary, Mrs. William Schell, for the meeting. Present were Mrs. Giselle Saunders, secretary of Ideal Venders, and Donald Reid, self - employed transport driver. Absent were James McVicker his sister-in-law, Mrs. Betty McVicker, wife of Dr. D. C. McVicker, and Mr. Neal, who is on holiday.

As no business could be conducted without a quorum, at eight o'clock the architects were advised not to appear.

Official notices are now in the mail for a meeting to be held at 7:30 Thursday, July 14.

Funds for the addition are on hand. When the Board of Education dissolved this spring after the conclusion of its final duty of clearing up all financial matters connected with that board, the surplus funds were turned over to the Town Council. At its next meeting the council decided to put these funds into a separate account drawing good interest, to be used only for education.

Chairman Spence has repeated his statement made the first of the year, that all members of the board should have only one object in view: to make the Deseronto Public School second to none. He now states that he believes that the additional rooms to relieve overcrowding, and to provide the much-needed opportunity class will be agreed upon by the board members.

Two Motions Forwarded to School Board

NAPANEE — The board set up to arbitrate the question of the levy for the various municipalities to pay toward the upkeep of the Napanee District Secondary School, passed two motions which were forwarded to the secretary - treasurer of the school board, Gordon MacGregor, and these have now been made public.

The first motion was to the effect "that we make no decision concerning the distribution of school costs among the municipalities, and that this matter be referred to the Ontario Municipal Board for a decision." The second motion stated "that we recommend that the county equalizing factor be used for the years 1967, '68, and '69."

Monday, Mr. MacGregor received a registered letter from the council of the Village of Newburgh, which is in Camden, registering a "strong objection to the decision of the arbitrators that the county equalizing factor be used for 1967, '68, and '69," and saying that they "wish that the matter be referred to the Ontario Municipal Board as laid down in the Secondary Schools and Boards of Education Act, section 35, subsection 10 stating that 'if any municipality files with the secretary of the board a written objection to the decision of the arbitrators, the school board shall refer the matter to the Ontario Municipal Boord whose decision shall be final,".

EQUALIZING FACTOR

The county equalizing factor was used at first, and Camden objected. The secretary-treasurer, chairman, and members of the finance committee visited Toronto for advice, and the Ontario Municipal Board directed them to use the Provincial equalizing factor. This was done, and Adolphustown Township objected and asked for arbitration. Now the whole thing has been tossed into the lap of the OMB again.

The Arbitration Board consisted of the treasurers or clerk - treasurers of each municipality in the Napanee and District Secondary School area. Since Deseronto is now part of this area, its clerk - treasurer and that of Hastings County formed part of the arbitration board. William A. Taylor clerk-treasurer of Bath was appointed chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Yvonne Wilson county treasurer of Lennox and Addington acted as secretary.

Police Officials Start Survey

NAPANEE — Two officials from the Ontario Police Commission arrived in Napanee, Monday, and the following morning began their survey of the town police department, and of its relationship with the police committee of the town council.

The council had requested the survey as a means of improving conditions here. Mayor Lorne Smart has repeatedly pointed out the fact that this is not an investigation, it is a survey. If conditions can be improved, the council and the six members of the police force want to know how to go about it. They are asking for expert advice.

The officials began separate interviews with Chief Harry Benn and the five members of his force Tuesday morning.

Around Town

NAPANEE — A series of minor mishaps has been reported in and near the town, but nothing of a serious nature. On Saturday Fred Daly, 13, was hurt diving into the Napanee River near the Centre Street Bridge. A passing motorist saw the commotion and drove the lad to the local hospital for treatment. Two stitches closed the cut in his head, and he was found to have a broken rib. He was kept in the hospital for observation.

Monday afternoon as he was returning home, Police Chief Harry Benn saw some youths grouped in front of the home of Miss Gertrude Metzler. He investigated and found that she had tripped over the garden hose and fallen. He called the ambulance and she was taken to the local hospital. It was suspected that her arm might be broken, but such is not the case. She is resting comfortably in hospital but will be discharged within a day or so.

The OPP report no serious accidents for two or three weeks. Two last Saturday, both one-car accidents, sent the drivers to hospital with minor injuries. In both cases the cars received approximately $600 damage. Mary Lois Londeau of Petawawa lost control of her car on Highway 41, and was taken to the Kingston General Hospital; and James Oliver Harper of Kingston was slightly injured when his car rolled over on a county road.

Eric Zatterburg of the Camden Road, injured some weeks ago when he fell from a scaffold, is reported still unconconscious in the Kingston General Hospital.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Billy Stapley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forde Stapley, who had been in Belleville Hospital for the past three weeks, was able to return home last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bridges and tiny daughter of Welland are spending some time with the former's mother, Mrs. Carl Bridges.

A pleasant afternoon was spent last Thursday, when about 50 children, young people and ladies in the community gathered at the home of Mrs. Carl Bridges. The younger ones took part in games and races while the older ones visited. Refreshments were served on the lawn.

Wife of Country Music Singer Gets Divorce

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Ferlin Husky, wife of the country music singer, won a divorce Tuesday on grounds of "cruel and inhuman treatment" and adultery.

Circuit Judge Benson Trimble also awarded Mrs. Husky, formerly of Vancouver and the singer's fifth wife, a houseful of furniture, $5,000, a Cadillac automobile and $150 to support the couple's nine - month - old daughter.

Husky denied having "improper associations" with another woman and complained that his wife, the former Eileen Patricia McGladery, was dissatisfied with their marriage even though he had "spared no expense" to provide her with luxuries.

It was the second divorce suit filed by the couple within a 12-month period. Husky first sued for divorce in 1965, but by mutual agreement the suit was dismissed. The daughter was born after the first suit was dismissed.

The couple was married in 1964, some nine months after Husky and his fourth wife were divorced.

BOWLING BAYSIDE BELLES

Mrs. Douglas Westfall was hostess recently to the members of her bowling team, the Bayside Belles, at the close of the bowling season. While bowling a fund was formed, as each member had to pay a fine if she did not score. With this money the members provided food for a get-together. Each member also contributed a game and a prize for the winner. One interesting feature of the party was the presentation of a locket to Mrs. Amnesley for baby Kimberly as she arrived during the bowling season. The members included Ruth Cooney, Eileen Veitch, Corinne La Bonte, Patricia Westfall. Rose Marie Morais and Vivian Haw were unable to be present.

Czech Diplomats Try to Bug U.S. State Department

SPYING DEVICE — Frank John Mrkva, 38, a State Department employee, holds an electronic listening device at a press conference in Washington. The State Department said two Communist Czechoslovakian diplomats tried to "bug" the Department with the device. They said the Czechs picked Mrkva for their espionage attempt. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Czechoslovakian diplomats attempted to have a listening device planted in key offices of the U.S. state department building, it was announced Wednesday.

It was the first time state department authorities could recall an announced discovery of a Communist eavesdropping attempt in their own headquarters although many secret listening devices have been uncovered in U.S. embassies in Communist capitals.

The attempted "bugging" was uncovered through the sleuthing of American double agent Frank J. Mrkva, who worked with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Czechs asked Mrkva at first to plant a tiny microphone transmitter in the office of the director of Eastern European affairs, but they aimed for bigger game later—including tuning in on the talks of Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

The result of Mrkva's four years of sleuthing: One Czech diplomat, Jiri Opatrny, a Czech attache here, has been ordered out of the country. A second, Zdenek Pisk, is being allowed to stay in the United States only because he now is with the Czech mission to the United States, which puts him in a different diplomatic category.

Mrkva, 38-year-old father of three, is getting an honor award and a spot promotion increasing his salary to $10,987 from $9,267 a year.

At a state department press conference Wednesday and in a later interview, Mrkva said it all began back in 1961 when he was a passport office employee whose duties included taking official passports to embassies around Washington for visas.

Mrkva's parents came from Czechoslovakia. He speaks Czech and still has relatives in the Iron Curtain country. Eventually, Pisk began inviting him to social functions at the embassy.

Mrkva was under standing instructions to report to his superiors if any of the embassies tried to cultivate him. He did so—and he and his wife went on to receptions at the Czech mission.

Pisk made the first open bid to enlist Mrkva as a spy during dinner at a Washington restaurant Nov. 30, 1961.

House Leader Bailed Out On Medicare Bill by P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson reversed ground on the government's medical care bill Wednesday to bail out his House leader, George McIlraith, from troubles with the opposition Conservative party, informants say.

They say an apparent "misunderstanding" with Michael Starr, the Conservative House leader, might have permanently damaged Mr. McIlraith's reputation with the Conservatives had the medical care bill been pushed forward to second reading—approval in principle.

Instead, Health Minister MacEachen told the Commons when it opened Wednesday the government would not insist on second reading as he had announced Tuesday night.

Informants say Mr. MacEachen based his Tuesday night announcement on a weekend meeting at Harrington Lake—the prime milster's summer residence—at which Mr. Pearson gave him the green light to take the bill to second reading before a summer recess. It is understood there were consul-

'Almost an Archaic Dungeon' Description of Kingston Prison

KINGSTON (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that Matthews Kerry Smith, 26, the Beatle bandit who killed a Toronto man during a 1964 bank holdup, died in his cell in Kingston Penitentiary June 13 as a result of a self-inflicted wound.

After testimony, Crown Attorney John E. Sampson of Frontenac County called the penitentiary "almost an archaic dungeon" and said the public should be alarmed at the survival of such an institution.

Mr. Sampson said that "under our law it is possible for a person with mental illness to be sent to penitentiary."

The five - man jury, after 20 minutes of deliberation, also ruled there was no negligence on the part of the penitentiary staff and that Smith had received adequate supervision.

Smith was serving a life term for the shooting death of Jack Blanc, a Toronto resident who tried to stop a bank robbery in suburban Toronto in July 1964. Smith was caught six months later. He was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged but the death sentence was commuted last Nov. 30.

Coroner Dr. W. Stuart Patterson told the jury an inquest is mandatory when anyone dies in a public institution.

"No one is on trial here," said Dr. Patterson. But it was especially important in the case of violent death that the jury determine when, where, how and by what means death came.

Douglas Chinnery, assistant deputy warden of Kingston Penitentiary, said Smith had acted always in a manner normal for a man serving a life sentence.

The prison doctor, William Amodeo, said he's seen Smith four times on the normal sick parade since Dec. 3. Once Smith had complained of headaches.

"His speech was rambling," the doctor testified, "and in fact I thought he was a case for mental treatment and reported that fact."

Dr. George Scott, prison psychiatrist, said he'd seen Smith in lengthy interviews and consulted other psychiatrists familiar with his case.

"The sum of my checks and the others, was that this man was close to schizophrenia," Dr. Scott said.

But, he said, he decided Smith could be handled within the penitentiary as a normal prisoner. One reason he didn't want to put him in the psychiatric wing was a lack of work activity.

Describing the morning Smith's body was found, Douglas Glenn, a correctional officer, said he passed by Smith's cell about 5:50 a.m. and saw "this bed with blood in it and no inmate."

He called for Alan S. Riley, prison hospital attendant, and Riley testified he found Smith lying in the corner of the cell near the toilet.

Negro Mobs Sweep Through Two Chicago Neighorhoods

CHICAGO (AP)—Mobs of Negro youths, throwing fire bombs and bricks, stampeded through two Chicago neighborhoods Wednesday night.

It was the second successive night of violence on Chicago's west side.

Here is the night's bloody scorecard:

—Twenty Negro youths were arrested and charged with arson, resisting arrest or disorderly conduct.

—Dozens more were seized by police but later released.

—More than a dozen policemen were hit by bricks, rocks and bottles but none suffered serious injuries.

—At least two neighborhood residents were hit by stray bullets and taken to hospital.

—Scores of other persons were treated for injuries or taken to hospital with wounds ranging from cuts to possible skull fractures.

Fire bombs started many blazes. Dozens of stores were looted. Broken glass from smashed shop windows littered sidewalks and streets.

For the second day in a row, a gushing fire hydrant set off street fighting along Roosevelt Road near the loop.

Police turned off the hydrant, which had been turned on illegally—although it is a summer tradition in Chicago to cool off with gushing fire hydrants. Temperatures were in the 80s. Tuesday's disturbance had started the same way.

The onlooking Negroes shouted "police brutality" and said police hit children with swinging nightsticks. Soon rocks and bottles began to crash in the police ranks.

Many of the rock throwers were adults and some were only 10 or 11 years old.

Helmeted police charged the ragged lines of rock throwers, firing warning shots into the air.

When darkness fell, fire bombs again began to arc down from rooftops and out of the alleys.

Firemen answering calls were pelted with rocks. At one point, three fire bombs burst in the middle of a group of fire-

Hospital Strike Deferred

MONTREAL (CP)—The deadline for a strike by non-medical workers in 139 Quebec hospitals was deferred today and meetings were held in an attempt to head off the walkout which would in effect cut down hospital service to emergencies only.

No specific new deadline was made public by the union. One report set the time as 5 p.m. EDT today.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Quebec Hospital Association said a meeting with government - appointed mediator Yves Pratte was under way.

The union was holding a separate meeting with no outside representatives.

Meanwhile, there was speculation—but no official word—that the provincial government would seek an injunction to prevent the strike if the talks col-

3.1 Per Cent of Labor Force Unemployed in Mid-June

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment at mid-June dropped to 230,000 from 247,000 in May and 257,000 in June of last year, it was reported today.

The unemployed rate was 3.1 per cent of the labor force, compared with 3.3 per cent a month earlier and 3.5 per cent in June, 1965. Adjusted to eliminate seasonal factors, the mid-June rate was 3.7 per cent.

Men and women found new employment in a broad industrial range, most notably service, construction and manufacturing industries. Employment in agriculture dropped slightly.

For unemployed persons 20 years of age and over, 50,000 jobs opened up in June. But this was largely offset with the entry of 33,000 teen-agers into the labor market as schools closed.

A joint report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the immigration department said total employment in June was 254,000 higher than in June a year ago.

Horror Orgy Recounted By Survivor

BULLETIN

CHICAGO (AP) — A man answering the description of one sought in connection with the massacre of eight nurses today was captured in downtown Chicago, police reported.

* * *

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight student nurses were butchered in their town house dormitory early today in what Coroner Andrew Toman called "the crime of the century."

They were killed methodically, one at a time, by a blonde man during a 2½-hour horror orgy.

Some were strangled, some shot and some knifed, police said.

One of the nine young women in the dormitory escaped after the killer's departure to tell the story to police.

Police pieced the story together thus:

About 12:30 a.m., a tall white man, about 25, came to the door of the house on Chicaago's far southeast side, one of three used as nurses' residences by South Chicago Hospital.

He asked one of the girls, who opened the door, for money, saying he was going to New Orleans. Pushing his way into the house, he drew a pistol and a knife.

Apparently the first student nurse was killed almost immediately. One body was found downstairs. The victim had been stabbed.

Upstairs, most of the other residents had retired for the night in three bedrooms. They were all young, seven white and one Negro. A Filipino nurse escaped.

Sgt. Thomas Bingham of the South Chicago police district said that the killer penned the eight girls upstairs in one of the bedrooms, then led them, one by one, to another bedroom where they were killed during his deliberate, vicious orgy.

Lieut. Francis Clanagah, chief of the detective bureau homicide section, said that the Filipino girl survived by hiding.

The slayer left the dormitory about 3 a.m. At nearly 6, the surviving student nurse ran to the street and stopped a passing police patrol car. She gasped her story to the unbelieving policemen who quickly verified it.

An official of the hospital said that the victims were exchange student nurses between 18 and 26 years of age.

The survivor, Amarao Crozono, told Police Capt. Harold McCoy she avoided the killer by hiding under a bed.

Miss Crozono, half hysterical, could only be questioned briefly, McCoy said. She gave a general description of the killer, noting his blonde hair, height about six feet one, and weight about 170 pounds. She said he was wearing a short, wasist-length jacket.

An FBI official said that the crime was the worst in Chicago annals. Veteran policemen were shocked, they said, by the enormous quantity of blood around the bodies of the victims.

Three of the victims were found in each of the two bed-

Summer Recess Tonight

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons is expected to adjourn tonight for a summer recess.

Only one item stands in the way as the House moves towards a wrap-up. The last item to be dealt with is a bill that has its origin in last month's longshoremen's strike in Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres.

It would require labor and management to accept the results of a study by a government appointee of automation procedures on the docks, a major point of dispute during the strike.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler air which moved into southern Ontario late Wednesday has come to a halt just below the lower Great Lakes. An extensive band of cloud has formed in a broad zone where the cool air mass has come into contact with the steaming hot air over the U.S. In most sections the cloud is not expected to be dense enough to obscure the sun completely but in southwestern Ontario showers and thundershowers which now have moved into Michigan will likely put in in appearance.

..Fair but cool weather will continue around the upper lakes.

Two Supersonic MiGs Downed By Sidewinders of Phantoms

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. jet fighters blasted two MiG 21s out of the skies over North Viet Nam within three minutes today after downing a slower MiG 17 Wednesday.

All three MiGs were brought down by Sidewinder missiles.

As U.S. Air Force F-4C Phantoms were blasting the MiG 21s, North Viet Nam's fastest jet fighter, giant U.S. B-52 bombers pounded an area just south of the 17th parallel frontier where an estimated 5,000 were believed to be massing.

In the dogfight Wednesday four navy Phantoms battled off six slower MiG 17s which challenged them as the Americans were providing a protective shield for U.S. planes bombing the Co Trai railway and highway bridges 23 miles southeast of Hanoi.

The other five MiGs fled, and the four Phantoms returned undamaged.

The three kills brought to 17 the total number of MiGs downed by U.S. pilots over North Viet Nam. Another is listed as a probable kill. Three MiG 21s have been reported shot down.

The air force made no mention of any U.S. losses in the latest encounter with the MiG 21s, the best fighters ever supplied abroad by the Soviet Union. They can fly at twice the speed of sound and are equipped with missiles, and the North Vietnamese were thought to have about a dozen in their air force of about 85 planes.

MAKES LAST RUN — Locomotive Engineer Elmer Kingsbury, R. R. 2, Ameliasburg, made his last run, on the Lakeshore Express, yesterday. A large group of friends was on hand at the CN station to wish him well.

Elmer Kingsbury Makes Last Run on Wednesday

A large crowd of railroaders and their families gathered at the CN station here yesterday about noon. Many were armed with cameras but they were all standing at the far end of the platform and not in the passenger unloading area.

The reason for the congregation became evident as Train 50, the Lakeshore Express, approached the station. Movie cameras whirred away capturing a CN diesel locomotive bearing a sign proclaiming that this was engineer Elmer Kingsbury's last run after 38 years of service.

Friends crowded around Mr. Kingsbury as he climbed down from his cab for the last time. A few cars behind was the private carriage of S. F. Dingle, CN System Vice-President, but Mr. Dingle was up front with the engineer. Rideau Area General Manager H. J. Fast was also on hand to wish Mr. Kingsbury well.

A 1928 model car was waiting to whisk Mr. Kingsbury along the station platform. Both he and the car had been in service for 38 years but the ravages of time had affected neither to any extent.

Mr. Kingsbury is married and resides in R.R. 2, Ameliasburg. He has lived in this area since joing the CN n 1928.

Stratford Opera Company's 'Don Giovanni' Impresses

STRATFORD — This year's music festival at Stratford opened last Friday night with a performance of Mozart's masterpiece, "Don Giovanni," and almost at once ran into trouble, not from the critics, but from nature. Irene Salemka, playing the leading role of Donna Elvira sang with a throat infection and by the following night had to turn the part over to her understudy, Carrol Anne Curry. At the third performance, yesterday afternoon, Miss Curry again took the role with assurance and competence, although her voice does not yet have the fullness and strength to match, for example, that of Sylvia Saurette, playing Donna Anna. However, her success, at short notice, so near to the start of the opera's run, has given great pleasure to many of the Stratford habitues, since it is a genuine example of the "Local Girl Makes Good" story. Carol Anne comes from Hamilton, is the daughter-in-law of one of the Festival's staunchest supporters, and lives with her husband in Kitchener.

FINE PRODUCTION

This incident aside, Director Jean Gascon and Musical Director Mario Bernardi have given us a magnificent production of this popular work. The singing is full--bodied and sure, in spite of the ever-present problem of English translations. Cornelis Opthof makes a superb Don Giovanni, both visually and vocally, and is ably abetted by Jan Rubes as his servant, Leporello. The role of Donna Anna is perhaps somewhat uninspiring in comparison with the others, but Miss Saurette plays it with a commanding authority, which suggests that when he finally marries her, Don Ottavio (Jerold Siena) will probably not have things his own way. Howard Glynne makes far too brief an appearance as the Commendatore, Anna's father, but gives a fine portrayal of the avenging statue, which finally drives the villainous Don Giovanni to his doom. Masetto and Zerlina, the peasant couple whose intended marriage nearly founders as a result of Don Giovanni's dishonest intentions towards the latter, are pleasantly played by Maurice Brown and Gwenlynn Little, both veterans of the Stratford Opera Company.

Musical highlights in the performonce include the delightful duet between Zerlina and Giovanni, Ottavio's solo as he declares his love for Anna in Act 1, and Anna's sorrowful rejection of his pleas in Act II.

COMPANY IMPROVES

The direction is forceful and imaginative. Each year we see the opera company improving as actors, one of the excellent results of the closer and closer integration of the two Stratford companies. On the more technical side, the management and make-up of the statue, always a problem in this work, have been superbly handled, and Don Giovanni's descent into hell is highly spectacular without becoming melodramatic. The costume designs of Robert Prevost, however, did not strike one as very imaginative, and the insistence on sepia as the foundation of most of the settings left an impression of old-fashioned photography. On the other hand, the orchestra performed with accuracy under Mr. Bernardi's direction, although it seemed rather pointless to drag four of them on - stage for a very short portion of the ballroom scene.

The Musical Festival continues with further performances of the opera, Saturday and Sunday concerts, and, in the middle of August, performances by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet of a new Canadian work entitled Rose Latulippe.

Hospital

lapsed There is provision for such action under the Quebec Labor Code for strikes involving what are considered as essential services.

MEETINGS WILL DECIDE

The strike was originally scheduled to start at midnight Wednesday. The deadline was deferred to 7 a.m. and again postponed, the new deadline apparently contingent on the progress of meetings.

Overnight talks were held. It was reported Mr. Pratte was given a briefing by Emile Dalpe of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, to which the hospital workers' union, the National Federation of Services, is affiliated.

There was some fear that word of the strike deferment would not reach employees in time. However, there were no early reports of workers not turning up at the hospitals.

Mr. Pratte, a government legal counsel, was appointed mediator Wednesday and Premier Daniel Johnson said he was going to Montreal "with monetary offers in his pocket."

In dispute were the classification and ways of measuring the competence of workers. The union also wanted an $8-a-week wage increase in a one-year contract, while the hospitals were offering, at last report, between $4.60 and $6.60 in a one-year contract.

Highway 401 Map Is Issued

Release of the department's 1966 edition of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway (Hwy. 401) strip map is announced by Highways Minister Charles S. MacNaughton.

The distinctive feature of the 1966 production is that the format has been radically changed so that the folder opens like a book. Besides being easier to use in this form, it should prove more durable.

As in previous editions, all interchange numbers between Windsor and the Quebec border are plotted along the route. In addition, there is a chronological listing of all interchanges now in service from west to east, showing the communities which may be conveniently reached via the interchange.

Other features of the map folder are a section devoted to 13 vacation areas adjacent to the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, with descriptive material on each, and another headed "Driving Tips", expressly directed to motorists using this and other Ontario freeways.

Among the various aids of interest to motorists shown by symbols are the 15 service centres now in operation, there being eight west of Toronto and seven east of that city.

The new map may be obtained free of charge from the Department of Highways, Ontario (Downsview P.O.), or at any of the service centres on either the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway or Highway 400; at all tourist reception centres of the Department of Tourism and Information serving points of entry in all parts of Southern Ontario or from that department's Head Office, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Miniature Pigs Are Providing Valuable Aid to Research

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new breed of miniature pigs is providing valuable aid to radiation and other research affecting man, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported Wednesday.

The pigs, similar to man in many physiological ways, are even being used in an effort to develop new and improved dental braces for humans.

Developed by the AEC's Hanford Laboratories at Richland, Wash. — and named "Hanford miniatures" — the pigs never grow heftier than 160 to 180 pounds, the eight of an average man.

This compares with weights of 600 pounds or more for the usual run-of-the-pigpen hog. Thus, the smaller models are ideal animals for various kinds of medical research, the AEC contends.

A new booklet by the AEC which tells about the pigs describes various other non-nuclear, technological advances resulting from basic atomic research and development during the last 20 years.

The AEC said fundamental atomic research—originally devoted exclusively to fabricating bigger and more powerful weapons — has provided indirect bonuses to man in such fields as:

Improved color television reception; better water purification and steam pollution control; new well-drilling techniques, and even the development of the modern electronic computer.

Describing the pig development, the AEC said:

"One interesting thing about pigs is that they ars similar in many ways to man. Because they eat almost anything, as man does, their gastro-intestinal tracts are about the same as man's. So is their dental structure. . . ."

Also, there are great similarities in bone and body, as well as in the skin department.

The trouble in the past has been that pigs eventually get too big—far beyond the weight of an average man.

So, five years ago, scientists at Hanford—now known as the Pacific Northwest Laboratory—set out to develop a breed of pigs that would reach—and stay at—the average man size.

The trick was started by crossing a palouse sow with a light-colored Pitman - Moore boar—and a breeding herd of more than 100 now has been developed. But the demand for them by research institutions "is threatening to get out of hand," the AEC added.

Iron Ore Workers End Strike

SCHEFFERVILLE, Que. (CP) — Some 1,900 iron ore workers have ended their strike but another 1,900 are still off the job in this strike-plagued area.

The nine-day strike of 700 employees at Schefferville in remote northeastern Quebec and 1,200 at Labrador City, all against the Iron Ore Co. of Canada, ended Wednesday. Union spokesman described the resulting contract as a "victory" for their forces.

Still out are 400 members of the International Association of Machinists (CLC), who on July 6 began a strike against the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railways Co.

Railway traffic in this remote area, which has the Quebec North Shore as its only railroad, is reported at a standstill.

Union leaders say it will stay that way until the company reconsiders its position on working hours, a big issue in the current dispute.

A total of 1,500 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) at Gagnon and Port Cartier were continuing their strike against the Quebec Cartier Mining Co.

QUIT JULY 4

The men walked off the job July 4 to back demands for an increase of 35 cents in their hourly wages and other benefits, as part of a three-year contract.

They now earn $2.84 to $2.91 an hour. Their previous contract expired in October.

The railway workers walked out July 6 to support demands for a reduction of their work week to 40 from 48 hours with no loss of pay.

The railway is a subsidiary of the Iron Ore Co. There, the 1,900 men involved in the now-ended strike also are members of the Steelworkers Union.

Their strike brought them a new three-year contract providing for eight-cent increases in their hourly wage rates every year for the contract period.

Also won by the employees were new housing and insurance benefits and arrangements for extra vacation periods, as well as compensation for living in this remote area.

SAYS GAIN 62 CENTS

The whole package was said by one union official to constitute a total gain of 62 cents an hour.

The employees originally walked out to protest what they called delays in the contract negotiations.

In addition to an annual vacation of 33 days after four years of service, the employees will receive five weeks of extra vacation in every fifth year. This "supplementary vacation" will be lengthened after a stipulated period of extra service.

The first of the eight-cent pay increases will be retroactive to Oct. 23, 1965, when the last contract expired.

The basic salary for laborers will be $2.60 an hour and that of skilled men $3.65, as of Oct. 23, 1967.

Sick pay is to rise to $75.25 a week from previous $50.75, with the company the sole contributor rather than the cost being shared 50-50 as under the old arrangement.

PAYMENTS RISE

Annual life insurance payments to beneficiaries will be $8,999 instead of the $4,999 under the old contract, with the company paying all the premiums instead of sharing equally with the men as in the past.

A union spokesman said the question of pensions was not considered crucial during the negotiations because many of the employees are still young. But a new pensions scheme is to come into effect at the end of the new contract period.

"Isolation bonuses" will be paid to the men under the new contract.

U.S. Hot Belt Gets Only Temporary Heat Relief

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Storms hit scattered sections of the United States heat belt Wednesday night but brought only temporary relief from the hot, humid weather across the eastern two-thirds of the country.

The death toll from the heat wave—now three weeks old in some areas—was at least 106. Scores of persons have been treated in hospitals for heat exhaustion and the continued hot and muggy weather has made millions of persons miserable.

Heat - related deaths in St. Louis and in two Illinois counties across the Mississippi River from the city totalled 87, including 54 in St. Louis.

New York City's health department reported 17 deaths last week directly attributed to heat stroke. Deaths for the week totalled 2,250—650 above normal.

The mercury soared to 106 degrees in St. Louis Wednesday, the fifth straight day of temperatures above 100.

Readings also reached 100 degrees or higher in parts of 21 states. The 101 at New York City was a record for July 13, eight degrees higher than the mark set in 1954. Philadelphia's 97 also was a high for the date.

UNLIKELY TO COOL

There appeared little indication of any general cooling, with sunny weather forecast again for most of the U.S. However, afternoon showers were expected in the Gulf of Mexico and southeast states, from the rockies to the high plains, and in the upper Mississippi Valley.

Past Manager Of Ball Team Takes Own Life

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Pollock, 51, former general manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf baseball club, died at his home Wednesday of a gunshot wound.

Police said he took his own life.

His wife and 16-year-old son had fled the house following a domestic dispute, police said. Officers surrounded the house when advised that Pollock was armed and heard a shot as they moved in.

Mr. Pollock was general manager of the International League baseball team until the end of the 1964 season.

He had operated an electric appliance business here for many years and had been in the discount appliance business at St. Catharines.

Many Pleasure Craft Damaged In Collision

MONTREAL (CP) — A collision between two large ships Wednesday during a blinding rainstorm on the St. Lawrence River off Longue Pointe, at the eastern tip of Montreal Island, played havoc with small pleasure craft anchored at a nearby boating club.

Following the collision between the Gloxenia, a 7,665-ton British freighter, and the Frankcliffe Hall, a 20,000-ton laker owned by Hall Corp. of Canada, one of the ships swung into the anchorage of the Fontaine Boating Club where hundreds of pleasure craft lay at rest.

No injuries were reported but as many as six or seven private boats were crushed or sank.

Preliminary reports indicated damage was severe to both ships but damage to the British vessel was later reported as slight. No damage report on the Frankcliffe Hall was available.

The Gloxenia had just left anchorage and was on her way upstream to enter the St. Lawrence Seaway when the sudden rainstorm began, reducing visibility to zero.

She had just got under way when the 20,000-ton Frankcliffe Hall, also heading for the seaway, appeared.

SOON GOT FREE

It was not known exactly how the collision occurred, but it left the stern of the Frankcliffe Hall embedded in the Gloxenia. Shortly after the collision, the ships managed to free themselves.

The collision was the first major one on the St. Lawrence River this year. However, it was the third collision in the St. Lawrence River involving Hall ships in less than two years.

The Lawrencecliffe Hall, a brand new sister ship to the Frankcliffe Hall, was involved in a collision below Quebec late last year. She was grounded on Ile d'Orleans and sank.

She was refloating this spring following an unprecedented winter salvage operation and is expected to be back in service soon.

On Sept. 5, 1964, the ore carrier Leecliffe Hall sank after colliding with the Greek freighter Apollonia during a heavy fog east of Ile-aux-Coudres, below Quebec City. Three seamen were drowned.

Rain Needed To Strengthen Pea, Corn Crops

TRENTON — It may not be too late for some factory groweds to benefit from much needed rain.

In the meantime many district farmers have been hard hit by the continuing dry spell. In particular those growers of peas for the processors.

Also a serious problem confronts local workers who depend on annual employment during the pea harvest. They have to be content with a cutback in the local plant operation due to a very poor yield this year.

Byron Harder, the manager for the local Stokely VanCamp plant observes that the drought is causing widespread concern and can be blamed for the factory running off and on just when the peas are ready for processing. "While the pea crop is disappointing the corn looks very good but is badly in need of rain," he said.

Tons of Rubble Dumped In Pickerel Spawn Beds Below Dam at Trenton

TRENTON — Dumping of 750 tons of concrete rubble in the pickerel spawning grounds below No. 1 dam has prompted severe criticism from the large membership of the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Association. The association has called for support from Northumberland M. P. George Hees and the Ontario Water Resources Commission. A complaint was registered with the Department of Lands and Forests.

Conservationists fear that the prolific spawning grounds will be ruined unless government agencies stop disposal of the cement debris in the river in front of the spillways. Burprom Ltd., marine contractors of Belleville have the contract with the Department of Transport to remove the deck from the top of the dam and replace it with re-enforced slabs.

The federal agency approved the method of getting rid of the waste according to a principal of the contracting firm.

According to an executive of the sportsmen's association the OWRC has already expressed concern and is sending a man down to the damsite to investigate. Lands and Forest apparently recognized the seriousness of the complaint and had an officer on the scene gathering information for a report. The Department of Transport has looked into the matter since it was brought to the attention of authorities.

FILLING UP SPAWN BED

The chief complaint of the conservationists is that the great quantities of rubble being dropped from the top of the dam are filling up the holes in the bottom of the river where the pickerel lay their eggs.

Over the years the pickerel grounds below No. 1 dam at Trenton have become famous attracting hundreds of United States fishermen with their tourist dollars to the district annually.

Mia Farrow Engaged to Frank Sinatra

NEW YORK (AP)—It's official: Frank Sinatra and Mia Farrow are engaged and they'll be wed sometime between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The engagement was announced Wednesday by the mother of the bride-to-be, actress Maureen O'Sullivan.

Sinatra, 50, was causing teenage girls to swoon as he sang with the bands of Harry James and Tommy Dorsey some years before his 21-year-old bride was born. He has a son and a daughter older than Miss Farrow.

Mia, who has been seeing Sinatra for two years, has said, "I feel more at ease with Frank than with any boy my own age."

Neither Sinatra nor Miss Farrow had any public comment on the engagement Wednesday. He is in London, making the movie The Naked Runner. She is in New York and will return soon to Hollywood and her starring role in television's Peyton Place, her mother said.

Before Sinatra left for London, he gave the blue-eyed, blonde Miss Farrow an engagement ring with a nine-carat diamond. She described it as a "friendship ring" when reporters first spotted it recently.

Sinatra has been married twice. His first wife was Nancy Barbato Sinatra mother of all three Sinatra children.

Frank Jr., 22, sings in night clubs and with bands. Nancy Sinatra, 26, also sings.

Sinatra's first marriage ended in 1951, when he wed actress Ava Gardner. They were divorced in 1957.

Miss Farrow has not been married.

Sinatra, who has branched into varied entertainment activities, is estimated to gross $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year from his enterprises.

Air Safety

The Financial Post of Toronto has published a remarkable map illustrating the growth of air traffic across the Atlantic during the peak summer period.

Prepared by the air trafic control division of the Department of Transport, the map shows the busy western North Atlantic jet airways as they appeared at 9.30 p.m. E.S.T. on June 17. At that moment no fewer than 70 jets were winging their way toward Europe. A handful was approaching this continent, making a total of about 75 jets within Canadian air traffic control space at that time.

It is no wonder the air lines are booked out these days. However, the real point of the map was to illustrate the controversy that has been going on between the airline pilots, government officials and airline managements over the degree of safety involved in this increase in traffic.

The crux of the argument is a proposal to reduce the width of the airways from 120 to 90 miles, in order to accommodate the increase in traffic. The pilot organizations oppose this because of the risk of collision through navigational error.

For the time being the pilots seem to have argued their case successfully. On the other hand, airline managements and the international governing body insist there is no excuse for navigational error.

Ultimately, the gap in the airways will likely become narrower, for reasons of economics alone. As near as possible an aircraft should take the fastest route available, allowing for weather conditions and other aircraft.

At the same time air traffic control must remain supreme. They are the traffic marshals of the air and they carry a heavy burden of responsibility, particularly at airports where planes are landing and taking off every few minutes. In the ultimate, their word is law.

Summer Sun

While Canadians grumble that summers are too short, and in recent years pale images of what they are supposed to be, most of us have had enough of the current heatwave.

Baking in the downtown area, and unable to sleep at night, we now appreciate as never before why Canadians who try to settle in Hawaii and other sunny climates quickly tire of the year-round heat and return to the land where variety is the spice of life.

An example is a former Hamilton man who went to Tucson, Arizona, some years ago, on account of his daughter's health. Now that his daughter is married he has returned to Hamilton (he made the 2,500 miles journey in eight days in a vintage car) to find a job and home for his wife and himself.

But to get back to those baking pavements and sleepless nights in Belleville, about the only refuge these days is at the beach, and fortunate are the folks who are now vacationing at the various swimming spots in this area or elsewhere.

This brings us to the question of water safety, a factor which cannot be emphasized too often. And here we pass on a tip from District Forester N. D. Patrick of Tweed.

In Ontario's provincial parks, says Mr. Patrick, "the buddy system" of swimming is being encouraged. This technique is an extension of the safety practice of never swimming alone. Beach patrol officers cannot be everywhere and swimming in pairs or small groups helps to overcome any deficiencies in supervision.

By following these precautions summers can be enjoyed to the maximum. It may also be mentioned in passing that care should be taken not to run the risk of sunstroke by prolonged exposure to the rays.

World-Wide

To read The War Cry, journal of the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, is to be reminded once again of the extraordinary scope of the Army's work in many parts of the world.

In the current issue is a picture of five Canadians at the Army's secondary school at Chikankata, Zambia. They include Dr. G. Anglin, who is vice-chancellor of the University of Zambia, and Miss Mary Stewart of the Canadian University Service Overseas.

On the same page is an article by Mrs. Gerald Leonard on the activities of the Army's high school at Batala in the Punjab region of India. Mrs. Leonard's husband, principal of the school, is shown with one of the students.

Appointments of territorial commanders in the Congo, Equatorial Africa, Western India and Denmark are further indications of the Army's wide-ranging operations in the educational, missionary and medical fields.

Salvation Army personnel range far and wide, even within Canada itself. For example, Captain and Mrs. Purl Gee of Picton came to Prince Edward County recently from the Indian Village of Glen Vowell, 800 miles north of Vancouver.

Strictly Personal

Tentative Views Are Best

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

The best reason for offering our opinions tentatively, rather than dogmatically, is that we then remain free to be able to change them without losing face; for most stubbornness in argument springs out of vanity rather than conviction.

A teacher is someone employed by the community to prove to their children that being educated doesn't pay very much.

People who like us too quickly don't usually become our fast friends — for when they are disenchanted, they blame it on our faults rather than on their impetuosity.

Which recalls Balzac's observation on a related subject: "We can start with aversion and end with love, but if we begin with love and come around to aversion, we will never get back to love."

People laugh at the fact that geniuses like Einstein tend to be terribly absent-minded; but how could a man with a tremendously retentive memory be an original thinker?

Speaking of geniuses, the men who make the most significant advances are those whose glittering self-confidence is mottled with self-distrust, so that they are neither frustrated by their failures nor infatuated by their seeming successes.

When one begins to resent criticism, it is good to pause for a moment and reflect upon our many faults which have escaped reprimand over the years; we will find that the balance is heavily in our favor.

All the early books were written by men, so they all give men the best of it; even St. Paul could only grudgingly admit that women might equally be the children of God, and virtually every church, even today, implicity considers women as somewhat inferior creatures. (Sexual discrimination, in fact, is older and more universal than racial or religious discrimination — and just as wickedly foolish.)

We are just beginning to learn in our foreign - aid program what Bruyere wisely pointed out three centuries ago: "Liberality consists rather in giving reasonably than much."

Parkinson ought to add one more law to his admirable canon: in absolute inverse ration, the narrower the mind, the broader the generalization.

There is surprisingly little difference between the conversation of mistresses about their maids, and of maids about their mistresses — each sees only the foibles and contradictions in the other, and neither grasps the other's problems, even though they share them day by day — for each is applying an irrelevant set of values to the other.

Jet Traffic Controversy

Clive Baxter in The Financial Post

OTTAWA — TransAtlantic air passengers and their families in recent months have undergone the thoroughly alarming experience of watching the airline pilots, government officials and airline managements indulging in a public dispute over safety.

On the surface, the pilots seem to have won the first round because they have forced the air traffic control authorities in Canada and Britain to abandon their program of reducing the separation between airliners over the Atlantic to 90 miles and revert instead to the 120-mile rule.

But it isn't that simple, and the battle is far from over. It promises to rage for some time to come, with increasing urgency as the number of trans-Atlantic flights increases.

Basically the problem is this: Wind and weather conditions dictate an optimum track and height at which to cross the Atlantic at any given time. To get the fastest, smoothest and most economical crossing every aircraft should take it. As all airlines receive the same weather information their flight planners are bound to come to similar conclusions as to which route is best.

Passenger preferences and local anti-noise regulations dictate a relatively limited number of departure times in either direction. It works out that all but a handful of eastbound flights leave in the evening and arrive early in the next morning. Westbound flights usually leave in the early afternoon arriving — because of the time differential — in the middle or late afternoon.

As nearly everyone is going at roughly the same time, clearly not all the flights can get the optimum height and track. The air traffic controllers have to allocate other, less desirable routes to maintain safe margins of separation.

The difference between the optimum flight path and the one allocated by air traffic control can mean increased fuel costs of as much as $2,000. As Air Canada, to take an example, is diverted off its desired optimum track 85% of the time during the summer rush, it begins to add up to a fairly serious problem.

In the peak traffic hours there are always three, frequently four, tracks across the Atlantic that have been set up by the controllers. If these are 120 miles apart, the two centre ones are usually 60 miles north and south of the optimum track. The two outer ones are each 180 miles off the optimum, where winds and weather can be very different.

If the gap could be closed to 90 miles between tracks, for the time being everyone would be closer to the optimum and — soon — when a fifth and perhaps sixth track is needed, they would at least be somewhere near the desirable route. The growth of air traffic makes this requirement a near certainty with the next two or three years.

Thus economics and, in the longer run, the sheer need to find enough usable air space, clearly dictate a gradual closing of the separation distances if — and this is the whole crux of the matter — it can be done safely.

It is over this vital question that the disagreement rages. The passenger can look on only with apprehension wondering whom to believe.

Commodore Matthew C. Perry landed 300 bluejackets at Tokyo 113 years ago today—in 1853—and forced the "opening" of Japan to Western powers. Motives of commercial advantage lay behind the expedition: Japan was important to the U.S. since it lay athwart the great circle route to China and because U.S. whalers who fished the North Pacific needed sources of shelter and supplies. Although the Japanese had known of Perry's coming in advance, they were unable to prepare defences against his fleet. Within a year, a treaty was signed giving the U.S. trading and diplomatic advantages in Japan.

For there the Little Woman has more muscle even than the Prime Minister.

Any Prime Minister, that is, L. B. Pearson, John Diefenbaker, Louis St. Laurent, even, believe it or not — and many won't — Mackenzie King.

Weeks ago, Prime Minister Pearson extended the carrot of what he called a "reasonably early summer adjournment" to impatient Parliamentarians slowly simmering in the high humidity of the Capital's own steam-bath style June.

All they had to do, he promised, tantalizing them, was to get on with the public business and Parliament could recess in time for them to celebrate Dominion Day back home.

This was quite a switch from the tough technique former Prime Minister Diefenbaker used to employ.

He favored the stick instead of the carrot.

Rather than coax the House to do its work, he would order it done.

HOUSE IS HOME

Dief's was the attitude that there was a certain set amount of work to be done and the House, like it or not, would have to stay with it until it was all nearly wrapped up and delivered for Royal Assent.

There remains the suspicion that as the "Child of Parliament" he considers himself, the House to Dief was actually Home.

And he didn't care if Parliament worked most of the summer — which it frequently did when he was ruling the Hill roost — in fact, he seemed to prefer it that way.

Mr. Pearson was a mite more flexible.

Not everything had to be tidied up.

Certain odds and ends could be left for the fall session.

And so, if every honorable member kept his nose well and truly to the legislative grindstone, Parliament and grade school could get out at the same end-of-June time for the summer holidays.

Well, it didn't work out that way.

Because both prime ministers were kidding themselves.

The carrot doesn't work any better than the stick.

As a matter of recorded fact, nothing any prime minister does about it really works.

For no PM, be he a tough and demanding Dief, or a more relaxed and easier-going Pearson, wields power over an MP as does an irriatted and impatient wife and a houseful of restless kids panting to go on holidays.

Who says so?

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, veteran of the Commons who has been around longer than any other MP, says so.

A YOUNG HOUSE

And on the basis of his 31 years of watching, listening and sizing up Parliamentarians and their ways, "Oom Paul" ought to know.

Back in those long Diefenbaker sessions when the House sweated and swore its weary way deep into summer, it was the parliamentary wife and not the heat and humidity of the Hill in late July and August, nor all the threats and promises of prime ministers, nor the desperate pleas of house leaders who decided, finally, when enough was enough.

It got down, at last, to the crunch were, if Bill Bailey, MP, didn't come home — well, soon there might not be a home to come to.

If it was true then — and it was — it's even truer now.

For this is a young House, with more young fathers with more school-age kids than in any previous Parliament.

And more wives fretting with impatience to get out to the cottage — or anywhere just so long as it's away.

So Parliament recesses for the summer, not when it suits the Prime Minister, even the leaders of the opposition parties, nor yet the party floor bosses in the Commons.

It recesses, as it always has, when MP husbands can't stand the nagging from home any longer, can't face the begging kids — and can't take another dreary day of dull debate.

Even tough old Mackenzie King knew that, says Paul Martin, and Macking was a hard-nosed bachelor.

Can Have Heart Attack Without Knowing It

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as a silent heart attack? What are the symptoms, and is the treatment the same as in other heart attacks? — M.S.S.

• • •

There can be a heart attack with no symptoms of which the patient is aware.

In actual practice when such a heart attack is discovered later (usually by means of an electrocardiogram) careful questioning by the doctor can often elicit a history of some type of discomfort.

This may have been passed off by the patient as indigestion or muscle strain or any of a variety of other explanations.

The discomfort may, indeed, have been so mild that the patient disregarded it or actually forgot about it.

Thus these are not really "silent" heart attacks, but have been mistaken for something else.

I wouldn't say that treatment would be the same as in other heart attacks. They simply are not discovered at the same time and that makes a lot of difference.

When a heart attack is severe enough to be instantly recognized, the immediate and vital measure is bed rest, to relieve the damaged heart of strain until it begins to recover.

With discovery of a "silent" heart attack, the patient already has passed that stage. Doubtless he would have been better off if he had rested, but he didn't and he survived anyway.

Thus treatment for a "silent" heart attack would correspond to that which might be suitable later on for a recognized attack.

It would depend on the evidence of change or damage in the heart muscle, evaluation of such reserve strength as the heart may haveretained or regained, and other factors. In short, no treatment may be required — or, if the residual damage is considerable and the heart has little reserve, considerable treatment may be required.

This might involve medication. It might, if the patient is subjected to more strenuous work than he can tolerate, require changes in his work or living habits to reduce strain. Or, finally, it might consist chiefly of periodic examination to see how the heart is behaving, and if further difficulty develops, to detect it at once.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a boy, 17 and about 5 feet • inches tall. Both of my parents are short. I have heard about a drug to help dwarfs grow. Could I use it to gain height? This is no joke. To me it is very important. — F. P.

At 17 you still have time to do some more growing. I doubt very much that you are in any sense a dwarf — it's just that your heredity decrees that you aren't meant to be tall. Growth hormone is available only in limited quantities, and in any event it could be used only on the advice of an endocrinologist. I doubt in a case like yours that it would warrant the cost. Don't forget that some of the most brilliant men in history haven't been very tall.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that if one is operated on for hiatal hernia the surgeon has to remove part of the ribs? — H. M.

Not necessarily by any means. Although many people have this trouble, only a small percentage require surgery since the seriousness varies immensely from case to case. So also does the method of surgery. If the approach is through the chest wall, one rib may be removed. If the approach is through the upper abdomen, the ribs are not involved.

Lord Provost of Glasgow Visiting Friends in City

The Lord Provost of Glasgow, Scotland, is a long way from home. As a matter of fact, he's in Belleville today.

The Right Honorable John Johnston and his wife, arrived in Belleville around noon along with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John McGuckin of Toronto.

The party was greeted at City Hall by Mayor Jack Ellis and Mrs. Ellis, and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Davidson. Lord Provost Johnston signed the official city guest book.

The distinguished visitor came to Belleville to see the city and visit Mr. Davidson, plant manager, Northern Electric. When Mr. Davidson was in Scotland a few months ago, he had occasion to meet the Lord Provost. In conversation with the Lord Provost, Mr. Davidson learned he was coming to Canada to visit his daughter, and through Mayor Jack Ellis, arrangements were made for him to visit Belleville today.

This is his first trip to Canada. He arrived July 5 and is staying until July 25.

"The first thing that struck me when I arrived in Toronto," he said, "was the tremendous road development there. There must be a fairly hefty budget for roads.

"The only thing I can think of that compares with it is the road system in Germany. Going by what I have seen so far, I can see that in Scotland we are just getting started on a road system."

He said the heat was not unbearable here, but of the humidity said, "It's just liveable."

VISITED IN BRANTFORD

Lord Provost Johnston said he was in Brantford Saturday as a guest to open the Highland Games there. "I was really moved by tthe reception we got there. I was amazed by the number of Scots, and particularly Glaswegians, in that area. I spent most of the afternoon signing autographs."

Mayor Ellis assured him there are many Scots in this area as well. He said they had thought of greeting him with bagpipers and other ceremonies but had decided that since he was on a vacation he might appreciate a quieter reception.

The Lord Provost said he was very well looked after by the Bank of Nova Scotia. "I can't stress that enough." He also commended the Municipal Research Board in Toronto for allowing him the opportunity to meet many of Toronto's leading citizens, including a visit with Mayor Phillip Givens.

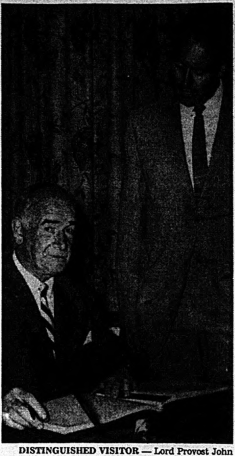
The Lord Provost, or Mayor as the position is known in Canada, is a full - time job in Glasgow. I'm just starting my three - year term as Lord Provost," he explained. "My predecessor died part way through his term and I was elected to complete his term of office which ended last May."

He said that elections for councillors are held every year in Glasgow and the party system is used there even on the municipal level. He explained that Glasgow is divided into 37 voting districts or wards and that each ward has three representatives One-third of the council retires each year and elections are held to fill those posts. He said that Lord Provost is then chosen by the elected persons rather than by a city - wide vote of the citizens.

THEN THEY ATE

The Lord Provost and his party are guests of Mayor and Mrs. Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Davidson for the day. They were taken to lunch at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel where they were served a dinner of glazed Canadian Arctic char, oysters in Madeira aspic, jellied vegetable mold, Scotch Kipper in aspic on barley bread, fruit platter with cottage cheese mix, sweet pickled savory ham with horse radish whip, cold breast of Ontario turkey, asparagus tips, Sun Valley relish and appetizers, old English sherry trifle, Belleville's own Black Diamond cheese and cheese of the world. The delectable menu was prepared by Herbert Mueller executive chef, Sun Valley.

Later today, the visitors plan to drive to Kingston to visit friends.



DISTINGUISHED VISITOR — Lord Provost John Johnston of Glasgow, Scotland, a visitor in Belleville today, signs the official city guest book while Mayor Jack Ellis looks on.

APPEALS TO RUSSIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged Russia Wednesday to join the United States and other maritime nations in exploiting the sea for the benefit of mankind. He said Russia and other nations will be invited to take part in the first round-the-world voyage of a new American research ship, the Oceanographer, which was commissioned Wednesday.

Britain Raises Official Bank Interest Rate

LONDON (AP) — Britain today raised the official bank interest rate to seven per cent from six per cent to make money tighter at home and prop up the sagging pound.

The move came as Prime Minister Wilson sought to check inflation and inspire confidence in the pound sterling in foreign exchange markets.

The rate sets the pattern for interest rates throughout the sterling bloc.

Official sources reported the Labor government also is considering a still lower ceiling on its wage-guideline increase but has ruled out a wage and price freeze for the present.

Emergency measures were under review as Britain appeared heading into a new economic crisis of stagnant production, rising wages and pressure on the pound. The increase in the bank rate had been generally expected.

Soviet Mission Freed of Taxes

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—A cold war crisis of 13 years' duration ended Wednesday, as the City of Glen Cove granted a real-estate-tax exemption to a 36 - acre Long Island estate owned by the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

But Mayor Joseph Muldoon said there'll be no refund of the more than $300,000 in taxes already paid under protest on the 45-room Soviet mansion, known as Killenworth.

The Russians, it seems, had American law on their side all along.

The Russians bought the mansion in 1953 to house their UN delegation.

The Russians contended the estate was tax-free under New York State laws exempting official residences of UN delegations. But Glen Cove said it would not consider a tax exemption because its officials were not given access to the property or other proof of its use.

Recently, Muldoon said, the city was advised by the state attorney - general's office that the Russians have state law on their side.

Successful Living

Shelter Cost Exceeds Limit for Her Income

DEAR DORIS: You are so right when you tell "Spendthrift at 11" that she isn't the only one who can't hang on to cash. Could you make out some kind of guide for a working gal so that her pay will go farther and help build up a bank account? All the charts I can find are for higher incomes than my $53 a week after deductions.

DORIS CLARK

My monthly rent and utilities cost me $83 and I pack my lunch and take the bus to work. How can I divide up the balance to cover food, clothing, a little entertainment and a big chunk for the bank? — SLIPPY FINGERS.

DEAR SLIPPY FINGERS: Your proposition reminds me of the man who wanted to go to Blanktown. He asked directions, and the farmer who replied said, "Oh, if you want to go to Blanktown, you can't start from here!"

In other words, I don't think you can save even a small chunk. Your amount for rent and utilities should be no more than a quarter of your total income. Either get less expensive quarters or take in a partner to share the rent.

Then you can look up some economical meals for two and make things come out better.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I have fat cheeks and they are fat. Could you tell me what to do so I'll have an ordinary face?

My cheeks are really red. Could you tell me some make-up to use? — D.F.

DEAR D.F.: Even the chubbiest, roundest face, can be seemingly slimmed down with the right kind of hairdo and make-up. But if you are chubby all over, cut down on the sweets.

A high coiffure which is in tight at the sides makes the face more oval; and a make-up for cheeks which tones down the red-red except high along the cheekbones helps too.

I'm writing you in more detail — but what you really need is the personal help of a good hairdresser and cosmetician.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I would like some advice on entering the field of children's entertainment. I write songs for little ones. These songs are the advantures of a child, but written in such a way that I can substitute any name in the rhyme as the name used never comes at the end of a line. This delights them beyond heaven to have their very own personal song.

I thought of putting an ad in the paper advertising entertainment at birthday parties but hesitated because of the musicians' union and other red tape which may be involved. — COMPOSER.

DEAR COMPOSER: If both words and music are your own, there's no problem, as long as the parties are held in private homes. It might be different if you were to perform in a public hall where people paid admission to hear you.

Just in case there's a city by-law requiring you to have a license, check with your city clerk.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: I am a young homemaker who lives in a small community. One of my closest friends is forever copying me. As soon as I have a new dress, hair style, home appliance or anything, she rushes out and gets a duplicate.

Now I know this is flattering as she must think my taste is good, or perhaps is not sure of her own. That's fine, but what can be done? Who likes to see someone wearing your dress to the same social functions? As we are about the same size and coloring I can't tell her that her new outfit doesn't flatter her!

Perhaps I'm making a mountain out of a mole hill. Should I just ignore it? Our daughters are of an age and the same thing is happening there too. — COPIED.

DEAR COPIED: It's not a molehill. Only twins enjoy dressing alike — sometimes. Fashion-conscious females are forever striving for original models.

Clearly, your pal hasn't the clothes sense or shopping sense you have and her admiration is flattering. Why not offer to help find something to suit her personality, next time you see that gleam in her eye?

She could return the favor by helping you with what she's good at — maybe making pastry or pruning the roses. A turnabout arrangement would make it easy for her to enter into the spirit of the thing.

* * *

DEAR DORIS: Mary and I were good friends. We used to hang around at recess and at home. We like the same things. There's no one else like her.

My problem is: She ignores me and hangs around with little kids. They even come and meet us on the way to school. Then they crowd around her and leave me behind. She never joins in at sports and is losing friends. — A FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND: Oh, what a pal was Mary! Sounds to me as if your pal was a natural magnet, if even the little girls are drawn to her. Don't try to keep her to yourself. Here's your chance to widen your circle with the girls and boys you meet at sports.

You'll keep Mary as a friend by leaving her free.

BENGALESE CRABMEAT, CREPES

Nearly a year has elapsed while two of my friends diplomatically tracked down the epicure's recipe I am giving you. Then by strange coincidence when one of them finally had it ready to mail to me it appeared in a metropolitan daily newspaper in a city in which she lives.

I invited folks who would appreciate it and made Bengalese Crabmeat Crepes. The most costly item was a one-half pound can of crabmeat costing $..25.

BENGALESE CRABMEAT CREPES (an epicurean luncheon dish for four people)

CREPES:

2 eggs
3/8 cup (6 tablespoons) all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk

FILLING:

One ½ pound can crabmeat
1 teaspoon butter
½ teaspoon chopped onion (or bottled onion flakes)
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon MSG (accent)
1/8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
⅓ cup dry white wine
1 cup white sauce (see below)

TOPPING:

2 tablespoons 32% cream
¼ cup white sauce (see below)
¼ cup mayonnaise

Make crepes first: (They may be made well in advance of mealtime.) In a bowl mix together with rotary beater the eggs, flour, salt and milk until smoothly blended. In a heavy 6-inch frying pan melt ½ teaspoon butter until it is bubbly, over moderate heat. Pour in, to just cover bottom of pan, a scant ¼ cup of batter. Cook until firm and gold on bottom. Deftly loosen edges and flip over to delicately brown other side. Carefully remove to large platter, flat out. Work steadily and do not get flustered. Just plod along cooking one crepe at a time. This amount of butter produces eight six-inch crepes.

To make crabmeat filling flake the crabmeat and remove all strands of cartilage. Gently cook it in the butter with the onion, curry powder, M.S.G., Worcestershire sauce and wine for 3 minutes. Stir in 1 cup white sauce (but make 1¼ cups for you need a little more for topping): melt 2½ tablespoons butter, stir in 4½ tablespoons flour and ½ teaspoon salt until blended, then stir in 1 1/8 cup milk until thick. Add 1 cup of this white sauce to crabmeat mixture. Fill prepared crepes with the Crabmeat Filling using about 3 tablespoons in each crepe enclosing it by folding crepes over like an envelope with double flap. Place side by side, open side down, on long shallow pan. Brush generously with Topping made by mixing together the ¼ cup leftover white sauce, cream and mayonnaise. Heat through in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. until top is bubbly and golden — about 5 to 7 minutes. At once serve two to each person. Your guests will be enchanted. A tossed salad is the only accompaniment.

Non-square Fashion Fans Offered Many Designs

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Full-blown balloons, blinding built-in jewels, harem bloomers, baggy-armed shifts, peek-a-boo windows, and all kinds of squares were among the many bright ideas for non - square fashion fans offered Wednesday by James Galanos.

The voluminous jackets over bulky skirts and capacious wide-shouldered suits threaten a diet of carrot strips and melba toast to women dying to do justice to Galanos' status label.

The West Coast designer showed a collection worth nearly $250,000 dollars to a jam-packed audience of buyers and celebrities.

The 2½-hour parade of styles included buckles galore. Square ones perched on long-tongued shoes. Others were set in like windows framing the cleavage of bosoms. Round and square frames were set into fuzzy velour drum-major-like caps to form bills with slits or circles cut in the middle.

Front buttons were out. Fly fronts formed the closings of jackets and coats.

Back buttons were in — for women with husbands to rely on there was a series of cross-wrapped costumes that buttoned at the shoulder blade.

Dresses narrow at the shoulder and small bosomed fell wide at the hemlines because of centre pleats back or front. Wool jerseys as well as silks in colorful patterns started narrow at the hemline and widened until they hung in folds under the arms.

Black crepes snuggled up to the front figure, and bagged like a deflated parachute under a jewel-bordered scooped-back neckline.

Cocktail and dinner gowns slashed from under arm to over the opposite shoulder, Tarzan style. Or they settled for one wide panel or a shoestring strap on one side or the other.

Sometimes multi-colored gems radiated like magnificent church windows in the middle of a silken pants costume, or an inverse tent dress. Often the cluster of glitter reached from wrist to elbows of dinner gowns and at - home costumes like built-in bracelets. On other garments the stones crested the yokes and short sleeves.

Ignoring the popular hard-tailored, mannish-style pants suits of the season, Galanos concentrated on opulent gold or silver-threaded fabrics, or brilliant striped lames for soft, wide-legged pajamas or harem pants, costumes topped by diaphonus peignoirs, robes covered with rich velour patterns, or metallic bows.

Urquhart – Shier

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville was the scene of a lovely summer wedding on Saturday, July 9, at 4 p.m., when Sheila Jean Shier, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mansfield Shier, Belleville, was united in marriage to Mr. John Donald Urquhart, youngest son of Dr. James Urquhart and Mrs. Urquhart, Aurora, Ontario.

Rev. Laurie Sutherland officiated at the double-ring ceremony and Mr. Linton Read presided at the organ and play-traditional wedding music; also accompanied the soloist Miss Roslyn Robertson in appropriate nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore an A-line gown of white silk organza enhanced with lace appliques and featuring tiny sleeves with bell-shape flounce. A bouffant shoulder length veil flowed from a solitaire gardenia headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses mingled with baby's breath, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Heather Ross of Listowel as maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Jan Boise were identically attired in floor-length Empire styled gowns of blue chiffon over yellow taffeta. The bodices featured square necklines and tiny sleeves and highlighted at the waist with a blue sash extending to the back hemline. They wore headdresses of matching rose and veil and each carried a nosegay of roses, mums and stephanotis. Miss Mavis Urquhart, niece of the bridegroom as junior bridesmaid wore a floor-length dress of blue chiffon over yellow taffeta, but with yellow sash extending to the back hemline. Her headdress was a blue velvet band and she carried a tiny basket of roses, mums and stephanotis.

Mr. David Urquhart of London, Ontario attended his brother, while Mr. Alex Ross of Kitchener, cousin of the bride and Mr. Don Morning of Aurora ushered the guests.

At the reception held in the Imperial Room, Hotel Quinte which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the bride's mother received, wearing a beige silk organza sheath with lace and ribbon bodice, beige organza hat, other matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis. Also greeting the guests was the bridegroom's mother, who was wearing a rose colored blister crepe ensemble of sheath and matching coat, rose flowered turban, white accesories and a corsage of blue mums and stephanotis.

For the wedding trip to the Riviera, France, the bride chose a jewel turquoise stearon sheath with matching coat, a black Balibuntal straw hat, other black accessories and a corsage of roses and stephanotis.

Following the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Urquhart will reside at 2 Mary - Davy, Paris 14, France. Mr. Urquhart is economic editor of the New York, Herald Tribune in Paris, France. Mrs. Urquhart received her honors B. A. degree from Toronto University.

Mme. Pierre Dupuy Will Fill a Familiar Role

By PAULINE ALLASIA

ROME (CP) — When Mme. Pierre Dupuy returns home to Canada next year to be hostess to visitors at the Montreal world's fair she will be filling a familiar role.

With her husband—now the commissioner-general for Expo 67—Mme. Dupuy has represented Canada at hundreds of diplomatic functions, large and small, in many areas.

Mme. Dupuy elected to remain in Rome when her husband left for Canada in 1963 to take over the Expo position. He was expected to travel about so much that she wouldn't have seen that much of him anyway.

"Since it was impossible for me to be at his side, I decided to live in Rome."

She will stay here with daughter Jacqueline until Expo opens next year. Son Michel is first secretary at the Canadian Embassy in Brussels.

Mme. Dupuy, the former Therese Ferron, looks on Rome as her second home. She lived here from 1952 to 1958 when her husband was ambassador to Italy and is an honorary citizen—a title conferred on her by the exclusive Romans of Rome Association.

"I'm writing my memoirs these days," Mme. Dupuy says. "Perhaps I'll call them My Thirty Years as a Diplomat's Wife."

MAY NOT BE PUBLISHED

The first volume, now almost finished, deals with her personal life. "I'm not sure I'll publish the first volume. It may be I'm writing only for myself."

The second volume, about half-written, is a portrait of life in the diplomatic service as she has known it.

"I want to tell Canadians about the efforts being made on their behalf by those who represent Canada overseas."

Most of this volume will deal with the years she lived in The Hague, Paris and Rome. In those days she began the practice of giving lectures to local citizens about life in Canada.

In Paris after the war she worked for the Red Cross and came up with a plan whereby Canadian diplomats around the world sent her exotic dolls to be sold at Red Cross bazaars.

When her husband became ambassador to Italy in 1952, she devoted her time to setting up children's libraries in the slums of Rome.

"I had a permanent repair shop in my home here. It was a clinic where we patched up used books that I solicited from my friends and acquaintances. Before long we had set up 16 libraries for children in the city shanty towns."

She has been awarded two gold medals by the International Red Cross for her work.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. We cannot publish wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up; but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.

Will Attend Royal Purple Convention

Ruth Gordon, Past Honored Royal Lady will be the delegate representing Belleville Lodge No. 164, Order of the Royal Purple at the Supreme Lodge convention to be held in Regina, July 24 to 27.

The Order of Royal Purple in Belleville is a benevolent lodge which sends children to the Salvation Army summer camp and contributes to the Purple Cross fund for child welfare.

WEDDING

WHALEY — MILLER

TRENTON — Bonita Cheryl, daughter of Mrs. Jeff Miller of Trenton and the late Mr. Miller, and William H. Whaley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Whaley, were united in marriage in King Street United Church, Trenton, recently. Rev. C. A. McLaren performed the ceremony and Mr. E. A. Nunn was organist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ivan Miller of Trenton, the bride wore a floor length gown of pure silk organza over taffeta, with scoop neckline and fitted bodice trimmed with sequins and pearls. Her chapel train was attached with a large self bow at the back and her shoulder - length veil flowed from a tiara headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ivy.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Marilyn Hayes, cousin of the bride, wore a floor - length gown of green organza over taffeta, covered with white lace to give an apron effect, and a matching floral headpiece. The bridesmaids, Miss Sally Miller, sister of the bride, and Miss Doris Turgeon, wore dresses styled similarly to that of the matron of honor but in yellow and pink, with matching floral headpieces. The attendants carried cascade bouquets of white 'mums tinted to match their dresses.

The flower girl, Miss Sherry Anderson, cousin of the bride, wore a white eyelet dress with green organza cummerbund and matching headpiece and carried a basket of white and pink 'mums.

Vernard Menzie of Trenton attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Richard Hayes and Raymond Fairmon. David Anderson, cousin of the bride, was ring - bearer.

The reception was held at the Red Lion Motel, where the bride's mother greeted the guests, wearing a pale green linen dress with lace jacket, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. To assist, the bridegroom's mother wore a dusty rose dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

For her wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose an aqua and white linen dress with full - length linen coat, white accessories and a corsage of aqua tinted carnations.

On their return, the couple will live at 202 Victoria Avenue, Trenton.

NEVER KNEW

TORONTO (CP)—An 11-year-old Toronto boy who died in a diabetic coma Monday never knew he suffered from the disease, doctors said Wednesday. Ralph Bruce Conner took sick during the weekend at his family's Wasaga Beach cottage. Stuart McLean, executive secretary of the Canadian Diabetic Association, said Ralph was one of 175,000 Canadians who have diabetes but don't know it.

Ann Landers

Girl Rightly Feels She Is Imposed Upon

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl who is twelve years old. My problem is six years old. She is my sister.

ANN LANDERS

My mother made a rule a long time ago that I have to put my little sister to bed. This means help her get her clothes off, see that she puts them away, make sure she has a good bath, and then tell her a bedtime story and lie down on the bed with her until she falls asleep.

Sometimes all this takes two hours, because after the bedtime story she wants to talk a blue streak. My mother has given me orders to stay with her until she is off to dreamland.

Well, I am pretty sick of it. There is some good stuff on TV between 7 and 9 p.m. and I have telephoning to do. Also, I like to read myself. I told my mother that I can't lie down with my sister until she gets married and it's time she got to dreamland on her own.

Please be on my side and help me. — TROUBLE IN CORNING, N.Y.

DEAR TROUBLE: You sound like a very nice girl and I am going to try to help you — part way.

I think you should get your little sister ready for bed, and it's lovely of you to do all the things you mentioned. But, after the bedtime story you ought to say "Good night" and leave the room. A six-year-old girl should not need someone to talk her to sleep every night, which is what you are doing.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the girl from Quebec who complained about excessive perspiration from her hands was not up to your usual standards. When you spoke in Canada you said that you consult with authorities in a variety of fields. Who was your authority on that one? A plumber?

The medical diagnosis of the condition described by the girl is "hyperhidrosis." It can be corrected by surgery. Why did you tell the poor kid to go to a skin specialist? Hers is not a skin problem. Get with it, Ann, will you please? — A DISAPPOINTED READER.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I suggested a skin doctor because often this condition can be corrected by anticholinergic drugs. A dermatologist knows about these things.

If the drugs do not work, the surgical procedure you mentioned can be performed in extreme cases. The operation is called thoratic sympathectomy. The surgeon severs the nerves which control the sweat glands in the hands, terminating the perspiration problem.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My close friend was planning to marry a man she loved deeply. His wife divorced him seven years ago. Ten days ago the man dropped dead of a heart attack.

When my friend arrived at the funeral chapel she saw her sweetheart's ex-wife seated in the front row with the other members of the family. She was dressed in black from head to toe and appeared to be the chief mourner.

Is it proper for an ex-wife to show up at the funeral of her ex-husband? Shouldn't she stay away if she knows there is another woman in the picture? — REPLY REQUESTED.

DEAR REPLY: There's no reason an ex-wife should not attend the funeral of her ex-husband if she wishes to. But she should not be decked out in widow's weeds nor should she be seated with the family unless she is invited.

WHAT TO DO WITH OLD CHINA

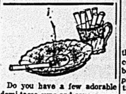
Almost daily it is becoming more valuable. One of the main reasons being of course, that the fashionable interior decorators and designers who dictate to the smart set, are continually dreaming up new uses for old pieces.

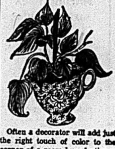
Although the traditional plate rail has all but disappeared, the gorgeous, colorful plates are still very much in evidence. It is terribly chic to hang a cluster of them on the wall in the library or sitting room as you would a grouping of matched pictures and the curved (heat-fired) ones — size doesn't seem to matter — are turning up everywhwere as ash trays.



Do you have a few adorable demi-tasse cups and saucers you haven't known what to do with for years? Next time you entertain, set them out in convenient locations as extra cigarette dishes and ash trays. The smokers in the crowd will bless you as a thoughtful and gracious hostess and you'll be admired by all for your exquisite taste.

At a recent rummage sale we were given a few ancient china washstand sets — basins and pitchers. We priced them quite exhorbitantly because of their value as antiques. ZING. They were snapped up so quickly it left us sitting there crying about what fools we were to have let them go so cheaply. And where were they being used? In elegant dining rooms as great salad bowls and as iced tea or coffee or lemonade pitchers!

Doesn't almost everyone still have a couple of ornate glass vinegar bottles about — as well as a cut glass salt dish or two, with tiny sterling spoons? Set them out beside the tossed, green - salad bowl and fill them with seasoned salt and salad herbs and liquid salad dressings. Let guests help themselves.



Often a decorator will add just the right touch of color to the corner of a room by selecting a beautiful cup to be used as a planter from Madame's collection of odd cups and saucers. Remember, though, it is taboo to place the saucer underneath. A cracked or chipped cup does quite nicely, as the defect can easily be hidden by foliage.

Is there a moral to our story? Yes, Indeed.

On the next trip back to see the old folks on the farm where you were raised, get out there and scrutinize all that junk stored in the barn.

There's treasures galore in them there haylofts! — Susanna

Consumer Education In School Advocated

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP)—There is an urgent need to give boys and girls instruction in consumer education in schools, Mrs. W. G. George of the Consumers' Association of Canada said Wednesday.

"The home is changing from the place where mother kept house and father earned the living into a place where mother and father share the two responsibilities," the Montreal woman said.

"Both then must be educated to fulfill these dual functions. It is far too late to wait until adulthood to give consumer instruction."

Mrs. George was addressing some 300 delegates at the Canadian Home Economics Association's meeting.

"I would like to think that every boy and girl might cover the basics before the end of Grade 10. In order to do this, it will conceivably be necessary to start in the elementary grades and gradually accelerate."

The basics included courses on economic principles, money management laws affecting the dollar, advertising, getting your dollar's worth and general information for the protection of the consumer.

She suggested that consumer courses be set up in elementary grades, using mathematics and social science teachers, in secondary schools using home economists, regular teachers and outside lecturers and in teacher training schools.

Mrs. V. W. G. Wilson of Montreal reported Canadians owed more than seven billion dollars in consumer credit contracts at the beginning of 1966.

She said it is estimated that 10 per cent of Canadian families are unable to cope with credit.

"These unfortunates are not restricted to the low income group. Chartered accountants, lawyers and engineers are included."

Minister Honored On Departure

MARMORA — Members of St. Andrew's United Church, Zion and Cordova of the Marmora charge and citizens of the village and district, gathered on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Christian Education building to honor and bid farewell to Rev. J. M. D. McLeod and Mrs. McLeod, who will be leaving shortly to take up their duties at Rednersville.

Mr. D.P. Marett, chairman of the board, was master of ceremonies and called the meeting to order. A sing-song was enjoyed with Mr. Jack Grant of Peterborough ,a former member and Mrs. Robert Sanderson leading in song. Mrs. A. Fraser was at the piano, accompanied by Mrs. Vaughan Glover on violin. This was concluded by a song of tribute, highlighting Mr. McLeod's many accomplishments in the eight years of his work here. Under his direction the Christian Education building was built. He was chairman of the centennial committee and member of the library board.

Reeve William Shannon spoke for himself and on behalf of the village, assuring Mr. and Mrs. McLeod the prayers of many would follow them.

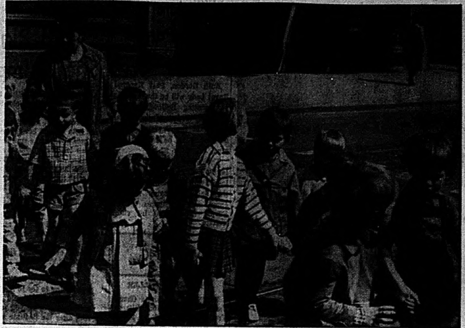
TEENS EAT MOST

WINNIPEG (CP) — Food prices in Manitoba increased 17 per cent since January, 1965, home economist Elizabeth Feniak of the University of Manitoba said. It costs $8.23 a week to feed a man, $7.25 for a woman, $4.00 for a small child and $9.45 for a teen-aged boy.



FAMILY LIFE SUFFERS — Women make up 44 per cent of the working force in Czechoslovakia and there is a heavy reliance on nursery schools to take care of children, such as these out for a stroll at a Prague nursery. Family life has suffered to some degree and authorities are concerned about the effects on children. But the state has become dependent on working women and, besides, many families would not willingly give up the extra income. (CP Photo)

Women Now Comprise 44 Per Cent Of Labor Force in Czechoslovakia

Women comprise 44 per cent of the labor force in Czechoslovakia. The impact this has on family life is discussed in this story by a Canadian Press reporter who visited the country.

By JOHN BEST

PRAGUE (CP)—A group of teen-age boys were running around, shouting and generally letting off steam outside Prague's magnificent Gothic St. Vitus's Cathedral while Sunday morning service was in progress.

"Look at them," said an elderly woman, shaking her head disapprovingly. "They don't know how to behave."

After a pause, she continued: "You know, children need a mother's care. Not just part of the day but all day. Putting them into nurseries does not give them the care they need."

She talked about other things, then returned to the subject by saying "young people are one of our great problems."

The well-mannered elderly woman was discussing a problem that has caused concern to many thoughtful Czechs. The problem is how to reconcile the demands of the state and the needs of the family in a Communist society.

Officials as well as other people here appear only too willing to discuss it.

A young civil servant traced the conflict to the "erroneous idea" many people had that the family would wither away under communism.

EMPHASIZE FAMILY

It hasn't, but it has obviously taken a severe pounding. Now, said the civil servant, there is widespread recognition of the need to bolster family life.

"A child can't attain emotional maturity without it," he conceded.

But what the Communist society is prepared to do about it is another matter. I suggested the obvious: a campaign to discourage mothers from going out and working, and to encourage them to stay home and look after their babies instead.

But this would deprive the state of its most powerful lever for influencing its future citizens along approved ideological lines while they're still young.

The civil servant, however, objected on an entirely different score.

"The mothers wouldn't stand for it," he said.

He has a point. Work outside the home has come to be regarded as the truest expression of equality of the sexes here, as in Communist countries generally. Together with the established principle of equal pay for equal work, it stands as a symbol of the emancipation of women.

The government, of course, is deeply interested in seeing that such attitudes are perpetuated.

FILL VITAL ROLE

With women comprising 44 per cent of the labor force and with no reserve of manpower to take their place, it is obvious that the regime is not going to encourage women to put down their tools and return to the home.

The economy has become altogether too dependent on them.

The damage this has done to family life, however, is also becoming widely recognized. For instance a Czechoslovak women's congress was told not long ago that many girls in the 19 to 21 age bracket admitted they wouldn't know how to be mothers because they had never had full-time mothers of their own.

What the state has done, in recent years, is to increase the amount of paid maternity leave given working mothers to 22 weeks from 18 weeks. This means that, knocking off a month for pre-natal leave, the newborn child may be under its mother's full-time care for about four months. Then it goes into a nursery.

In special cases, duly certified by a doctor, maternity leave can be eytended to one year.

In addition to the feeling of emancipation, many women work because of the advantages of two pay envelopes in the family. More than one family in two has two or more wage earners. They have become used to the higher standard of living made possible by the extra pay and wouldn't willingly give it up.

Despite the immense power of the state to influence the upbringing and education of young Czechs, there is ample evidence that it is failing to get its ideas across to many.

In a recent survey, part of a program called The Party Talks to Youth, 20 per cent of young people questioned said United States action in Viet Nam was not designed to cause a war. Thirty per cent said the U.S. was arming for purposes other than war. A large percentage did not know what the Warsaw Pact is.

A different example of the failure of indoctrination can be seen daily in the large number of youths who walk the streets of Prague wearing long hair and blue jeans.

Czech officials take a tolerant view of the "beatnik" craze—which in itself may be a healthy sign from the standpoint of recognizing the right of individuals to dissent.

"If that's the way they want to dress, let them dress that way." I was told by an official: "We try to influence people by education There's no use using coercive methods."

Other un-Communist tendencies on the part of youth people are discernible in the fever for Western music and dances.

One of the most prized possessions that a Czech youth can have is a short-wave radio. He uses it to pick up Western programs, especially song-and-dance programs.

I asked an official whether steps were being considered to try to curb such alien influences.

"I don't suggest we play Communist music to offset it," he said resignedly.

Large Family Located in New Home

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—A long table is the dearest possession of an Oxford County family—it enables the mother and eight children to eat together for the first time.

They were living in a three-room frame and tarpaper house and carrying water from a neighbor's well until the Children's Aid Society declared their home "beyond belief and repair."

The CAS said the family had to move.

Often this decision means the children are separated and put into scattered homes. But because the mother was so devoted and the children had so much affection for her, the CAS felt they would be emotionally upset if they had to live apart.

It found them a home and several service clubs stocked it with furniture, gadgets and clothing. Almost nothing except the pet collie was worth bringing from the old house.

To help the family adjust the CAS hired a home economics specialist to live with the family for two weeks, showing the mother how to budget and make the best use of food.

The Oxford County CAS says it's the first time it has been able to relocate a family this large. It looks upon the project as a demonstration that a devoted family need not face separation when home conditions seem beyond repair.

promised statement on old age pensions also is expected today.

Barring a contentious issue like the Munsinger report, due anytime from Mr. Justice Wishart F. Spence, a quick wrap-up is expected.

The last major obstacle to a recess, second reading of medical care insurance legislation, was shelved Wednesday until members return in the fall.

Mr. MacEachen Tuesday night put second reading—approval in principle—on the Commons order of business but backed down Wednesday in the face of Conservative opposition.

The Conservatives said government House leader McIlraith had given no clear commitment for second reading until after the recess.

This annoyed New Democratic Party members who thereupon blocked a government request to sit late Wednesday.

Nevertheless, in 2½ hours of debate the House passed bills amending the Income Tax Act, setting up a Crown corporation to run Ottawa's Centre for the Performing Arts, and giving Expo 67 greater protection for its copyrights and trademarks.

Finance Minister Sharp said the income tax changes aim at moderating the boom in Canada. Inflationary pressures remained "very strong indeed."

The bill establishes a five-per-cent refundable tax on corporation profits.

Madoc Junction

MADOC JUNCTION — Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett enjoyed a picnic dinner at Glen Alda Park last Sunday.

Master Danny Clarke has returned home after spending a few days recently with his grandmother, Mrs. William Vardy at their summer cottage at Papineau Lake.

Mr. Carl Bridges was taken by ambulance to Belleville General Hospital on Saturday of last week.

A family get-together was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stapley last Sunday. It was the occasion of the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Baker (Annie Cooke) of Kingston.

Miss Audrey Stapley has returned home after a pleasant motor trip to visit with friends in Michigan.

Several from here attended the Stirling Horticultural Society Festival of Flowers held on Thursday night at St. Paul's United Church.

Mrs. W. Harlow, Mrs. M. Clancy, Mrs. C. Fitchett, Miss Dianne Prest and Mr. Glenn Stapley from the Eggleton appointment attended the films and discussion period at Moira United Church on Friday night.

Miss Linda Prest enjoyed the school bus trip to Ottawa last week.

Mr. Glenn Stapley is attending a draftsman's course at the General Electric plant in Peterborough.

Czech

through July 6, 1966, Mrkva met Pisk and Opatrny 48 times.

After 11 sessions with Pisk, Opatrny took over.

Mrkva said he started supplying the Czechs with relatively minor items but then the Communists wanted more.

The Czech agent did not pay particularly well, however. Mrkva recalls getting "paltry sums" like $100 or $200 at a time. He received $3,440 over a four-year period.

He turned it all over to the FBI.

In May, 1965, Opatrny disclosed his more serious goal—installing listening devices in state department offices. Mrkva provided him with a catalog of government furniture last December which could be used in designing an eavesdropping gadget to fit unobtrusively with such furniture.

PROVIDE RADIO

Finally, last May 29 Opatrny gave Mrkva a small rectangular wood box about 13 inches long and one inch thick. It contained a tiny microphone and a radio transmitter which could be turned on and off by radio remote control outside the state department building.

The Czech agent promised Mrkva $1,000 for sneaking the "bug" under the base of the bookcase in the office of the director of East European affairs.

Opatrny paid a $500 instalment and said if the device worked, another one should be installed in Ball's office.

This was as far as the operation got. Instead of planting the device where the Czechs wanted it, Mrkva turned it over to the FBI. The FBI tested it briefly in the building and found it worked effectively, but that was its only use.

Opatrny, meanwhile, became concerned that the eavesdropping gear was not working as the Czech anticipated. Mrkva told him he had dropped the device, presumably putting it out of commission.

At their last meeting July 6, Opatrny said there were other offices besides Ball's where the Czechs wanted to place eavesdropping equipment.

After that, the state department and FBI decided to make the affair public.

Move to Stop Viet Cong Getting Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government and U.S. agencies have moved to block the Viet Cong from getting antibiotics or other medicines from the black market or across drug store counters in Viet Nam.

This was disclosed by the U.S. defence department Wednesday when it was questioned about reports that the Communists had been obtaining drugs for their military needs from these sources.

The defence department said it is assumed the Communists are interested primarily in such antibiotic-type drugs as tetracycline and penicillin.

To deal with the problem, the department said, the South Vietnamese government has imposed regulations controlling the sale of pharmaceuticals.

Rednersville

REDNERSVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones spent a recent weekend in New York City.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Higgins were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kelusky of Toronto.

Several parents from the district attended the field day for the public school children held at Ameliasburg Park last Wednesday.

Rednersville Institute women recently took a bus trip to Brampton for the Rose Festival. They also visited the Kitchener covered market and the Adelaide Hoodless House at St. George.

Sympathy is extended to the Redner family and Mrs. Redner in the passing of Mr. Carol Redner.

Following the church services on Sunday in Albury Church the congregation held a farewell potluck dinner for Rev. and Mrs. George Ambury. After the meal Mr. and Mrs. Ambury were presented with gifts from the community, the Albury Ladies' Aid, the Sunday School, and the church choir.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Doxtator and girls spent the weekend in Palmer Rapids.

SCHOOL TOUR

The Senior Room of the Mildred Cork Public School, their teacher, Mr. Wallace Pitt, a few parents and chaperones, took a bus trip to Niagara Falls on Friday. The bus left the school at 9:15 a.m. First stop was at Queenston Park where they ate lunch and visited the monument to Sir Isaac Brock. They travelled to the Falls where they went to the top of the Seagram Tower, under the falls and on a tour of Louis Tussaud's English Wax Museum. They saw the falls illuminated at 9:30 p.m. before leaving for home.

HOUSING MAKES POVERTY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Many Canadians live in slums because little money is spent on public housing, an official of the federal government's war on poverty said here. R. A. J. Phillips said a quarter of Canada's population is living on a level near poverty during what may be the country's most prosperous year.

Horror

rooms which had not been used as a cell. One was in a bathroom on the second floor of the house and one in the first-floor living room.

Coroner Andrew Toman, after looking at the carnage, said:

"This is the crime of the century. I went inside and found one girl lying downstairs, apparently strangled. There was a strip of cloth around her neck. She was partly clothed.

"Upstairs, seven other girls were lying in two bedrooms and a bathroom.

"Several of the bodies were sprawled across one another. Some of the victims appeared to have been strangled. Some were lying in pools of blood.

"I do not know at this time whether those in the pools were shot or stabbed.

"I've been a coroner for six years, and I've never seen anything like this."

MAKES IDENTIFICATION

Toman gave these tentative identifications of the victims:

Marlita Gargulio, 21; Pamela Wilkening, 22; Gloria Davy, 23; Susan Farris, 22; Patricia Matsucki, 21; Marianne Nordan, 22; Valicentia Passon, 23, and Nina Schmale, 21. He said he did not yet know where their homes were.

A neighbor two doors away, Mrs. Alfred H. Windmiller, told of waking at 6 a.m. and hearing screaming. She said:

"I woke my husband and told him about it. He said it was a kid screaming, but I told him it was not a child's screams.

"I put on a housecoat and went outside to look. I saw this girl standing on a ledge in front of the second floor. There were about three or four other people on the street (neighbors, also aroused by the screams).

"Then she climbed back inside. A couple of minutes later, a squad car pulled up."

Miss Crozono, a Philippines exchange student, was quoted by police as saying that she and some others were aroused when the man came to the door. She said she heard him saying "he would not hurt us and just wanted money to go to New Orleans."

Miss Crozono was questioned in one of the neighboring apartments by police and then whisked away. Police declined to say where she was taken.

One report said Miss Jordan was not a nurse, but was a guest of one of the other victims.

Hospital officials inferentially confirmed this by saying eight nurses, as seniors preparing to be graduated in August, were privileged to live outside the hospital in this housing unit.

The building is one of a development of six on East 100th Street. About 25 nurses in all were housed there. Behind the buildings is a playground and park.

HAD SUPERVISION

A. S. Daniel, executive director of the hospital, said a house mother was assigned to supervise the three units used by nurses. He said the house mother evidently was quartered in one of the other two units.

Police officials took Miss Crozono from the scene shortly before 9 a.m. but declined to say where. She was shielded by a black cloth from photographers.

The coroner and Detective John Nolan said furniture in the townhouse had obviously been disarranged, but nothing was overturned or broken to indicate a great struggle. They said women's clothing was strewn about the place. Investigators found no money in the house, and said the intruder may have robbed as well as killed.

tations by telephone with Mr. McIlraith about this.

Mr. MacEachen wanted the bill put through all three stages to completion before the recess, while some cabinet ministers wanted it held at first reading until the fall.

The compromise arranged with the prime minister was to allow the health minister to take it to second reading. But as it turns out the bill now will remain at first reading until the session resumes in October.

When Mr. MacEachen made his announcement to proceed on Tuesday, Conservative Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre) shouted "no, no."

He said Mr. MacEachen was breaking a commitment made by Mr. McIlraith at inter-party meetings aimed at arranging a recess date.

Minutes later Mr. McIlraith, attending meetings in Prince Edward Island connected with his public works portfolio, told an aide by telephone:

"I did indicate to the opposition that the government would only proceed to first reading on the basis of a June 30 adjournment. In fact for the first few days after June 30 I took a similar view."

But Mr. McIlraith said there had been no recent discussions about this, that all recent talks concerned whether Stanley Knowles, the NDP's House leader, would agree to an adjournment date at all.

DISCUSSED ISSUE

The federal cabinet discussed the issue Wednesday morning and the prime minister talked to Mr. McIlraith by telephone. In the Liberal caucus many MPs said the bill should be held where it was.

Afterwards, Mr. MacEachen met the prime minister and Transport Minister Pickersgill, acting House leader.

The result was Mr. MacEachen's statement at the opening of the Commons that the government would not insist on proceeding now because of an apparent "misunderstandig" with the Conservatives.

He stated, however, that, as the minister responsible for the bill, he would prefer that all stages be dealt with.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas asked whether this wasn't breaking a commitment made by Mr. Pearson and Mr. McIlraith to proceed further.

One reason the government decided against proceeding was a fear that the Conservatives would extend debate on medical care and other bills, preventing an early start of a summer recess, informants say.

But the main reason, they say, was the fear of damaging Mr. McIlraith's relations with the Conservatives.

PITTED ON WRONG DAY

Heat Wave Across Ontario Appears Broken

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's five - day heat wave has ended with the arrival of a high pressure area from northern Manitoba that has pushed out hot, muggy air.

The province generally has been sweltering in hot weather since late in June, broken only by the odd day of temperatures normal for this time of year.

Maximum temperatures rose above 88 degrees on each of the five days from last Saturday until Wednesday but it was the relative humidity which made the hot spell uncomfortable.

Humidex readings on each of the five days were between 95 and 100. By Wednesday afternoon the humidex reading had fallen to 83 when the relative humidity dropped to a comfortable 38.

Humidex is the reading given the effective temperature, arrived at by a formula combining actual temperature and vapor pressure.

As a heat wave, the weather of the last few days can't hold a thermometer to the "good old days." In 1911, from July 1-6 the maximum temperature ranged from 92 to 103 and in 1936, the mercury's story from July 7 to 14 was: 89, 105, 105, 105, 96, 92, 100 and 92. A weather office spokesman said Ontario's heat came out of the United States which still is experiencing uncomfortable weather over a large area.

But for the next three days, Ontario will experience more normal temperatures of between 77 and 83. The high in Toronto today was predicted as 78.

Should Keep Best Trees In Managing Woodlot

By E. P. EDSON

TWEED — In Prince Edward County and in the agricultural areas immediately north of Kingston and Belleville there are numerous small farm woodlots (over 200,000 acres of woods up to 20 miles from the shore inland).

Many of these small farm woodlots with an average size of about 30 to 40 acres contain a considerable number of valuable or potentially valuable trees of most desirable species, such as hard maple, oak, ash and basswood, in addition to other less valuable trees.

In managing these farm woodlots we should realize that the capital invested in the forest is earning interest rather unevenly; there is a high interest rate being earned by the valuable well developing timber, and a low rate being earned by the rest.

The situation is not unsimilar to that of general farming where certain high priced crops contrast with others which bring in only modest revenues.

A woodlot owner therefore takes, or should take, particular care of his valuable trees, particularly if they are in their prime of life.

One of the fairly good woodlots in the Bay of Quinte contains about 1600 cords of merchantable, timber. Of this about 500 cords (250,000 bd. ft.) are represented by high value timber, grown mostly in sound, well developed trees, worth approximately $15. per cord in average $30. per 100 FBM) on stump, or $7,500. It is estimated that these good trees increase their merchantable volume at 4% and 5% per year. Thus these trees earn about $300 per year.

The remaining timber (about 1,100 cords) consisting mainly of inferior stems mostly poor in form, branchy or with damaged tops, is worth no more than an average $3.00 per cord, or $3,300. ($10. per 1000 FBM in logs or $5. per cord, and $2. per cord in pulpwood and firewood). The rate of increment here in merchantable volume and value is less than on good trees. At 3% annual growth at the most we estimate the value at less than $100. per year.

KEEP BEST TREES

How unreasonable would it be then for this woodlot owner to cut down the good revenue producing trees, and keep the low value timber of a low productivity growing!

Also, very often a woodlot owner sells or cuts down well developing trees of a size just under the point where they could in a few years have grown just so much as to put them in the higher category of good, highly priced sawlogs or veneer logs. In this way he sacrifices the productive capacity of his forest for the sake of a very small present return.

When in doubt as to the best thing to do in a woodlot, the owner should first discuss the matter with an experienced neighbor or friend or consult the nearest office of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

The Department maintains a free consulting service and where necessary sends a forester to assist the woodlot owner.

Employed	7,303	7,136	7,049
Unemployed	230	247	257

Estimates are based on a survey of 35,000 households in the week ended June 18.

"Of the 167,000 increase in the total employed during the month, 53,000 were teen-agers and 47,000 were between the ages of 20 and 24," the report said. "Thus, young persons accounted for 50 per cent of the month-to-month increase in employment.

Regionally, the increases in employment ranged from 1.4 per cent in the prairies to 4.7 per cent in Quebec.

The Atlantic provinces cut their unemployment sharply to a rate of 3.8 per cent from 5.6 per cent a month earlier. Unemployment crept to 4.4 per cent in British Columbia from four per cent and Quebec shaved its jobless rate to four per cent from five per cent.

Ontario unemployment edged up to 2.7 per cent from 2.1 per cent a month earlier.

The national unemployment rate was the lowest since last November. But adjusted seasonally it was steady with May and four-tenths of one per cent higher than March and April.

Of the 230,000 unemployed, an estimated 10,000 were on temporary layoff and 99,000 had been out of work less than a month. Another 68,000 had been without work between one and three months and the remaining 53,000 for longer periods.

The report estimated that 35,000 married men found jobs during the month, leaving 64,000 married men unemployed.

Some 30 policemen charged into the alley behind the burning structure, cursing the jeering Negroes and ordering them out of the way. They were greeted with sporadic gunfire and fired back.

The night's second incident erupted 2½ hours later, some three miles west and along Pulaski Road. White detectives who had arrested a Negro robbery suspect were peppered with rocks by an all - Negro crowd.

Then the crowds broke out of control, smashed windows and looted stores.

The area was the scene of two nights of rioting last August.

But the night's most serious incidents occurred up and down the mile-long strip of Roosevelt Road that divides the all-Negro public housing neighborhood to the south from a poor Italian-American neighborhood to the north.

Some 500 police entered the area as the night wore on.

They were attacked by crowds that at times numbered more than 300. The crowds would disperse as police advanced on them, only to re-assemble a block or so away.

MUSHMOUTH REPORTS:

Dear Boss: -

A couple of oversize mammas checked in the Eel and Clam Motel the other day. They had muscles that would make a Percheron look like a Chihuahua pooch and looked like they were full sisters to Strangler Lewis.

MUSHMOUTH

They told me they were lady rasslers and were from down Florida way where they had cleaned up in a crocodile tournament.

Boss, those half-ton Tessies would fill an ordinary ring, with poundage drooping over the aprons. They came to Canada, they said, to protect woman athletes rights and were on their way to the Pacific coast to find out why two lady boxers were not allowed to engage in a seven-round bout.

Arguing with these gals, boss, was like Adam debating with a gorilla as to what started the human race. If they ever got a head lock on a guy, he'd suffocate between hamlike biceps and their next-of-kin.

I couldn't convince 'em boss, that my idea of femininity is not two sweaty women in sneakers trying to bash hell out of each other with twelve-ounce gloves.

Who wants to come home at night to a battle-scarred female reeking of liniment and dressing room odors with an overblack shiner, and a frowsy wig covering cauliflower ears?

Besides who can wash dishes with taped hands encased in boxing gloves. And didya ever hear of a right-cross or a left hook helping a dame make the beds?

No, boss, the hands that were made to rock the baby to sleep should not be used to sock a sister to bye-bye. I'm going to rush out and put those boxing commissioners who banned the female Muhammad Alis from throwing punches instead of borrowing eggs, on my father's day list.

Women boxers? The idea is repellant. It makes me reach for the fruit salts or watch television for the commercial on the latest pain-reliever. Lookit Mother Eve? Did she toss a knockout punch Adam's way when he started the first promotion in Eden Square Garden? It was that male snake that started all the dirty work.

No, boss. Women are supposed to smell of Chanel 5; wear frilly whatyoumaycallems, be able to tell which wash is the whitest; which coffee is percolated; which wax is scratch-proof; cross over to M and M; let a dove in their kitchens, change diapers, ice cakes and rub the old man's back after a hard day at the slaughterhouse.

And, boss you can picture this scene. The contestants are in their respective corners surrounded by mini-skirted seconds, loaded with smelling salts, false eyelashes, mascara, fingernail receptacles, hair pieces and pictures of their champion's families.

The announcer garbed in a tiger-skin tuxedo (that tiger stuff gets the gals) walks to the centre of the ring, holds up a hand and gargles:

"Ladees and genmen. This will be a seven-round bout with insults, wise cracks, hair-pulling, pinching, and scratching barred."

"In this corner from Tightslacks University, weighing 145 pounds, wearing a polka-dot bikini over a 39-32-39 chassis, the lightweight champeen Tickletoes Teresa Tumpkin-Tumpkin.

"In the other corner from Snakebite High, weighing 144 pounds, wearing a rattler-grey one-piecer over a 38-30-31 chassis, the challenger Dumptruck Dorothy Dimpleknees - Dimpleknees"

He calls the gals to the centre of the ring and cautions:

"Lissen youse bums — oops — gals, I want a good clean fight. There's a gang of college kids at ringside and the survivor gets a night on the town. There'll be no blows below the strike zone and no husbands allowed in the ring. There'll be no wig-changing between bouts. We have hairdressers here and they will know."

Now, boss do you know why I'm all for the more rugged sports such as craps-shooting and dominoes?

Women boxers? Phooey!

Old-Time Giants, "Bums" Feud Looms

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Its mid-summer pause for the All Star classic ended, major league baseball got back to the business of pennant races today with 11 night games and one new manager.

* * *

WALT ALSTON

* * *

Dave Bristol was named interim manager of Cincinnati Reds Wednesday, replacing Don Hefnfer. The Reds, pre-season pennant favorites in the National League, ended the first half in eighth place, just two games in front of New York Mets.

Heffner was the second manager to feel the axe this season.

New York Yankees fired Johnny Keane in May.

The Reds, plagued by a series of rainouts early in the season, lost 13 of their first 17 games and never did straighten out. They ended an 16-game slide with a 2-1 victory in San Francisco Sunday—the last game in which Heffner was to manage them.

SQUABBLE BREWING

And while the Reds changed managers, it looked as if the Giants and Dodgers are ready for an old-fashioned squabble to start the second half of the season.

There could be one brewing. San Francisco manager Herman Franks is reported to be angry over the use of his ace pitchers, Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry, by Los Angeles manager Walt Alston in the All-Star game.

Franks told Harry Jupiter, a sports writer for the San Francisco Examiner, that he had complained to Alston.

"He had eight pitchers," Jupiter quoted Franks. "They're all All-Stars. There's no reason Alston had to use both of mine. That burned me up and I told him so."

Marichal worked three innings and Perry, the winning pitcher, two. Alston also used his own Sandy Koufax for three innings and Jim Bunning of Philadelphia for two.

WANTED SANDY OUT

Alston was quoted by The Examiner as saying: "You have to go according to the game. I would have liked to have held Sandy out. He probably could have used three days rest. Everybody is in the same situation."

The Dodger pilot denied that Franks, who coached first base for the National League stars, mentioned the use of Marichal and Pery.

"Franks didn't say anything to me about it," Alston told The Examiner. "If anybody doesn't like the way the game is played now, then they ought to change the rules, have more pitchers on the team and maybe use them for just one inning apiece."

Under All-Star rules all starters must play at least three innings and pitchers may not be used for more than three innings.

Franks' complaint came during another tight National League race. His Giants hold a one-game edge on Pittsburgh Pirates, with Alston's defending champion Dodgers five games behind.

San Francisco opens a three-game series in Philadelphia tonight before moving on to Pittsburgh for what could be the season's first crucial series.

The Pirates are at home to last-place Chicago Cubs while the Dodgers send Kofax after his 16th victory against the Mets in New York.

In the American League, Baltimore Orioles take an impressive eight-game lead into Detroit where the second-place Tigers hope to make some kind of dent in the bulge.

Cleveland Indians, 11 games back in third place, is at Chicago.

With the Orioles making a shambles of the top of the race, interest in the American League has focused on the also-rans. Last-place Boston has won nine of its last 10 and is just 1½ games behind the staggering New York Yankees.

Kansas City, under manager Alvin Dark, has skipped into sixth place and entertains the Yankees tonight. The Red Sox are at California.

Lightfoots Wallop City Hotel

Lightfoot Construction tightened its grip on the Commercial Softball loop's third spot by trimming City Hotel 7-1 last night.

Lightfoots bunched their runs into the middle frames, netting one in the second, three in the third, two in the fourth and a final one in the fifth. City's loner came in the fourth.

George Young pitched five-hit ball for the victory. He struck out four and passed four.

Gerry Genereaux was the loser before giving way to Langard in the fourth. They gave up eight hits, fanned three and walked four.

It was a cleanly-played game with the losers committing the only error.

Joe Clapp and Don Smith belted a home run each on Lightfoots' behalf. Don Dolan was the only player with two hits, one of them a double, while Frank "Shiner" Murray also hit a two-bagger. Don Wood, Tim Cook and George Young added singles.

Gerry Genereaux had a double and single, Donovan two singles and Doug Murray one for City Hotel.

For the winners, Smith's home run drove in the third-frame trio while Clapp's homer plated a pair in the fourth.

Lightfoots moved four points ahead of City and Belvedere with the decision and trail Stewart Warner by four, with a game in hand.

Cementmen Shut Out S. Warner

Point Anne now leads the field by six points.

A tight pitching battle between the winners' Maurice Kimmett and the losers' Junior Day featured the tilt.

Kimmett hurled two - hit ball, struck out two and walked one.

Day gave up five hits, fanned two and walked two.

Both pitchers showed excellent control and there was but one error in the contest. It did not figure in the scoring.

Horwood singled, E. Maher did the same and Maracle drove in the first run with a fly ball in the opening frame.

It was the same pattern in the fourth to make it 2-0. Rosebush and G. Maher hit singles and Whalen's fly ball cashed in the lead runner.

Kimmett used a good selection of fast and slow pitches while giving up only singles to Lyle Wannamaker and Floyd Crawford.

Mike Cook, Jim Horwood, Eric Maher, Rick Rosebush and Gerry Maher divided the Point Anne singles.

The Cementmen have not lost since June 20 while building an impressive 14-3 won-and-lost record.

Swim Championships

3 BC Swimmers Smash Marks

By JIM CRERAR

HAMILTON (CP) — Three British Columbia swimmers grabbed the spotlight Wednesday with record-shattering performances in the Canadian amateur swimming championships and British Empire Games trials.

Elaine Tanner, 15 - year - old swimmer from Vancouver, Ralph Hutton, 16-year-old high school student from Ocean Falls, B.C., and Sandy Gilchrist, 20-year-old college student, also from Ocean Falls, broke Canadian native and open records as 300 swimmers from across the country completed their first full day of competition.

The championships continue at McMaster University's new indoor pool until Saturday when up to 25 Canadian swimmers and divers will be named to the team going to the Empire Games in Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 4-13.

Miss Tanner, rated the top girl swimming prospect for Canada at the Games, splashed to an easy victory in the women's 440-yard individual medley with a time of 5:27.2. It was enough to slice 2.9 seconds from the old Canadian native mark set by Miss Tanner 11 days ago in Vancouver. The time is also the best listed for the event among Commonwealth swimmers.

WINS BACKSTROKE

Miss Tanner, coached by Howard Firby of Vancouver, also won the 110-yard backstroke in 1:09.8, three-tenths of a second off her own Canadian open and native record of 1:09.5 set in Vancouver 12 days ago.

Hutton, born in Ocean Falls but a Grade 12 student at Los Altos, Calif., broke the Canadian 110-yard backstroke mark with a time 1:03.0 in an afternoon heat. The former record of 1:04.3 was set in September, 1964, by Gaye Stratten of Toronto at Vancouver. Hutton, six-feet and 175 pounds, did not improve on the time in the final, winning in 1:03.5.

He had a close battle with Jim Shaw of Toronto in both the heat and the final. Shaw led in the heat until the final half-lap and finished second in 1:04.3. He also led most of the way in the final, but dropped to second place in the last 30 yards.

Gilchrist, a six-foot, one-inch 175-pound native of Ocean Falls now in third-year business administration at the University of Southern California at Los Angeles, bettered the Canadian record in the 220-yard free-style. His time of 2:02.0 was 1.1 seconds faster than his own previous mark set in 1964.

WESTON WINS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Weston, Ont., Dodgers, a strong peewee hockey team, defeated a Mexico City team 10-0 Tuesday night.

Bantams Win At Cobourg; Midgets Lose

Oshawa scored four runs in the final two frames to grab a 7-3 win over Belleville, in E.O.B.A. midget play at the Fairgrounds last night. At Cobourg, Ellis' Bantams defeated Cobourg 4-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Terry McTaggart.

OSHAWA 7, BELLEVILLE 3

The contest had been deadlocked at 3-3 up until the eighth.

Winning pitcher was Henery of Oshawa. He gave up five hits, walked one and struck out 16.

Ted Shaw went all the way for the losers, giving up eight hits, fanning 11 and walking six.

McGuire led Oshawa at the plate with three base hits. Darns slammed a pair of singles.

Wayne McTaggart stroked two safeties for the losers. Bob Pinke, Bob Beecherm and Bruce Pascoe had one each.

ELLIS BANTAMS 4, COBOURG 1

Terry McTaggart struck out 14 en route to his fine win. He did not walk a man.

Harold hurled for the losers, allowing four hits, fanning 14 and walking five.

Love lofted a double for Cobourg.

Argentine Wins Duel Of Senors, Ole!

Edges Spain 2-1

LONDON (CP) — Argentina's soccer team is well in the running today for the honors in the World Cup tournament, thanks to 25-year-old goal-grabber Luis Artime and a finely organized, retreating defence.

The Argentinians edged Spain 2-1 at Birmingham's Villa Park Wednesday night and went into the joint leadership of Group II with West Germany. The two teams are scheduled to meet on the same ground Saturday and it looks as if the game will decide the group championship.

In the first phase of the tournament, four groups of four teams each are engaged in a round-robin elimination series. The top two teams in each group move into the quarter-finals.

Midfield linkmen Franz Beckenbauer and Helmut Haller set a cracking pace for West Germany two nights ago, both scoring twice in a 5-0 triumph over Switzerland. Now Artime has joined the ranks of the match winners. He shot two superb goals Wednesday night and sank the Spaniards.

MEXICO EARNS DRAW

In other action Wednesday, Italy defeated Chile 2-0, Portugal downed Hungary 3-1, and underdog Mexico held France to a 1-1 draw.

Argentine fans call Artime "el fatassama" (the ghost) because of the way he glides unnoticed into shooting position. That was exactly what he did Wednesday night, just as a grim struggle of defences appeared heading for a goalless draw. Artime fired home two splendid goals in the 65th and 78th minutes.

All the Spaniards could manage was a lucky equalizer in the 71st minute, when Argentinian goalkeeper Antonio Roma jumped to a header from Luis del Sol and punched the greasy ball into his own net. Several Spanish forwards were milling around him at the time.

Now the big question is whether the powerful German pair, Haller and Beckenbauer, can find any gaps in Argentina's finely drilled defence.

Off the field, dope experts have given World Cup players a clean bill of health.

Eight games have been played so far in the 16-nation quest for the Jules Rimet Cup. That means 32 men have been tested to find out whether they took stimulants to boost their performance on the field.

In each case, the testers have reported nothing wrong.

The International Soccer Federation ruled that two players from each team at the end of every match would be tested for dope.

Teams took a rest today after three days of competition.

All the 16 squads now have played in their various sections.

England, France, Mexico and Uruguay all have one point from their matches in Group I.

West Germany and Argentina lead Group II with two points. Spain and Switzerland have no points in that group.

Brazil and Portugal lead Group III with two points each. Hungary and Bulgaria have none.

Russia and Italy lead Group IV, again with two points each. Chile and North Korea are pointless.

Retiring At Peak

Jim Brown Calls Quits

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Brown, one of the greatest runners pro football has ever known, is calling it quits—retiring at the peak of his career.

"I am leaving the (Cleveland) Browns with an attitude of friendliness and co-operation," Brown said Wednesday night. "Once I return to Cleveland I'll do everything I can to help the Browns—other than playing."

Brown was scheduled to make the formal announcement at a press conference in London today. The Associated Press learned of his plans Wednesday night, as did the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The 30 - year - old, 230 - pound fullback for Cleveland of the National Football League is in England making a movie. His decision had been hinted at for some time.

Owner Art Modell had told Brown he expected the fullback to be in Hirma, Ohio, when the veterans report to coach Blanton Collier for training this week and had threatened him with a fine if he did not report.

The movie Brown is acting in is not expected to be finished until late September.

INTENDED TO PLAY

"I had intended to play this year," said Brown, who still has a year to go on a reported $60,000 a year contract. "My original reason for coming back was because Art wanted me to. Then, when it was pointed out by Art my reporting late put the team in an awkward position, my original reason for returning wasn't there any longer.

In his nine-year career he carried the ball 2,359 times and gained 12,312 yards for a 5.2 average. He scored 126 touchdowns and led the league in ground gaining eight years.

Last year he was voted the league's Most Valuable Player and led the league in rushing with 1,544 yards. He scored 21 touchdowns, one more than the old record but one less than the 22 scored by rookie Gale Sayers of Chicago Bears.

Tied For Second

Picton Trims Madoc 6-3

PICTON — A three - run explosion in the seventh inning was the margin of victory for Picton Kinsmen in a 6-3 decision over Madoc in Belleville and District Softball League play tas. night.

The win lifted Picton into a second - place tie with Trudeau Motors, two points behind the Bobcats, who clash with Trudeaus in Belleville tonight.

Picton led 3-2 when they out the game away. Weese's two-run homer was the key blow of the inning.

Ken DeMille hurled the victory. He allowed eight hits, struck out a dozen and walked but one.

Larry Griffin sweated the route in defeat. He gave up nine hits, fanned nine and walked one. He also hit two batters.

Ron Weese, with his home run and a single, and Leo St. Denis, with three one-baggers, sparked Picton's attack. Dave Lockwood got two singles, Jim Guernsey and Eldon Carson one each.

Four players shared Madoc's hits. Bill Hughes banged out a double and single, Brian Gray, Larry Griffin and Ray LeSage two singles each. Both of Griffin's hits were hard shots toward third in the first and eighth that hit base-runners to end the innings They are automatic hits Picton has now completed its regular schedule except for two postponed games against Trudeau Motors. Manager Jim Guernsey expressed dissatisfaction this morning over the scheduling of the two games. Trudeaus go to Picton next Wednesday and the other game has been called for Belleville on July 26.

Guernsey is the second manager to disagree with the scheduling of six postponed games, spread over a two-week period. The Bobcats' Ron Fralick was not happy yesterday. His club is not involved in any postponed games so will be idle for at least two weeks.

Jets Trim Braves 6-2, Wings Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie Stan Bahnsen equalled a club record Wednesday when he struck out 12 batters as Toledo Mud Hens whipped Jacksonville Suns 5-2 and moved into third place in the International League.

The Toledo rookie survived a bases-loaded, none-out threat in the sixth before going on to his eighth victory in 11 decisions.

The result allowed Toledo to move ahead of idle Toronto Maple Leafs in the eight-team league standings.

In other action, league-leading Columbus Jets scored three times in the seventh inning to break open a tight game and trim Richmond Braves 6-2 and Rochester Red Wings blanked Syracuse Chiefs 7-0.

WORK DIVIDES UP

About 20,000 private firms are involved in the U.S Project Apollo, to land two astronauts on the moon.

Departmental Softball

Sparked by Merve Thompson's three-run homer in the first inning, The Intelligencer led all the way, clobbering Public Works 10-5 in Departmental Softball action last night.

The victory deadlocked the winners with City Hall, each with 7-3 records, for top spot and the two clubs clash next Wednesday in a game that will likely settle the pennant question.

Ron Culloden hurled five-hit ball on the winners' hilltop and helped his own cause with a home run. He had a 10-2 lead until the last inning. Moe Huddleston was the loser with Jud Semark and Pug Kellar also doing some throwing. They allowed six hits in all but walked a dozen.

Merve Thompson had his home run and a single to drive in four Intelligencer runs. Lyle Thompson had two singles and Culloden the circuit clout.

Rodney Green hit a double and single in defeat and Pug Kellar homered.

Thinks Par Will Win It

KINGSTON (CP)—Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., who shot a four-under-par 66 in practice Wednesday, said he thinks even par will be enough to win the Ontario open golf championship which begins at Cataraqui Club today.

Defending champion Nick Weslock of Mississaugua, who fired a 70 in practice, predicted the score will be closer to 204 on the 54-hole course.

- Even with the wind some of these guys will be five or six under," Weslock said. "There will be a few 66s and maybe less."

Panasiuk's prediction was for higher scores.

"You can shoot a 73 here pretty easily," he said. "A few stray shots and you're over par. Then you have to shoot that low round to get even. I think three pars should be pretty good."

Wild Homenuik of Winnipeg's Glendale Club picked Moe Norman, of Golf Haven at Gilford, Ont., as an almost certain winner. Norman won three of four western tournaments this year. He shot 67 Wednesday.

"He's putting like crazy," Homenuik said of Norman. "When he's putting like that you can't beat him."

The three rounds of the Open together with the 18-hole qualifying round of the Ontario amateur at Toronto Summit July 26 will be used to decide the makeup of Ontario's four-man Willingdon Cup team.

The Open champion also wins an expense - paid trip to the $200,000 world championship at Liverpool, England, Aug. 31 to Sept. 3.

SIGN ROBERTS

CHICAGO (AP) — Robin Roberts was signed Wednesday to a player - coach post with Chicago Cubs. The 37-year-old pitching veteran was released a week ago by Houston Astros. He has won three games and lost four this season for a career mark of 284 victories and 241 defeats.

Decisions Archer

Griffith Defends Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — "If Joey Archer wants another shot he can have it and so can Dick Tiger," said middleweight champion Emile Griffith today. "I'm a fighting champion and I'll fight anyone if the price is right."

Griffith, 28, took the title from Tiger in April and successfully defended it Wednesday night with a majority decision over Archer in a brisk 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Griffith has had 14 title fights, 12 as a welterweight and two as a middleweight in five years, three months. His welterweight title record is 10-2.

Judge Artie Aidala, 9-5-1, and judge Al Berl, 8-7, voted for Griffith. Referee Johnny LoBianco called it a 7-7-1 draw.

There were no knockdowns, but Griffith buckled Archer's knees with a jarring combination to the head in the sixth. He hurt Joey at the start of the eighth with two thumping left hooks to the jaw.

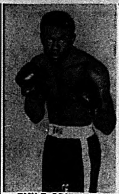
Archer was cut on the forehead in the eighth round.

"It came from a butt," said Archer.

THOUGHT HE WON

"I thought I won. I thought I outboxed him and won on the outside and the inside. I'd like to fight him again."

"He can have it if a promoter comes up with the right price," said Gil Clancy, Griffith's trainer and co-manager. "The same goes for Dick Tiger. Emile ducks no one."



EMILE GRIFFITHS

* * *

Clancy said Griffith's Sept. 30 fight with welterweight Stanley (Kitten) Hayward of Philadelphia at Las Vegas, Nev., "is up in the air."

"It was supposed to have been for the welterweight title but when the WBA (World Boxing Association) took away Griffith's welterweight title without giving us a hearing it probably killed the fight."

A pro-Archer crowd of 13,776 paid $102,242. Another $50,000 was added by television. Griffith, on his 45 per cent, collected about $60,000. Archer received a flat guarantee of $17,000, the largest purse of his 10-year career.

Griffith's record now is 51-7 and Archer's 46-3.

Heffner Fired By Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don Heffner has been fired as manager of Cincinnati Reds and coach Dave Bristol, only 33, has the job of trying to pull the team into the first division in the National League.

Bristol was named Wednesday as an interim manager of the eighth-place Reds.

The firing of Heffner followed repeated denials by Cincinnati owner - general manager Bill DeWitt that he planned changes.

Heffner held a workout for the team Wednesday before getting word he had lost his job.

Bristol, a former minor league infielder and manager, is the third man to head the Reds since the late Fred Hutchinson was stricken with cancer and had to quit as manager late in the 1964 season.

Things have been going wrong with the Reds—the pre-season favorites—since the start of the season. First their opening series was rained out—for the first time in decades—and then they lost nine out of 12 games.

"Game Called" Saves Win For Latta

A umpire's decision to halt the game with two men out in the bottom of an inning saved Latta a 5-2 victory over Cannifton Plane's in South Hastings Baseball last night.

Latta held the 5-2 lead at the end of five innings, in Latta.

The clubs played the top of the sixth and Cannifton scored six runs to go ahead 8-5. They started the bottom of the sixth and Latta had two men on and two out when plate umpire Earl Rivers stopped the game because of darkness.

Cannifton argued the decision but to no avail and the score reverted back to the end of the fifth — a 5-2 win for Latta.

Howard Meeks pitched the victory, an eight-hitter, with six strikeouts and one walk.

Lefty Thompson also allowed eight hits for Plane's, fanning five and walking five.

Doug Rollins hit two Latta singles and Bob Smith doubled. Other base hits went to Doug Chisholm, Howard Meeks, Gary Ray, Lynn Reynolds and Richard Hall.

Ron Urch and Jerry Hill each collected two Cannifton singles with Rick Phillips, Don Forsythe, Court Brailey and Thompson getting the others.

During the wiped - out sixth, Brailey and Thompson had hit home runs in the six-run explosion.

Rick Sweet and John Shwager gave up 14 hits and managed three strike outs for the Firemen.

Wally Dainard homered and singled, and Stu Hitchon tripled, doubled and singled to lead the Little Giants. Jed Forster slammed a two-base hit, and Rick Culkin and Bob Moore had two singles each. Tony Meagher, Robin Guest, Greg Cronkright and Cliff Radbourne all hit safely.

John Schwager smashed a home run and single for the losers. Rick Bellis and Grant Goagan stroked a double and single and Terry Ray and Larry Enright had a pair of base hits each. G. Scawacar and Rick Sweet had safeties.

AT THE PARK — Herman (Peter Noone), leader of Herman's Hermits, is almost torn to pieces by a mob of squealing teen-age fans in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's tune-filled comedy, "Hold On!" in which he plays himself. Together with the famous singing sensations, the cast of the lilting Panavision and color attraction stars Shelley Fabares, Sue Ane Langdon and Herbert Anderson. The Big Musical opens tonight at the air-conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program, also in color, "Son of a Gunfighter". Complete shows are at 7.00 and 8.40 p.m.

Broad Comedy Is Specialty Of Director Hy Averback

By HY AVERBACK
(For Cynthia Lowry)

Hy Averback is the producer of American Broadcasting Corporation's F Troop, a sort of 1860 Bilko show set in the Old West. It is notable for the fact that it contains what are called "blocked comedy sequences" and plenty of slapstick. Averback is an actor and director who specializes in broad comedy.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Slapstick buffs bemoan the fact that the great physical comedians are all gone. They cry that no new stars in this genre have come along to replace them.

I don't agree.

Of course we miss Buster Keaton. Certainly there were too few Stan Laurels. And most of us look fondly at those old Charlie Chaplin two - reelers whenever they are shown. However, as long as there are talents around like my gang in F Troop, there will always be slapstick on tap for those who enjoy it—and I think that takes in most of us.

F Troop is one of the very few shows on television today that can take full advantage of this classic comedy form. Most series are handicapped because their formats preclude the strictly physical joke—or because their performers aren't capable of handling this sort of humor.

Broad sight gags were part of the original blueprint for F Troop, and the show was intentionally cast with people who have ability in this field. We've even made actors out of stunt men in some instances.

KNOW WHAT'S COMING

In the great slapstick comedies of the past, the audience always knew something funny was going to happen to the comic — and soon. When the camera was on Chaplin as he walked in his peculiar way, it was inevitable that something would happen to him.

To watch Ken Berry, who plays our Capt. Parmenter, walk across the Fort Courage compound, is to watch a disaster in the making. You know that before he reaches the assembled troop he will have tripped over the hitching rail, tangled his scabbard in a horse's bridle, or accidentally fired the fort's only cannon and shot down the lookout tower—again.

Only a trained dancer like Berry could manage this.

Forrest Tucker and Larry Storch—two more inventive low comedians have never existed. Larry has revived one of the finest old bits in vaudeville—using his battered hat as a disciplinary weapon. Tucker is the scheming, expressive con man in the best burlesque tradition.

How They're Biting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fishing remained good but there were warnings from several lands and forests department district rangers this week that it is beginning to slow down as warm, dry weather continued across Ontario.

Reports of varied angling success from 17 of the department's 22 districts included a number of outstanding catches: Smallmouth bass up to seven pounds at Fort Frances, a muskellunge of 32 pounds at North Bay, a lake trout of 30 pounds at Parry Sound and a pike of 18 pounds at Tweed.

Minnows and worms remained popular baits, but were gradually giving way to feathered lures, especially the jig, in the choice of bass and pickerel fishermen.

EAST

Kemptville — Fishing success for the district generally has been only fair to poor. Pickerel, pike and perch good in Upper Rideau Lake. Perch good, lake trout, bass and pike good at Charlston Lake in Leeds County. All species poor in the Rideau River from Smiths Falls to Kars. All species fair to poor in Lanark County. Perch fishing remains good in St. Lawrence River and Lake St. Francis.

Lindsay — Pickerel and bass good, muskellunge fair, using spinners, worms and plugs in the Bobcaygeon area. Bass, pickerel and panfish good, muskellunge fair in Rice Lake. Pickerel and muskellunge fair, bass and panfish good in the Peterborough area, with minnows and worms and popular baits. Muskellunge and pickerel fair, bass good in the Trent River. Muskellunge and pickerel fair, bass good in the Trent River. Northumberland and Durham counties, speckled and rainbow trout fair to good. Gooderham area, lake trout poor, speckled trout fair, bass good to excellent, pickerel good. Minden and Haliburton area, bass good, lake, speckled and rainbow trout fair, pickerel and muskellunge fair to good, panfish good. Apsley area, bass good, pickerel fair.

Tweed—Lake trout good in Loughboro, Birch, Buck, Canoe, Diamond and Bay Lakes, fair in most other waters. Spoons, minnows and herring best baits. Some good catches included fish of 18 and 12 pounds. Speckled trout good in Squires Creek and Spring Lake, fair in rest of district. Rainbow trout good in Moss, Granite and Green lakes. Pickerel fair, with a nine-pound pickerel taken from the Ottawa River. Pike excellent in Loughboro and Dogs lakes, good in Matachewan and York rivers and some lakes. An 18-pound pike was taken from Fraser Lake. Bass good in both lakes and rivers, with frogs and plugs most popular baits.

Canadian At Bisley

BROOKWOOD, England (Reuters)—Six Canadians fire off today with the hope they'll qualify for Friday's final of the Queen's Prize competition at the National Rifle Association's Bisley meeting.

The six, with scores of 95, are participating in a tie - shoot which will determine the remaining 49 marksmen who will compete in the 300-strong final.

Keith Pilcher of England, the 1963 winner, fired the top score —103 out of a possible 105 at 200, 500 and 600—yards, the same as last year.

A difficult wind which blew up during the latter stages of the shoot kept the scores down. The minimum qualifying score was lowered three points.

AREN'T OVER 100

None of the Canadian qualifiers was among the more than 20 competitors who scored more than 100.

The top Canadian score was 99, fired by 18-year-old Cadet Sgt. Dane Wilson of Calgary, probably the best-placed young competitor among the 1,063 entries; Capt. W. V. Hall of Ottawa, here on leave from a signals groups in West Germany, and Norman Lewis, also of Ottawa.

Lewis' wife Mae—they are spending a holiday in England—joined three other Canadians at the 98-point level.

The three are Lt.-Col. Bill Strachan of Ottawa, Dominion of Canada Rifle Association team commandant; Officer Cadet Ralph Grant of Dartmouth, N.S., and Sgt. Frank Palmer of Saint John, N.B.

COLLECT A FEW CONES

Ontario will need 20,850 bushels of cones this year for tree seed production.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Glenn Ford, attempting to tame a rambunctious bronco, bites the dust in one of the action-filled moments of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's hilarious modern day western, "The Rounders". Henry Fonda plays his fellow cowpoke, with Sue Ann Langdon and Hope Holliday seen as two Las Vegas striptease artists who add to the unpredictable complications. The laugh hit was filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor on locations in Arizona and opens tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd MGM hit, "Your Cheating Heart" stars George Hamilton, Susan Oliver, Red Buttons and Arthur O'Connell.

Merle Oberon Looks Young, Beautiful Despite Her Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Recently a Hollywood matron encountered Merle Oberon at a party and exclaimed, "Good lord, you can't go on looking young forever!"

"Of course not," replied the actress, "but why not try?"

She was born Estelle Merle O'Brien Thompson in Tasmania, but don't ask how many years ago. Suffice to say that her first notable film was The private Life of Henry VIII with Charles Laughton, and that was 34 years ago.

After the lapse of a dozen years, Miss Oberon is back playing a Hollywood role in the Hotel; she enacts a duchess to Michael Rennie's duke. Her youthfulness naturally comes up in an interview, and it is a subject she doesn't tire of hearing about.

"Remaining as young-looking as possible is good for everyone—as long as they don't let it become a phobia. It has never been that with me. If I grow old, I grow old. Meanwhile I owe it to myself, to God, and to those who have to look at me, to maintain the best appearance I can."

How does she manage it?

SWIMS EVERY DAY

"Exercise. I swim every day of the year and do exercises in the water, too. I have swimming pools at all my homes—here, in Acapulco, Mexico City and Cuernavaca.

"I eat sparingly but wisely. . . ."

Miss Oberon leads the kind of life most women would envy. Her husband is the Italian-born Mexican industrialist Bruno Pagliai, and they travel between their four houses, as well as to New York and Europe. They have two children, 6 and 7.

Golfer Finds 79 Balls Under Stump

EDMONTON (CP)—Few golfers expect a bonanza when they drive a ball into the rough, but it can happen.

Chuck Moser and Ken Thomson of Edmonton were out for a round of golf when Moser drove his ball deep into the rough.

Both golfers set out to look for it. After a long search, Thomson found a veritable treasure trove of balls—79 of them stored under a tree stump, probably by an industrious gopher.

Moser's ball? They never found it.

Keep Juices Flowing By Jangling Around Gently

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

To remain normal yourself, one of the best things you can do is marry someone normal . . . That seems to be the message of a recent study of 38 "well-adjusted" husbands . . . The study found they all had mentally healthy wives.

Few famous philosophers have come up with a more sensible personal credo than that of the great Negro baseball pitcher, Satchel Paige:

"Avoid fried meats, which anger up the blood . . . If your stomach disputes you, lie down and pacify it with cool thoughts . . . Keep the juices flowing by jangling around gently as you move . . . Go very light on the vices —such as carrying on in society . . . The social ramble just ain't restful . . . Avoid running at all times . . . Don't look back . . . Something may be gaining on you."

How they got started: Hemingway were newspaper reporters. . . . Thomas Edison sold refreshments on trains. . . . Somerset Maugham was a doctor. . . . James Joyce set out to be one but quit the study of medicine after six weeks.

The Rolling Stones, pop singing group, note that "no matter how far money goes, it still can't go as far as next payday."

Know your language: In medieval days when bread chunks were dipped in the broth of meat stews, the treat was called "sop" . . . Today we call it "soup," whether or not we still "sop" it up.

Native cunning: Australian aborigines aren't chicken-hearted—just chicken - footed . . . They wear shoes made of chicken feathers in order to hide their footprints from enemies.

It was Rudyard Kipling who observed, "There's more things told than are true, and more things true than are told."

TREES MIGHT SPRING UP

Planting trees on five per cent of the unused land in Latin America and Africa could produce 10 times Europe's lumber output.

Two Sentenced To Be Hanged Get New Trial

MONTREAL (CP)—Five justices of the Quebec Court of Appeal Wednesday ordered a new trial for two brothers sentenced to be hanged in September for the August, 1964 murder of a night-club dancer.

Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay and Mr. Justices Paul Casey, G. Miller Hyde, Fernand Choquette and Elie Salvas unanimously upheld the appeal of Jacques and Roland Poirier of Montreal, convicted June 11, 1965, by a jury for the slaying of Margot Turner.

Miss Turner was found dying in the early hours of the morning of Aug. 24, 1964, in suburban Westmount.

The Appeal Court judgment said much of the prosecution's case was based on one witness, Ronald Fishman, who himself was found badly beaten the same day as Miss Turner was killed.

Fishman testified at the trial that he and Miss Turner were beaten by the Poiriers after a fight at an east-end cabaret.

SAID JUDGE ERRED

Mr. Justice Casey said that the trial judge, the late Mr. Justice Andre Sabourin, made an error in his charge to the jury.

At their trial, the Poirier brothers had produced an alibi, supported by several witnesses, for their whereabouts at the time of the hearings.

Mr. Justice Casey said it was the duty of the trial judge to explain to the jury that the Poiriers had to do no more than create reasonable doubt as to who had inflicted the fatal beating on Miss Turner.

He said that if the jury had found the evidence sufficiently strong to create a doubt, they had to acquit.

Army of Unmanned Satellites Is Reaping Harvest of Facts

After a shaky start only nine years ago, the United States and the Soviet Union are filling the skies with unmanned satellites. They don't reap big headlines, but they are helping man in many ways — communications, weather forecasting, navigation. And the outlook is for more and bigger shots, and more dividends.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla (AP) Around the earth, above and around the moon, in the stillness of space, unmanned satellites are probing the secrets of the universe.

They don't get the headlines that manned space flights do, but the automatic robots are yielding rich dividends in weather, communications, navigation and reconnaissance data. They are revolutionizing science's view of the universe and helping to make man's life on earth a better one.

Only six years ago, the United States and the Soviet Union were happy if they could throw a tiny satellite into any kind of an orbit with a simple geiger counter aboard.

Now, both nations are launching satellites by the bundle and shifting them all over the skies to desired locations. Some have travelled with pinpoint accuracy to Mars, Venus and the moon —and have relayed pictures over millions of miles of space. Some have had more than 400,000 parts, all of which operated flawlessly for months in the hostile new environment.

The Soviet Union launched the first two sputniks in 1957, but during the next four years placed only 10 satellites in orbit.

The U.S. placed five satellites in orbit in 1958 and 10 in 1960—but recording more failures than successes.

The figures for 1965 are astounding, considering the relative youth of the space age. The United States last year sent 94 satellites into orbit around the earth, fired two to the moon and one into orbit about the sun. The Soviets placed 66 in earth orbit and rocketed two to Venus, one of them striking the planet.

NUMBERS MOUNT

To date, the U.S. has sent more than 370 successful unmanned craft into space and Russia more than 170. In addition, the U.S. has launched 13 manned ships with a total of 20 astronauts, compared to eight ships and 11 Russian cosmonauts.

The majority of these unmanned satellites have been military ones—more than 200 by the U.S. and more than 90 by the Soviets, say U.S. experts.

America's military satellites are launched in secrecy from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. Most are involved in photo reconnaissance of the Soviet Union, China and other areas of the globe.

Others are used for navigation, mapping, policing the nuclear test-ban treaty and for experimenting with such things as satellite observation and inspection. Film and other gear usually is returned to earth for recovery after a week or so in space, accounting for the high launching rate.

COVER CONTINENTS

American officials believe the Russian Cosmos satellites launched from a base at Tyuratam are military in nature because their orbits take them each day over the continental United States and major portions of Canada, Alaska and Europe. They usually stay up about eight days and then are returned to earth.

Other Cosmos satellites are launched from a base at Kapustin Yar. They do not cover as wide an area of the globe and are believed to be what the Russians claim for all of the Cosmos series: Scientific satellites.

The early sputniks and American Explorers and Vanguards were sent up for scientific research. With more sophisticated equipment, the smaller American satellites produced the richer harvest.

They discovered and defined the potentially-dangerous Van Allen radiation belt which encircles the globe; answered many questions about the communications - influencing ionosphere; located a great solar wind blowing radiation clouds through planetary space; described the earth as not round, but pear-shaped; detected layers of helium and hydrogen and bands of cosmic dust beyond our atmosphere, and proved it was safe for man to venture away from his planet.

As rockets became larger and more reliable, heavier satellites —weighing up to 22,000 pounds for the U.S. and 27,000 pounds for the Russians—were sent into space.

The series of U.S. geophysical and solar observatories—large payloads packed with instruments—have explored the sun and earth's atmosphere in great detail But in April launching of the first orbiting astronomical observatory, a $500,000,000 package which was intended to give man his initial clear look at the stars, failed.

Twelve U.S. moon shots failed before the success of three straight Ranger picture-taking efforts in 1964 and 1965 and the recent soft-landing of Surveyor 1.

America has sent two spacecraft to Mars and two to Venus, with one of each succeeding. Russia has succeeded on four of 14 moon shots, but has failed on nine of 10 Venus shots and on all seven of its Mars attempts.

The U.S. Mariner 2 sailed to within 21,648 miles of Venus in 1962 and relayed a wealth of data, including the fact that the surface temperature is about 800 degrees but that the reading dips to 30 to 70 degrees below zero on the cloud-top of the perpetually-shrouded planet.

Mariner 4 passed within 5,600 miles of Mars last year and sent back 21 pictures of the surface. Analysis of radio data showed the red planet to be more moon-like than earth-like and indicated that Mars has no radiation belt and practically no magnetic field.

TOUCH DOWN ON MOON

The Ranger moon pictures, plus the closeups obtained by the landers, Russia's Luna 9 and America's Surveyor 1, apparently show that man can land safely on the lunar surface. Luna 10, the world's first moon orbiter, provided information on conditions in the vicinity of the moon.

Surveyor 1 was the first of an all-out assault that the U.S. plans on the moon to pave the way for manned lunar landings. During a 2½-year period 16 soft-landing and lunar orbiting shots are slated.

But budget problems have curtailed the planetary program and in the next seven years only three Mars and one Venus launching are planned. In 1973, a huge Project Voyager craft is to soft-land on Mars.

Weather satellites now being developed will provide accurate night as well as daylight coverage, will spot forest fires, help shipping by forecasting the breakup of ice packs and through measurement of infrared emission from the soil, locate good crop growing areas.

A dozen American experimental communications satellites—the Echos, Telstars, Relays and Syncoms — laid the groundwork for the launching last year of Early Bird, a successful satellite which hovers 22,000 miles over one spot in the Atlantic.

The Communication Satellite Corp. has been in commercial use since June, 1965, serving as a space switchboard for relaying telephone calls, television programs, teletype messages and photographs between North America and Europe.

COMSAT plans to launch its first two operational satellites late this year to provide near-global coverage.

Once-Irksome Wheat Surplus Becomes Comfortable Cushion

By ALLEN SACKMANN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada enters a new crop year next month with a comfortable cushion of wheat from a run of bumper yields.

The carryover at Aug. 1 will probably be between 440,000,000 and 470,000,000 bushels depending on the success of a big exporting push this month. Some sources say it will be close to 450,000,000 bushels, down 63,000,000 from last year.

One expert describes it as a good carryover. "It could go a little lower but, with the level of sales now existing, much less would put us in difficulty."

While no one cares to be specific about what constitutes an ideal carryover, the guidelines are clear. Canada needs enough reserves to tide it over a lean crop without it becoming so bulky it plugs holding facilities.

There's hardly any chance this will be a lean year. Given continuing favorable conditions, Prairie grain farmers may harvest a crop rivalling the record set in 1964—723,000,000 bushels.

It means Canada's total wheat supplies for the 1966-67 crop year may easily surpass 1,000,000,000 bushels, enough to handle domestic needs, export requirements and leave a healthy reserve for the future.

The carryover, which averaged 563,000,000 bushels for the 10-year period up to 1965, is important because it gives buyers assurance that Canada can meet their needs.

In the new crop year, Canada already has near-record export commitments. A long-term agreement with Russia, signed in June and worth $800,000,000, calls for 112,000,000 bushels to be delivered in the 1966-67 crop year.

China, which is becoming a regular customer, has a sliding contract providing for the sale of 56,000,000 to 93,000,000 bushels in the 1966-67 crop year. Grain sources suggest China will probably take near the maximum.

Then there are the traditional markets which include Britain, Japan and West Germany and take about 250,000,000 bushels.

That gives Canada an export situation calling for about 450,000,000 bushels without including sales to eastern Asia. Contracts with these countries are, in the main, up for renegotiation this fall and are likely to push total anticipated exports over 500,000,000 bushels.

Add to the virtually assured exports the domestic consumption, which runs about 155,000,000 bushels, and Canada needs a whopping bumper crop to meet its demands without biting into reserves.

Although a grain source says no immediate sales are on the horizon, the shortage of reserves in Australia and Argentina along with dismal crop prospects in parts of the United States may bring more buyers knocking on Canada's door.

"The whole world wheat picture is getting back in balance after years of glut," says a spokesman. "The futures market in the United States shows it. Any new weather information is reflected on the market."

WON'T BREAK RECORD

Despite the pressure being put on Canadian wheat producers, a grain official says the record established in 1963-64 for exports — 594,000,000 bushels — does not appear to be in danger in the new crop year. "But you just never know."

In the crop year just ending, an export target of 600,000,000 bushels was set. A source says shipments will fall short, perhaps by as much as 30,000,000 bushels.

Shipping problems contributed to failure to meet the target.

As the 1965-66 crop year started, West Coast shipping fell off because of a labor dispute that tied up exports from one terminal and frustrated others. This spring a longshoremen's strike in Quebec impeded shipments.

"We got behind on the St. Lawrence and I'm not sure that we can catch up before the end of July," says a spokesman.

Railways, which have gained experience in pushing large quantities of grain to export positions, have turned in an excellent performance this year, he says.

But both railways and terminal elevator operators have had problems because of the abundance of damp and tough grain harvested during the unusually wet fall in 1965. Shipments of this grain had to be staggered so that drying facilities could be used to maximum capacity without delaying overseas shipments.

Of the carryover anticipated at the end of this month, about 25 per cent is still in farmers' grain bins while the balance is in country elevators, in transit or in terminal elevators.

In the enthusiasm of planning the highly publicized "Side Walk Sale" for Down Town Belleville this Friday and Saturday, the Down Town Business Men's Association did not give due consideration to the fact that occupying the side walk would be contrary to established by-laws. As law abiding citizens, it is felt that existing by-laws should be respected. In that spirit we have decided to forego the sidewalk aspect of this week's tremendous value promotion in Down Town Belleville. This means that our

Killed by Train

GRIMSBY, Ont. (CP) — Six-year-old Peter Stanley Huisman of Grimsby Wednesday was killed by a CNR train at a railroad crossing in this town about 10 miles southeast of Hamilton. Police said the boy had been waiting to cross the tracks and apparently stepped into the path of the eastbound train.

Controversial Canadian Buried With Full Military Honors

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L McNaughton, an outspoken and controversial representative of Canada in war and peace, was buried with full military honors Wednesday in Beechwood cemetery not far from his home in suburban Rockcliffe.

The funeral service was held in Christ Church Cathedral, a historic Ottawa landmark about three-quarters of a mile west of the Parliament Buildings atop a hill near the Garden of the Provinces.

It was conducted by Rt. Rev. J. O. Anderson, Anglican Bishop of Rupert's Land who served under Gen. McNaughton in the Second World War. He was assisted by Brig. J. R. Miller, Protestant chaplain-general of the forces.

Gen. McNaughton, a stern looking man who was revered by the troops he commanded as top Canadian soldier in the Second World War, died Monday at his summer home at Montebello, Que., 50 miles northeast of here. He was 79.

The general, a graduate electrical engineer from McGill University, was prominent in scientific fields as well as in military endeavors. He was a pre-war presidert o fthe National Research Council, a member of the Canadian and United Nations atomic energy commissions, and chairman of the International Joint Commission until his retirement four years ago.

In addition to being Canada's top military man for part of the Second World War—he was relieved of his post in a controversial move attributed to his illness—Gen. McNaughton held briefly the post of defence minister. He ran unsuccessfully for Parliament twice.

Governor-General Vanier, in full military uniform, and Mme. Vanier were among the congregation of government, political, diplomatic and armed forces figures at the 30-minute service. Gen. Vanier had received a telegram from the Queen requesting him to represent her at the service.

Prime Minister Pearson and several members of his cabinet were present. The Conservative party, with whom Gen. McNaughton quarrelled when he represented Canada in negotiations with the United States on development of the Columbia River, was represented by Senator M. Grattan O'Leary.

The rest of the congregation was made up largely of military figures and representatives of the Royal Canadian Legion.

FLAG DRAPES COFFIN

A military parade formed up before the service in front of the Supreme Court of Canada building and slow-marched to the cathedral, a few blocks away. After the service, the military units slow-marched from the cathedral escorting the coffin, which bore the general's cap and sword and was draped in a maple leaf flag.

The march to and from the cathedral was led by the band of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, their drums and instruments draped in black. Two members of the 2nd Canadian Guards piped a lament at the cathedral door after the service as the coffin was placed on a platform mounted on a 25-pounder gun.

The navy was represented by a detachment from HMCS Gloucester, dressed in summer white uniforms. A gunner from the general's original regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, led a black charger with boots reversed in the stirrups.

Seventeen - minute guns boomed as the funeral procession moved off behind the band, playing the dead march. A further salute of 17 guns was fired at the graveside and a bugler played the last post.

TOOK BETS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An 81-year-old retired customs officer was fined $300 here after pleading guilty to operating a betting shop in his home. Frederick Lodge avoided a jail term because of his advanced age, Magistrate Gordon Stewart said.

Differences Between Chinese And Vietnamese Are Sharpened

By ROBERT MOREFIELD

SAIGON (AP)—South of Saigon, and a continuing part of it, lies Cholon, the Chinese quarter of the Vietnamese capital. It is as different from Saigon itself as the green of April differs from the russet leaves of fall, yet the two have many things in common.

Each has wide, tree - shaded boulevards, many of which are littered with debris and strewn with garbage that grows sour in the hot moist air. Each has sidewalks choked with life, and traffic jams are normal.

Each has areas of pleasant, air - conditioned homes, swank apartments, slums, sinister alleys, bars and brothels, restaurants good and bad, and architecture that here and there reflects French colonial influences as fading as the color of the structures themselves. In each there is the nervous immediacy of war.

And each has a large central market crowded with the press of humans by day and overrun at night by hordes of rats.

It is the market in Cholon that has given the Chinese quarter its name — cho (market) lon (large), now merged into the one Chinese word Cholon.

Beneath the surface, most of the similarities end. Saigon is Vietnamese to its core; Cholon remains indelibly Chinese

QUICKENS DIFFERENCES

The war has not welded the Chinese and Vietnamese into any semblance of unity. Many believe, on the contrary, that the war has quickened the differences between the two main segments of Viet Nam.

Generations ago many Vietnamese were Chinese. At one time they used Chinese characters in their writings, and even today may elderly Vietnamese can read and speak Chinese. Old pagodas bear Chinese inscriptions. In old cemeteries, headstones and tombs are marked in Chinese characters. Indeed, the Chinese once ruled the Vietnamese, from the second century B.C. to the 10th century A.D., and for hundreds of years the Chinese have immigrated to what now is Viet Nam.

Nowadays the Chinese make up the largest minority in Viet Nam, and most of them live in Cholon — roughly 660,000 compared with Saigon's 2,000,000 and the nation's 15,000,000.

As a whole the Chinese have resisted assimilation. They accepted Vietnamese citizenship because it was forced upon them.

The government requires that the Vietnamese language be taught in all Chinese schools, and the Chinese comply, but out of school they emphasize their own language and the rich cultural and esthetic heritage of the Chinese people.

CHINESE MUST FIGHT

In 1962 the government of Ngo Dinh Diem ordered that the Chinese must fight shoulder to shoulder with the Vietnamese against the Viet Cong. The Chinese demonstrated against this decree, but never more than half - heartedly. Thousands of Vietnamese of Chinese extraction are serving in the army.

Any widespread allegiance of the Chinese in Viet Nam to the Communist Peking government is scoffed at by leaders in Cholon.

"There is much talk of Chinese Communists in Saigon," said a leading Cholon merchant, "and there doubtless are some Communists here. But one cannot say who they are or how many, or how few."

Then he added: "The main job in Viet Nam is to defeat the Viet Cong."

Peking's militant posture against South Viet Nam, some observers say, has found admirers among the Chinese here. The line has a strong appeal to some Chinese here who feel they are being oppressed.

The Chinese control a large share of the Vietnamese economy—in banking, in exporting and importing. Estimates of this control begin at 50 per cent and go as high in some fields as 90 per cent. The Chinese have a leading role as rice brokers and in retail trade. As money lenders, a role they share with prosperous Vietnamese, the Chinese do business throughout the country.

Their commercial influence long has been considered by many to be all out of proportion to their numbers.

Many Chinese businessmen say taxes are high and business would be better under a stable civilian government.

Government officials disclaim any discrimination against the Chinese minority, but still the Chinese are afraid.

"These people do not dislike the government," said one Chinese, "but they fear the trouble they believe the government can cause them."

Asked to list Chinese grievances, he replied: "The government is at war and we must not antagonize the government." His hands went out in a slow gesture of resignation.

Federal Civil Servants Split In Groups as Jobs Classified

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—Add two new phrases to bureaucratic jargon in the capital: Red circled and green circled.

The circling system represents part of the most sweeping job reclassification program ever undertaken in Canada. The program affects the take-home pay of almost every one of 200,000 federal employees.

Briefly, if a specific job is red circled it means incumbents earning the maximum for the position can expect no further increase until such time as the job is re-evaluated. This could take some time as red circling means the job has been reclassified at a lesser rate of pay. Although incumbents won't lose any pay, newcomers will get less.

A green-circled position is one that has been reclassified at a higher maximum rate of pay and incumbents may get immediate raises.

The red and green designations come from the stop and go colors of traffic lights

Controlling the traffic lights in this case is the Civil Service Commission — the federal government's recruiting agency.

NEEDED FOR BARGAINING

The mammoth reclassification of 200,000 civil servants (mainly departmental employees), hourly - rated employees and ships' officers and crews arises from the government's decision to implement collective bargaining legislation, probably later this year.

Coherent bargaining would be almost impossible with the conglomeration of some 1,800 occupational groups, the Preparatory Committee on Collective Bargaining found.

The committee checked the pay and classification systems of the provinces, the United Kingdom and the United States, and consulted civil service staff organizations and senior civil servants. Finally came a recommendation to cabinet, which was accepted, and the chore passed to the commission.

The new system provides for initial division of the service into six basic categories: Executive, scientific and professional, administrative, technical, administrative support, and operational.

Then comes a second grouping into 67 occupational groups, each composed of occupationally-similar jobs calling for approximately the same skills and educational qualifications.

AUTHORITY SPREAD

There's much more to the revision than this and many ideas are being considered. The feasibility of introducing "performance-salary plans" that would permit discretion by department heads in determining salary progression is being studied.

Underlying the entire scheme is a new policy of delegating much more authority to deputy ministers and decentralizing as many classification and allied decisions as possible.

The commission's bureau of classification revision has the main task well in hand. The new classification for the 55,000 employees in the administrative support category now has been introduced.

Within several months the administrative category's 20,000 employees will have their pay revised.

A commission spokesman said early figures indicate about 20 per cent of those in the two categories mentioned will be red circled and a similar percentage green circled.

ARRANGING TRANSFERS

Red-circled employees are being transferred to other positions wherever possible. The red-circle designation means a job has been classified as overvalued—paying too great a rate of pay. Incumbents may still progress to the old maximum but no further.

The new evaluation on red- and green - circled jobs has placed about half of all such jobs within $10 to $100 of their old worth, that is, that much over or under their real worth.

In no circumstances will any employee's pay be reduced. In some 60 per cent of the cases an employee's pay remains the same, although he may be at a new stage in a new range.

Staff associations are watching the reclassification closely and are in regular consultation with commission staff. There have been fears expressed that career opportunities might be adversely affected for some employees, but this hasn't been shown to be a major problem.

The staff groups may benefit most of all by having an orderly occupational system on which to base their future bargaining demands. When this begins the red and green may give way to shades of black and blue.

Logexpo Hopes to Bed Down 162,000 Fair Visitors Nightly

MONTREAL (CP) — One of the big jobs being undertaken at the headquarters of the 1967 Montreal world's fair is seeing that no one stays away from Expo for lack of accommodation.

A staff of 20 under Jacques Belanger, manager of accommodation and transportation, is handling the accommodation needs of 200 persons a day.

Mr. Belanger, formerly with the Hilton hotel organization, set up the accommodation bureau. Known as Logexpo, it has already booked 55,000 bed-nights.

Logexpo is confirming reservations at the rate of 100 rooms a day for various periods during the fair—April 28 to Oct. 27, 1967.

Anyone wanting accommodation may write to Logexpo at Administration and News Pavilion, Cite du Havre, Montreal, P.Q. Say what price you want to pay and indicate the type of accommodation.

Average daily prices for hotels and motels range from $8 to $25 for single rooms and $12 to $40 for doubles, depending on quality and location.

Logexpo will try to give you your first choice in type of accommodation but will supply several alternatives when this is impossible.

But if you want to get into one of the large downtown hotels, you will probably be in for trouble.

Five major hotels have booked a total of 225 conventions. The average is 300 rooms a convention and they have taken up space for 85,000 persons during the whole period of the fair.

EPECT 10,000,000

In addition the hotels have booked 1,183 groups with at least 25 rooms to the group. With an average stay of three nights, this represents 93,750 persons.

However, the big hotels will also hold back a certain amount of accommodation for regular customers.

Mr. Belanger says he expects 10,000,000 visitors to the fair, each making an average of three visits to Expo grounds. He estimates one-quarter will be from the Montreal and another quarter will stay with relatives and friends in the city.

For the remaining 5,000,000, Logexpo offers, in addition to hotels and motels, apartment houses that provide hotel service, institutions such as universities with dormitory facilities, and information on campsites and trailer parks in the area.

A scheme to list private homes has also begun, with a program of inspection of homes offering accommodation.

Prices for apartment - hotel suites range from $20 and $30. Beds in institutional dormitories run $2 to $5. Rooms in private homes are expected to go for $5 to $14, with the average rate being $10 to $12 for two persons in a room.

Logexpo expects to be able to offer some 20,000 private rooms, representing 40,000 beds, from their listing on private homes.

The capacity of Logexpo to deal with inquiries has been geared to take account of lodging requirements for 165,000 on any given night.

Expo's peak period is expected to be August, 1967, when a daily total of 46,000 to 65,000 rooms will have to be available every day lodging 115,000 to 162,000 visitors.

The bureau's present system is that when an accommodation request is received a master list of all accommodation available in the Montreal area is consulted.

If the request can be filled it is booked and confirmed with the establishment and the visitor. If it cannot be filled the visitor is given alternatives.

A Logexpo spokesman says that of the reservations made so far more than half have been for residents of Ontario and one-fifth for residents of the United States, especially in the New York area.

Other reservations have been made for persons in other parts of Canada, Europe, the West Indies, India and Australia.

Early in 1967, Logexpo plans to instal a computer system to handle the expected sharp upsurge in accommodation queries.

The computer will tell Logexpo personnel, from minute to minute, what accommodation is available, where, at what price and of what standard.

New York Becomes City Of Much Disenchantment

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — This place is called "Fun City," but to many it is a city of growing disenchantment.

For 100 years Manhattan has been one of the great meccas of mankind, and millions came here from crowded lands and far away hamlets to forge their dreams.

But, increasingly, it has become a place where people come merely to make enough loot so they can move away.

O. Henry's old Baghdad-on-the-Subway still is a metropolis of glitter and possible romance, where anything can happen. The trouble is just that—everything does happen.

New York still has the world's tallest skyscrapers, some of the world's greatest restaurants, and loveliest women. If you have enough scratch, you can buy anything here that's for sale—including love and justice.

Among its claims to fame it doesn't like to claim:

It has some of the world's dirtiest air.

It has the world's noisiest subways.

It has some of the world's meanest muggers, so mean that women hate to go out on its streets after dark.

It probably leads the world in juvenile vandalism.

It has more people on relief than most nations.

It has some of the world's worst traffic jams.

It has one of the world's largest sanitation departments—and certainly some of the filthiest streets this side of the casbah in Algiers.

It probably has the world's most frightened civic population. People are so afraid of getting involved in trouble they look away from a murder so they won't have to report it to the police.

It has one of the world's weirdest tax structures — so weird that the New York stock exchange is threatening to move to New Jersey to avoid higher taxes, so weird that smuggling in tax - free cigarettes by "buttleggers" has become a major industry.

And when it comes to strikes and work stoppages, New York tops them all.

It is beginning to look as if the biggest fraud ever perpetrated on the white man in this hemisphere was the deal by which the cunning natives palmed off Manhattan to the Dutch for $24 and a keg of stomach tonic.

Most of the Indians fled long ago, and that's what a lot of other people are doing, too. The city that has everything simply has too much of some things—such as inconvenience — for many to put up with. That's why population has dropped steadily in recent years.

JAPAN MOVES FAST

Japan's export trade increased 14.5 per cent annually between 1955 and 1964, a world's record.

Socialized Medicine Opens German Spas To Common People

By GEORGE ARFELD

BAD NEUENAHR, West Germany (AP)—Socialized medicine and the little man's affluence have produced a boom for West German spas, once the fashionable domain of the very rich.

The bluebloods and the nabobs still troop to the watering places. But now they share them with millions of others, many of them there thanks to West Germany's generous social security setup.

"About half of our guests pay their bills themselves, the rest are on social security," an official of the Bad Neuenahr spa administration said.

In West Germany, if the doctor orders a "cure" and the patient is employed, taxpayer marks will cover the cost of transportation to a spa, lodging, board and medical treatment for periods up to six weeks. In many instances patients also get an additional mark (27½ cents) a day for pocket money. About the only thing not covered is losses at the gambling tables.

LIMIT GUESTS

A few watering places, like swanky Baden-Baden, try to limit the number of social security guests. But most of the 200-odd spas between the Alps and the North Sea have found a bonanza in the socialized cures, and even Baden-Baden has its share of state-supported guests.

Last year more than 3,000,000 persons registered at West German spas for a cure. Business is so bullish that scores of towns are rushing to analyse nearby springs in hopes that the waters will be medically recognized as being of therapeutic value. Only then may a community append the prefix "Bad" (spa) to its name, an addition worth many advertising marks.

In most the guests can not only take the waters but swim, wade, soak or be steamed in them. It all depends on the specified treatment.

A typical "cure guest" at Bad Neuenahr, for instance, rises at eight in the morning, wanders down to the spring and slowly sips a glassful of the brackish, iron-rich waters. After a light breakfast he probably returns for a midmorning glass while a string orchestra in an adjacent pavilion plays schmalzy classics.

TAKE REST

Lunch is a meal carefully prepared by dieticians and is invariably followed by a rest. In the evening there is more water to be taken, more music and, after dinner, entertainment.

In between drinks the patient may be told to take thermal baths, a sauna, or submit to a Kneipp treatment, which consists of submerging parts of the body in waters at different temperatures.

Like many other spas, Bad Neuenahr has a gambling casino. It may not be healthy for the pocketbooks of all patients but the Ferraris and Mercedes-Benz cars that share the casino parking lot with Volkswagens and Tauntuses attest to the universality of the patrons.

Germans believe in medicinal waters with an almost religious faith.

"Medicine is not as rational as mathematics and for a cure, you need a little bit of faith," a Neuenahr doctor says.

APPEAL ABANDONED

An appeal against an Ontario Securities Commission ruling that primary distribution of shares of Victoria Algoma Mineral Co. Ltd. be stopped has been abandoned, the June bulletin of the commission says. A draft prospectus issued by Victoria Algoma described claims in the Great Slave Lake area as being in the Pine Point area while the accompanying engineering report noted they were approximately 80 miles northeast of Pine Point.

FILES SUIT

The U.S. justice department filed suit Wednesday to block the proposed sale for $385,000,000 of a part of Tidewater Oil Co. to Phillips Petroleum Co. The civil anti - trust suit was brought in U.S. district court in Los Angeles against Phillips, the eighth largest U.S. oil company and Tidewater, the 15th largest, by the department, which said the purchase would violate the anti-trust law by reducing competition in the sale of gasoline.

Tires Better But Care Still Needed

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

No one can say today's tires aren't better than ever. They've got to be. With higher speed limits and hours of thruway driving so commonplace, they take more of a beating than ever. But tread life and tire safety still depend on speed, inflation and load.

A car normally used to creep around town will get better than average tire mileage. If thruway driving at 65 or 70 mph is the usual routine, however, then tread wear is a lot faster than normal. In both cases, of course, it's assumed that pressure is correct for the load carried. If not, both short-trip and long-distance drivers will be shopping for tires sooner than they had expected.

Heat, caused by flexing cords, is murderous on tires. This flexing increases rapidly as car speed rises. If tires are underinflated or overloaded, and the car is held at a steady high speed, heat buildup will reach dangerous temperatures . . . and sudden tire failure can result. These conditions will also weaken sidewalls and wear away tread faster than race-track driving.

From Mrs. N. T.: "Since high-test gas contains lead which tends to contaminate spark plugs, is it better to use regular?"

The grade you should use depends on your engine's octane requirements as indicated in yor owner's manual: Besides, most of today's regular grades also contain some tetraethyl lead.

T. M. writes: "In winter, car finish and chrome have to fight off snow, ice, slush, freezing rain, road chemicals and salt. How can you say summer weather is just as severe on a car?"

A scorching sun — especially when magnified by morning dew drops or rain drops after a shower — gummy drippings from tree leaves, road tar stains corrosive effects of salt spray and air at shore vacation areas, more bugs, more traffic to spatter grease, oil, grit, plus the low rainfalls we've been having, should be ample evidence.

L. A. asks: "A month ago I had just about everything tuned up and lubricated, and the car was running like new. Now, just 1,700 miles later, new distributor points have already burned out. What could cause this?"

An over - lubricated distributor. This would allow oil to get on the points causing arcing and burning.

From L.I.: "For the past few weeks there's a loud screeching noise from my engine when the car is driven. Does it need a new fan belt or water pump?"

Probably the fan pulley shaft is crying out for lubricant. Light oil will do it.

Lose Contact With Spacecraft

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Contact was lost Wednesday night with Surveyor I, an American picture - taking spacecraft on the moon, the jet propulsion laboratory announced.

Contact was lost by the Johannesburg tracking station in South Africa when the station gave the command for the seventh television picture of the corona of the sun, during sunset on the moon.

Surveyor's battery "has been giving evidence since last Friday that it is wearing out, but it has performed beyond expectations," a spokesman said.

Surveyor has already been judged enormously successful, sending more than 10,000 pictures before being engulfed in the 14-day lunar night.

WEDNESDAY, July 13, 1966

The Commons passed three bills, one of them a complex measure amending the Income Tax Act, in its drive to start a summer recess.

Only a bill arising out of last month's Quebec dock strike stands in the way of a holiday adjournment.

The government attempted to push the sitting past the regular Wednesday closing of 6 p.m. but was unable to get unanimous consent.

The NDP, angered by the government's decision not to press for second reading of the medicare bill, led the opposition to a late-sitting.

Outside the Commons cannons boomed a final salute to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton who was buried here following a military funeral. He died Monday.

THURSDAY, July 14

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to consider legislation concerning last month's dock strike in Quebec. The Senate meets at 3:00 p.m.

NOTES ROAD HAZARD

SUDBURY (CP) — Gravel shoulders should be at or near the same level as the highways, a coroner's jury recommended here Wednesday. The jury was investigating the deaths of Mrs. Ida Yule, 44, and her daughter, Patricia Ann, 18, both of Brantford, who died June 4 on Highway 69 about 20 miles south of here. Their car crashed after it dropped down about four inches from the highway to the shoulder.

Help Is on Way for Sailors On 'Foulest Coast in Canada'

By BOB MacKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP) — Georgian Bay, with its myriad shoals and islands, "is the foulest piece of coast in Canada for small-boat operators to navigate," says an official of the Canadian hydrographic service. But help is on the way.

"There's an area called the 30,000 Islands but at last count there were more than 40,000," added Bill Covey, a technical assistant at the service's Ottawa headquarters.

Despite the hazard of islands and reefs, the region is one of the most popular in Canada for small boats. It promises to become even more popular with a special set of small-craft charts being prepared by the hydrographic service.

The three-inch-to-the-mile charts will cover the 200-mile water route from Port Severn at the southeastern corner of the bay to Killarney in the north, showing channels with a minimum depth of six feet.

The charts are being done in three sets. The first—a three-piece set covering about 80 miles from Parry Sound to Byng Inlet—was completed in 1964. Of 3,000 copies printed, more than 1,900 have been sold.

The second set, with four charts, covers the stretch from Byng Inlet to Killarney. It already has been surveyed and should be available in May.

SOLD AT COST

"We hope to survey the Parry Sound-Port Severn link next summer," Covey said in an interview. "If we do, the last set will be available for the 1969 season."

The charts can be obtained from local distributors or from the chart distribution section of the hydrographic service, mines and technical surveys department, 615 Booth Street, Ottawa.

The Parry Sound Byng Inlet charts cost $3; the Byng Inlet-Killarney set, $4.

"We're not in this to make a profit," said Colin Martin, superintendent of charts for the hydrographic service. "The price barely pays for printing."

The Georgian Bay charts are just part of a series being prepared for small-boat owners in Canada. The immediate work is being done in Ontario because of demand—more than half of the estimated 550,000 registered pleasure boats in Canada are in the province, and the bulk of them are in the southern and central region.

The Muskoka Lakes region already has been charted and work now is under way on the Trent-Severn system, an inland route from Trenton on the Bay of Quinte to Port Severn. The Lake Simcoe-Couchiching section is available now and the Peterborough-Balsam Lake section is being surveyed this summer.

WILL COVER FULL ROUTE

"The growth of small boats has been fantastic," Martin said. "We get requests from everyone to chart everything but we just haven't the facilities."

Accurate figures on small boats are not kept in Canada but a transport department official places the number at "over 1,000,000 when you include sailboats, rowboats and small outboards."

Registration is required for boats with engines of 10 horsepower or more or for boats operating in specific places like canals.

In time, the service hopes to have a complete set of charts for a sheltered route from Montreal to Sault Ste. Marie, including the Ottawa River and the Rideau River system from Ottawa to Kingston.

"There are charts available now for the Rideau but we hope to rechart it soon, maybe after the Trent-Severn system," Covey said.

Part of the Ottawa River—from Ottawa downstream to Carillon, Que., near the head of Lake of Two Mountains—is being surveyed this year. But it usually takes 12 to 18 months from completion of a survey until the charts are available.

Amazon Town Dreams Lazily Of Days of Past Splendor

By HENRY HOGG

MANAUS, Brazil (CP) — Every taxi-driver in Manaus, 1,000 miles up the Amazon River, tells you the same story.

"That's where Pavlova danced," he says as you cruise by the Opera House—your taxi rolling on tires of imported Malayan rubber.

That puts the economics of the Amazon valley today in a Brazil nutshell.

For the vast majority of local people, the past is what really mattered and they have only skepticism about the future. Brazil, where rubber grows wild in the forest, used to be the world's only source of commercial rubber. Settlements with all the trimmings of civilization, such as opera houses good enough to draw Pavlova, sprang up all along the Amazon.

But by 1910 the boom was over. Plantations of rubber had been grown in Malay from Brazilian seed and the once prosperous Amazon basin shows little sign of overcoming its economic sloth.

In the 1920s, Henry Ford put $5,000,000 into Brazilian rubber. He might as well have thrown it in the river. There is still some demand for Amazon rubber but production and transportation costs keep it insignificant in the world market.

Pavlova was not the only attraction in the Amazon's heyday. Entire opera companies journeyed from Italy across the Atlantic and up the river to Manaus.

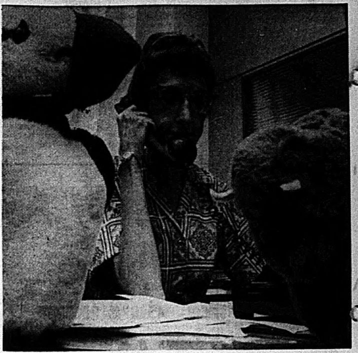
A cable was laid from Belem to Manaus to keep merchants informed of world rubber demand and prices. The Madeira-Mamore railway was built through 365 miles of jungle, to give easier access to the rubber forests.

The story says that every tie on the track represents a human life lost to yellow fever and malaria. The ties were imported from Africa because all local labor was too busy tapping rubber to waste time on cutting timber.

The wealthy class imported clothes, champagne and courtesans from Europe. Some even sent their laundry to London. It's little wonder, then, that the people of Amazonia prefer dreams of past splendor to today's drab meagreness.

Economics Graduate Plays With Dolls, It Is Part of Her Government Job

By MARILYN ARGUE



SHE'S GOT A FUNNY JOB — Rosalind Orr spends most of her day with dolls and little children's games. The 28-year-old former statistician promotes Canadian toys for the department of trade and commerce. (CP Photo)

OTTAWA (CP)—What about a 28-year-old girl with an honors degree in economics who plays with dolls and little children's games? It sounds like the plot of an avant-garde movie but it isn't.

Rosalind Orr is a commodity officer with the department of trade and commerce and toys are her business. The job means promoting Canadian industry abroad and telling manufacturers about help the government can give them.

There is only one other woman along with the 60 men who deal with all the industries in Canada. The department has said it doesn't like to hire girls, especially as trade commissioners abroad, because in some countries businessmen won't deal with a woman.

"That's one of the lines," Rosalind says. "I think it's just a die-hard prejudice."

A former statistician with the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, she "just fell into" her present job. "They'd been thinking about hiring a woman for quite a while and then I came along."

Besides toys, she handles giftware, jewelry, souvenirs, brushes, brooms and mops, and cosmetics.

VISITS FACTORIES

If you're looking for a good Canadian toy, you can hardly go wrong, says the tall, fair-haired expert. "The Canadian industry is very versatile. It makes everything and all its toys are very good."

She has plush buffalo and puffins in her office, but she has to visit a lot of factories too, to keep tabs on methods of production and talk to managers. "We travel about one week a month, mostly in Ontario."

Sometimes there's a chance to attend a trade fair in Europe. Rosalind was all set to go to the toy fair in Nuernberg, Germany, last winter, where Canada was among more than 60 countries exhibiting. But at the last minute she became ill and someone else had to replace her.

She has helped Canadian toys sell around the world, even in Japan, but she says the Commonwealth countries are still our biggest market. "Especially Australia and Britain. I think they're used to our kind of styling. You'll get a craze for a certain kind of toy everywhere, like the one for toy racing cars."

The job has other advantages besides giving an inside view of international business, Rosalind says. "I wouldn't trade working with a bunch of men for working with a bunch of women at any time. It's a lot of fun."

"After 306 days I realized I loved him too," she said.

GROOMSBRIDGE, England (CP)—Nigel Jenkins and his family evacuate their Sussex cottage during rainstorms—not because rain comes through the roof, but because traffic threatens to come through the walls. LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Jailers at Walton, one of Britain's top security prisons, thought two prisoners were praying when they saw them on their knees in their cell. Then one morning they found an empty cell with a gaping hole in the floor. The men had escaped through a tunnel dug during their prayer sessions.

Driver Helps Birds

KINGSNYMPTON, England (CP)—Traffic authorities gave a Surrey man permission to park his car in a prohibited area while a nest of blackbirds hatched in the engine. Charles Murrant found two birds and four eggs under the hood one morning so left the car where it was with the blessing of the municipal council.

Say Battery-Operated Hearts Possible Within Five Years

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Medicine has chalked up tremendous successes in postponing death, relieving pain, in patching people up.

And it is only starting to realize its full potential.

Some elements in future health care are suggested by U.S. doctors and other specialists, conservative or liberal in their viewpoints.

One major emphasis, most agree, will be upon preventing disabilities and illnesses, including cancer, heart attacks, and even the galloping plague of the common cold.

The emphasis will be upon keeping you well and vigorous, through total, comprehensive care. You may, each year, have a checkup involving 30 or more tests, most of them simple, with automated equipment and a computer analysing results initially for your doctor to consider.

Within five years, possibly, ailing human hearts may be removed and replaced with small, battery - operated mechanical hearts.

BORROW-ORGANS

Ultimate success is expected in the dream of becoming able to borrow vital organs — kidneys, hearts, glands, limbs—from the dead and transplanting them into the living. Death often knocks prematurely because one organ fails in a person who otherwise is 90 per cent healthy.

Some scientists confidently expect we shall learn how to alter human heredity, one's genes, to prevent inheritable defects, as well as to correct those that do occur. And they suggest we'd best begin now to think about safeguards to assure that genetic "tampering" is done wisely and with constructive interests only.

Average lifespans may increase appreciably. It is more likely that debilitating, degenerative diseases of aging will be postponed longer.

Some nagging moral or ethical questions may become more acute: Just how long should heroic and expensive efforts and medications be continued to keep breath in aged, helpless persons who may be only technically alive? Who might decide whether or when to stop?

When, as one heart specialist puts it, "should we allow human beings the dignity of death?"

Is too much effort, some physicians wonder, being spent on adding a few years to adult life, as against preserving children and younger adults from grave health threats, or overcoming their physical or emotional handicaps?

In the planning stage now—and a matter of some controversy — is establishment of a national U.S. network of regional centres for heart disease, cancer and strokes. It is intended to bring the best skills in diagnosis and treatment of these diseases to every physician and patient, region by region, to overcome the lag between discovery and application, to spur research, to train more health personnel and specialists.

Change is moving through American hospitals. They are modernizing in more attractive and efficient design, and in adopting labor - saving techniques.

Automation in hospital laboratories is becoming well - advanced; computers are entering to reduce paper work, keep records, to speed the flow of information, even to aid in more careful administration of drugs to patients. More supplies are disposable, used but once, and there are more efficient methods of preparing and serving meals.

WILL GET AID

Physicians will have more assistance in keeping abreast of the flow of advancing medical knowledge — while keeping the responsibility to determine its value for their patients.

The American Medical Association, for example, is considering a national plan for continuing medical education. It is launching a pilot study soon, in Utah, partly to measure the individual postgraduate educational needs among doctors.

The American Academy of General Practice has made certain requirements for continuing education a condition for maintaining membership in the academy.

The harried medical student will find his courses changing and, some medical deans predict, being broadened into the life problems of his future patients.

Rawdon

RAWDON — On Friday afternoon Mr. Thomas Sarles, cheesemaker at the Central Cheese Factory had the misfortune to sever a portion of the forefinger of his right hand while working with the cream separator. The other fingers were also bruised.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson and family attended the funeral of her mother Mrs. Joseph Hollinger at Foxboro on Saturday.

Too Many People and Too Little Land Mean Metro's Future to Be High-Rise

TORONTO (CP)—Too many people, too little free land and housing prices already beyond the means of one-quarter of the population in Metropolitan Toronto are quickly establishing the look of the city of the future.

Real estate agents, building developers and planners say there will be no more model communities within a community like Don Mills and Guildwood Village, with their sprawling, land-consuming design. Instead there will be entire towns and villages housed in single or multiple towers in the next few years.

They will have apartments, shops, swimming pools, barbers, offices, even cocktail lounges.

Residents will share large community lawns and the grass will be cut, the snow shovelled, for them. They'll get portions of community gardens and be able to grow whatever they like.

By 1980, real estate men say, one-third of new housing in Metro will be multiple-structure in character, like apartments and row houses, with most attention on row housing.

The changes will come for many reasons but, above all, from economic necessity, they say. New houses are already becoming a luxury that anyone earning less than $7,000 a year cannot afford.

Realtors estimate that one-quarter of Metro's population don't live in houses now, and most of them cannot afford one.

Even the people who do have houses find it increasingly difficult to hang on because of pressures such as increased assessment.

The real estate men estimate that if the total population were to start from scratch now, only one in seven would be able to pay the current bills on a new house.

Metro still has more single-family houses than apartment units, but the gap is narrowing. There were 360,000 houses and 195,000 apartment units at last count. By 1970, there will be 400,000 houses and at least 310,000 rental units.

"If present trends continue, the area will become a virtual no-man's land for the middle-income earner and his family," says Alex Grant, head of the Urban Development Institute.

He said it is nearly impossible for the $7,000-a-year man to buy his own home. The Toronto Real Estate Board puts the minimum wage at $8,000, still about $1,000 more than the average wage here.

Average price for a new home in Metro is between $22,000 and $24,000. Average for a resale is $18,000.

Demand for housing by a fast-growing population, rising land and building costs are said to be partly responsible for the trend.

Realtors say 30 per cent of Metro land is still unoccupied, enough to provide all the area housing needs if it was not tied up in speculation, or what realtors call "hoarding," putting speculative money in land because prices are rising so rapidly the speculator can find no better place to put it.

They would like local and provincial governments to undertake studies, to find out exactly why housing costs keep going up so rapidly.

The urban development institute, on the other hand, blames outmoded planning principles, a deplorable pattern of land misuse, restrictive by-laws and unrealistic municipal tax bases for the rising costs.

"The gap between what it costs to put a roof over one's head and what one earns is beyond being bridged," says Mr. Grant who speaks for apartment developers, land assemblers, lawyers, architects and some town planners.

Madoc

MADOC COUNCIL MEETING

MADOC — The regular meeting of Madoc Village Council was held on Monday in the library. Members present were Reeve Thos. Burnside and councillors, J. M. Caverly, C. R. Hagerman and T. C. Barton.

A delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, consisting of Robert Wilson, Larry Stickwood, and Presley Nickle, waited on council requesting that the parking by-law be changed from the one-hour parking limit to two-hour parking on Front Street.

Council agreed that this matter would receive thoughtful consideration between now and the next meeting. The COFC were granted permission to erect a "free parking" banner on Durham Street at Elgin.

The clerk was instructed to write the Reeve of Marmora Village thanking him for the invitation for the Village of Madoc to participate in the centennial entertainments in Marmora June 7, 1967. The clerk was asked to contact the president of the Women's Institute regarding the forming of a centennial committee in Madoc.

It was moved that tenders be opened for oiling the streets. Council decided to accept the H. J. McFarland Construction Company tender of 25½ cents per gallon for supplying and applying D.H.O. prime.

Marmora

Mrs. Thomas Monk of Toronto is visiting her son Mr. Bill Monk, Mrs. Monk and family. She was accompanied by her daughter Mrs. Rodney Bimson of Willowdale who spent a day with her brother.

Joseph O'Neil of Oshawa is holidaying with his mother Mrs. P J. O'Neil, and Peter.

Miss Pearl McCaw is leaving for a trip to the British Isles and Europe.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

It was very difficult to fully interpret the intent of the draftees of the By-Law when they used the word "or other professional person" in the section which deals with the permitted uses for an "A" district. However, the permissible uses are generally those which might be said to provide services to inhabitants of a residential area and it may also be construed that the intent of the draftees was to allow services of a medical nature to be made available to the householders within a general residential area. But the experssion "other professional person" which might include a lawyer, architect, enigneer, chartered accountant, etc., would allow persons who should have their offices in a business district to operate from residential areas. The other uses, which in the past have been by custom permitted, such as barbers, beauty shops, etc., should also be located in business districts or neighborhood shopping centres.

With the amendment to By-Law No 6495 included in By-Law 8156, the permitted medical use allowed would be on approximately the same terms as is the use permitted in the annexed portion of the City covered by By-Law No. 7060

White Elephant Store Does Fine Business

DESERONTO — The White Elephant Store in Deseronto is a modest effort on the part of the women of that town to do their bit in assisting with the Centennial Park project. A number from women's organizations of each church in town are taking turns in keeping it open. At first it was to be open only on certain days, but people have been coming on all days, and sometimes at all hours, to look over the bargains. Now it is seldom closed

Mrs. Charles Griffiths is the leading spirit in the project.

The White Elephant store is situated in the former Mason Department Store on St. George St., a store which had both drygoods and furniture, and so it is ideal for their purpose. However, they find that their furniture department is always emptied within a few days after any donations arrive. Sometimes the furniture is never taken off the truck which collects it. People are looking for furnishings for their cottages now, and tables and chairs, stoves, refrigerators and washing machines are picked up quickly. They have not enough books for the demand, and dishes are hardly in the store before they are gone. Even odd saucers find ready buyers.

The only thing which they have in quantity is clothing, and some kinds, such as for children, or bathing suits or sports clothes, are snapped up right away. They have a quantity of winter clothing which they are reserving for display when fall comes.

The White Elephant Store has been open less than a month in Deseronto, but the group has already banked $360.

None of the money will be spent until next year just before the official opening, July 1.

Napanee Personals

NAPANEE — Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Creswick had as their weekend guests Mr. Creswick's brother, Maurice D. Creswick and Mrs. Creswick of Toronto. For dinner Sunday they had also his sister, Mrs. A H. Newman and Mr. Newman of Ottawa and their daughter, Mrs. John Wright, with Mr. Wright and Andrew of Dorland.

Mrs. Albert Alton of Locknow with her granddaughter, Miss Marjorie Alton, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Hogeboom and her husband and family of the Deseronto Road.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. MacLeod of Fredericton, N.B., are with Mrs. MacLeod's sister, Mrs. Stanley Sexsmith of Centre St. They were called here because of the illness and death of Mr. Sexsmith. He was stricken with a heart attack and died Thursday of last week.

Miss Melanie Roung of Rockton, who has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Taffs of Piety Hill, accompanied them to Midland Friday where all attended the wedding of her brother, Richard Roung and Miss Beverly Scott.

Fred Bradshaw of Toronto is visiting his sister, Mrs. Wilson Hart of Tobert St. Other guests of Mrs. Hart last Saturday were her sister, Mrs. Archie Cook and her husband of Rossmore; and her son, Dr. S. W. D. Hart, with Peter and Patricia of Picton.

The 60 Napanee and district travellers who left for London Airport June 20, returned to Canada Tuesday evening. The plane was late reaching Dorval Airport, and the crowd which had gathered to welcome them about 8:30 had dwindled by the time the bus arrived after ten. Many had been met by relatives at the airport. Mrs. Wendell Burns missed the plane, but is expected today. Among the anxious ones to return was Mrs. Raymond Fretts whose husband suffered a severe heart attack a few days ago. He is now out of the intensive care unit in the Kingston General Hospital. The plane was chartered by the 47th Battery, with most of the arrangements made by Police Chief Harry Benn.

Remanded In Custody For Sentence

NAPANEE — Duane Ellsworth Presley of R R 3, Napanee, was remanded in custody last Tuesday for sentence July 19, by Magistrate R. C. Jackson Presley, who is 17, pleaded guilty to three charges, one of consuming liquor while under age, and two charges of assaulting Provincial constables when they were arresting him. He acknowledged kicking Constable George Woodcock and Constable Karl Moorland, and of using abusive language.

For creating unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, Archie Haaksman of Enterprise was fined $26 and costs.

There were the usual cases of traffic violations, some settled out of court, and others remanded.

DEVELOP NEW VACCINE

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australian scientists at the Commonwealth serum laboratories here have developed a new influenza vaccine, free of toxic side-effects, which can be used safely even on infants, it was announced Wednesday. The new vaccine is produced by splitting the virus particle into small components by use of the chemical sodium desoxycholate.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

NAPANEE — Scoutmaster Stewart McConnell and 20 of his boys from the 2nd Napanee Scouts shared a common experience last week, a whole week under canvas at Lime Lake. Everybody is still talking about the good time they had, and how much they learned.

All the meals were cooked by the boys themselves, under the supervision of the Scoutmaster.

All cooking was done out of doors in stone fireplaces built according to scout rules. Always there was a "fire pail" beside each fireplace. The final meal consisted of steaks, cooked just right. Scoutmaster McConnell had secured scrap iron sheets for the cooking area over each fireplace.

Each of the four tents contained five boys, with Brian Gourlie, Richard Copeland, Larry Schenk, and Fred Pixley as the patrol leaders, one to a tent. Discipline was strict, but Scoutmaster McConnell says the boys were co-operative. "It required a lot of supervision," he says, "but we al learned a lot."

The fathers took turns spending the night with the scoutmaster, some staying for two nights. Keith Gourlie, Don Hart, Jim Tucker and Charlie McConnell shared the camping experience with their sons.

One evening the camp was honored by a visit from Bob Casey, the district commissioner, and Sunday was parents' day. Sunday was also church day, with the boys and their leaders attending the service in the Anglican Church in Tamworth. The Rev. Mr. Brandon geared the whole service for the boys.

Most of the equipment is new, purchased by the boys with money earned themselves. One major project was demolishing the old town barn and carting the debris to the dump.

Rotary Club Hears Talk On Australia

NAPANEE — There was a good attendance at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Napanee Rotary Club Tuesday in spite of the fact that seven of the members were in Valleyfield, Que., taking part in the annual district Rotary golf tournament. W. S. Esdon was one of the prize winners. Others playing were: Dr. Robert McLellan, Earl Morrison, Herb Knuth, Harry Taylor, and president Robert Wartman.

Mr. J. R. Dennett, chief X-Ray technician of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital, was the guest speaker. He kept up a running comment as he showed a film of Australia, his native land, showing the Great Divide and the big dam built at Downy Ridge for the Hydro project.

Mr. Dennett received his education and technical training in Australia, leaving there for Alberta. He afterwards went to the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto, and from there came to Napanee when this hospital opened.

Mr. Dennett was introduced by James Hepburn, administrator of the hospital, and was thanked by William Charlton.

Short Skirts Give Hosiery And Cosmetics Field Day

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — Short skirts certainly have highlighted legs. Hosiery, cosmetic and shoe firms are having a field day as a result.

For modesty, stretch stockings now stretch up to becoming stocking tights. For beauty, creams and lotions are needed to smooth knees. For the young look, shoes are flat and round-toed.

In fact, fashion editors here for the fall fashion showings found as much fashion news in the whole range of accessories as in the clothes.

We can expect to see pale legs, dyed-to-match-the-costume legs, textured legs and shimmer legs, says the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers.

White made its debut last spring and carries over into fall. Newly important will be navy, green and the rich plum shades. Hanes introduces shockingly fuchsia and shockingly citrus. For evening nylon Jewelites provide glitter in gold and silver tones. Their flickers come in black-silver or white-gold sweater knit stretch. Then, too, there are the crocheted stockings to contrast or match your costume.

SHOW KNITTED CHECKS

For the miniskirted crowd, Cameo has a new hose that combines a brief panty and the most in legs, in colors from pale to dark. If you're the outdoors type, you'll find plenty of new fall interest in the knitted look in checks, chevrons, honeycomb and tattersall patterns.

Jewelry also emphasizes the short skirts, with hemline pins. One was in a solid gold design with fringe. However, the real jewelry interest is in the dramatic earrings. Long and dangling they try to lure attention away from the legs.

Short skirts even influence the fall handbags. A large bag overpowers the contracted dress or coat. So the newest handbags go from small to smaller.

Perhaps the most influenced by the short skirts are the fall shoes. Even for evening, with the slim classic or the new pup tent silhouettes, you need a medium-heeled shoe for that total look. And the rounded toe is essential. Pumps feature choppy shapes along with blocky heels. Straps range from single to multi. Boots are the extra fashion dividend. There's the laced-up grannie, the always popular cowboy. However, the spat look is the newest. You can find everything from a sports spat with the toe and heel in snakeskin to a wet look with fur top.

Circus Ladies in Dual Roles As Performers and Mothers

"A woman's work is never done," goes an old saying, and a truer phrase was never spoken. But among the wives and mothers who raise their families and maintain their homes within the tinseled world of the circus, the adage carries particular significance.

Charming Mrs. Pat Miller, more commonly known as, "Miss Patricia," ballerina bareback rider with the Sells and Gray Circus ,not only excels in her work under the big top, but finds time as well to devote full attention to her two year old son, Stuart. Twenty-one year old Patricia manages to divide her time very efficiently between the big top and her family. Her son, despite his mother's busy life, may be one of the best cared for children today. He will make his own decision as to whether to be a performer or not: "That's how my own mother let me decide, and that's the way I believe it should be done," says Mrs. Miller. Her child is one of the happest babies to be seen, and the circus clowns delight him already.

Petite Christine Hudson came to this country from England in 1960, met and married the circus manager, and has been training elephants ever since. As the show moves every night, there is very little leisure time for the entire Hudson family to be together; there are, however, several hours between performances in which to take walks, shoot a round of golf or, usually, catch up on their much needed rest. Chris has more fear of automobile accidents than she has of accidents resulting from a fall from one of her elephants. She explained that the show troupe is much more liable to mishap than are ordinary folk because of the large amount of time spent on the highway.

Recently married, Carmen Del Molino holds the record for danger per day; swinging forty feet above the centre ring while performing such housewifely chores as sitting on a kitchen chair, which is balanced on one leg, which is in turn, perched carefully on the swinging trapeze bar. And, look ma; no hands!

I'M AFRAID

"Yes," she admits quietly and a bit shyly, "I'm afraid actually . . . every day. But I've taught myself to eliminate the emotional, unreasoning aspect of fear, and yet retain a calculating fear; a respect for the danger involved. Fear is my best insurance. It keeps me cautious. Besides, she smiled, "the pay is excellent."

There are many interesting stories within the Sells and Gray Circus. Mrs. Joyce Hill, with one husband ,three active children and seven performing poodles. Or Mrs. Tanys Yong, whose oldest child was born in China and her youngest in Peru. But perhaps the most fascinating tale to be told at the circus sewing circle is of Gerda Pedrola, her husband Padre and their daughter Dagmar. Together this trio of flying trapeze stars fled to Free Berlin by hiding in a cargo of unfinished lumber. This year marks the Pedrola's first tour beneath free skies and they have just recently applied for U.S. citizenship. "After the guns and the barbed wire, says Mrs. Pedrola, who's afraid of a silly old fall from the trapeze?"

The Sells and Gray Circus will appear in Belleville on Tuesday, July 19 at 2 and 8 p.m. The tented city will be erected for the one day showing across from Belleville Drive-In. Its appearance is sponsored by Fire Fighters Local 497.

Opposition Flays Conditions for Pension Increase

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—The government proposed increased pension payments for some Canadians Thursday and immediately started collecting lumps from opposition MPs who said the program was too little and too late.

Health Minister MacEachen, who had promised the Commons a statement on pensions before the summer recess, rose early in Thursday's sitting to describe a program which would "guarantee a minimum monthly income of $105" to those who now qualify for the old age pension of $75 a month.

But opposition MPs quickly noted that the government plan does not mean a boost to a $105 pension for everyone. It would only guarantee that no pensioner would have to live on less than $105 a month.

This is just a means test under a different name, said Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), and it would take away the dignity of Canada's pensioners.

Eric Winkler (PC — Grey-Bruce) said the program would be "totally inadequate." He tried to introduce a motion for an emergency debate on pensions but was ruled out of order by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux.

WANTS CHANGES NOW

P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East), noting Mr. MacEachen said a bill embodying the pension changes would be brought in when the Commons resumes its sitting in October after a recess, said the changes should be instituted immediately. He asked whether the increasd payments would be made retroactive but got no reply from the minister.

"Means test" and "needs test" were the words used by opposition MPs in attacking the program. Mr. MacEachen denied there was any such condition.

However, the expression being used in government circles to describe what will determine that supplemental payment is "income test."

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) asked whether there would be any test involving "income or resources" before pensioners are eligible for increased payments.

Details of the method to be used will be disclosed in the

2 Admirals Ask Early Retirement

OTTAWA (CP)—Two of Canada's four rear-admirals have confirmed they have asked to be retired early, adding weight to reports of a dispute between the officers and Defence Minister Hellyer over integration of the armed forces.

Reports Thursday night said the four rear-admirals are resigning or about to be fired because of differences with the minister over the way integration is proceeding.

Rear-Admiral Robert P. Welland, 45, deputy chief of operations at Canadian Forces Headquarters, said in an interview early today he has asked to be retired early. He would not comment further on the reasons for the request.

Rear-Admiral H. C. Burchell, 54, of Ottawa confirmed Thursday night he asked to have his retirement moved ahead, but has received no decision from his superiors.

OTHERS MENTIONED

The other admirals reported to be on the way out are:

—Rear - Admiral William Landymore, 50, of Halifax, chief of the Maritime Command and the Atlantic Fleet.

—Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, 51, of Esquimalt, B.C., deputy commander of the Hospital Strike Started

MONTREAL (CP)—The non-professional staffs of seven Montreal hospitals went on strike at 7 a.m. today, as scheduled, at the opening of a strike of 21 hospitals across Quebec.

Pickets set up lines shortly after the strike deadline.

Last - ditch talks aimed at averting the walkout apparently failed. Mediation between the Quebec Hospital Association and the National Federation of Services (CNTU) was carried on throughout the night in a downtown hotel.

The seven hospitals represent about 4,500 beds.

Two hospitals in Sherbrooke were reported being picketed.

Further negotiations were rescheduled to begin shortly after 8 a.m. Reached at his hotel room by telephone, Paul-Emile Olivier, leader of the hospital association's negotiating committee, would make little comment.

"I can't say much at this time," he said. However, today should be a very good day for negotiations.

"Always, we have to be optimistic. We've made some progress in the last two days. But I can't say any more."

One of Montreal's largest hospitals, Notre Dame with a normal staff of 4,000 and patient population of 1,100, had only 350 patients in hospital this morning.

The staff had been reduced by 1,800.

Hardest-hit section of the hospital was its kitchens. Other non - professional posts were relatively easy to fill with volunteers. Notre Dame's elevators are all automatically operated.

However, a spokesman told reporters it would be difficult preparing the large number of meals needed daily without the regular kitchen help.

In Montreal, but apparently not taking a direct hand in the talks, was Premier Daniel Johnson, who arrived Thursday night after saying the threatened strike would "plunge the population into a disastrous situation."

The Negotiations were being carried on non-stop with no public announcements.

In town too were Justice Minister Jean - Jacques Bertrand, who flew in with Mr. Johnson.

Sparking the talks at the hotel was Yves Pratte, a government legal counsel appointed

Negro Looter and Young Girl Shot Dead in Chicago Rioting

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Negroes, a young girl and a man, were shot and killed early today after the third night of violent disturbances in a predominantly-Negro community on the west side, police said.

Eight policemen were wounded by snipers, and two of them were sent to hospital.

The girl, Roseland Howard, 14, was hit in the head by a stray bullet and killed as she stood on a front porch during a wave of trouble in the area, which is about four miles from the western edge of downtown Chicago.

The man, shot a short time later, was identified as Raymond Williams, 22, of Robinsonville, Miss. He also was dead on arrival.

It was not known who fired the fatal shots.

Chicago hospitals said they had treated or admitted about 50 persons. Police said more than 200 were arrested.

At least nine Negroes were shot and wounded, police said. Two policemen, including a captain, were shot in the back.

Six other policemen and a fireman were treated for superficial gunshot wounds and released, police said.

More than 900 policemen were sent into the area Thursday afternoon in an effort to quell the disturbances, touched off Tuesday night when police turned off a fire hydrant.

Police said Williams and William McBeth, 16, were seen looting a store in the area. They

Surviving Girl Loses Her Memory

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

CHICAGO (AP) — A petite Filipino girl first beheld the horror of eight butchered girl friends . . . a sweatsoaked man's undershirt . . . a blood-splashed, clothing-strewn house full of fingerprints. . . .

Corazon Amurao, a 23-year-old exchange student lying heavily sedated in a hospital bed, is the only witness and survivor of the early-morning slaughter of eight student nurses Thursday in a townhouse that served as a dormitory. Police hoped to question her today.

The undershirt, the fingerprints—these were among what police considered pitifully few clues to the identity of the nurses' killer.

The nurses were slain one-by-one—by strangling, stabbing or both. One girl's windpipe, carotid artery and jugular vein were cut. Tests to find if the girls were sexually molested were incomplete, although one girl was naked and five others in various stages of undress.

"We've got a sub - animal here," said police commander Francis Flanagan. "I've never seen anything more horrible than this."

Miss Amurao escaped the massacre by rolling under a bed. She lay there, unmoving, through the terror-filled night. The girl was so hysterical when she freed herself from her bonds at 5 a.m. that doctors would not permit detailed police interviews.

Only the girl and the killer know the answers to these questions:

—What did the intruder look like?

—How did he enter? Leave?

—How did he conduct the mass slaughter without neighbors hearing even a single outcry?

—Why did Miss Amurao, cowering a few yards away, hear no scream?

"That's what's giving us a tough time," Flanagan said. "She seems to have totally lost recall from the time she went under the bed."

From the girl's fragmentary account, police searched for a man with short, probably crew-cut hair, slender and about six feet tall.

11 Votes Taken on Last Bill

By GERARD McNEILL

OTTAWA (CP) — The 27th Parliament passed one last bill, on which 11 votes were called, and then recessed early today until Oct. 5.

The three recorded and eight standing votes on a government bill aimed at settlement of the last and thorniest issues of the Quebec dock strike left veteran observers searching for a precedent.

A stubborn opposition said the government was trying to get advance approval of any recommendations Commissioner Laurent Picard may make in an inquiry into automation procedures in the three ports that were affected by the strike—Montreal, Trois - Rivieres and Quebec City.

The day also was highlighted by Health Minister MacEachen's announcement of a $30 monthly supplement to old age pensions for those who won't qualify for benefits from the contributory Canada Pension Plan. It will guarantee them a minimum income of $105 a month.

The announcement was met by criticism from Conservative and NDP spokesmen who have been seeking a straight $25 monthly increase for all pensioners.

Under the terms of the waterfront bill, Dr. Picard's recommendations will be binding on Fire Sweeps Thousand Acres of Brushland Near Carrying Place

1,000 - ACRE BRUSH FIRE — This was the scene yesterday afternoon as firemen and neighborhood families fought side by side in an effort to bring a brush fire along the Rednersville Road under control.

An apparently harmless rubbish fire got out of control yesterday afternoon and scorched an estimated 1,000 acres of brush land and fields along the Rednersville Road this side of Carrying Place.

Some nine fire-fighting vehicles from Belleville, Trenton, RCAF Station, Sidney, and Wellington fire departments responded to the alarm which was received around two o'clock in the afternoon.

Hampered by a strong westerly wind, the fire-fighters employed everything at their disposal, including water-soaked burlap sacks and hand fire extinguishers, in an attempt to arrest the fire's steady progress across the parched terrain. Neighboring families pitched in and worked side by side with the firemen.

Before the blaze was brought under control late in the afternoon, it had cut a black swath several hundred yards wide and stretching along the south side of the Rednersville Road for a mile and a half.

It is believed that the fire got its start in a burning pile of rubbish behind a home near the road at a point six miles west of Rednersville. Initial efforts by neighbors to extinguish the fire proved futile, and as the fire began to spread into adjacent fields, an alarm was sent in to the Trenton Fire Department.

Chief Ted Poste of the Belleville Fire Department said that two tank trucks, one from a nearby farm and the other a dairy vehicle for transporting milk, were adapted to a fire-fighting role and proved of invaluable assistance.

For some time it was feared that the fire would reach woodland to the south, but furrows to act as fire-breaks were hastily formed with plows and a bulldozer, and the blaze burnt itself out.

Fire-trucks gave the area a thorough soaking-down for several hours afterward to prevent the possibility of any of the shouldering rails, trees, and fences re-igniting.

Fortunately no one was injured, and virtually no property loss was incurred in the occurrence, although the flames at times came dangerously close to several neighboring dwellings.

Mr. Black is resting at the O'Brien - Rutledge Funeral Residence, West Moira Street from where the funeral will be held on Saturday morning to St. Michael's Church for Requiem Mass with interment in St. James' Cemetery.

Accused Given Extra Week to Raise Money

Cecil E. Stone, 30, of Cannifton, was remanded one week for sentencing by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today on a charge of theft of copper pipe from the construction shed on the work site of the Belleville General Hospital.

Stone had been remanded from last week for sentencing today but Magistrate Wills gave him one more week to see if he could raise the $150 required for restitution.

The court was told that value of the stolen pipe was $303, but of that, the contractors were able to salvage between $150 and $175. Stone was ordered to pay restitution for the remaining $125 or $150.

"You'd better face some of the facts of life," Magistrate Wills told him. "You've got $150 to raise and you had better raise it."

Earlier Magistrate Wills had sentenced Stone to two years probation, but he withdrew that sentence and said he would have to take into consideration whether or not Stone can pay restitution.

Stone remains in custody.

Barrow Hogs To Be Judged At Local Fair

The Ontario Hog Producers' Association has authorized Belleville Fair to hold one of three special Barrow Hog Shows in Ontario this year.

The show will see Barrow hogs judged at the Fair itself on Monday, August 15th, and prize monies awarded to winners. Then, the barrow hogs will be sold through the Hog Producers' teletype auction system and carcasses judged again at the packing plant. Hogs that have been declared a champion or grand champion at the show will be eligible for the Special Carcass Class that will carry with it a top prize of $50. plus a ribbon. The carcass awards will be made at the Ontario Hog Producers' annual meeting in Toronto March 21st and 22nd, 1967. The Royal Bank of Canada has also donated an award of a complete silver tea service and tray to the Grand Champion Carcass Winner plus a silver tea tray to the Reserve Champion.

In addition to the prize monies available to owners of Champion or Reserve Champion barrows, any hog from the show that is graded an "A" carcass will receive a $4 premium.

One of the reasons that the Hog Producers have introduced barrow shows is to interest more young farmers in raising quality hogs. The show is open to any boy, girl or young adult 25 years of age or under by September 1st, 1966. The three shows to be held in Ontario during 1966 will be at Belleville Fair August 15th; Stratford Fair, September 19th and the Owen Sound Fair in October.

Hogs may be entered in three divisions: 1. Yorkshire; 2. Landrace - Lacombe; 3. Crossbred. Only one entry per person is allowed in each division with a top prize of $25 for the Champion. Entries must be in by August 8th. Entry forms are now available from the Secretary of Belleville Fair, Mr. E. Gowsell, 91 Humewood Drive, Belleville.

As classes will be limited to 50 animals, those farmers planning on making an entry should complete and return forms at the earliest possible date.

Day Campers Spend Day at O'Hara's Mills

On Friday, July 8, the YMCA Day Campers went to O'Hara's Mills, which has been constructed by the Moira River Conservation Society. There they were given a demonstration of how the logs are cut and were told of the mill's history. After lunch, the campers were led along the Nature Trail, where they collected leaves to place in their scrapbooks. In the crafts program, popsicle stick trays, autograph books and jewellery boxes were made and painted. The campers boarded the bus at three o'clock and returned home to enjoy a swim in the "Y" pool.

Monday, July 11, entailed a bus trip. The first stop was Lake-On-The-Mountain for a naturelore hike and lunch. At one-thirty, the campers boarded the bus for the Glenora Ferry and a tour of the Fisheries. The ferry took the campers to Adolphustown Park for a swim and recreational program. Leaving the park, the Hay Bay road was taken back to Belleville.

Tuesday involved an overnight for the boys at the Y Day Camp site at Oak Lake, while the girls enjoyed their overnight on Wednesday. The Campers slept out under the stars, with regular camp procedure being followed. Wiener roasts, hiking, swimming, and the traditional camp-fire singing at night were all carefully supervised by the Counsellors.

Mrs. Gandhi Fails to Win Russian Backing for Call for Viet Nam Talks

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP) — Prime Minister Gandhi of India holds a final round of talks with Premier Alexei Kosygin of the Soviet Union today amid indications the Russians have turned down her Viet Nam peace proposal.

She was expected to make a last-ditch effort to get Kosygin's backing for her call to reconvene the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina but her task appeared hopeless.

In an address Thursday at an Indo - Soviet friendship rally at the Kremlin, at which both leaders spoke, Kosygin ignored the Indian proposal presented to in private talks.

Instead he hit out at United States "vandalism and barbarity" and renewed an earlier pledge to send volunteers with arms to Viet Nam if North Viet Nam requests them.

Informed sources read Kosygin's speech as a virtual Soviet rejection of Mrs. Gandhi's plan.

WANTS BOMBS STOPPED

In her address, which preceded Kosygin's, the Indian premier said there should be an end to all bombing of North Viet Nam and that involved parties should take the Viet Nam issue to the conference table. There was no alternative course.

The sources said Kosygin had made clear even before the rally in discussions with Mrs. Gandhi that the Soviet Union could not act without a request for peace talks from Hanoi.

So far the North Vietnamese —and China—have said they are opposed to negotiations without prior acceptance by the United States of Communist conditions.

Mrs. Gandhi leaves for home Saturday.

An hour after she flies out, British Premier Wilson arrives on a similar Viet Nam peace probe. But diplomatic observers said the Russian response to Mrs. Gandhi made it virtually certain he also will fail.

Britain and the Soviet Union were co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference which divided Viet Nam and if another conference is to be held the two countries probably would have a similar role to play.

Surviving

with men who fit that description," Flanagan said. But, he added, Miss Amurao said she could identify the killer.

NO SUSPECTS CHARGED

Police launched a massive manhunt, set up roadblocks, hauled in a half dozen suspects for questioning. None panned out.

Miss Amurao and seven of the victims, all students at South Chicago Community Hospital, lived in one two-storey unit of a row of townhouses rented by the hospital. The eighth victim, Mary Ann Jordan, also a student, was an overnight guest.

Six girls were in the house. The intruder awakened Miss Amurao between 10:30 p.m. Wednesday and midnight. She was confronted by a man holding a knife and pistol.

He herded all six girls into the back bedroom upstairs and bound them with 1½-inch-wide strips of bed sheeting.

The other two girls who lived in the dormitory, and Miss Jordan, arrived later. They, too, were forced into the back room and trussed.

Then came the massacre. The girls went to their deaths one at a time.

Downstairs:

On a sofa, strangled, Gloria Jean Davy, 22, Dyer, Ind. She was one of the three who came in late. ("This girl came in fully clothed," Flanagan said, "and was found naked.")

In one front bedroom:

Merlita Gargullo, 23, Santa Cruz, Manila, her throat cut, ankles and wrists tied with a piece of sheeting;

Nina Jo Schmale, 24, Wheaton, Ill., multiple stab wounds in the neck, a band of sheeting tied across her mouth around the back of the head, and strangled;

Valentina Pasion, 23, Jones, Isabela, in the Philippines, strangled and multiple stab wounds on the neck.

In the other front bedroom:

Patricia Ann Matusek, 20, Chicago, strangled and wrists tied;

Pamela Lee Wilkening, 20, Lansing, Ill., stabbed in the left breast and strangled;

Miss Jordan, 20, Chicago, stabbed repeatedly in the chest, in the left eye, in the back of the neck. One wound went through the heart.

In the hallway:

Suzanne Bridget Farris, 21, Chicago, stabbed repeatedly in the chest and chin.

Dr. Andrew Toman, Cook County coroner, said the killer used a two-edged knife—similar to a hunting knife. He said he believed the girls were strangled with strips of the sheet torn from one of the beds.

"We have to believe the man came in through the kitchen window," said Flanagan. "The screen was off."

And then he grew somber.

"When he brought victim numbers two and three into each room," he said, "can you imagine the thoughts they must have had?"

SCREAMED FROM WINDOW

Miss Amurao had to stumble past the bodies of four of the victims to reach the bedroom window ledge from which she screamed:

"They are all dead! They are all dead! My friends are all dead! Oh, God. I'm the only one alive."

The townhouse is in a far southeast side community known as Jeffery Manor. Eight student nurses lived in the unit next door and nine in the third unit.

Theft Charges Bring Youth Jail Term

David Wilshire, 20, of R. R. 1 Halloway, was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate T. Y. Wills today after he pleaded guilty to two charges of theft.

Wilshire stole a change purse July 13 during a dance at the Belleville Arena. He also stole a purse the same night. Contents of the purse was $10, and of the change purse, $1.30.

Police said Wilshire took the purse and change purse from underneath a chair, took them to a washroom and emptied them.

Wilshire has a lengthy criminal record dating back to 1963. Crown counsel Ralph Graham called for a jail term during his argument.

Magistrate Wills said, "I think this youth is just asking for some kind of sentence."

Man Stabbed At Inco Mine In Walkout

SUDBURY (CP)—A man was stabbed Thursday at the International Nickel Co. mine at nearby Levack when about 200 miners staging a wildcat walkout attempted to stop one employee from driving away from the mine property.

Police said Elton Turcotte, 29, of Azilda, was in fair condition in hospital Thursday night with a stab wound in the chest.

Police have charged Reginald Levergne, 31, of Chelmsford, with wounding. He is to appear in court today.

About 100 workers from the mine's 2,000 - foot level walked off their jobs Thursday morning claiming they were being treated unfairly by management. Others joined them as the day progressed.

Police said about 200 men turned a fire hose into an employee's car as he was attempting to leave the mine area. The crowd also kicked in the car doors and jumped on the hood.

GRABS KNIFE

Police said the driver grabbed a hunting knife and stabbed Turcotte. He then drove off through the town of Levack, finally surrendering to a provincial police detachment in Dowling Township, about two miles away.

Tony Soden, president of Local 6500, United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said the walkout "resulted when the men felt they were being treated unfairly by management."

He urged the men to stay on the job but said "we are oware of the causes that are making our men dissatisfied."

The union has charges against the company pending. They involve alleged violation of the Hours of Work and Vacation with Pay Act. They will be heard in Sudbury July 27.

A three - year contract between Inco and the union expired Sunday. The parties have been negotiating for several weeks.

the International Longshoremen's Association and the Shipping Federation of Canada, the parties involved in the 39-day strike that ended June 14.

It resulted in a 40-cent hourly wage increase this year and next for the longshoremen, but the thorniest issue was that of automation on the docks.

Conservatives and New Democrats joined in strong opposition to the bill. They said the government was forcing compulsory arbitration on the ILA as a result of a deal made by Labor Minister Nicholson with the shipping federation.

Mr. Nicholson said strikers and shippers were aware that binding legislation would back the inquiry. The ILA has said it would co-operate with the inquiry and respect the results.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) sparked the first vote with an amendment that would have sent the bill to the Commons standing committee on labor and employment, where he said, all sides could give their version.

QUESTIONS BACKGROUND

Mr. Lewis referred to Dr. Picard's "management background" and said the Commons should not approve anything until it has some idea what he will recommend.

Robert McCleave (PC—Halifax) said the commissioner could force dockworkers to use camels and elephants to unload ships or wear bikinis in winter.

The government benches voted down the amendment. A second recorded vote on the bill approval in principle.

The opposition then forced eight standing votes on every clause and stage of the bill.

It was given third reading on a final recorded vote, then went to the Senate, which passed it in 15 minutes.

Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Prowling

Wayne Paul Joseph Langabeer, 18, of 105 Cedar St., was remanded one week for sentencing after he pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of prowling.

Police said they received a call at 11:48 p.m. from a resident of 166 George St., who said she was alone in her apartment and saw a man looking through her window.

She screamed and ran to the next apartment. Two men in that apartment ran out looking for the prowler and located Langabeer on Dundas St. near the Dairy Queen. They took his name and reported him to police. He was arrested later that evening.

Magistrate Wills said, "This prowling business is a serious matter and this is a deliberate case of it; just outright deliberate."

IN MEMORIAM

ARGENT — In loving memory of our dear father, William, who passed away July 15, 1963.
We lost a father with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than wealth untold,
Without farewell he fell asleep,
With only memories for us to keep,
We have lost but God has gained,
One of the best fathers the world contained.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Ron, Bob and Nancy.

ARGENT — In loving memory of a very dear husband, William, who passed away July 15, 1965.
It is sad to walk the road alone,
Instead of side by side,
But to all there comes a moment,
When the ways of life divide,
You gave me years of happiness,
Then came sorrow and tears,
But you left me beautiful memories,
I will treasure through the years.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mandelean.

ARGENT — In loving memory of a dear brother-in-law, William, who passed away July 15th, 1965.
One year ago God saw you getting weary,
And whispered come and rest,
You didn't say a last farewell,
Nor even say goodbye,
You were gone before we could see you,
And only God knows why.
—Always remembered by the Bulpit Family.

BERRY — In memory of our dear Aunt Sarah, who passed away July 15th, 1965.

BERRY, Mrs. Sarah (Aunt Sarah) — Died July 15, 1965.

McKAY — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Norman McKay, who passed away July 15, 1963.
In tears we saw you sinking,
We watched you fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,

But when we saw you sleeping,
So peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back,
To suffer that again.
—Always remembered by mother, father, brother Doug. and sisters Nellie, Grace and Joyce.

BERRY — In loving memory of a dear aunt, Sarah Ann Berry, who passed away July 15th, 1965.

legislation, Mr. MacEachen replied.

Mr. Knowles said Mr. MacEachen "let the cat out of the bag" when he said the program would cost an estimated $225,000,000 at the start.

That amounted to less than $15 a month, perhaps as low as $11, for every person now drawing the old age pension. This made it obvious it was on a completely different basis than the $75 pension now paid to everyone at age 69 no matter what their financial position.

"It's clear from the details he has given us that this is just the means test under another name."

Mr. MacEachen said details of the new proposal are still being considered. A starting date for the program would be revealed when legislation was put before the Commons.

"The total payments which will be required under this program will, of course, decrease over the years as the Canada and Quebec pension plans come into effect and pay increasing benefits."

The supplemental benefits were designed to help pensioners who, because of age, would be unable to participate in the pension plans. The cost to the federal treasury would be "almost entirely a transitional one," fading out as the other pension plans started to take effect.

Mr. MacEachen noted that the eligible age for the flat-rate $75 pension is being reduced each year until it will be paid in 1970 to every Canadian at 65.

One government source estimated that at least half of the 1 100,000 Canadians now drawing the $75 pension will get all or some of the $30 supplemental payment.

But Mr. Knowles, who described the announcement as "bitterly disappointing" to his party, said this still would leave a host of pensioners out in the cold.

Some pensioners had been able to save a little money and arrange an income that amounted to $105, $110 or $115 a month. "In this legislation there is nothing for them at all."

The idea of the Canada Pension Plan is to provide additional money for Canadians after they retire he said. The supplemental program would not do this for those persons too old to participate in the Canada plan.

FUND HAS SURPLUS

Mr. Knowles also said the surplus in the old age pension fund was almost $217,000,000 last March and was expected to reach $455,000,000 by the end of the 1966-67 fiscal year.

This meant the government could immediately jump pension payments to $100 a month for every eligible Canadian and still have a surplus.

Canadian taxpayers contributed to that fund to provide pensions for the elderly. To leave that surplus sitting there instead of distributing it to pensioners was "a disgrace" and a violation of the spirit of pension legislation."

Howard Johnston (SC—Okanagan-Revelstoke) said if a guaranteed income is to be successful it should be generous. The government should have increased the basic rate before tacking on the supplemental payment.

One Arrested After Police Officer Killed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—One policeman was killed and another seriously wounded when they stopped an auto during a routine patrol in south Philadelphia today.

Other policemen converged on the area and threw up a dragnet for three men seen fleeing on foot.

At least one man was arrested when he climbed to a roof and then jumped and officers caught him.

Lieut. James Agnew said the shooting occurred when patrolmen Michael Robinson and George Jacobs stopped an auto, "either for a traffic violation or because they were suspicious of it."

Robinson was shot in the side; Jacobs was shot in the chest, and killed, said Agnew.

Neighbors of Low-rent Units Unhappy About Development

By MAURICE SWITZER

"Put them in areas by themselves — then if they want to better themselves, they can."

Although low-rental housing is a recent Belleville fixture, statements like the one above indicate that opinions are not long being formed on such innovations. The views of residents living in two Belleville subdivisions containing low-rental units were found to be particularly emphatic in a recent door-to-door survey made by this Intelligencer reeporter.

Of some dozen home-owners who are "neighbors" of low-rental tenants, all but two expressed almost identical sentiments. They were convinced that property value throughout their respective subdivisions was lowered considerably by the very presence of low-rental units and in particular, by the number of children in low-rental homes. As one housewife put it: "There are too many people congested in them."

Three housewives in a west-end subdivision, each of whom said they didn't "mix" much with their low-rental neighbors, said that there were 45 children living in the five low-rental homes in their subdivision. Disregarding the accuracy of such calculations (this reporter tallied closer to 30 children) it was evident that large families were definitely thought to be conducive to poor property values. A woman in an east-end Belleville subdivision said of low-rental occupants in her neighborhood: "I haven't anything against them—but we plan our families."

There were a few complaints of children of low-rental families stealing toys and using profane language, although one housewife conceded — "I suppose my kids have been known to do the same things."

WORRY ABOUT VALUES

Home-owners in the two subdivisions concerned also agreed on another point: they would never have moved into their present homes had they been aware of the presence of near-by low-rental units. "I think they should have been a little more fair with us," said a CNR trainman, "the people in those homes are all right, but if we want to sell our property . . ."

Not only did home-owners voice simillar thoughts on low-rental families, but they also shared a lack of basic knowledge about the background and organization of low-rental housing. Almost all of the home-owners questioned thought that low-rental tenants are "welfare cases" and that "the government" was looking after the upkeep of their homes.

However new low-rental housing may be to Belleville, similar projects have been recognized for their value in easing housing shortage problems for many years in other parts of the world. A recent Canadian Press report on the subject from the United Kingdom states: "Unlike Canada and other countries where public housing is in its infancy, there is little loss of 'status' for a family living in public housing in Britain, where such housing has been built on a major scale since the First World War."

REQUESTED SURVEY

As a result of a study conducted by provincial housing authorities several years ago at Belleville's request, this city subsequently asked the Ontario Housing Corporation to see to the construction of 40 low-rental units in Belleville. From that point, says City Manager J. R. Reynolds, the city has had a "negligible involvement" in the project, only being bound by an agreement to contribute 7½ per cent of any operating loss that may be incurred by a low-rental unit. Said Mr. Reynolds:: "The Ontario Housing Corporation pays municipal taxes just like anybody else."

Within the past year, the Ontario Housing Corporation, operating on its federal-provincial subsidy, has seen to the construction of the 40 units in Belleville, 26 of which are occupied at present. Included in these low-rental units are 3-bedroom bungalows, 2-storey 4-bedroom homes, 5-bedroom split-levels, and two row-houses.

About 10 of these low-rental units are situated in the two subdivisions which were visited, one located at the western extremity of College Street, the other near the eastern end of Bridge Street at the Haig Road. The other 16 occupied units are scattered throughout the city. The passerby would not notice them.

Mr. William James, the local Ontario Housing Corporation manager, screens applications and allocates the low-rental units by a "points system", which takes into account the number of children in the applicants' family, the applicants' present accommonation, and the need of accommodation, Mr. James says that there is no favoritism in the system, which operates on a "first-come, first-served" basis, with names kept on file for future vacancies.

Answering claims that "welfare cases are being put in $20,000 homes," Mr. James said that rent is based solely on the income of the family, and may range from $45 to $125 monthly. (Several low-rental tenants said that the term "low-rental" is misleading, since in some cases, according to their means, families pay a higher rent than many private landlords collect.) Only about 10 percent of the Belleville low-rental families are drawing welfare, and their rent is at a set rate. The figure paid for rent includes heat and a hot water heater, with tenants making seperate payments for hydro and for telephone, if they have one.

Once the tenant occupies the completed low-rental home, he has the same responsibilities as any other tenant. Mr. James said that the homes are leased on a monthly basis, and are required to be inspected at least once a year, although he usually visits the tenants monthly.

ALLOW NO ARREARS

The low-rental families are bound by several stipulations that their neighbors might find rather stringent. Mr. James said that if a 'reasonable number of complaints" were lodged against the "behavior" of any low-rental tenant, that tenant could be evicted from his dwelling by OHC. "There are no arrears allowed in rent payment" said Mr. James, "there is no charity about it. They pay whatever they can afford."

The local set-up with its screening and inspection system would appear to be free from the abuses found in larger low-rental complexes, such as those in England, where some people who can afford their own homes have been discovered living in tax-subsidized public housing. A study of the low-rental system in Britain stated that the latter problem arises when "Some move into a publicly-owned house or apartment when their income is low and later strike it rich, or their local housing authority may not have inquired too closely about their income in the first place."

"We need homes like these for people who can't afford to buy them and to provide good housing for larger families," says Mr. James. "Try going to some landlord, say you've got five kids, and see how you do."

"Just because a man moves his family into a low-rental home doesn't mean he's going to turn the neighborhood into a slum."

But the objections do not abate. Home-owners in one subdivision held a meeting to pool their protests and sent off a letter to a member of parliament asking that the "problem" be remedied in some way. One group of subdivision home-owners in Belleville's east end said that they had complained to city council and were told "it was too late to do anything about it."

CHILDREN MIX

As for the low-rental tenants, although many of them were aware that their presence in the subdivision was sometimes resented, they gave no indication that they knew any specific form of protest had taken place. "I don't really socialize with them," one low-rental occupant said, "but our children get along fine with theirs."

Those objecting to low-rental projects as they now exist are not only home-owners in concerned subdivisions. A local realtor reflected the sentiments of many home-owners when he remarked: "I don't agree with the philosophy of integrating these people with everyone else. They haven't anything in common socially with their neighbors. They would be happier on a street or in a subdivision of their own."

Underlying the vague theories of property devaluation and "congested, run-down" low-rental homes of the future is a more subtle and relevant motive for objection on the part of subdivision home-owners. One irate housewife summed up this sentiment: "My husband and I have done without to make a better life for our children and move into a better community. It's unfair that they should be given a home as good as ours. We want our privacy." Be this misplaced pride or whatever, the home-owners clearly feel that the right to live in a "respectable" subdiviision must be earned and that low-rental tenants are not paying their way.

TENANTS PLEASED

The 10 low-rental families interviewed had very little to say Yes, they are very pleased with their new homes. (There was little to choose between their homes and those of some neighboring home-owners, perhaps the only distinguishing feature being very tinny-sounding door-buzzers with which the low-rental units are equipped.; And no, they do not feel they are free-loading from the general public.

The so-called low-rental "problem," then, would appear to be a unilateral one. The "solution" advocated by home-owners in subdivisions containing low-rentai units is a simple one — put low-rental tenants in groups "of their own." But if one accepts the premise offered by the same home-owners that low-rental housing breeds property devaluation, what is to happen when low-rental tenants are herded together?

Low-rental families are genuinely appreciative of the opportunity they have been given to live in a "respectable" environment. One housewife living next to a low-rental unit said: "I don't see why it shouldn't work out. They have a home as nice as mine, and if they take pride in keeping it up they have every bit as much right to be here as I do." And pride may be the key to untangle the "problem" before it gives itself a chance to develoop.

QUESTION OF PRIDE

If there is going to be a problem, it will not be one which can be discussed in terms of generalities. It is just as unfair to categorize all low-rental tenants in terms of the actions of one or two of them as it is to judge the merits of all home-owners from the behavior of a minority. If a low-rental tenant abuses his privilege, the answer could lie in the fact that he is a tenant, instead of an owner, and does not possess the pride of ownership of his own dwelling. If this is the case, a realistic solution has been suggested.

Speaking to Belleville and area home-builders in March, Jean-Yves Gelinas of Montreal, 1966 president of the National House Builders' Association said: "Government subsidization of housing for low-income families might well take the form of assistance to these families in purchasing their own homes, rather than in the provision of low-rental accommodation. The financial help provided could consist of long-term loans, at lower interest rates, combined with capital subsidies.

"The concept whereby the economically weak citizens must, of necessity, be provided with homes on a rental basis should be looked at more closely. Consideration should be given to various alternate proposals permitting the poorer class of citizens to become owners of their own one-family dwellings, like any other group of citizens."

In London, Ont., Mr. Hellyer said he has received no resignations. But recent discussions with officials at Canadian Forces headquarters here indicated "certain personnel" were willing to retire if given pension advantages. This involved no loss or reduction in pensions should anyone be fired or retired early.

Informants said the admirals clashed with Mr. Hellyer about his feelings that officers with any doubts whatsoever about integration should not hold command.

They said the rift was in no way connected with the double promotion to vice-admiral from commodore of Ralph Hennessy, 47, which was announced last week.

Rear-Admiral Burchell said he fully supports the policy of integration. But he said he held different views on how it should be implemented.

The possibility of Canada losing its only admirals reached Parliament Hill shortly before the Commons adjourned for its summer holidays. Conservative MPs were unsuccessful in attempts to round up enough information to bring the matter on the floor of the Commons.

According to Ottawa sources, Rear-Admirals Welland and Burchell want to be retired as soon as possible. They said Rear-Admiral Stirling refused another posting and will be retired. Rear-Admiral Landymore has refused to resign, forcing Mr. Hellyer to fire him, the sources say.

The four admirals are being compared to three other senior officers who retired last week before normal retirement.

Mr. Hellyer, announcing their retirements, said they left through "mutual understanding."

The three are Lt.-Gen. Frank J. Fleury, 52, comptroller-general of the armed forces; Lt.-Gen. Robert W. Moncel, 40, vice-chief of the defence staff, and Vice-Admiral Kenneth L. Dyer, 50, chief of personnel.

Vintage Aircraft Will Be Rebuilt for Air Show

TRENTON — Technicians at No. 6 Repair Depot, Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, will hold the distinction of re-constructing the two vintage aircraft flying in the Centennial Air Show to be presented in 41 centres across Canada next year. Officially the aerial extravaganza will be called "Golden Centennaires" and involve 15 aircraft including the two AVRO 504K built in 1900 and being restored here especially for the new role. The two-winged trainer designed and flown first in Britain in 1913 appeared in Canada in 1919 and was eventually retired at Camp Borden in 1928.

TO REST IN MUSEUM

After the centennial tour both of the 504K's will find a permanent resting place in the air force museum at Rockcliffe at Ottawa. None of these models are displayed there at the present time.

The Golden Centennaires open their show in Ontario in May 1967. They follow the same circuit as the Golden Hawks who thrilled thousands with their aerobatic feats before a government austerity move disbanded them a few years back. The team commander for Canada's Centennial Air Show is Wing Commander O. B. Philps formerly based at Trenton.

WILL OPEN EXPO

The team leader Squadron Leader C. B. Lang is another well known service pilot. Perhaps the best known flier locally is Flight Lieutenant Dave Barker who performed on the same program as the Golden Hawks under the name of the Red Knight.

To the Golden Centennaries also goes the honor of opening and closing Expo 67. They are scheduled to appear for the entertainment of Canadians and visiting birthday celebrants coast to coast.

Details of Canada's Centennial Air Show were revealed at a briefing at the air base this morning for the first time.

Off Beaten Track

Superhighways, for the most part, are efficient arteries which enable tourists to reach their destination in the shortest possible time. These highways, moreover, have the facilities so necessary to the modern motorist.

For this reason secondary roads remain virtually unexplored, and vast tracts of the continent's most interesting terrain are lost to view.

The latter-day tourist is a pampered individual. He and his family are less concerned with the great sights of nature than with getting to the next service station so they can stretch their legs, have a breather and refreshment, and be on their way again. Children, in particular, need breaks in the often boring passage across the miles.

However, there is a move afoot to kindle interest in the less-frequented routes. Promoted by an advisory board of businessmen, it has the backing of the Dominion Automobile Association. It is aimed at spreading tourist expenditure more evenly across the nation as well as affording the visitor an interesting vacation. This, in turn, would pre-suppose facilities being provided on the secondary routes.

To encourage travel on such routes the association says they should be marked more adequately. Often the traveller venturing off the beaten track becomes lost in the maze of rural routes that criss-cross the country. Roads may be bumpy and surfaced only with gravel. After a few hours trapped in this kind of situation tempers can run short.

Where signs exist they are often faded relics of earlier days, and difficult to decipher, particularly when trees on which they are posted have taken on more foliage over the years.

The automobile association claims responsibility for the markings is not clearly defined and frequently has been a target for "passing the buck." It propounds the view that planning and provision of road markings should rest with the respective highway departments which have already charted the main routes.

This is a logical suggestion and one with which should arouse little argument. The association calls for marking not only of secondary roads but dead-end routes as well. If secondary routes are marked in this fashion it will add greatly to the pleasures of motoring, by taking the motorist into virgin country which, nevertheless, will not be many miles from main routes where service facilities are available.

War Against Pollution

The planned establishment of water pollution testing facilities in Kingston and Brockville is indicative of the federal government's intention of coming to grips with this problem of contamination in the St. Lawrence as well as the Great Lakes.

The Kingston centre will check samples from the Great Lakes, while Brockville will cover the St. Lawrence river from Kingston east to the Quebec border. In addition, a government testing vessel may operate from Brockville.

Pollution is one of the most pressing problems of the day, and the government has a duty to take all possible measures to determine to what extent it is encroaching into what once was unadulterated water.

An even greater responsibility lies on shipping using the Seaway and on industries which also discharge waste into the inland waterway. These two factors — shipping and industry — must share much of the blame for the spoilage that exists today.

Not only must the government determine the extent of the pollution, but it must ensure as far as possible that regulations regarding the discharge of waste are obeyed by shipping companies and by industry.

Canoeing Stalwarts

They are tough, mighty tough — in the North. Remember there was that hardy band of Indians which passed through Quinte waters last fall. Now we see a pair of miners from the iron ore town of Atikokan in Northwestern Ontario has won the Lindsay to Lakefield canoe race.

Donald Meany, 31, and Norman Jewett, 24, in buckskin jackets, shorts and moccasins, and sweat rags on their purposeful brows, beat all comers in an exciting tussle with the watery elements.

Meanwhile, preparations are going on for the 100-day, 3,500 mile race from Rocky Mountain House, Alberta, to Expo 67 next year. Twelve voyageur canoes, replicas of the trading canoes of a century ago and representing the ten provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, will compete.

One of the canoes was taken out for trials in the choppy waters of the Deschenes Rapids near Ottawa last Saturday. Its six-man crew had a foretaste of next year's gruelling passage across half a continent.

The British government of the Duke of Wellington passed the second Corn Law 138 years ago today—in 1828. The move followed general discontent with the first Corn Law, of 1815, which protected the landowners from foreign competition in the grain trade while keeping the price of bread for consumers high. Wellington's measure permitted grain to be imported at any time and fixed duties on a sliding scale—high when the price of English corn was low and reduced as the English price rose. The act alienated the landlord class, yet won Wellington no favor with the Liberals, who recalled that he had defeated the measure when it was earlier introduced by Canning.

Girls Find Adventure in Orient

Vancouver Sun

Five months ago, 24-year-old Barbara Brimacombe sat at the controls of a U.S. Air Force plane high over the jungles of Laos.

Today, in her family's home at 2293 Gordon Avenue, the blonde adventuress told the story of her off-limits flight over the war torn country.

"My girl friend and I wandered into an isolated American air force base in the Laotian jungle on our way down the Thai peninsula," she explained. "Word spread around the base that we were hitch-hiking through the country."

"One of the pilots — horrified at the thought of us wandering through dangerous territory — taxied his plane around behind a shed where no one could see him, told us to climb aboard and took us with him on a lengthy supply-dropping mission," said Barbara.

"It was fabulous," she added. "We saw the whole of Laos from the air. The pilot even let us fly the plane for a while. It was exhilarating to fly over enemy lines."

Barbara's illegal jaunt over Laos was just one of dozens of incidents she and companion Barbara Pinckney of Savannah, Ga., encountered on a recently-ended four-year tour of the world . . . by thumb.

The girls circled the globe on a hitch-hikers holiday through Europe, Africa, India and Southeast Asia, running across more than their share of adventures en route.

But, says Barbara, the air trip over Laos was the highlight of the tour.

• • •

"When we finally landed at a tiny airfield in the bush, the plane was surrounded by gun-wielding Laotians. The pilot told us to keep out of sight for fear of arousing their suspicions. We hid and took off again later without incident."

Feminine wiles played a big part in getting the girls where they wanted to go.

"Once, when we were trying to get into Arab territory and had no visas, we sat at the border crossing and cried. The Arab guards couldn't stand to see us that way so we slipped them a few dollars and they let us cross."

Barbara's trek started a year after she graduated from high school when she boarded an ocean liner to travel the world as a normal tourist.

"But when I got to England I decided it was ridiculous to travel in style. I cashed in my ticket and set off by thumb," she said.

She travelled across Europe with a German girl, picking grapes in France and working as a background actress in a film being shot in Rome.

There she met Barbara Pinckney and the pair teamed up for the remaining three-and-a-half year tour.

"We once got a ride with three Germans who agreed to smuggle us into Libya," said Miss Brimacombe. "We had no visa for that country. We were caught at a road check and the Germans were immediately deported. The officials wanted to put us in jail, but the American embassy came to the rescue."

From there they travelled to Tunisia, Morocco, South Africa, Nepal and Ceylon — en route home.

• • •

The final leg of their global jaunt took the girls into Laos, Malaya, Singapore, Hong Kong and Australia.

"My friend decided she wanted to work in Hong Kong, but I wanted to come home in time for Christmas," Barbara said. "Hong Kong would have meant another year away, so I didn't stay there."

"Generally, everyone was fabulous to us wherever we went" she added. "The problems we ran into were very minor, compared with the kindness we received.

Her next project? Working for a time and then a trip across Canada.

"I feel so embarrassed," she said. "I've been around the world but I've never seen my own country."

"But if I were to get a letter from Barbara in Hong Kong, saying she was bored there, I think I'd move off with her again."

Science Is International

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some misguided patriot packed a tiny American flag into the Surveyor, which made a soft landing on the moon last month. I suppose this could be the equivalent of planting the flag on newly discovered territory and claiming it for our own.

In this symbolic gesture, we did not promote the cause of "Americanism"; rather, we simply extended the earth's anarchy to another planet. If the Moon is going to be a "colony" of the earth, we might as well abandon the whole project now.

Science, as we know, is completely international; the men responsible for our technological progress have been Germans, Norwegians, Italians, Swiss, Russians, Englishmen, Frenchmen, as well as Americans. Without their shared knowledge few of our 20th century achievements were possible.

If we begin to export nationalism to the moon, we are defeating the very purpose of science and exploration. What will then happen on the moon will be a rapid duplication of what has happened on the earth — claims and counter-claims, invasions and reprisals, conflicts and conquests, all trailing the customary consequences of hate, misery and death

The moon must represent a radical break with human history, or else it will merely provide an enlarged arena for our enmities. If it is to be used ond developed, it must be as a huge laboratory for learning more about the universe we live in, not as another source of space and power and exploitation by rival states.

The power structures have always bent and corrupted knowledge for their own special needs; science has always been subservient to politics, and to its logical extension, war. If this terrestrial tragedy is going to be repeated on a lunar scale, then the billions we are spending for exploration on the moon are more than a waste — they are a menace.

It is not inconceivable that some military power might like to use the moon as a gigantic sentry-box from which to rule the earth. This would have seemed like the wildest of science fiction even a dozen years ago; today, it is more than a remote possibility. "Who controls the moon controls the earth" may be the military slogan of the 21st century.

The need for some abiding form of international law has never been greater, to transform the struggle for outer space into a cooperative effort to harness all the forces of nature to bring a better life to all peoples. This is the only hope left in the Pandora's box which science has flung open into the startled face of modern man.

"Cool Guys" His Undoing

(Letter to The Christian Science Monitor)

How much longer is our government going to be intimidated by the liquor and tobacco industries?

The widespread use of tobacco by women is directly traceable to the glamor ads, in accordance with the intended purpose of these ads.

If the actual effects of the use of liquor was shown in place of the false glamor picture which is use to advertise this poison, it would have the opposite effect on its consumption.

The other night I was called to the police station at 1 a.m. to see my 16-year-old son. He was drunk nearly to the point of passing out — on beer! If I had had a flash camera, I would have taken a picture so that when he was sober he could see what he looked like. When he left the house in the evening he told me he was going to work. I let him use the car as there is no bus transportation in this town. He failed to stop at a stop sign and hit another car, badly damaging both automobiles. He had been with a group of youths whom he called "cool guys." The policeman told me that I was not the only concerned parent in the town and earnestly said, "Mrs. — , we don't know what we are going to do."

The government passes laws against the poisoning of food, so why in the name of sanity don't they pass a law outlawing the advertisement of poisonous liquor and tobacco — why must these young people suffer disaster in order to learn that the promises of glamor are actual lures to self-destruction — not necessarily the intended purpose, but the result?

Sciatica Common Ill With Various Causes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the best thing to do for sciatica? — Mrs. D. P.

• • •

The best thing to do for sciatica is, first, to find out what is causing it. Sciatica is the name we apply to neuralgia (or pain) when it attacks a certain nerve, that is, the sciatic nerve which extends down the backs of the thighs.

Nerves behave in more than one way. If somebody steps on your pet corn, it hurts. The pain impulses are transmitted by nerves. But you also feel pain if the nerve itself is damaged — irritated by infection, pinched, or what not.

Sciatica is the result of some irritation or damage to the sciatic nerve. This nerve originates in the lower segments of the spine. Therefore the pain, which seems to affect any or all of the area from the lower back down through the buttock, hip and thigh, can be the result of pressure at the root of the nerve. A damaged disc in the spine may be responsible. Or the spine may be pushed slightly out of normal alignment by arthritis. Or osteoporosis (a loss of calcium in the bones) of the spine may permit enough change in the bones so that pressure is exerted on the nerve.

Some toxic (poisoning) condition can be responsible. So, at times, can diabetes or gout. Tuberculosis of the spine and syphilis are examples of diseases which can affect this area. Or, indeed, infection in some remote part of the body can be responsible.

If only one side of the body is affected, a physical injury involving the nerve, or an injection given in certain areas of the buttock are possible causes.

From all this you can appreciate that a salve or massage or any such simple remedy is not going to be the answer. Rather the infection or pressure which is irritating the nerve must be relieved.

Sciatica is a rather common ailment, but that does not mean its cause is easy to find.

Your doctor, by making tests which you may think are far removed from your problem, may find that lurking infection, or by X-ray discover osteoporosis or arthritis of the spine, and then be able to give you some real relief.

In some instances he may have to refer you to a neurologist. If a damaged disc is involved, surgery may, occasionally, be the ultimate solution. Sciatica can be made to yield but only if you find out the basic cause. Do not make the mistake of expecting some easy, simple remedy to provide a quick cure.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Periodically my ear forms a crust inside, which seems to peel off but feels quite sore underneath. There is also some swelling toward the outside. I would like your opinion. — R. R.

A general guess probably is easy: some sort of recurrent dermatitis or skin ailment. A specific diagnosis is something else, however: is it a fungus, a bacterial infection, or what? My advice, is to consult a dermatologist (skin specialist) or an ear specialist for diagnosis.

• • •

Note to A. S.: I think you are confusing hiatal hernia (which is an internal problem) with inguinal hernia in the groin and with navel hernia. The latter are faults in the abdominal wall. Your doctor can evaluate your hernia and advise when it should be repaired surgically.

Provincials Top 3,000 Mark

Stratford Beacon-Herald

With only two exceptions, Ontario has the largest deployed police force on the continent, Commissioner Eric Silk reports. The exceptions are California State Police and in Canada the RCMP. The Ontario Provincial Police force numbers 3,045 uniformed men, and there are about 800 civilians employed. In November, 1956 — not quite 10 years ago — the force numbered only 1,399, or less than half the present total. In 1939, it was somewhere around 500.

The Commissioner says recruits are "pouring in," and that the objective of 3,203 men by end of this year will easily be reached. This is in contrast to periodical reports, not many years ago, of numerous resignations, losses to industry and other police forces, and that the force was undermanned. It is easy to find the reason: in higher pay and improved conditions.

Since 1954, when the OPP was said to be short 200 men, and when a $9-a-month pay increase was termed "disgusting," there have been four or five increases. There was a $300 rise July 1, 1965, to be followed by a similar one July 1, 1966, applying to all ranks up to and including sergeant. A first-class constable receives $6,500 after five years; a recruit starts at $5,624. Former long hours have been modified, and many detachments now work from modern stations designed for the purpose.

There are still many municipalities policed by the OPP, which of course is a factor in the required strength of the force. The number of such municipalities has varied from 40 to 100 through the years. The gradual rise in police salaries (totalling $16,729,400 in 1964-65, according to the public accounts) is necessarily reflected in the bills to the municipalities for police services, causing some to study the alternative of a local force. In this part of Western Ontario, auxiliary police organization under EMO seems to be giving satisfaction to municipalities depending on local police.

The OPP is an important arm of the law in respect of crime detection, a prime factor in traffic control, and has a record of general efficiency in which the people of this Province are entitled to feel pride.

Adults or Adolescents?

Orillia Packet and Times

Why don't we grow up?

The vast majority of us have never ridden on the back end of a motorcycle or the front end of a surfboard, yet here we are, a pack of middle-aged teenagers, aping the talk, the dress, the tastes and the behavior of a handful of mopheads who do. Is there anything more ludicrous than a stylish matron in miniskirts, boots or dead-pan make-up? Is there anything more pathetic than a bank president writhing about in what he believes to be The Monkey? Can there be any hope for mature adults so caught up in "camp" that they spend their leisure watching the televised inanities of batman, talking cars, witches, monsters and other fantasies from the world of kids' comic strips?

Granted, we live in an ugly age, an era of junkyard sculpture, pop art, kitchen-sink drama and dirty denim fashion. But must we also be assailed at every turn by the raucous rhythm of bizarre beatniks in televised commercials? Must we be forever "turned on," endlessly a-go-go? Must our whole society be geared to the level of the adolescent — the hip talk, the narrow ties, the pointed toes, the kooky dances of the junkies and the surfers, the black-jackets and the beatniks? Are we all teen-aged swingers? Who are we kidding?

On reflection, one sees that we are the victims of the copywriters and promoters, the king makers of our time. This relative handful of hucksters and hustlers is obsessed with the cult of the adolescent, and the image they have created of the ideal North American adult, that god in whose likeness we fancy we all are made, is that of an ageless swinger, an eternally arrested adolescent, doomed to live the frenetic life of a teen-ager until, still gamely Frugging, he sinks into the grave and is buried with a copy of Playboy in his hand, a cool cat of the Pepsi generation?

Isn't it about time we grew up? Isn't it time we left off dressing and talking and dancing and behaving like our children? Isn't it time we recognized "camp" ad "Op" and "Pop" for the adolescent escapism they are, and left the dance-floor writhings to the truly young? Isn't it time we left the nightmare jungle of the adolescent for the infinitely more rewarding world of the adult, a mature world at once more dignified and less formalized?

Agreement Puts Workmen on Annual Salary

KINGSTON (CP) — A labor agreement hailed as "a first in North America" has been signed with Aluminum Co. of Canada here.

It eliminates wages calculated on an hourly basis and puts all workers on what a union spokesman called an annual salary.

Lloyd Fell, international representative of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said the new plan ensures employees a weekly wage equal to 40 times the old hourly wage. He did not disclose current wage rates.

Overtime will still be paid on time worked in excess of 40 hours a week.

Unions involved in the agreement are Local 343, United Steelworkers of America, and Local 54, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers CLC.

Mr. Fell said two unions bargaining together for a single contract was also unique in Canadian labor negotiations.

Months of negotiation went into the new contract, which provides wage increases ranging from 22 cents to 57 cents an hour over a two-year period retroactive to May 18. Vacation and welfare issues were also negotiated.

Two Remanded On Gasoline Theft Charges

Two Belleville youths were remanded until July 26 today for trial on a charge of theft of gasoline from Weaver Motors in Trenton.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded Robert John Holmes, 17, of 242 Victoria Ave., and Thomas Wilson Bongard, 17, because he wanted their parents to know about the charges.

Magistrate Wills asked Holmes if his parents knew about the charges. Holmes said, "No sir. I don't want them to."

"If you live at home, the last thing I would do is deal with you without your parents' knowledge."

Magistrate Wills told Bongard his parents would also be told.

The two youths were remanded on their own recognizance for the sum of $100.

They will appear in court July 26 to answer the charge.

Ottawa at A Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, July 14, 1966

Parliament recessed for the summer until Oct. 5 after passing one last bill—concerning the Quebec dock strike—after 11 votes.

NDP members forced the votes but drew solid support from the Conservatives as they made MPs stand and be counted at almost every stage.

The recess came exactly two weeks after the government began moving for a start of the holiday which eluded MPs night after night.

The monthly unemployment report showed there were 230,000 Canadians without jobs at mid-June, a drop from 247,000 in May.

State Secretary LaMarsh announced the appointment of a woman judge in Halifax, new CBC directors and new members of the Canada Council.

Slim Chance In Regaining Use of Limbs

OTTAWA (CP)—A four-year-old girl whose arms were severed when she was run over by a hay mower has a slim chance of regaining use of the limbs.

A team of three doctors completed a difficult, and possibly unprecedented, 12-hour operation Thursday to restore both arms of Myrna Blair of Pakenham.

They said afterward they would not know for several days how successful they had been.

U Thant's Opposition To U. S. Policy May Hasten His Retirement

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

U Thant is only the third secretary - general the United Nations has had—and the first non-European—and he may also be the first to retire after one five-year term next November.

It is becoming increasingly plain that Thant's opposition to the American position in Viet Nam is the reason for his anticipated decision.

U.S. President Johnson does not heed much of Thant's advice but the United States, other major powers and even the Soviet Union seem to be agreed that Thant should stay on.

Good men are hard to find, and perhaps especially now when the UN seems to be back in the doldrums as a world force for peace and understanding after the brief triumph in settling the Indian - Pakistani war.

TRAVELLED WIDELY

In any event, Thant has been travelling extensively, including calls in recent months on President de Gaulle of France, who, while no great admirer of the UN, sees eye to eye with Thant on a number of things.

Thant also is heading for Moscow this summer — his fourth visit there, and this will complete visits to all the big UN powers in the last six months, including Canada.

The manner in which he was received last in Washington is symbolic of the somewhat strained relations that persist with the U.S.

That was before Thant expressed "deep regret" at the U.S. decision to step up bombing in North Viet Nam—in a war which Thant has called "one of the most barbarous . . . in history."

DID NOT TALK

Johnson, as is his habit at times, in mid-June suddenly invited all UN heads of missions to a White House reception and carried Thant to Washington for the event by special jet plane and limousine.

But the president, mindful of Thant's persistent message that a stop to the bombing of North Viet Nam is the first essential for peace in Viet Nam, did not talk to him personally but left the job to State Secretary Dean Rusk — a conversation which Thant described later as "very informal and, if I may say so, casual."

Thant's views on admitting Communist China to the UN—or at least making that possible even if China refuses to join the UN—also runs contrary to the continued U.S. policy.

The betting in Washington is against the Burmese statesman's accepting a second term as matters now stand.

That's how White Satin is. Still made to Sir Robert Burnett's original 1770 London Dry formula; still exactly as dry and satin-smooth today as it ever was. After all, when great taste can keep a gin famous for generations on both sides of the ocean—we wouldn't dream of changing it. What we have done, though, is change the White Satin bottle. Ann Landers

Friendly Smile Is Often a Lifesaver

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was visiting a friend in a mental institution last weekend and suddenly I realized that but for the grace of God I could have been a patient instead of a visitor.

ANN LANDERS

Few of us realize how close we are to the edge. And few of us know what it was that kept us from going off the deep end.

My parents were divorced. My mother ignored me. She heaped all her love and affection on my brother. I was not permitted to have a thought of my own or a pair of shoes of my own. My sisters ran roughshod over me and all my possessions.

Mother had a way of making me feel guilty and stupid. If ever a person was a candidate for a mental institution I was. But somehow I escaped. I know now it was the kindness of warm-hearted teachers and some wonderfully wise friends that saved my sanity.

My plea to your readers is this: Be that one person each day who shows a small kindness to someone near you. You don't know what a smile or a kind word or an act of consideration will do for some miserable soul. It may keep him from giving up. — LUCKY ME.

DEAR YOU: Thank you for reminding us that we all need love and acceptance. Too often we forget. A smile, or a word of support and encouragement, costs nothing but it can enrich the life of the person you least suspect needs it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In behalf of all ignorant, foolish husbands I want to apologize to all the housewives in America. I, too, used to think that just because a woman had a dishwasher, a vacuum sweeper, and a washer-dryer that she could sit around half the day, drinking coffee with the neighbors and looking at daytime TV.

Due to a serious illness I have been partially disabled since December, 1965. My wife went to work to help support the family. (We have five children, four in school and one preschooler.) I tried to keep house.

This is what my life was like until May 16th when, thank God, I was able to go back to work:

I got up at 7:00 a.m. and saw that the kids were dressed right, gave them a good breakfast and got them off to school. Then I dressed the 4-year-old for play and put him in the back yard.

I loaded the dishes in the dish washer, loaded the washing machine with clothes, started to pick up the house, and made the beds. Next I vacuumed and dusted, unloaded the dish washer and took the clothes out of the machine.

By that time the kids were due home for lunch so I fixed sandwiches and soup. The kids came home, I gave them lunch, put the 4-year-old in bed for his nap, cleaned up the kitchen, finished the housecleaning, got the 4-year-old up, took him along while I did the grocery marketing and other household errands.

About 5.00 p.m. I started supper, set the table. At 5:30 I got into the car to get Mommy at work. She didn't ask "What did you do all day?" She knew, because she had done it for several years.

If every husband had to keep house for just one week he would never again joke about what a soft life she has. I say "God bless all housewives everywhere." — B. H., CARY, ILLINOIS.

DEAR B.H.: Housewives everywhere will bless you for your letter. But I have a question, Bub. Why didn't you go back to your job weeks earlier? It would have been easier, wouldn't it?

Boys Should Be Required To Study Home Economy Says New Head of Assoc.

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Boys should be required to take home economics courses, says Wanda Young, who began a two - year term Thursday as president of the Canadian Home Economists Association.

Miss Young, a home economics teacher at Sheldon Williams Collegiate in Regina, was elected at the July 11-14 meeting of the association which claims some 1,200 home economists across Canada.

"We need to educate boys as well as girls in home economics," Miss Young said. "You can't just educate one side for a happy family life.

"Boys also need to know how to eat and dress and be a person."

The new president, who received her master's degree in home and family living from Columbia University, has been teaching home economics for 21 years.

"There are some schools that include boys in their home economics courses. I taught boys home economics in Alberta during my practice teaching some 22 years ago. And some boys have asked to take the courses I give now, but its up to the provinces to make the courses available to boys."

She said home economics courses had changed radically in the past few years and they now included consumer education and other subjects adapted to today's living.

The association, she said, had an education committee working with school boards across Canada to try to implement more compulsory courses for both sexes.

"But the boards of education and departments of education consist mostly of men, and their image of home economics in one of our problems. They still think of it as only cooking and sewing."

Miss Young said the association is trying to work more closely with other organizations concerned with the family.

"We would like to work with the Vanier Family Institute. They are setting up projects and we hope to be one of the organizations selected to do one for them."

She said recruitment techniques would also have to be improved in the next few years as there was a shortage of home economists in teaching, in business and in dietetics.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. The maid of honor was Miss Geraldine McFaul of Bonarlaw, cousin of the bride and the bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Plume of Syracuse, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Donna Wilkins of Willowdale. They were gowned alike in silk alpaca floor - length dresses printed in garden shades of mint, peach, pink and white and fashioned with A-line skirts. Peach organza bands accented the Empire waistlines and fan-shaped back panels extended to chapel length. The bodices had scooped necklines at the back and shallow rounded necklines in front, with stovepipe sleeves. The attendants carried miniature cascade bouquets of feathered white Shasta 'mums, baby's breath and ivy and their headbands were made of matching flowers

On their return, the couple will live in Tara, Ontario.

Money Not a Need For Successful Party

VANCOUVER (CP)—Planning a party?

Write down your guest list, the food to be served and entertainment planned.

Then enjoy yourself.

The advice comes from an expert, Ruth Brent, author of three books on parties and a syndicated column.

In an interview here the Calgary-born Mrs. Brent said she always makes a list.

Then, having planned and done the necessary groundwork, she can play hostess in the living room without the nagging feeling she should be in the kitchen preparing food.

And for those hostesses who worry about finicky eaters, she says most guests like Italian food and smorgasbords.

Mrs. Brent says money is not a requirement for successful entertaining. It is always possible to invite five or six friends and serve coffee and doughnuts.

The spirit of the occasion, not the amount of money spent, is what counts.

Mrs. Brent became an expert on entertaining as her husband, an officer in the United States Marine Corps, moved from post to post.

Her parties were always a success—"My main reason for entertaining is for people to have fun"—and people started asking for her ideas.

Eventually she wrote some articles for a magazine. Then came the books Time for a Party, Parties for Brides and Wonderful Year of Parties.

Mrs. Brent says Canadians entertain beautifully.

"There is more warmth here."

NEED BRUTAL LESSON?

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Some motorist should "hit one of the little monsters and break both his legs" to teach a lesson to children who play on the pavement instead of in the playground, a driver suggested to the chief constable. The complaint was passed on for investigation.

ART DAY — Are you brave? Have a painting party for nine-and-ten-year-olds! Put a large plastic drop cloth on the lawn. Supply squares and rectangles of fiber-board or heavy cardboard, and hand out brushes and dripsticks. Use left-over water base house paints — or purchase cans of the three primary colors. Guests, in play clothes plus a discarded shirt of Dad's for a smock, produce their own modern art. A trip to an exhibit the next day is a good follow-up. WEDDING

KELLAR — POWELL

Frankford United Church was the scene of a summer wedding recently when Colleen Janis Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Powell, Frankford was united in marriage to Donald Carl Kellar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Kellar, Frankford.

Rev. F. E. Dunning, the bridegroom's grandfather of Odessa R. R. 1 and Rev. C. Dugan performed the double - ring ceremony.

The scalloped neckline was accented with French cut - out lace with matching lace carried through onto the bodice and long lily - point sleeves. A detachable train extended from the shoulders. Her headdress of small rosettes studded with seed pearls held in place a scalloped bouffant veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow Sweetheart roses, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

The maid of honor was Miss Cheryl Chard of Frankford who wore a floor - length turquoise organza gown in sheath style which featured a flowing train extending from the shoulder to the hemline in lace overnet to match the gown. She wore a headdress of matching rosettes with small shoulder veil and a bouquet of white poms centred with turquoise tinted poms. The bridesmaids Miss Sandra Powell, sister of the bride and Miss Shirley Kellar, sister of the bridegroom were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

The little flower girl was Miss Brenda Dainard of Brighton, cousin of the bridegroom dressed identically to the other attendants, but in pale yellow. She carried a basket of yellow and white poms.

Groomsman was Mr. Douglas Phillips of Frankford and the ushers were Mr. Neal Roote of Frankford and Mr. Ken Reichert of Toronto.

The reception was held in the Rose Lowery hall where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a two - piece ensemble of dress and matching jacket of grey Italian lace over pink organza with matching pink accessories and a corsage of deep pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a green crepe Empire styled dress with green and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

On their return the couple will reside at 51 Scott Street, Frankford.

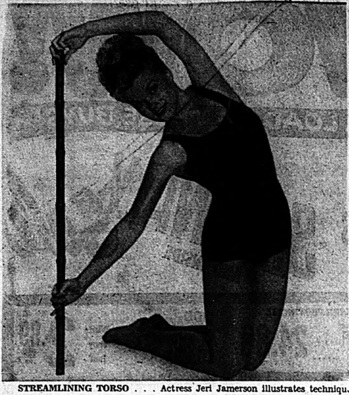
Corrective Workouts for Figure Flaws



STREAMLINING TORSO . . . Actress Jeri Jamerson illustrates technique of using yardstick or broom handle to streamline torso.

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Exercise can be your figure's best friend. Corrective workouts, properly performed, smooth bulges into curves, turn flab to firm, and give bony areas new fill-out proportions. To contour bust and streamline torso, kneel on floor, grasping a yardstick or broom handle overhead. Slowly bend to the right, trying to touch stick to the ground. Alternate sides. Repeat 10 times; gradually increase to 20.

This stretch routine also offers multi-benefits. It fights double chin, lifts bust, and activates back, waist and limb muscles. Lie on stomach, clasp hands behind neck, and raise both chest and legs off floor. If you can lift limbs at least six inches, as actress-dancer Jeri Jamerson of CBS-TV's "Danny Kaye Show" illustrates, you're doing well. If not, keep practicing. Begin with five "elevations"; increase to 12.

Now, let's turn our attention to the legs. Recline on floor, with feet propped against wall. Place an exercise stick under balls of feet, and roll wand as high as possible up the flat surface. If legs are thin, when you reach maximum height, press firmly against board. Hold contraction three seconds; then relax. Try four times. If underpinnings are heavy, omit contraction, and concentrate on performing roll-up at an accelerated pace 15 times.

P.S. Would you like a four-day reducing diet, photo-illustrated exercises, plus a progress chart to record your new figure proportions? If so, send for our 12-page booklet, enclosing 20c and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: "Reba and Bonnie Churchill—Achieve That Beautiful Figure Now," c/o The Intelligencer, P.O. Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

I am told the gelatine base which was used in making various salads (vegetable flavor, fish flavor, etc.) and which came out about a year ago, is now a discontinued item. If it is no longer available, how can I make my own preparation to have on hand? I found this product so handy as I make a lot of jellied vegetable salads.

Mrs. H. R. P.

ANSWER:

The recipe for Basic Gelatin Salad is: Soak 1 tablespoon plain gelatine in ½ cup cold water. Add 1 cup boiling water, 1 chicken bouillon cube, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ to ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup mild vinegar and stand over boiling water and stir until clear. Remove from heat and chill until it begins to jell. This amount of aspic will support and set 1½ cups cooked or raw diced vegetables. Stir them in when liquid begins to set then pour into mould and chill.

LETTER:

I feel I should contribute something. I have made this Rhubarb Jam for years with all success and people all over, even from England, have taken it home with them.

Lyn G.

RHUBARB JAM
(Courtesy Lyn G.)

Five cups rhubarb, washed and cut into cubes. Let stand overnight mixed with 2 cups sugar. In the morning, cook rhubarb until tender. Take from heat, add one 3-oz. package of strawberry jello, stir and bottle while hot. (The recipe states that if the rhubarb is green, you can add a little red coloring, but I have not found this necessary with the jello). The yield is approximately two 8-oz. jars.

ANSWER:

Thank you Lyn. I made this jam years ago but am glad to be reminded of it for it is excellent.

QUESTION:

Is there a chance you would have a recipe for a chocolate cake calling for hot mashed potatoes? The woman who contributed it to a supermarket magazine said it was so good and did not need icing — just a thin glaze. There were spices and grated chocolate in it.

ANSWER:

I am sorry I do not have a recipe that answers. Readers! Would you come to my and Edith's rescue if you recognize the chocolate cake with mashed potatoes recipe she is seeking? Write it out in detail and mail it to me in care of this newspaper, please.

Several Ways to Deal With Dog Which Barks

DEAR DORIS: If a person shouted at the top of his voice outside his house all day long, police would certainly charge him with disturbing the peace. When the offender happens to be a dog, the law is helpless.

DORIS CLARK

Tethered at the fence, the dog in question rages at everything that comes within his sight, be it a bird, a passer-by, or a bike. His incessant barking tears my nerves to shreds and deprives my family and me of relaxation and rest. There is no escape from that barking, for it penetrates even the closed doors and windows. The owner of the dog feels protected by the law and callously suggests "Why don't you move?"

Since she insists on her right to keep her barking monster outside and brushes off the idea of muzzling him, what should be done to relieve the entire neighborhood from that pest? — DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE: That's a tough one. In Canada's common law provinces (all but Quebec) a dog that disturbs all outdoors would be legally termed a "nuisance." But a civil action in court would be needed for a restraining action.

There are often by-laws providing protection against the nuisance of barking dogs, in which case the city or town would take the action. All you would have to do would be to testify. Your local M.O.H. or city clerk can tell you about this.

Otherwise, I'd say consult your S.P.C.A. Its workers are imaginative and helpful.

DEAR DORIS: Please send me info on conquering overeating.

I've tried to solve this and to a point have succeeded, but there seems to be something holding me back — one final fence that has yet to be hurdled.

I'm sick of myself and I want desperately to conquer this problem all the way! — LITA.

DEAR LITA: I can talk about diets, exercise, health, a better figure, until I'm blue in the face anl you'll still munch on the marshmallows — if you are eating to cover up.

Food can be used as a compensation. Is that what you are doing? Take another look at your daily round and the things that irk you. Then write again and try to give me something in the way of a clue.

* * *

Confidential to HEARTBROKEN: Forget about the boy who took advantage of you. There are far nicer people for you to have as friends. Write again, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will be glad to send you my list of books on sex and dating. You need to be clued in.

D. Brown Ontario President

VICTORIA (CP) — A royal commission on the status of women in Canada will be requested by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Delegates at the federation's biennial convention Wednesday agreed to ask that at least half the commissioners be women.

The federation is participating in a joint move by several women's organizations to ask the federal government for such a commission, but delegates decided to make a separate request.

A record 614 delegates and observers are representing the 6,300-member group at a five-day convention which opened Sunday.

They voted to ask the president and board of directors of the CBC to give more recognition to women in management ranks.

Louise Card of Neepawa, Man., was elected president of the federation for a two-year term.

Other officers include Joan Wilson, Guelph, a vice-president.

Provincial presidents include Dorothy Brown, Belleville.

THE BOOM IN BALLET — When Nesta Toumine began teaching ballet in Ottawa in 1946 she was one of the few teachers in the city and operated in a big room over a hardware store. Today she has 250 pupils in a large downtown studio, one of more than 20 in the city. Mrs. Toumine says Canada's best dancers are in foreign companies because too many Canadian companies import outside talent instead of giving their own dancers a chance.

Park Wharf Now Completed

NAPANEE — Workmen did the last bits of cleaning up at the site of the new government wharf at Napanee Centennial Park Thursday, and will now concentrate on completing the sewer project on the south side of the Napanee River in Clarksville. The Mackey Construction Co. of Kingston had both contracts.

The park is strictly utilitarian as yet, with nothing but a parking lot for about 30 cars, and the new 120 foot wharf, with a ramp at the east side by the bridge.

As only the parking lot is now the property of the town, beautification must come only at the hands of the Federal Government, or with its approval. It is doubtful that anything will be done this year.

The Mackey Co. contracted to build an interceptor sewer to hook up with the sewer at the corner of Dundas and Adelphi Streets. The work on the north side of the river is completed, but much remains to be done on the south side to connect the sewer coming from the service station on 401 at the Palace Road. This has been completed as far as Clarksville, along the road, but must be built to the river and under it.

Now that the wharf is finished, it is expected that the sewer construction will be speeded up and will be completed before the contract runs out early in August. The town has been paying John Pooke of Odessa as its inspector ever since the job was started.

CHILDREN INJURED

NAPANEE — The Napanee Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report only one accident in the past three days. Thursday afternoon about two o'clock, two children, Nancy Jane Hutton, who is seven, and George Hutton, two years older, climbed on the back of a truck and when it started up they were thrown off and injured. Nancy was taken to the Kingston General Hospital, but George escaped with scrapes and bruises. The accident occurred about half a mile east of Wilton Post Office.

CAR FIRE

Napanee Fire Department had a call to a fire Wednesday afternoon which was practically on the doorstep of the fire hall. At 4:15 a call came that a car was on fire in front of 108 Centre St., a few doors up from Dundas. With less than a block to go, truck and firemen were on the spot and had extinguished the fire with dry chemicals in a matter of minutes. The car was owned by Murray Parks who has an apartment nearby, and was caused by a short circuit in the wiring. No estimate of the damage was given.

Main Street Business Changes Hands

DESERONTO — Ray's Market on Main St. in Deseronto has changed hands and will henceforth be known as Davy's Grocery and Meat Market. Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Davy of Napanee took over the business from Mrs. Mary MacDonald June 28.

Ray's Market was owned and operated by Ray MacDonald for 11 years and since his death three years ago, Mrs. MacDonald has carried on the business with the assistance of three part time helpers: Mrs. Vera Hutchinson and Mrs. Ann Jackson in the groceries, and George Hopping in the meat department.

At the end of February Mrs. MacDonald accepted a position with the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital as the switchboard operator, and is still fully employed there. Her assistants have since been carrying on the business. She is now in temporary quarters, but Friday she will move to her new home on Thomas St.

B. F. (Tod) Davy, a native of Napanee was with Gibbard Home Furnishers for years, lately as manager, but recently accepted a position as manager of the furniture department of a large store in King- the Deseronto business, with ston. Mrs. Davy will manage the assistance or those whom Mrs. MacDonald had employed. Mr. Davy has resigned as a member of the Napanee Town Council, but his resignation has not yet been accepted. The town solicitor will give his advice on the matter at the next council meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Davy have four children: Bob, who is with the C.I.L. in Kingston; Joan, who is a hairdresser in Napanee; and 14-year-old twin sons, James and John, who are entering high school this year.

were chased into an alley and there Williams was killed and McBeth wounded.

It was the same alley where a policeman was shot and wounded a few hours earlier as officers attempted to find a sniper in a building.

Police cars raced from disturbance to disturbance along a four-mile strip with shotguns and rifles protruding from their windows.

Up to 5,000 Negroes were on the streets. Some watched and wandered. Some looted.
